An Ancient Phrase.

The frequently quoted "I do not pin my faith upon your sleeve" is traced in sentiment to feudal times, when the partisans of a leader used to wear his badge pinned upon their sleeves. Sometimes these badges were changed for specific purposes, and persons learned to doubt; hence the phrase, "You wear the badge, but I do not intend to pin my faith on your sleeve."—New York American.

Making Tin.

The tin of trade is not pure, but has in it a little iron, lead or arsenic. Tin is a metal of chemistry. Its principal ore is called tin stone or tin oxide and is made up of tin and oxygen. To obtain the tin the ore is heated in furnaces with charcoal. The carbon of the charcoal unites with the oxygen of the ore, forming carbonic acid gas, which passes off into the air, leaving the tin, which melts and is drawn off and cooled in iron molds. This is called block tin. Tin ore is chiefly found in Cornwall, England; Banca, in Dutch East Indies; Malacca and Queensland and New South Wales, in Australia. Tin was used by the ancients. The Phoenicians obtained most of their tin from the British isles. When the Romans conquered Britain they worked the tin mines in Cornwall by means of slaves.

ECONOMY

THERE is an economy wave over the land. American people are beginning to realize that they are living too fast, beyond their means. It has been the rule that the man with $30,000 a year as well as the man with $3,000 a year lives up to every penny of his income. Slowly but surely this order of things is changing. The era of extravagance and waste in business and personal expenses is nearing an end. Efficiency and economy is the order of the day. Bank deposits are growing.

It is up to every one to economize. The best and surest way to do so is to place your surplus in the bank. If you already have a bank account make it a point from today on to increase it. Add to it weekly, daily if possible.

IF YOU HAVEN'T A BANK ACCOUNT DECIDE TO OPEN ONE TODAY.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Wolenty Wojnarowski of Deer Park township has sold his farm to Edward Kolsai, and will sell his stock and farm machinery at public auction. He will remove with his family to Chicago, Illinois, where they will make their future home.

Last Tuesday night's heavy rain storm again raised the Red Lake River about six inches, which banishes the last hope of a large number of settlers east of here to cut any hay for their stock, so a large number of them will be compelled to sell off their stock and move out of the water.

Walter McAndress cut forty-two tons of timothy and clover on fourteen acres of land this past week. Who says timothy and clover can not be successfully grown in this country? Then compare the value of those forty-two tons of hay with any other crop that could possibly be grown on the same land.

AUCTION SALE.

I will sell at public auction at my residence on the N. W. ¼ Section 2, Town of Deer Park, 1½ miles north of the Lintvedt school house, or 2 miles east and 2 miles south of Highlanding, on Monday August 7th 1916, thirty-five head of cattle; five head of horses and farm machinery on the usual terms of auction sales. See bills for particulars.

John Ramage, Owner.

We do not know where all the water comes from, that keeps Red Lake River two and three miles wide on the low bottom lands east of here, but there seems to be plenty of water to drown out a large number of the settlers of northeastern Deer Park, southeastern Highlanding and a large part of the town of Hickory. There is no more use to talk about using this territory for stock, as it has passed the stage of stock land and turned into a lake.

Republican Clubs and republicans generally are interesting themselves in the meetings, and a special effort will be made to make them a success.

The Minnesota speeches will be among the first to be delivered by Mr. Hughes, and for that reason a great deal of interest will attach.

THE THIRD NAPOLEON

Spicy Pen Picture John Hay Drew of the French Emperor.

One of the best things John Hay ever wrote, says William Roscoe Thayer in his presentation in Harper's of Hay's unpublished diaries, is this pen portrait of Napoleon III.:

"Short and stocky, he moves with a queer, sidelong gait, like a gouty crab, a man so wooden looking that you would expect his voice to come rasping out like a watchman's rattle; a complexion like crude tallow—marked for death whenever death wants him—to be taken some time in half an hour or left, neglected by the skeleton king for years perhaps, if properly coddled.

"The mustache and imperial which the world knows, but ragged and bristly, concealing the mouth entirely, are moving a little nervously as the lips twitch; eyes sleepily watchful—furtive, stealthy, rather ignoble; like servants looking out of dirty windows and saying 'Nobody at home,' and lying as they say it.

"And withal a wonderful phlegm! He stands there as still and impassive as if carved in oak for a ship's figurehead. He looks not unlike one of those rude, moralistic statues. His legs are too short, his body too long. He never looks well but on a throne or on a horse, as kings ought."

Conserving the Joy of Life.

The most hopeful feature of the development of a new attitude toward youth is the willingness to conserve the spirit of the joy of life—the great gift which youth has to offer to life. To youth has been given this great joy of life, and it is the right of the individual to carry its spirit on into age, making it fuller and deeper as the years roll on. The new movement is asserting the right of youth to its joy, recognizing that this is the creative force which will raise life from a dull level. It means less of the disenchantments of age, a keeping alive of the glow of life, cultivating an ever deepening optimism, so admirably expressed in those simple lines of Browning:

Grow old along with me.
For the best is yet to be.

—George F. Kearney in Forum.

Enormous Rainfall in Hawaii.

The rainfall on the island of Hawaii varies greatly, ranging from the enormous downpour of 353 inches a year in the upper Waipio valley to twenty inches on some of the slopes of Hualalai. The only surface streams on the island are found along the northeast coast between Hilo and Kohala. Waipio river, according to the United States geological survey, is the largest stream on the island and has been partly developed for irrigation. At Kapoho, on the east point of the island, warm water flows from seams in the rocks. These warm springs flow into a pool about 100 feet long, 25 feet wide and 20 feet deep. The pool is entirely surrounded by rocks, and its color varies in shade from a beautiful blue to violet. Waiapele, or Green lake, is a body of fresh water in the pit of an old crater near Kapoho. This lake covers an area of about five acres and is fed by springs below the surface. A pumping plant takes water from the lake for domestic use and for irrigation.

It is not universally known what is meant by a funeral "with full military honors." In such a funeral the coffin is borne on a gun carriage.

If the dead soldier was an infantry man his sword and helmet rest on his coffin.

At the funeral of a cavalry soldier his sword and helmet are fastened to the saddle of his horse, which is led immediately behind the gun carriage, and his top boots, with spurs attached, are fastened in the stirrups, with the toes pointing backward.

CANADIAN CROPS EXCELLENT

Returning Tourists Speak Well of Their Treatment in Canada.

The Canadian Government, having made extensive preparations during the last few years to impart to the National Park system a degree of comfort and pleasure to the visitor, combining the best efforts of man with the very best gifts of creation, has now the satisfaction of seeing an appreciation of the efforts they have made. Tourists returning from a trip over the Canadian Pacific, the Grand Trunk Pacific and the Canadian Northern railways speak enthusiastically of the beauties that are revealed as these roads enter and pass through the mountains. The Government has spent enormous sums of money laying out roads, and developing easy means of access to glacier, hill, valley, lake and stream. For what purpose? That the wonders that Canada possesses in its natural parks may become more easily accessible and afterward talked about, that a tourist travel through Canada would result. Tourist travel means business, and it is business that Canada seeks. To make it even more easy for this travel, the Government has taken pains to make every step of the tourist's entry into Canada one that will give the very least degree of trouble. On crossing the border, there is only the ordinary examination of baggage, and the only precaution is that in the case of foreign aliens, and even in their case there is no difficulty when the officials are satisfied that they are not attempting entry as enemies.

Although officials of the Government have taken every means to bring to the attention of the tourist and others that no difficulty could be placed in the way of their admission, there still remained doubt in the minds of some. Only the other day the Government took action again, and authorized the statement that no measures taken for recruiting the forces either have been or will be applied to any persons who are not ordinarily resident in the Dominion. Nor is it the intention to ask for volunteers except from among British subjects, resident in Canada. Moreover, the Military Service Act, under which conscription is applied in Great Britain, affects only persons "ordinarily resident in Great Britain."

Americans and British subjects resident in the United States who desire to visit Canada will find no more trouble at the border than they have experienced in the past, and upon arriving they will be made as welcome as ever. War conditions of any kind will not inconvenience or interfere with them.

The immigration authorities suggest that, as a precaution against inconvenience, naturalized Americans whose country of origin was one of those at war with the British empire, should provide themselves with their certificates of naturalization.

Now that it is impossible to visit Europe, the planning of your vacation trip through Canada is one to give consideration to. The Government has taken an active interest in its National Parks in the heart of the Rocky mountains. These can be reached by any of the lines of railways, and the officials at these parks have been advised to render every attention to the visiting tourists, who in addition to seeing the most wonderful scenery in the world—nothing grander—nothing better—have excellent wagon and motor roads, taking them into the utter recesses of what was at one time considered practically inaccessible.

In addition to this the tourist will not be inactive to the practical possibilities that will be before him as he passes over the great plains of the Western Provinces. The immense wheat fields, bounded by the horizon, no matter how far you travel. The wide pasture lands, giving home and food to thousands of heads of horses and cattle. The future of a country that he before only heard of but knew so little about, will be revealed to him in the most wonderful panorama, and imprinted in the lens of his brain in such a way that he will bring back with him the story of the richness of Agricultural Western Canada. And he will also have had an enjoyable outing.—Advertisement.

WAR DEPARTMENT HALTS MOVEMENT OF STATE GUARDS

ORDERS COMMANDERS TO DELAY TRANSPORTATION TO BORDER UNTIL TROOPS ARE THOROUGHLY EQUIPPED.

SUFFICIENT FORCES TO MEET ANY EMERGENCY

Latest Reports Show 100,000 Guardsmen and 50,000 Regulars Are Now at the Frontier—New Order Effects 25,000 Men Still Held in Camps.

Washington, July 18.—The War department has sent orders to all department commanders to delay transportation to the border of national guard organizations now mobilizing until they are thoroughly equipped and organized.

The effect will be to revoke a ruling issued when the Mexican situation was acute, waiving certain requirements. The order affects about 25,000 men still held in the camps.

Ready to Meet Emergency.

The latest information of the department is that about 100,000 national guardsmen now are at the border. With the 50,000 regulars there, and 5,000 additional men called from the reserves, it is estimated that there is sufficient forces to meet any emergency and will make unnecessary the dispatch of any more guardsmen until they are completely equipped and organized.

Published reports that use of a general draft was being considered to fill the national guard ranks were denied by the department. The following statement was issued by the official press bureau:

Draft Called Nonsense.

"The statement that the War department is contemplating the draft system to recruit the national guard is nonsense. Statements to that effect are purely speculative and have no basis in fact."

Reports that national guard units are being supplied poor and insufficient food are not borne out in preliminary telegraphic reports from the commanders. These uniformly declare that there has been no food shortage among the guardsmen and that all have been supplied normal army rations of good quality. Detailed reports are being forwarded and a formal statement probably will be issued later by the department."

Mexican Troops Sent South.

A message from General Funston reported that General Trevino had sent many troops south with the intention of occupying the Guerrero-San-Borpa-Santa Rosalia line against any possible northward advance of bandits.

SUBMARINE READY FOR DASH

Deutschland Completes Loading for Trip—Captain Confident.

Baltimore, July 17.—Down along the waterfront Saturday, they puffed on their strong old pipes and wagered the German wonder ship, the Deutschland could never run the Allied patrol off the Virginia capes.

But, at the Eastern Forwarding dock, Captain Koenig only smiled and kept his men loading her up.

He was confident of success. He did not brag. He's too quiet for that. But he told friends he would pass the British or French war dogs safely.

Some persons connected with stowing the Deutschland's valuable cargo said she would dash out at once. This seemed improbable. Everything pointed to a getaway by Tuesday.

CLARK TO SUCCEED HUGHES

Ohio Judge Nominated by President for Supreme Bench.

Washington, July 15.—J. H. Clark, United States district judge at Cleveland, Ohio, has just been nominated by President Wilson as an associate justice of the supreme court to succeed former Justice C. E. Hughes, the republican nominee for the presidency.

Judge John Hessin Clarke was born in Lisbon, Ohio, Sept. 18, 1857, and is a bachelor. He was graduated from Western Reserve university and was admitted to the bar in 1878, practising law at Lisbon. Youngstown and Cleveland. He has been a United States judge for the northwestern district of Ohio since 1914.

Slavs Strike Hard Blows.

London, July 15.—The most violent fighting in the great Allied offensive is on the Eastern front where General Brussiloff's tremendous blows are being continued without apparent lull or hesitation.

Temporarily at least, the Austro-Germans appear to have halted the Russian advance along the Stokhod. Both sides are reported to be hurling huge reinforcements of men and guns into this titanic struggle, the prize of which is the immensely important strategic town of Kovel.

VILLA FIGHTS HIS WAY INTO PARRAL

LEADS ARMY OF 8,000, LOOTS STORES AND MOVES ON TO ATTACK SANTA ROSALIA.

NATIVE MEXICANS JOIN FORCE

Outlaw Boasts That Within Two Months He Will Have Control of State of Chihuahua—Plans to Drive Out Americans.

El Paso, Texas, July 17.—With an army, said by arrivals from the Parral districts to number 8,000 men fully, Pancho Villa fought his way into Parral, held a portion of the town for a day, looted the stores he could reach and moved on to attack Santa Rosalia.

Reports of the enlarged activities of Villa and the great increase in the size of his army reached the border from several sources, each report emphasizing the spread of Villa sentiment. One American arrival said he was told in Parral that Villa is boasting that within two months he will have complete control of the state of Chihuahua and there will not be an American soldier in the state.

Moves On Santa Rosalia.

Villa's next battle for booty will be at Santa Rosalia, according to Americans reaching the border. He is moving a strong force against the mining town, whose garrison already is said to have gone over to him. Native Mexicans are welcoming the Villistas with rejoicing.

Throughout the whole of southern Chihuahua there is famine. Starving people, it is said, look for no relief from the Carranza government and have given up hope of the Americans according it to them.

The British steamers Sylvie and Ecclesia, 3,714 tons gross, are reported to have been sunk. The Ecclesia, the announcement says, was unarmed.

The British patrol trawlers Onward, Hull, Era, Aberdeen and Nellie have been sunk by German submarines, according to a dispatch from Aberdeen to the Central News agency.

Eleven survivors of the trawlers have been landed.

Millions in Reserve Banks.

Washington, July 15. — Withdrawal of $40,000,000 of the treasury's deposits in the federal reserve banks has been ordered by Secretary McAdoo. Treasury officials said the action was in the course of business, the enormous total of the withdrawal being due to the fact that heavy deposits made by internal revenue collectors in the closing days of the fiscal year had brought the treasury's balance in the banks to well above $100,000,000. Part of the $40,000,000 will be taken from each of the 12 banks.

ORPET IS FOUND NOT GUILTY

ACQUITTED OF ACCUSATION OF MARION LAMBERT'S MURDER.

Jury Chooses Version of Defense That Girl Committed Suicide in Helm's Wood.

Waukegan, Ill., July 18.—Will Orpet was acquitted of the accusation of Marion Lambert's murder.

The jury that for six weeks had heard two versions of the tragedy of Helm's Wood, where Marion was found dead in the snow on February 10, chose the version of the defense—that Marion committed suicide.

The verdict was returned at 7:45 p. m., and 30 minutes later Orpet was speeding towards his father's home at Lake Forest to spend his first night out of jail since Feb. 11.

The last time he was in Lake Forest was the night before his death tryst with Marion.

Upholds Suicide Theory.

The state had contended that Orpet, at this tryst, gave Marion cyanide of potassium under guise of an abortive, because he was tired of her and wanted to marry Celeste Youker.

The defense contended that Marion, tired of life, and fearing she was to become a mother, killed herself. Orpet's own story of the tryst bore out this latter story. He said he had told Marion he would not write her or see her again, and that she took some kind of poison and died.

One of the jurors said the jury's opinion was that the state had not proved its case.

MARINES AND SAILORS FROM HECTOR LANDED

Taken Off Naval Collier Which Grounded Off Charleston and Was Broken in Two.

Charleston, S. C., July 17.—One hundred and two marines and sailors from the Hector have been landed here, having been taken off the big naval collier when it grounded off Charleston lightship and was broken in two.

The Hector, commanded by Captain Joseph Newell, had sailed from Port Royal, S. C., naval training station, carrying 60 marines to Santo Domingo, when it was partially disabled in Friday's hurricane. It grounded while trying to make the Charleston harbor convoyed by the steamer Alamo. High seas had prevented the Alamo getting close enough to take off the men, who took to their small boats. In addition to its commander and the marines, the Hector, which displaced 11,200 tons, carried 11 officers and a crew of 70 men.

HUGHES WILL SPEAK IN MINNESOTA NEXT MONTH

Will Deliver Address in Minneapolis or St Paul On His Transcontinental Trip.

Bridgehampton, N. Y., July 17.—Five of the 12 cities where Charles E. Hughes will deliver speeches on his transcontinental trip have been selected tentatively. They are Detroit, August 7; Chicago, probably August 8; Minneapolis or St. Paul, probably August 9 or 10; San Francisco and Los Angeles, with dates yet to be announced.

Mr. Hughes said the only one of the five which had been finally determined upon was Detroit, where he will open his campaign. He thought it almost certain he would speak in Chicago and at either Minneapolis or St. Paul.

The attack was evidently carefully planned, and it is believed the assassin intended to kill both the prosecutor and his wife. The police connect the tragedy with an anonymous letter received by McDaniel.

Railway Employes Washed Away Into Swollen Catawaba River, Near Charlotte, N. C., Are Believed to Be Either Drowned or Marooned

Charlotte, N. C., July 18.—Eighteen men, 14 construction officials and employes of the Southern Railway and four linemen of the Western Union Telegraph company, are missing and are believed to be either drowned or marooned in trees on the Catawaba river about 12 miles from Charlotte. The river is rising rapidly. The 18 men with possibly a few spectators, were swept into the river late in the afternoon when the Southern Railway's main line bridge south toward Spartanburg was washed away by the swollen Catawaba.

Floods Follow Hurricane.

Atlanta, Ga., July 17.—Serious floods in North Carolina, South Carolina and Virginia have caused five known deaths, rendered hundreds homeless, damaged property and crops to the extent of $10,000,000, according to first estimates, and demoralized railway, telegraph and telephone communication.

Following the hurricane that struck the south Atlantic coast Thursday, unprecedented rains have fallen, driving rivers and smaller streams from their banks and imperiling many lives.

GOVERNMENT BEGINS ITS FIGHT AGAINST SHARKS

Coast Guard and Life Saving Service Ordered to Assist in Exterminating Man-Eaters.

Washington, July 17. — The federal government has canvassed its resources for combating the invasion of the North Atlantic coast waters by sharks.

President Wilson and his cabinet discussed what could be done to prevent more tragedies like those which have occurred recently along the New Jersey shore. The coast guard and life saving service were ordered to assist in shark extermination in every way possible.

The first effort will be to ascertain whether a few individuals or several schools of the sea monsters are in northern waters. A cutter will fish for the sharks if their number is not great, with the aid of the life saving corps.

Shark Snaps Off Leg.

Matawan, N. J., July 14. — Lester Stillwell, 12 years old, was killed by a man-eating shark while bathing in an arm of Raritan bay near here.

Stanley Fisher, 24 years old, who went to his aid, was so badly injured in a struggle with the sea monster that he died while being taken to a Long Branch hospital.

Joseph Dunn, 12 years old, bathing some distance away in the same inlet, was attacked by a shark and one of his legs was so lacerated that amputation probably will be necessary.

To Take Milk to German Babes.

Amsterdam, July 14.—The next German commerce submarine to go to America will bring back foodstuffs, particularly condensed milk, according to reports received here from Bremen. Condensed milk also will form the bulk of the return cargo of other submarines to cross the Atlantic. In an interview, Bremen agents of the submarine's owners declare the new submarine enterprise was prompted mainly by humanitarian feelings, as German babies are dying because of the shortage of milk.

Clock for Crown Prince.

Attesting their loyalty to the land of their nativity and as an expression of good will towards the royal family, Japanese residents of Washington, Montana, and Alaska have had made a bronze and onyx clock as a gift for the crown prince of Japan. Before the gift can be officially tendered, however, permission must be obtained from the royal household.

The clock is 5 feet high and 14 by 14 inches at the base. Surmounting the entire clock is a globe with a bronze and silver meridian ring encircling the earth at the equator. On a separate limb is a highly polished bronze ball representing the sun in its relation to the earth at the various times of day.

FIRST REGIMENT ON WAY TO TEXAS

TWIN CITY ORGANIZATION LEAVES CAMP BOBLETER ON THREE TRAINS OF TOURIST CARS.

SPEND LAST NIGHT AT HOME

Guardsmen Are Allowed Unusual Liberties in This Respect by Officers —Destination of Battalions Not Announced by War Department.

Members of the First Regiment, known as the Twin City organization, left for the south shortly before noon. Though the destination of the troops is not announced through orders of the War department, it is said to be a point on the Mexican border northwest of Brownsville, Texas.

Three trains of tourist cars are conveying the First, one battalion being assigned to each train.

Working in the sweltering heat Tuesday, the men struck their tents, rolled them up and packed the canvas on supply wagons which were then loaded on flat cars. Each man carried his own equipment including rifle, pack, canteen, cartridge belt, blanket, and shelter half.

Many of the men spent the night before their departure home. Officers were especially lenient in this respect.

Guards in Border Camp.

Many of the Minnesota boys had their first glimpse of Mexicans when their train passed nearly 500 of the natives of the republic below the Rio Grande, being employed on construction work along the International and Great Northern railway, which conveyed the troops to San Antonio. The Minnesota troops left San Antonio almost immediately for Mercedes in the Brownsville district.

New York troops have been sent to Brownsville and Wisconsin troops to Mission. Mercedes lies between these towns on a branch railway, so the boys were compelled to do a bit of hiking to reach their post on the border.

Through the courtesy of the International & Great Northern railway the boys were permitted to take a bath in the railway Y. M. C. A. at Palestine, Texas.

The weather continues hot, but all the boys are in excellent health. Texas papers quote General Funston to the effect that General Pershing's troops are not to be withdrawn from Mexica, and additional information given out at San Antonio indicates the guard will be kept on the border for some months.

Resche to Command Guard.

Governor J. A. A. Burnquist has sent a commission to Colonel F. E. Resche of the Third regiment, naming him brigadier general to command the Minnesota national guard. Colonel Resche received 10 out of 14 votes in the balloting of brigade officers to choose a successor for Brigadier General A. W. Wright, rejected for border service by the medical examiners. Officers of the Third regiment, en route to the southwest, sent their votes by wire. One vote was missing from the balloting, that of Lieutenant Colonel F. B. Rowley of the First regiment, who recently resigned. Lieutenant Colonel Hugh H. McGee, U. S. A., his successor, has not yet arrived from the east. Colonel Erle D. Luce received four votes for brigadier general, but Colonel Resche's long service in the guard, more than 30 years, made him the favorite. The new brigadier general's home is in Duluth. He was succeeded as colonel of the Third by Lieutenant Colonel H. V. Eva, also of Duluth.

Third Minnesota at Mercedes.

Kingsville, Texas. — At the end of the sixth day of their trip southward, the Third Minnesota infantry went into pup tents near Mercedes. Camp will be pitched at once and the boys will begin installing themselves in the place that probably will be their home for the next few months, at least.

Mercedes is a thriving little city of 1,200, located 10 miles from the Rio Grande river and about 40 miles from the Gulf of Mexico, far down near the top of the Texas Pan Handle.

Parts of the Fourth and the Twenty-eighth infantry regulars, have been encamped near here and the camp is an excellent one, having such modern accommodations as army posts have.

Ordered to Recruit Guards.

Captain S. A. Campbell, United States army recruiting officer for Minneapolis, has received orders from Adjutant General H. P. McCain at Washington to recruit any qualified man presenting himself for the national guard. He was instructed to hire civilian physicians to make the physical examinations.

Naval Militia on Cruise.

The Minnesota naval militia has just entrained at Duluth for a ten days' summer training cruise on the battleship Rhode Island. Captain Guy A. Eaton received war department orders to pick 250 men out of the enlistment of 450 to take the cruise. The Rhode Island will go to Block Island, Long Island sound, for five days of maneuvering with the regular reserve fleet of nine vessels. The men will be given one day of liberty at Newport. Returning, the train will stop six hours in Washington.

Issues 19 Commissions.

Commissions have been issued by Governor J. A. A. Burnquist to nineteen Minnesota national guard officers. In the list were one major, four captains, one captain of medical corps, six first lieutenants, one veterinarian, with rank of first lieutenant, and six second lieutenants. The following are the officers commissioned: Major —Clayton C. Smith, First infantry. Captains—M. C. Nelson, H company, Third infantry; R. G. Murray, F company, Third infantry; William Wcelk, J company, Third infantry; Carl J. West, L company, First infantry; A. G. Liedloff, captain medical corps. First Lieutenants—Roy K. Carpenter, C company, Third infantry; W. A. Brown, battalion adjutant, Third infantry; John J. Harrison, E company, Third infantry; Peter R. Fossen, D company, Third infantry; Lawrence Wedia, battalion adjutant, Second infantry; C. H. Slater, L company, First infantry; Richard Price, veterinarian. Second Lieutenants—Olaf Lund, D company, Third infantry; J. W. Signer, E company, Third infantry; A. W. Gasper, C company, Third infantry; Robert Deinnger, battalion quartermaster and commissary, Second infantry; Joseph L. McKinney, E battery; Albert M. Cassidy, L company, First infantry.

State Troops Need Aid.

Urging immediate contributions to the Minnesota Guard fund, Governor Burnquist has sent out an appeal to the people of the state. The governor spoke especially of the need of aiding families of men who are on their way or preparing for departure for the border.

"It has been urged that if any member of the guard must leave those dependent upon him without means of support his community devise means to care for them until future governmental action," Governor Burnquist said.

"Since the issuance of the proclamation the War department has issued orders that enlisted men with dependents may, under certain conditions, be discharged but only a few applications for discharge have been forwarded and none of these has yet been acted upon. A large number of men, therefore, who have left for the border, or are ready to go, are leaving dependents who are in need of aid.

"Even if there will not be war, the funds will be needed, for those dependent must under any circumstances be looked after. And the members of the guard who go into a climate different from our own will suffer many hardships and will continually be in danger of disease. It is apparent that the money contributed to this fund may be the means of preventing much illness and the saving of many lives."

McGee Accepts Army Post.

Lieutenant Hugh McGee, son of Judge J. F. McGee of Minneapolis, has accepted the position of lieutenant colonel of the First regiment, organized Minnesota militia, and has wired the war department for permission to report to his new command at once. Governor J. A. A. Burnquist received a telegram to this effect from Lieutenant McGee at Fort Ethan Allen. Lieutenant McGee succeeds Lieutenant Colonel F. B. Rowley, resigned. Lieutenant McGee has been granted permission to transfer from the regular army to the militia. During his army career, Lieutenant McGee has received many testimonials from his superior officers to his ability as an officer and his personal bravery in action.

How to Address Letters.

All mail intended for Minnesota troops at the border should be addressed with the name of the company and regiment of the person for whom it is intended and marked "Minnesota, On the Border." Such mail from Minnesota cities will be sent to the Twin Cities and sent South from here. The destination of the troops will be made known to these postmasters, but not the postmasters throughout the state. This is in compliance with instructions from the War department. Once the Minnesota troops are encamped in the South, their location will be announced. All mail, however, will be sent in the same way and should be so addressed.

General Says Farewell.

General A. W. Wright, former commander of the Minnesota National guard, who failed to pass the federal physical examination and who, therefore, cannot lead the troops to the border, bade officers and men of his old command an official farewell. The good-bye was said in writing and was addressed, "From General A. W. Wright to the officers and men of the First brigade, Minnesota National guard.

Airmen for Militia.

An aerial squadron will form a section of the Minnesota national guard upon passage by congress of a pending bill carrying $9,640,800 appropriation, according to President Alan R. Hawley of the Aero Club of America, New York, who wired asking Governor J. A. A. Burnquist to urge Minnesota representatives to support the measure.

150,000 Autos in State?

That the number of state registered automobiles in Minnesota will total 150,000 before the first of the year is expected by Secretary of State Schmahl. If registrations continue as they have the past month the figure will be nearer 175,000. At the present the number of registered automobiles in the state is near 120,000. At the auto registration department at the state capital the last figure listed Saturday was 117,000, but several hundred tags are kept on hand at branch offices.

It represents the state's share of appropriations under the Smith-Lever act, providing federal aid for agricultural and home economics extension in the various states.

St. Paul.—Tourists are already leaving $5,000,000 a year in Minnesota, although exploitation of the resort districts of the state is only fairly begun. INFANT MORTALITY is something frightful. We can hardly realize that of all the children born in civilized countries, twenty-two per cent., or nearly one-quarter, die before they reach one year; thirty-seven per cent., or more than one-third, before they are five, and one-half before they are fifteen!

We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save a majority of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinctures and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain more or less opium or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity, they stupefy, retard circulation and lead to congestions, sickness, death. Castoria operates exactly the reverse, but you must see that it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. Castoria causes the blood to circulate properly, opens the pores of the skin and allays fever.

160 ACRE FARMS IN WESTERN CANADA FREE

Three Hundred Million Bushel Crop in 1915

Farmers pay for their land with one year's crop and prosperity was never so great.

Regarding Western Canada as a grain producer, a prominent business man says: "Canada's position today is sounder than ever. There is more wheat, more oats, more grain for feed, 20% more cattle than last year and more hogs. The war market in Europe needs our surplus. As for the wheat crop, it is marvelous and a monument of strength for business confidence to build upon, exceeding the most optimistic predictions."

Wheat averaged in 1915 over 25 bushels per acre
Oats averaged in 1915 over 45 bushels per acre
Barley averaged in 1915 over 40 bushels per acre

Prices are high, markets convenient, excellent land, low in price either improved or otherwise, ranging from $12 to $30 per acre. Free homestead lands are plentiful and not far from railway lines and convenient to good schools and churches. The climate is healthful.

There is no war tax on land, nor is there any conscription. For complete information as to best locations for settlement, reduced railroad rates and descriptive illustrated pamphlet, address Superintendent Immigration, Ottawa, or

BY W. G. HUNT, EDITOR
M. G. HUNT, PUBLISHER

Published every Friday, at Sunbeam, Pennington County, Minnesota.

Entered as Second-class matter August 30 905, at the post office at Sunbeam Minn. under the Act of Congress of March 3,1879

So desperate have become the flood conditions on some parts of the Red Lake River in the townships east of Highlanding that the settlers are moving out and abandoning the country. The lands are so badly overflowed that they can not even cut hay on them for stock. As water can not be successfully farmed they have got to move out. If it was only a temporary overflowing it would be different, but there are thousands of acres of these lands that have been under water for the past year, and the only thing for the settlers to do, is to move out, and admit that Uncle Sam "buncoed" them out of their money by selling them water instead of land, Three feet of dredging of the Red Lake River would make these the richest agricultural lands in northern Minnesota.

Germany can now play peek-a-boo with the English blockade, as their merchant ships now are submarines, that can go under the English blockade and land their cargo safely in all parts of neutral nations. Their first cargo was brought to the United States last week, being a load of dyes, of which this country was badly in need of. They will now have a full line of submarine ships that can laugh at the blockade. The German nation should be given credit for being a resourceful people, as they now can laugh at the English boast of being mistress of the seas.

The Singers were defeated in their law suits so often, that they now appear to want to saddle the expense of their cases onto the tax payers, by making the state plaintiff in their law suits. We have lived in this county ten years, and have not had our name appear on the court records as either plaintiff or defendant, until we were chosen by them as their next victim for attempted slaughter, but they will find this old duck pretty tough "chawing" before they get him ate up.

The Duluth Herald has a strong editorial asking who indorsed Hughes. That is a question easily answered. He is indorsed by a united Republican party, who have grown disgusted with the present management of the affairs of this nation, and he will be elected by the biggest majority that has ever been given a president, since Horace Greely ran against Grant.

Beltrami County will be the next county in the northern part of the state to adopt county option. There will not be any fight made by the wets to prevent the optionists to vote'r dry as they want to.

It is freely predicted by politicians, that claim to know, that Minnesota will go Republican by about one hundred thousand majority this fall.

Germany will now undoubtedly ship over a few cargoes of potash to America, as it is now impossible to obtain any of it in this country at any price.

Now that there is no prospect of war, the greater part of the State Militia are anxious to return home and attend to their business affairs, which indicates that the largest number of American soldiers are men that are worth more than $15.00 a month, but are ready to take up arms if their country needs them for a fight, but not to "soldier" around camp.

Over in Europe they crown a man on account of his birth. Here they crown him on account of the money he squeezed out of the people for some necessary of life.—Crookston Daily Times.

Skiing on the Water.

The ski is recommended as both a life-saving device and a pleasure craft, combining safety with novelty. It cannot sink, makes better speed than a swimmer and does not tire the rider as swimming does. It is more practicable for long distances and can go through water where there is a heavy undertow, as it sits so high in the water that it is not caught in the grip of the undercurrent as the legs of the swimmer are. It doesn't take a long time to master, as the surf board does; requires no skill in balancing and sticking on, and has the great advantage of being equipped with a motive power, whereas the ordinary surf board must be pushed and paddled out to sea before it can be ridden in.—Outing.

First Thanksgiving Proclamation.

The Thanksgiving proclamation was originated by Francis Bernard, "captain general and governor in chief over his majesty's province of the Massachusetts bay." It was issued Nov. 4, 1767, and the form was that which has been in substance adhered to ever since.

Formosa's Ancient Tree.

In Formosa there is a tree between 2,500 and 3,000 years old, with a circumference of sixty-five feet and the lowest branches forty-five feet from the ground. The tree is a species of cypress, the Japanese beniki.

Jealousy.

"May's new hat is perfectly hideous."

"It isn't a bit more hideous than mine. You're always saying nice things about May."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Missed It.

The prodigal son wrote the old man as follows: "I got religion the other day. Send me $10." But the old man replied: "Religion is free. You got the wrong kind."

The Shy Caterpillar.

The caterpillar, though a sociable creature, tries to keep out of everybody's way. Some species hide on the under surface of leaves, others on the stems or blades of grass, which serve them as food; others, again, build little nests for concealment or lie snugly hidden between the curled edges of leaves, which they draw close together until the opposite edges meet. The caterpillar is a sociable creature in his own family. He knows that there is safety in numbers, and you will find whole companies feeding side by side while keeping a sharp lookout for their bird enemies, but when a caterpillar is by himself he scarcely dares to move for fear of attracting attention. Even when he is obliged to change his skin he doesn't venture to leave his old coat lying around. The moment that he takes it off he eats it. The caterpillars that live in companies shed their skin boldly. Only the poor solitary fellows feel forced to swallow their old clothes.—London Mail.

OUR NATIVE THRUSHES.

We Have Eleven Species and All Are Friends of the Farmer.

[Prepared by United States department of agriculture.]

Altogether there are within the limits of the United States eleven species of thrushes, five of which are commonly known as robins and bluebirds. The other six include the Townsend solitaire, the wood, the veery, the gray cheek, the olive back and the hermit thrush.

The robins and bluebirds nest close to houses, and even the shiest of the other species are content with the seclusion of an acre or two of woodland or swamp. For this reason the thrushes are among the best known and most carefully protected of native American birds, and at times their numbers become so great that it is feared they will do much harm to crops and fruit. The investigations of the department of agriculture, however, show that there is very little ground for this fear. On the other hand, they destroy such a vast number of insects each year that it is probable that without them many crops would suffer serious damage.

Of all the thrushes the robin is probably the best known. It has been frequently accused of destroying fruits and berries, but it has now been ascertained that this only occurs in regions that are so thickly settled that there is no wild fruit upon which the robin may subsist. In some years the bird is a great pest in the olive orchards of California, but it is probable that they are driven to the orchards because of the scarcity of native berries at these times. Where a wild fruit is available the birds seem to prefer it to the cultivated varieties.

Like the robin, the bluebird is very domestic, but, unlike the robin, it does not prey upon any cultivated product or work any injury whatever to the fruit grower. During the fruit season, in fact, five-sixths of its food consists

SUCCESS

FIRST STATE BANK,
Of Plummer Minnesota.

THERE is an economy wave over the land. American people are beginning to realize that they are living too fast, beyond their means. It has been the rule that the man with $20,000 a year as well as the man with $2,000 a year lives up to every penny of his income. Slowly but surely this order of things is changing. The era of extravagance and waste in business and personal expenses is nearing an end. Efficiency and economy is the order of the day. Bank deposits are growing.

It is up to every one to economize. The best and surest way to do so is to place your surplus in the bank. If you already have a bank account make it a point from today on to increase it. Add to it weekly, daily if possible.

IF YOU HAVEN'T A BANK ACCOUNT DECIDE TO OPEN ONE TODAY.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. THE LOCAL NEWS

Services were held in the Highlanding church Sunday.

Wolenty Wajnorowski leaves for Chicago this week, where he will make his future home.

Andrew Ellingson has been marketing his last season's crop of wheat at Goodridge this week.

A special school meeting has been called at the Highlanding school house for next Saturday evening.

Quite a number of people from eastern Pennington County, go down to the city of Plummer occasionally.

Money orders can be obtained at Sunbeam postoffice, payable at any money order office in the United States or Canada.'

Theodore Rustad, Gina Rustad, Minnie Nelson and Ole Strande, autoed to Grand Forks Sunday, for a visit with friends.

Red Lake river seems to steadily remain at a flood stage, with all the bottom lands still under water.

There was a very large crowd that attended the Young People's Society held at the residence of Osmond Mandt, on Sunday.

Miss Erma Parnow and Elsie Witcherman and Mr. Oscar Parnow and Edward Klemmetson, autoed to Thief River Falls last Saturday evening.

Eddie Hyland has bought the Red River Special Grain Separator of Ole Olson, which will make him a good thrashing rig, for this fall's thrashing.

Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Hunt and daughter Myrtle, and Miss Elsie Witcherman and Oscar Klemmetson visited at the Wm. Causin home Sunday.

The rye crop harvest has started this week, and some of the early sown barley will soon begin to ripen. The wheat and oat crop are filling out fine, with a promise of a heavy crop.

There was quite a number of people from Highlanding going to attend the Ringling Bros. circus at Crookston Tuesday; but were prevented by rain in the morning.

If it had not have been for the excellent system of drainage that has been put in, in eastern Pennington county, there would now be only a few acres of grain growing on the highest hills.

While the conditions are rather bad here, owing to the extremely wet season, yet we are far better off, than large portions of southeastern North Dakota, where there are whole townships west of Fargo that are still covered by water, and the farmers have no crops at all.

The youngsters who attended, what they thought was going to be a big bowery dance above Highlanding, last Saturday evening, found that they had gotten "stung," as there was no dance given that night, which serves them right for leaving the ball given there the week before, and going elsewhere.

AUCTION SALE.

I will sell at public auction at my residence on the N. W. ¼ Section 2, Town of Deer Park, 1½ miles north of the Lintveit school house, or 8 miles east and 2 miles south of Highlanding, on Monday August 7th 1916, thirty-five head of cattle, five head of horses and farm machinery on the usual terms of auction sales. Pennington County Fair

The 2nd, 3rd and 4th of August is the date of the Pennington County Fair, that will be held at Thief River Falls. There is a big program of races and other amusement to be given every day. Liberal premiums will be given for the exhibits of farm produce. As an additional attraction the Kelly mammoth show will exhibit all three days at the fair. It is expected that a large number of farmers from eastern Pennington county will attend the fair this year. Let's all go.

Mrs. Joseph LaCounte called at Sunbeam Wednesday afternoon.

Fred Brown is cutting the hay on the Kate O'Brien farm this year.

Tallock Dahle made this office a pleasant call Thursday afternoon.

H. O. Falkedahl, agent for the Fergus Falls Woolen Mills, was canvassing this locality this week.

There has not been very much road work done so far this year, in this township owing to the wet season and the scarcity of men.

Wild berries have been a plentiful crop this year, but Wilson's reduction of the cost of sugar, has been a serious drawback to canning many of them.

There is a lot of work being done on the Electric Line railway from Thief River Falls to Goodridge surfacing it, so they will be prepared to handle the falls crop.

Some of the settlers who make final proof on homestead lands are surprised to find that they owe considerable back ditch taxes which they must pay before they can file their receipts.

Some of our Mayfield and southern Kratka friends have been talking about getting up another petition for better mail service, but we can inform them, that they simply lose their time, as there is absolutely no use to do any further petitioning until next year.

The Electric Line of railroad will have the right to run into Thief River Falls on the same track that they used to run in on and make their stop opposite the Soo depot, an improvement over the present service that would be highly appreciated by the people of the eastern part of the county.

Inner Life In Constantinople.

Constantinople has a deleterious effect upon Europeans. So at least declared a "great and highly gifted lady," mentioned by Grant Duff. She had the honor of being received by the sultan. WOMAN HAD NERVOUS TROUBLE

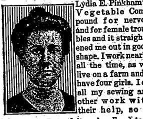
Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her.

West Danby, N. Y.—"I have had nervous trouble all my life until I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for nerves and for female troubles and it straightened me out in good shape. I work nearly all the time, as we live on a farm and I have four girls. I do all my sewing and other work with their help, so it shows that I stand it real well. I took the Compound when my ten year old daughter came and it helped me a lot. I have also had my oldest girl take it and it did her lots of good. I keep it in the house all the time and recommend it."—Mrs. DEWITT SINCEBAUGH, West Danby, N. Y.



Sleeplessness, nervousness, irritability, backache, headaches, dragging sensations, all point to female derangements which may be overcome by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

This famous remedy, the medicinal ingredients of which are derived from native roots and herbs, has for forty years proved to be a most valuable tonic and invigorator of the female organism. Women everywhere bear willing testimony to the wonderful virtue of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

BRITISH CAPTURE POZIERES WORKS IN FIERCE BATTLE

STRUGGLE IN NORTHERN FRANCE RESUMED ALONG WHOLE FRONT —LONGUEVAL IS SCENE OF DESPERATE CONFLICT.

FOURTH WEEK OF SOMME BATTLE FAVORS ALLIES

Germans Work With Utmost Strength to Prevent British From Advancing to Their Third Lines—Allies Capture 25,000 Prisoners in New Offensive.

London, July 24.—The battle on the British front in Northern France was resumed along the whole line from Pozieres to Gillemont, the war office report says. The British captured the German outer works near Pozieres by assault and carried the fighting into the village. Longueval also was the scene of a desperate struggle.

In a statement just issued the war office announced further progress for the British in the neighborhood of Pozieres. On the rest of the front from Pozieres to Guillemont, a continuance of the battle with fighting of intense violence is reported.

Report British Drive Fruitless.

Berlin, July 24.—Heavy attacks by the British along the Somme front in northern France on the line running from Thiepval to Guillemont, have been fruitless, notwithstanding disregard for losses among the large number of men employed, the war office announced.

Fourth Week of Somme Battle.

London, July 24.—The fourth week of the Somme battle begins well for the allies and is expected to be fruitful of important developments.

Before midnight, the British began a new attack on the whole line from Pozieres to Guillemont and the fact that General Haig has been able to resume the offensive so soon after the unsuccessful German counter attacks of last week, in which very strong German forces were brought forward, is regarded as a good augury.

Places Change Hands.

"The fighting has been of the fiercest character, the Germans working with their utmost strength to prevent the British from advancing to their third line positions. But when the last reports left headquarters in France, the Australians had firmly established themselves in Pozieres and are reported to have placed themselves astride the road in the direction of Bapaume, while at Guillemont and Longueval fortunes fluctuated, both places changing hands several times.

The fighting is proceeding with the utmost violence.

Allies Capture 25,000 Men.

The German counter attacks recently delivered against the French front have proved equally unsuccessful and the Allies now are fighting slowly in the direction of Combles, which is only two miles distant from Guillemont.

According to a reliable estimate, the British and French together have captured since July 1, more than 25,000 prisoners, 140 guns and hundreds of machine guns.

SIX ARE KILLED BY BOMB IN SAN FRANCISCO PARADE

Forty Are Wounded When Anarchist's Weapon Explodes at Crowded Street Corner.

San Francisco, July 24. — Major James Rolph, Jr., has offered a reward of $5,000 for the arrest of the person who placed a bomb among the crowds watching the preparedness parade, the explosion of which killed six and wounded more than 40, and the police established a separate bureau to run down the culprit.

Two suspects have been taken in by the police.

The outrage is laid at the door of the foreign anarchists who have been sending out threatening and warning letters in connection with anti-militaristic propaganda.

First Troops Hurt in Wreck.

San Antonio, Texas, July 24.—The train wrecked in which Minnesota troops figured Sunday at Bay City, Texas, was the first train accident in which any National guardsmen have been hurt since troop movements toward the border began, according to the quartermaster's department here. Approximately 100,000 state troops have been sent to border stations and until Sunday the record made by the railroad men was highly satisfactory to army officers.

Chicago Sleuths Search for Crones.

Waukesha, Wis., July 24.—Chicago detectives are combing Waukesha county in search of Jean Crones, who is supposed to have poisoned a score of guests including the archbishop at a banquet given Archbishop Mundelein in Chicago last February. A signature of the fugitive was found in one of the toilet rooms at Waukesha beach. It was compared with known signatures of Crones and found to correspond exactly. A man answering the description of Crones registered at a hotel at Okauchee lake.

BATTLE OFF U. S. COAST SEEN

CLASH BETWEEN U-BOATS AND CRUISERS FORECAST.

Bold Stroke Planned By Germany Is Belief—Deutschland Files Clearance Papers—Ready to Sail.

Baltimore, July 24.—A naval battle at the very doors of America is a possibility as the result of the German venture of sending sub-sea freighters here.

Two big armed ocean-going submarines are reported convoying the submarine Bremen to the capes, intending also to take the Deutschland out. This story, told the United Press by a naval expert here, may mean that the Allied patrol off the capes will clash with the submersibles or that Germany plans the bold stroke of torpedoing the Allied cordon outside the American three-mile limit in order to let in the Bremen and let out the Deutschland, it was declared.

Captain Hinsch of the Ozean Rhederei was reticent about the story, refusing to confirm or deny it.

Files Clearance Papers.

The Deutschland still lay in the gray waters of the Patapsco. A few provisions were loaded, but she was ready for a dash at any time. Allied spies still flank her outward route and cause her promoters some worry.

TO PROBE PRINT PAPER PRICE

Investigation to Determine Whether There Has Been Undue Increase

Washington, July 24.—Newspaper publishers through the country have been invited by the federal trade commission to be represented at a hearing here on Aug. 1 at 10 a. m. on whether there has been an undue increase in the price of news print paper. The commission will conduct an exhaustive investigation, of which the public hearing will be the first step.

The investigation was ordered by a resolution of the senate.

The commission has sent word to 2,000 daily newspapers and 4,000 weekly papers asking those who cannot appear to submit any information they may have in writing. The commission wants specific information of prices, quantities and any other facts bearing on the increase.

SHARPSHOOTERS TO COMPETE

Gather at Milwaukee for Nine Annual Tournament.

Milwaukee, July 24.—The ninth biennial sharpshooters' tournament, under the auspices of the Badger Gun club, with shooters present from throughout the state and Illinois, Michigan and Iowa, is in progress here. In preliminary contests J. Westergard of Chicago won the union target event with a score of 74 out of a possible 75. In the five-man team event marksmen from Monticello, Wis., carried off the honors.

At a meeting of the officers of the society delegates were chosen to arrange for the 10th biennial shoot which will be held at Munroe, Wis.

MASSACHUSETTS GUARDS IN CLASH NEAR EL PASO

Fighting Occurs Without Casualties, General Bell Reports—American Officers Doubt Report that Villa Is Being Driven Into a Corner —Bands Are Scattered.

El Paso, Texas, July 24.—Fighting occurred during the night at the point on the Rio Grande below El Paso where the outposts of the Ninth Massachusetts infantry are stationed, but without any casualties, according to the official report of the incident received by General Bell. The men on guard said that a party on the Mexican side of the boundary opened on them, whereupon they returned a smart fire. It was at this spot, known as the "island," that a few shots were exchanged last week.

Mexicans Raid Texas Ranch.

El Paso, Texas, July 24.—Mexican bandits crossed the border again and raided the ranch of W. A. Reynolds, about 60 miles southeast of here. The bandits drove a herd of horses and mules across the border before Reynolds could be summoned by terror-stricken employes.

The rancher trailed the bandits to Guadalupe, Mexico, where they were riding his stock up and down the street in triumphal display of their prowess.

General George Bell, Jr., commander at El Paso, was notified. He announced immediate action would be taken.

Doubt Villa Is Cornered.

San Antonio, Texas, July 24.—American army officers did not share fully the optimistic opinion of Carranza's officers that Villa is being driven into a corner. Information from General Bell indicated Villa had not attacked Torreon nor cut the communications between Torreon and the border, but that he was moving southward through the state of Durango, six days ago, in the direction of Torreon.

FOUR MINNESOTA GUARDSMEN HURT IN TEXAS WRECK

HOME-SEEKERS' TRAIN CRASHES INTO STANDING TROOP TRAIN AT BAY CITY—ARTILLERYMEN ASLEEP AT TIME.

ENGINEERS AND FIREMEN ESCAPE DEATH BY LEAPING

Members of Second Battalion, First Minnesota Field Artillery, Figure in First Train Accident in Which Any National Guardsmen Have Been Hurt.

Bay City, Texas, July 24. — Four members of the Second battalion, First Minnesota field artillery, and four other persons were injured here in a head-on collision between the troop train and a homeseekers' special train en route for Houston, Texas.

J. W. (Jack) Ryan, St. Paul; cook, Battery D; sides and arm injured.

Nolta Sparks, Houston; conductor homeseekers' special; arm broken and legs scalded.

Grant R. Jacobson, Minneapolis; corporal, Battery E; cuts and bruises about face and arms.

John M. Hergan, Minneapolis, private, Battery E; leg hurt.

L. J. Jacobson, Minneapolis; private in Battery D; bruises on arms and legs.

J. J. Conway, Minneapolis; passenger homeseekers' train; injuries to back.

Clifford Pope, Kansas Cty; porter on homeseekers' train; injury to head.

Troops Asleep at Time.

At the time of the accident, the troop train was at a standstill, taking water, and the homeseekers' special, traveling at a speed of about 30 miles an hour, crashed into the standing train. The engineers and firemen of both trains escaped injury and possible death by leaping from their cabs.

The members of the artillery battalion nearly all were asleep in Pullmans at the time of the accident, 7 a. m., and the string of flat and box cars bearing guns and equipment, which preceded the Pullman coaches, served as a buffer for the troopers.

Gun Limbers Smashed.

The engine and first day coach of the homeseekers' train were wrecked and wheels on two gun limbers and caissons belonging to Battery F were smashed. Blocks holding the wheels of all guns and caissons were loosened.

F. K. Kirkpatrick, Parkers Prairie, Minn., and Lawrence Freeman, Minneapolis, privates in Battery F, who were guarding the guns of their battery, were seated on one of the field pieces, when the collision occurred. The impact raised the piece several feet off the flat car.

BRITISH NOTE DEFENDS CENSORSHIP OF U. S. MAIL

Note States Formal Answer to Arguments Made by Wilson Is Still Under Consideration.

London, July 24.—The foreign office has published the text of the note handed to the American ambassador replying to certain American complaints against the British censorship of mails. The reply is confined to the few specific allegations made in the recent American note. It is stated that the formal answer to the general arguments advanced by the Washington government is still under consideration by the allied governments and will receive reply in due course.

The two principal cases referred to in the present memorandum are those of the Macniff Horticultural company of New York and the Standard Underground Cable company of Pittsburgh. The Macniff company complained of the loss of perishable goods owing to the detention by the censor of shipping documents relating thereto.

The British government states that so soon as the matter was brought to its attention it arranged to have a special mail bag for shipping papers which would be immediately censored, so that no delay would occur.

Election Close in Texas.

Dallas, Texas, July 24.—A second Democratic primary will be necessary for the nomination of a United States senator to succeed Charles A. Culberson, who is seeking re-election. This was made certain when returns from more than half of the 425,000 votes cast showed no one of the six candidates with a suffcient lead to give him a majority of the votes cast. The proposal to submit a constitutional amendment for prohibition at a special election next year had a lead of about 8,000.

RETAIN CONTROL OF SELF

Without That It Is Unreasonable to Think One Has the Ability to Control Others.

The other day a man who makes his living by fighting, was struck by an undersized man, and instead of returning the blow he walked away from his diminutive assailant.

This man exhibited much more self-control than the majority of people.

Men who class themselves as being on a higher plane than this fighting man would have mixed immediately with the hot-headed individual.

"What would you have done?"

The chances are that you would have rushed at the fellow with all your might; you would have permitted your savage instincts to rule you.

This proves that you have not as much power as you should have over your impulses.

You may boss other people, but you are not boss of yourself.

Maybe you wonder why others are forging ahead of you as leaders of men.

It is because they have a check rein on themselves. They have schooled themselves that they may be able to guide others. Self-control is the attribute of a leader.—Chicago American.

Needlessly Alarmed.

A man who was stung by hornets last summer was awakened by a buzzing sound almost directly above him.

He ducked his head under the covers.

When he ventured an ear out to listen he heard the sound again, even louder than before.

Again he ducked under the covers. Then, realizing that he couldn't stay in bed all day, he put his head out from under the covers and yelled. This was with the idea of scaring whatever was buzzing.

He succeeded in that, but it wasn't a hornet or bee.

It was a hired girl running a vacuum carpet sweeper on the floor of the flat overhead.

Ouch!

They were seated in a secluded corner of the veranda. For a long time neither of them had spoken. Suddenly he took her little hand in his. His voice was choked with emotion as he said:

"Do you think you could ever learn to love a man—"

"Yes," she interrupted in a soft whisper. "Bring on your man."

Plenty.

"Did you go in for oratory when you were at college?"

"Not much, but I've been let in for a lot of it since I got married."—New York World.

WHO'S GOT THE MONEY

In Four Staples Alone the Farmers of Western Canada Produced 408 Million Dollars in 1915.

The Calgary (Alberta) printers have a house organ, called "The Magnet," and in its columns a few weeks ago appeared an article entitled "Who's Got the Money?" It was cleverly written, and but for its length, the writer would have been pleased to have copied the article in its entirety. The purpose for which this article is published, however, that of letting the renders of the paper know of the great progress that is being made in agriculture in Western Canada, will be served by copying a portion of the article. Many of the readers of this paper doubtless have friends in one of the three provinces—Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta, and they will be interested in feeling that their friends are enjoying a portion of the wealth that has come to Western Canada farmers as a result of careful tilling of a soil prodigal in everything that goes to make good grain, cattle, horses, hogs and sheep.

Reproducing from the article:

The Government does not produce money. It can stamp "One Dollar" on a slip of white paper, and we accept it at a dollar's worth, but neither the paper nor the printing are worth a copper. What gives it value is the promise of the people of Canada which stands behind the printed slip, and our faith in that promise.

Now do you know who's got the money?

Let us put it into figures. The farmers of Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba last year raised 342,948,000 bushels of wheat. If we take for an average 85 cents a bushel in Manitoba, 81 cents in Saskatchewan and 79 cents in Alberta the season's wheat crop was worth $280,629,000. Add to this an oat crop of 334,840,000 bushels, worth $95,457,000; a barley crop of 35,254,200 bushels, worth $15,871,000, and a flax crop of 10,559,000 bushels, worth $15,843,000, and you find that on these four staples alone the farmers of Western Canada produced a wealth of $407,800,000.

Please note that this wealth is in money. It is not in real estate at inflated values, industrial stocks that are half water and the rest air, fictitious goodwills or unsaleable merchandise. It is in hard cash, or—which is better—hard wheat.

These figures are only for the staple grain productions. They do not include the millions of dollars represented by the live stock and dairying industries, or the additional millions included in the root, fruit, and garden crops. The creameries of Saskatchewan, for instance, produced more buttermilk and ice cream last year than their total production amounted to six years ago. The milk, butter, and cheese production of Alberta for 1915 was valued at over eleven million dollars. The potato crop of the three provinces was worth five millions and a half. Corn and alfalfa—comparatively new crops, charged with tremendous possibilities—amounted to over a round million. Even honey—you didn't know we raised honey (the bee kind) in this country, did you?—Manitoba produced 105,000 pounds in 1915, and there isn't a bee in the province that doesn't swear he's a better honey-sorter than anything in California or Washington.

That's where the money is; in the jeans of our honest friend the farmer, who was too slow to get into the cities when the rest of us saw short-cuts to wealth; who hadn't imagination enough to think a man can make money without earning it, and who was too dull to know that hard work is foolish. Well, he has the laugh now. Likewise the money.—Advertisement.

LAST MINNESOTA TROOPS DEPART

SECOND REGIMENT LEAVES FORT SNELLING FOR THE INTERNATIONAL BOUNDARY.

THREE TRAINS BEAR GUARDS

Companies From New Ulm, Faribault, Winona, Northfield, Fairmont, Worthington, Austin, Mankato, Owatonna and St. Peter.

Minnesota has sent the last of its infantry regiments to the international boundary.

The first of three trains bearing men of the Second infantry left Fort Snelling shortly after 10 a. m., Saturday. It carried the First battalion and the regimental staff. The departure of the regiment was delayed by shortage of wagons to move supplies.

The Second regiment is comprised of companies from New Ulm, Faribault, Winona, Northfield, Fairmont, Worthington, Austin, Mankato, Owatonna, St. Peter, Redwood Falls and Madison.

With the departure of the Second, Camp Bobleter is a deserted village. No troops are left except the artillery, encamped more than a mile from the grounds occupied by the infantry.

Colonel W. T. Mollison of the Second has complained that his men were equipped with hats that had been condemned by officers of the First and that a few were without blankets or shelter tents. He said, however, that the hats were better than the ones the men were wearing.

State Troops Need Aid.

Urging immediate contributions to the Minnesota Guard fund, Governor Burnquist has sent out an appeal to the people of the state. The governor spoke especially of the need of aiding families of men who are on their way or preparing for departure for the border.

"It has been urged that if any member of the guard must leave those dependent upon him without means of support his community devise means to care for them until future governmental action," Governor Burnquist said.

"Since the issuance of the proclamation the War department has issued orders that enlisted men with dependents, may under certain conditions, be discharged but only a few applications for discharge have been forwarded and none of these has yet been acted upon. A large number of men, therefore, who have left for the border, or are ready to go, are leaving dependents who are in need of aid.

"Even if there will not be war, the funds will be needed, for those dependent must under any circumstances be looked after. And the members of the guard who go into a climate different from our own will suffer many hardships and will continually be in danger of disease. It is apparent that the money contributed to this fund may be the means of preventing much illness and the saving of many lives."

Camp at Llano Grande.

Arriving at Llano Grande the First Minnesota immediately went into camp, pitching its tents near those of the Third regiment, which arrived July 15, the indicated point of concentration of the guard at this point, with plans for an encampment of 10,000 men and a like number at Mercedes, three miles east.

This is only a few miles from the Rio Grande and all men who swim there must be accompanied by armed guards.

Brigadier General E. M. Lewis, U. S. A., is in command of the camp which is made up of a full brigade of Indiana troops, the Fourth and Fifth Nebraska, two field hospitals, signal corps, and a battalion of artillery. The North and South Dakota and Iowa troops are expected to be sent to this place.

Mail should be addressed to the First Minnesota, Llano Grande, Hidalgo county, Texas, the company of the men being included.

* * *

Artillery To Go To Border.

Minnesota artillerymen will not be sent to a training camp, but will go direct to the border. This statement, made positively by officers of the First field artillery, is believed to be based on orders already received from Washington.

Sending the artillery regiment to the border means a large portion of the enlisted men will be confronted with actual firing for the first time in active service, having had no previous experience with actual fire.

It is believed, however, a concentration point on the border will be selected which will give some opportunity for target practice.

Would Pay Guardsmen.

Salaries of members of the University of Minnesota faculty who join the national guard will be continued if the attorney general decides the board of regents has the power to do so. This announcement was made by the regents, nine of whom visited six substations of the department of agriculture. In connection with the trip a business meeting was held. A Federal law, recently passed, authorizes the Secretary of War to issue uniforms free to cadets in land grant colleges.

Minnesota Boys Camp at Border.

With all its tents up and the camp site ditched against the rain the Third regiment spent its first night under canvas on the Mexican border near Mercedes. The Minnesotans unloaded their baggage in the hot sun and a few of the men have been paid up by the heat wave which followed a rainy spell.

The mesquite trees afford some shelter and Colonel Frederick Resche, commander of the regiment, says the site is 100 per cent better than that of Minnesota troops at Chickamauga.

Water is being hauled from an irrigation canal a quarter of a mile away, but the camp will be piped at once

Meet Former Minnesotan.

The Minnesotans were surprised to find the post quartermaster at the Llano Grande camp to be Captain W. A. Carleton, formerly of Minneapolis, captain of F company, Thirteenth Minnesota, in the Spanish war and Philippine insurrection.

He has been in the regular army since 1901 and was detailed from the Thirtieth infantry last March to the quartermaster's department. He was sent to Llano Grande and will have charge of all supplies for this camp.

Supply Depot at Mercedes.

Captain Carleton welcomed the First Minnesota regiment, which was formerly the old Thirteenth. He said the camp was not prepared to handle so many troops at once, but will soon be in shape.

At present the supply depot is at Mercedes, but large warehouses are being erected at Llano Grande, three miles from here. Motor trucks will haul supplies from Mercedes until the Llano Grande warehouses are ready.

The Third regiment camp is 300 yards south of the railway station at Llano Grande.

Guards Kill Reptiles.

The mesquite trees remind one of a New England orchard, but there is no fruit. In making camp the men had to cut down cactus and other vegetation and fight rattlers, tarantulas and scorpions. Some of the men were stung by scorpions, but none seriously.

While stacking guns along the railway a number of B company men routed a rattlesnake and killed it. Because of the situation cots are to be issued to all men and mosquito bars are to be provided to prevent attacks by these pests.

Division Camp at Llano Grande.

Camp sites have been laid out for the Second Minnesota regiment. It will adjoin the First and Third in the South. With the Minnesota regiment to come here and One Hundred and Sixty-fourth en route, a division camp will be established at Llano Grande.

In addition to the regiments named it will include One Hundred and Sixty-second and One Hundred and Sixty-third Indiana artillery battalion and Signal corps from Indiana Fourth and Fifth, Nebraska infantry and a field hospital and ambulance company from Nebraska. It is possible the Minnesota artillery will be brought here also.

Brigadier General E. H. Lewis of Indiana is in command of the Llano Grande camp. He has his headquarters in a ranch house near Third Minnesota camp. He formerly was major in the regular army and recently was made a brigadier general.

50,000 Under Parker.

The border line from Fort Ringgold to Brownsville, which includes Mercedes and Llano Grande camps is under the supervision of Brigadier General James Parker, who expects to have 50,000 men under his command within the next few weeks.

General Tasker A. Bliss, assistant chief of the general staff, was expected at Mercedes and Llano Grande to inspect the guard camp. Some of the guard units coming here are not as well equipped as were the Minnesotans and as a result will have to wait until the supply depot is organized.

Regulars at Mercedes.

At Mercedes the Third regular cavalry and a battalion of the Second Texas infantry are camped. Patrols of the Third cavalry are scattered along the Rio Grande river six miles south of here.

It was reported here that bandits had attacked Texas guards at Donna, eighteen miles west of Mercedes, but fled after an exchange of shots. There were no casualties.

Soldiers Guard Swimmers.

Theodore Cosgrove, B company, Anoka, developed pneumonia on the train and was removed to base hospital today. Major Prudden, surgeon, said his case is not serious.

John Kingsley, K company, Fourth Nebraska infantry, was drowned while swimming in Llano Grande lake, less than two miles south of the Minnesota camp.

To Protect Franchises.

Senator William A. Campbell of Minneapolis has proposed to Governor J. A. A. Burnquist that he call an extra session to enact an absent voters' law to permit members of the Minnesota national guard to take part in election this fall, wherever they may be. That such a law will be constitutional, Senator Campbell says, he has been advised by the attorney general's office.

Mercedes Weather Pleasant.

Minnesota troops stationed at Mercedes, Texas, will live in a climate much less oppressive than summer weather in Minnesota, says W. A. Harding, for four years a resident of Raymondville, Texas, who has come to the Twin Cities for a short vacation. Harding formerly lived at Winnebago, Minn., and was a member of the state Legislature in 1912-13 from Faribault county. His home is in Texas. "The troops are extremely lucky to be assigned to the Rio Grande valley," he said.

Her Secret.

A witness, a jolly, plump old woman, in a trial in the supreme court of Massachusetts, was asked what time a certain train of cars passed her house. She replied that she began knitting at three o'clock and had knit twice around the leg of a stocking before it came along.

The next question, of course, was how long it would take her to knit twice around. The judge here, in his usual quiet humor, suggested that that would depend upon the size of the stocking.

To this the witness remarked that the stocking was for herself and they could exercise their own judgment as to the size, and guess how long it would take.

Wisdom of an Oracle.

A certain Kentucky politician says that when he was a boy in Owen county, on the edge of the blue grass district, the local orator made a habit of sitting on a certain chair against a certain stone front on the main street of the county seat town at certain hours of the day, the weather being fair, to answer questions. To him one day came a young farmer who wanted to know how to rid himself of sassafras sprouts in his fields.

"Well, son," said the wiseacre, "off an' on I've given the subject of sassafrack sprouts considerable study durin' the past 45 years. And here some time ago I come to the opinion that the only way to git shet of sassafrack sprouts, when they start in to take a place, is to pack up and move off and jest natchelly leave 'em."—Saturday Evening Post.

Narrow Escape.

A Columbus woman was going from her desk to her home for a noon luncheon. She had a slight headache, the sun was shining bright and she was tired. All around her motor cars were purring softly or snorting past without giving her so much as a toot of the horn.

"I wish I was wealthy enough to own a car," she said to herself. "I never would walk a step if I had a car of my own. Just listen at that car coming now. I wish somebody was driving who knew me and would offer to take me home in it. It sounds like one of these long, easy riding, rakish looking touring cars—the kind just built for comfort. Gee! I wish the driver would ask me to ride."

Then she looked up as the car went past her. It was an automobile hearse.—Indianapolis News.

One Glance Was Enough.

Charley Towne, the magazine editor and poet, was once asked to act as the judge of a prize-story competition, open to all aspirants.

He consented.

From the publishing house conducting the contest a huge burden of manuscripts was brought to him. Selecting a bulky envelope at random, he opened it and withdrew from it a great number of sheets of foolscap, covered on both sides of the pages with fine writing, done in purple ink and in a feminine hand.

Afterward, following his prompt resignation from the job of judge, Mr. Towne forgot the title of the story; but the opening sentence lingered in his memory. It was as follows:

"The day the ball was to be that night dawned auspiciously."

Talked Too Much.

"So you're home at last," said the farmer as his wife drove in the yard.

"Oh, yes," replied the wife.

"Horse looks tired. Did you speak to him?"

"Oh, yes, I talked to him all the way home."

"Well, I'm afraid you've overdone it."

Not Too Good for Her.

"Am I good enough for you?" sighed the fond lover.

"No," said the girl candidly, "you're not, but you are too good for any other girl."—New York Times.

The Artful Dodger.

There was an air of proud distinction about the tall, erect, raw-boned southern cracker as he stood before Judge Broyles, felt hat in hand and generous quid tucked away in one corner of his capacious mouth.

"This man, your honor," explained the officer who made the arrest, "is a suspicious character. We found him hiding along Decatur street, first in one alley and then in another. Why, would you believe it, your honor, when I finally got him he was hiding under a stack of dirty clothes in a hand laundry."

"What have you to say for yourself, Peter Cooper Haggs?" demanded the judge. "What were you hiding from—the court must know!"

Everybody in the big room leaned forward to catch the stern-faced cracker's answer. They were prepared for some sort of fiendish plot.

"Ma wife wuz after me ter pay fer th' rent," was the prisoner's calm response.—Case and Comment.

New Post Toasties are known by tiny bubbles raised on each flake by the quick, intense heat of the new process of manufacture.

They bear the full, true flavour of prime, white Indian corn, not found in corn flakes of the past; and they are not "chaffy" in the package; and they don't mush down when milk or cream is added, like ordinary corn flakes.

Try some dry—a good way to test the flavour, but they are usually served with rich milk or cream—

MUTUAL FIRE INSURANCE.

The Farmers Mutual Insurance Company of Bray, is one of the reliable insurance companies, for farmers insurance. We have been a member of this company for the past eight years, and find it the cheapest reliable insurance that a farmer can obtain on his buildings against loss by fire. In fact it is so cheap that no farmer can afford to be without it. Occasionally we hear of an attempt being made by people to get excessive insurance for so large an amount that it makes their neighbors suspicious that they are going to speculate by fire. One case of this kind has been reported from the town of Garnes in Red Lake County, and the insurance was promptly reduced. The agents for the company should make inquiries of people wanting insurance in the company and find out if they were in the habit of having accidental fires on heavily insured buildings, for if too many of that class of people get insurance for the purpose of speculation, it would discourage honorable members and break up the company, for while every farmer, who is a member, is at all times willing to pay his assessments to a fellow farmer member who has been so unfortunate as to lose his property by fire they would soon get tired of paying assessments for professional fire bugs to speculate on.

Representative Cyrus A. Sulloway, of New Hampshire, says: "I have just been over my district. Everybody is enthusiastic for Hughes. Not only will he receive the support of practically all of the Progressives of my state, but many Democrats disgusted with the present administration, will also give the Republican candidate its support. Among the rank and file of the former Progressives, I do not know of one that is not back with our party. The best of it all is that they are enthusiastic for the ticket."—Norman County Index.

You bet the same conditions exist in the Northwest among the farmers, who voted for Roosevelt, because they were mad at Taft on the Reciprocity issue, but found that they jumped out of the frying pan into the fire, by assisting to elect a Democratic administration, and they are not going to do it again, but will line up solid for Hughes and the Republican ticket.

"The western states will line up for the Republican ticket," said Representative Clifton N. McArthur, of the Portland, Oregon district. "There has been some gossip that the western Progressives would not follow Col. Roosevelt, but this talk has been made by Democrats. There is no ground for this, for all along the line, those states over on the Pacific slope are red hot for the Republican ticket and the old fashioned Republican majorities can be looked for in November."—Norman County Index.

Already many Democrats are beginning to concede that there is little or no likelihood of their carrying the House at the coming election. Not only is this talked among the members, but it is also the theme of conversation among many of the present employees of the capitol. Some of them are already beginning to make arrangements for employment in other circles and there has not been such a pronounced indication of "moving day" in the old historic building in many a year.—Norman County Index.

While our sympathies are with the laboring men in the proposed railroad strike, yet it seems that the men had ought to accept arbitration of their demands and not tie up the entire business of the country. President Wilson's reduction of the cost of living, that has nearly doubled the cost of every thing that a laboring man has to buy, and reduced the earnings of the railroads at the same time, is the true cause of this proposed big railroad strike, which now threatens to be a national calamity. Both sides in this controversy should lay passion aside, and calmly consider what it would mean to the public if every employee of all railway companies in the United States should suddenly stop work, and it is better for them both to settle the differences between themselves before it goes far enough for the employees to declare a strike.

RAILROAD WAGES

Shall they be determined by Industrial Warfare or Federal Inquiry?

To the American Public:

Do you believe in arbitration or industrial warfare?

The train employes on all the railroads are voting whether they will give their leaders authority to tie up the commerce of the country to enforce their demands for a 100 million dollar wage increase.

The railroads are in the public service—your service. This army of employes is in the public service—your service.

You pay for rail transportation 3 billion dollars a year, and 44 cents out of every dollar from you goes to the employes.

On all the Western railroads in 1915, seventy-five per cent of the train employes earned these wages (lowest, highest and average of all) as shown by the pay rolls—

	Passenger		Freight		Yard
	Range	Average	Range	Average	Range	Average
Engineers	$1747 3094	$2195	$1537 3076	$2071	$1056 2445	$1378
Conductors	1543 2789	1878	1454 2933	1935	1151 2045	1355
Firemen	1053 2078	1317	751 2059	1181	418 1552	973
Brakemen	854 1719	967	874 1961	1135	862 1821	1107

The average yearly wage payments to all Western train employes (including those who worked only part of the year) as shown by the 1915 payrolls were—

	Passenger	Freight	Yard
Engineers	$2038	$1737	$1218
Conductors	1772	1624	1292
Firemen	1218	973	832
Brakemen	921	1000	1026

A 100 million dollar wage increase for men in freight and yard service (less than one-fifth of all employes) is equal to a 5 per cent advance in all freight rates.

The managers of the railroads, as trustees for the public, have no right to place this burden on the cost of transportation to you without a clear mandate from a public tribunal speaking for you.

The railroads have proposed the settlement of this controversy either under the existing national arbitration law, or by reference to the Interstate Commerce Commission. This offer has been refused by the employes' representatives.

Shall a nation-wide strike or an investigation under the Government determine this issue?

Who is leader?

It is amusing to see the frantic attempts of the Democratic press to prevent the rank and file of the Republican party from following the lead of Roosevelt in his indorsement of Hughes. They have got the conditions as they exist exactly reversed, as the rank and file of the great Republican party were thoroughly disgusted by a Democratic administration, and had fully made up their minds to support the nominee of the party made at the Chicago convention. So instead of the rank and file of the party following the lead of Roosevelt, he was just wise enough to jump onto the band wagon, and follow the lead of the rank and file, as he fully realized that any Progressive Republican movement would only be a side show with a mighty small attendance this year, as Republican will vote the Republican ticket.

A large number of people who are inclined to commit crimes make it a point to have an alibi, that is they want to be at a distance when the actual crime that they have planned is committed. Harry Haywood who so skillfully planned the murder of Katherine Ging a number of years ago in Minneapolis made his plans to be away when the actual crime was committed, but he paid the extreme penalty of the law for the commission of the crime, that he had planned, although he was not present when the actual murder was committed.

Military Music.

"No one in time of peace can understand what war is," writes Rev. Charles E. Jefferson in the Woman's Home Companion. "We may prepare for it, but we do not realize what it is we are preparing for. Military preparations are quite interesting, even exciting. Boys and girls are always fascinated by the paraphernalia of battle. Never have the instruments of war been so intricate and sparkling as now. All the trappings of the military world are alluring.

"Military music is full of piercing notes, which set the corpuscles of the blood dancing. But military music is not the music of war. The music of war is the groans of wounded and dying men and the sobs of broken hearted women. Military music is one of the embroidered veils thrown over the face of war to make boys think that war is glorious."

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. VOL. XVI. SUNBEAM, PENNINGTON COUNTY, MINNESOTA, FRIDAY, AUGUST 4, 1916. NO. 21

THE LOCAL NEWS

Harvesting of grain will begin in this locality next week.

Andrew Ellingson celebrated his thirty-fourth birthday yesterday.

Karl Korstad now does the greater part of his toting from Thief River Falls by auto truck.

Mrs. Wm. Causin returned home from a visit at Cavalier, N. Dak., last Saturday.

Elo Sanders is building a large new barn on his farm north of Highlanding.

Ye editor and family visited the county fair on Wednesday returning home the same day.

Last night's heavy rain storm done considerable damage to hay, but was just what the late sown grain and potatoes needed.

A large crowd attended the dance held Saturday evening in the Johnson barn north of Highlanding, and a good time is reported.

That state road from Goodridge to Thief River Falls, now favorably compares with any road in the state, making a trip from Highlanding to Thief River Falls by auto, and return an easy afternoons vacation.

There is no longer any use to deny the fact that our wheat crop is about all ruined by the black rust and blight. It does not seem to have injured the oats, while flax never looked more promising for a good crop.

While the crop prospects are rather discouraging in eastern Pennington county, we are still better off than lots of localities, where their entire dependence was on their wheat crop, as we have still a large number of cows left.

George Leimers, as proprietor of the Ogahmah Hotel, at Thief River Falls, is doing a good business, as he gets a large transient trade, and in addition has a very good patronage from the farmers trade of eastern Pennington County.

John Ramage will sell off his entire stock and farm machinery at public auction next Monday, and remove to Hibbing. This is purely a case of one of our best farmers and stock raisers being drowned out of the country by the overflow of Red Lake River.

The Highlanding Creamery is steadily gaining patronage by its square dealings with the people. Butter maker Nereson always gets the highest market price for the Highlanding creamery butter, and gives the farmer patrons the full benefit. This creamery is the farmers beacon of hope when the crops fail.

Our next U. S. Senator from Minnesota, Hon. Frank B. Kellogg, accompanied by Senator O'Neill and a large delegation of Thief River Falls business men came up to the town of Hickory yesterday, to investigate the overflow of the Red Lake River, which has spread out over so many thousand acres of the rich meadow and farming lands of eastern Pennington County. This is a calamity that must be remedied in some way, and it is a credit to our next Senator from this state that he has taken the pains and trouble to make a personal examination of these conditions, as they actually exist, in order that he may be able to better present the facts before Congress, to get government aid sufficient to make the needed improvement of Red Lake River, so it can take care of these flood waters.

Hughes welcome to Minnie.

When Charles E. Hughes, Republican nominee for Presidency, comes to the Twin Cities, he will be given a welcome such as he will probably not receive in any locality during the campaign. The Committees on arrangements are making preparations for the biggest meetings ever given any candidate. Both the St. Paul and the Minneapolis general committees are hard at work.

That there will be an unusually large attendance from the country districts is a foregone conclusion. Everyone seems anxious to see and hear the man nominated "by the people."

Those who know Mr. Hughes says he is an exceptionally clear thinker and that it is a genuine pleasure to hear him speak.

The Minneapolis meeting will be held out of doors in the afternoon at the Armory Bldg. The St. Paul meeting will be held in the Auditorium having a seating capacity of 12,000. A monster old fashioned political parade will be reviewed by Mr. Hughes earlier in the evening.

E. L. Thornton, Chairman,
Republican State Central Committee.

Pennington County Fair.

We made a brief visit to the Pennington County fair on Wednesday the opening day, and took a look at the exhibits of farm products, which are not up to the usual standard this year owing to the lateness of spring. The fair seemed to be under good business management, but in our opinion they did not have a very good show troupe as a side attraction, although they might have given better entertainments the last two days of the fair than they did the first day.

The game of base ball played between Thief River and Red Lake Falls was almost too one sided in favor of Thief River Falls. The special features of the game were the splendid work done by the Thief River Falls 1st and 3rd basemen, who, it appeared to us, never missed making a play that could have been made by any professionals of the big league team.s

There was one feature of the fair that is worthy of mention, which is the excellent police service and the good order that was maintained.

THE SAFETY HABIT

You know the Railroads are talking a good deal these days about the "Safety Habit." It is not a safety razor or a safety bicycle, It's safety for the lives intrusted to their care.

The principle applies to the banking business. Our bank employed the Safety Habit at the outset-safety to the depositors money intrusted to our care. Every dollar left with us will be taken care of. Safety is our watch word. We would like to have your account on this basis.

ALLIES IN FIERCE ASSAULT ADVANCE IN SOMME REGION

BRITISH AND FRENCH MAKE GOOD PROGRESS WHILE SLAVS IN VOLHYNIA FORCE GERMANS BACK.

CANADIANS RAID TEUTON TRENCHES ALONG YPRES

Berlin Admits Retirement From Stokhod Curve on Eastern Front—Italians Gain Ground on Tonezza Plateau—Turks Defeated by Slavs Near Kharput.

London, Aug. 1.—The British and French forces fighting against the Germans in the Somme region of France have again launched violent attacks and made good progress, while the Russians in Volhynia in the region of the Stockhod river have forced the Germans to give further ground before their advance.

French Press Forward.

To the north of the Somme, trenches between Hill 139 and the river near Hardecourt have been captured by the French on a depth of from 300 to 800 meters and in addition the French have pressed forward to the outskirts of the village of Maurepas east of Hardecourt and also captured positions north of Hem which lies to the south of Maurepas and held them against violent German counter attacks.

Canadians Raid Trenches.

Driving with the French on their right flank from Delville wood to the Somme the British made an advance on the entire line and also made further progress against the Germans east of Waterloo farm, Trones wood and Maltzorn farm. To the north around Ypres the Canadians raided German trenches while the royal Munster fusileers on the Loos salient carried out a similar operation. The Germans raided a front line British trench near the Hohenzollern redoubt but later were driven back.

In Hand-to-Hand Combats.

In the fighting between the Germans and the Russians in Volhynia the men at various points again met in hand-to-hand combats. Berlin says that the withdrawal from the Stokhod curve had been contemplated for some time and was made without interruption by the Russians.

Although Petrograd claims an advance for the Russians near Brody and south of the Dniester in Galicia both Berlin and Vienna assert that the Teutonic Allies repulsed all attacks.

Italians Gain Ground.

Rome reports a gain of ground for the Italians against the Austrians on the Tonezza plateau north of Monte Cimone and in the Tolfano region.

The Turks have been driven out from a series of strong positions by the Russians operating toward Sivas and near Kharput according to Petrograd.

VICAR OF ARCHDIOCESE IS STRICKEN AT ST. PAUL

Rev. Thomas J. Gibbons Dies at Hospital Following Operation—Funeral Wednesday.

St. Paul, July 31.—The Rev. Thomas J. Gibbons, vicar general of the archdiocese of St. Paul, and pastor of the Cathedral, died at St. Joseph's hospital of acute infection of the gall bladder and pancreas. His death followed a hurried operation Saturday night. After the operation he sank slowly without fully regaining consciousness from the anaesthetic.

The funeral will be held at the Cathedral Wednesday morning. A short service will be held at 9:30 a. m., followed by pontificial high mass at 10 a. m. Archbishop Ireland is expected to speak at the high mass.

U. S. SENATE ACTS FOR IRISH

Requests Wilson to Express Hope of Clemency to British.

Washington, July 31.—By a vote of 46 to 19, the Senate adopted a resolution requesting President Wilson to transmit to the British government an expression of hope that it would exercise clemency in the treatment of Irish political prisoners.

Lloyd-George Expresses Confidence.

London, July 31.—"I don't despair about an eventual solution of the Irish problem, in spite of the recent failure to reach an agreement between the nationalists and the unionists," said David Lloyd George, replying to a request for his views.

Senator Criticizes President.

Washington, July 29.—Senator Henry F. Lippitt of Rhode Island severely criticized President Wilson in a speech in the senate. He charged the president with frequently altering his policy. The senate was reminded of the Villa massacres and the punitive expeditions that followed Carranza's recognition, and also that Carranza soldiers were "looting, burning and killing with ruthless brutality," both before and after recognition of Carranza. Senator Lippitt quoted the president's Mexican note.

Wilson Note for Arbitration Plan

Washington, July 31.—Following is the text of Acting Secretary Polk's note as delivered to Eliseo Arredondo, Mexican ambassador designate, after it had been approved by President Wilson and his cabinet:

"Mr. Secretary—I have the honor to acknowledge receipt of your excellency's note transmitted under date of July 12 by Eliseo Arredondo, your government's confidential agent in Washington, informing me that your excellency has received instructions from the citizen first chief of the Constitutionalist army, charged with the executive power of the union to propose that each of our governments name three commissioners, who shall hold conference at some place to be mutually agreed upon and decide forthwith the question relating to the evacuation of the American forces now in Mexico and to draw up and conclude a protocol or agreement regarding the reciprocal crossing of the frontier by the forces of both countries, also to determine the origin of the incursions to date in order to fix their responsibility therefor and definitely to settle the difficulties now pending or those which may arise between the two countries on account of the same or a similar reason; all of which shall be subject to the approval of both governments.

Would Enlarge Powers.

In reply I have the honor to state that I have laid your excellency's note before the President and have received his instructions to inform your excellency that the government of the United States is disposed to accept the proposal of the Mexican government in the same spirit of frank cordiality in which it is made.

This government believes and suggests, however, that the powers of the proposed commission should be enlarged, so that if, happily, a solution satisfactory to both governments of the question set forth in your excellency's communication may be reached, the commission may also consider such other matters, the friendly arrangement of which would tend to improve the relations of the two countries; it being understood that such recommendations as the commission may make shall not be binding upon the respective governments until formally accepted by them.

To Proceed Immediately.

Should this proposal be accepted by your excellency's government, I have the honor to state that this government will proceed immediately to appoint its commissioners and fix after consultation with your excellency's government, the time and place and other details of the proposed conferences.

Accept, Mr. Secretary, the assurances of my highest consideration.

(Signed) FRANK L. POLK,
Acting Secretary of State.

GONZALES TO SUCCEED CARRANZA, IS REPORT

First Chief Will Enter Field as Presidential Candidate at General Elections.

Laredo, Tex., July 31.—Venustiano Carranza is to retire as first chief of the de facto government of Mexico at an early date and will be succeeded by General Pablo Gonzales, according to information given out by Mexican administrative circles in Nuevo Laredo.

General Carranza will enter the field as a presidential candidate at the forthcoming general elections, it was said, apparently confirming recent unofficial advices from Mexico City.

The conference of Mexican generals with Carranza soon to be held in Mexico City according to these advices, will arrange for the call for general elections and for the retirement of the first chief.

DEUTSCHLAND AT PIER; REVENUE CUTTER NEAR

Engines in Perfect Condition and Vessel's Departure Not Delayed by Any Trouble Aboard.

Baltimore, July 31.—Although the German submarine Deutschland still is at its pier here, developments during the last 24 hours indicated the intention of Captain Paul Koenig, her commander, to leave in a short time.

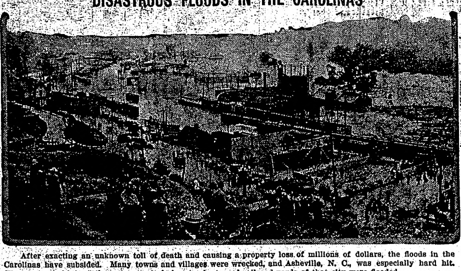
It was learned that when the United States revenue cutter Apache anchored a short distance from the Deutschland's slip the Apache's commander was asked by officials who are looking after the submarine's interests if he could convoy the Deutschland to the three-mile limit. The officials were referred to the Navy department.

The engines and submerging machinery of the Deutschland are in perfect condition and the vessel's departure is not delayed by any trouble aboard it, according to authoritative reports.

Germans Realize War's End Is Near.

Paris, July 28.—Sir Edward Morris, premier of Newfoundland, in an interview ith a representative of the Havas news agency, declared that the Germans are beginning to realize that the war is practically finished. Premier Morris has just returned from the section of the Somme front where the Newfoundland Detachment is stationed. Before leaving for the front he was asked by President Poincare and Premier Briand to express to his countrymen France's admiration and appreciation of their splendid services.

DISASTROUS FLOODS IN THE CAROLINAS



After exacting an unknown toll of death and causing a property loss of millions of dollars, the floods in the Carolinas have subsided. Many towns and villages were wrecked, and Asheville, N. C., was especially hard hit. The photograph shows how the gas and electric plants and railroad yards of that city were flooded.

FARM LOAN BOARD NAMED BY WILSON

WILL DIVIDE COUNTRY INTO TWELVE FEDERAL LAND BANK DISTRICTS UNDER NEW LAW.

2 NORTHWEST MEN CHOSEN

Hearings on the Designation of Districts and Location of Banks to Begin in September—State Capitals Will Be Visited by Commission.

Washington, July 29. — Division of the country into twelve federal land bank districts and location of federal lands banks in each of them under the new rural credits law will be undertaken soon by the federal farm loan board, four of whose members have been nominated by President Wilson.

Secretary McAdoo, who, as an ex-officio member completes the board, said, however, that he believes it would be impossible to conclude the organization of the system in less than six months, and that it might not be in actual operation before next spring.

Four Members Nominated.

The four men nominated as members of the board are Charles E. Lobdell of Kansas; George W. Norris, of Pennsylvania; W. S. A. Smith of Iowa and Herbert Quick, cerdited to West Virginia, but for many years a resident of Sioux City.

The President is expected to designate either Mr. Norris or Mr. Quick, the Democratic members of the board, to act as farm loan commissioner and executive head of the farm loan system.

To Visit State Capitals.

Until the Senate acts upon the nominations no date for a meeting can be set, but it was believed probable that the members would get together within two weeks. Hearing on the designation of districts and the location of banks probably will begin some time in September.

The first of these is expected to be held here, and most of the state capitals will probably be visited before they are concluded. That will require several months and other technical steps provided in the act preliminary to actual organization of the banks probably will prevent operation of the system before February or March.

CAPTURE OF ERZINGAN IS HARD BLOW TO OTTOMANS

Russian Troops Cover 100 Miles in Advance Within Week—Open Fertile Valley.

Petrograd, via London, July 29.—Russian troops covered 100 miles in their advance on Erzingan within a week. The capture of that city means the virtual completion of the Russian occupation of Turkish Armenia and gives Russia the benefit of the extremely fertile valley and opens an easy means of communication through Trebizon for the western and southern Caucasian armies.

It is estimated that the Turks had between 25 and 30 divisions between the Black sea and Mush—approximately 350,000 men.

U-BOAT SHELLS DREADNAUGHT

German Submarine Attacks British Warship Off the Orkneys.

Berlin, July 28.—A German submarine attacked a British dreadnaught off the Orkney islands July 20 and obtained two hits with torpedoes, the German admiralty announced.

Discharged Troops Get No Fare.

New York, July 29.—Guardsmen at the border discharged because of the necessity of supporting dependent relatives will have to pay their own expenses home. This was announced at the headquarters of the Department of the East, where it was said that many letters had been received from soldiers applying for such discharge, indicating expectation that their fare home would be paid by the government. It was explained that under war department regulations this compensation could not be allowed.

NOTE WARNS GREAT BRITAIN

PROTEST AGAINST BLACKLIST TELLS OF SERIOUS EFFECTS.

No Hint of Reprisals on Part of United States—Positive Terms Used.

Washington, Aug. 1.—Great Britain is warned, in the American note of protest against the black list, just made public by the State department of the "Many serious consequences to neutral right and neutral relations which such an act must necessarily involve."

The note contains no hint of reprisals on the part of the United States government if the black list, as far as the American firms are concerned, is not rescinded.

Regarded as Inconsistent.

Already in the hands of the British foreign office, the note says:

"In the gravest terms" that it is "Manifestly out of the question that the government of the United States should acquiesce in such methods" and that the United States regards the blacklist as "Inevitably and essentially inconsistent with the rights of all their citizens of all the nations not involved in the war."

Positive in Terms.

It reminds the British government that "Citizens of the United States are entirely within their rights in attempting to trade with the people of the governments of any of the nations now at war, subject only to well defined international practices and understandings which the government of the United States deems the government of Great Britain to have too light and too frequently disregarded."

The American note is even more positive in its terms than officials have intimated.

Ambassador Page was instructed by Acting Secretary Polk to deliver it formally and textually.

EXECUTION OF CAPTAIN AROUSES ALL ENGLAND

Foreign Office Shocked By Germany's Action Following Alleged Attempt to Ram Submarine.

London, July 31.—News of the execution of Captain Fryatt of the British steamer Brussels caused a painful impression at the British foreign office.

Under the instruction of Viscount Grey, the foreign secretary, a note was dispatched immediately to the American embassy requesting that James Gerard, the American ambassador at Berlin, procure complete details of the affair.

The first intimation of the trial of Captain Fryatt was called to the attention of the Foreign Office by press reports on July 18 to the effect that he was to be tried as the result of finding on him a watch containing an inscription reciting his effort to ram a German submarine.

RUSSIANS CAPTURE BRODY

Occupy Important Railroad Junction Northeast of Lemberg.

Petrograd, via London, July 31.—The Russians have occupied the important railroad junction of Brody, 58 miles northeast of Lemberg, in Galicia; broken through the entire first line of the Teutonic Allies west of Lutsk and driven the Austro-Germans' forces from the line of the rivers Slonovka, and Boldurovka, southern Volhynia, according to the official communication issued by the War Office.

Heavy casualties were inflicted on the Austro-Germans, more than 9,000 men were taken prisoners and a large number of guns were captured.

Casement Gets New Hearing.

London, July 28.—Justice Darling has announced that the five judges who heard the appeal of Sir Roger Casement from the sentence of death on the charge of high treason in connection with the Dublin revolt would sit to "hear a possible application on behalf of the convict." The nature of the application was not disclosed. In the event of Casement having to suffer the extreme penalty, his execution must take place in public. The statute of 1868, which abolished public executions, refers to cases of murderers.

ONTARIO FOREST FIRE TOLL IS 200

SEVERAL SMALL TOWNS WIPED OUT BY FLAMES—FIFTY-SEVEN PERISH AT NUSHKA

MANY PROSPECTORS TRAPPED

Farmer and Ten Children Burned While Wife Seeks Aid to Check Onrushing Flames—Hundreds of Square Miles Burned Over.

Englehart, Ont., Aug. 1. — Forest fires raging in northern Ontario are believed to have resulted in the loss of from 150 to 200 lives. Other scores of persons have been injured and it is feared many of them will die.

Several small towns have been wiped out by the flames that have been raging for 48 hours.

Reports thus far received show that 57 perished at Nushka, a French-Canadian settlement, and 34 at Matheson. Cochrane has 18 dead and 34 injured; Iroquois Falls, 15 dead and many injured, and Ramore, 15 dead.

Many Prospectors Trapped.

The number killed at Porcupine Junction is not known, but the entire town was destroyed except the railroad station.

The death list will be materially increased, it is feared, by victims in outlying districts.

There are apparently well authenticated reports that many prospectors have been trapped at Tashota and Kowash.

One farmer and his 10 children are known to have been burned while the man's wife was vainly seeking aid to check the onrushing flames.

Walls of Fire Cut Off Escape.

Nushka, a hamlet consisting of a score of frame buildings and stores, suffered worst. It had been threatened for several days, but the residents lingered in the hope they might save their homes. They waited too long, however, and walls of fire cut off escape.

A nearby lake in which they found refuge saved many residents of Cochrane, on the line of the Temiskaming & Northern Ontario railway. Only two streets in the town are saved.

Hundreds of square miles of bush and farm land have been burned over.

ILLINOIS CAVALRY FIRE ON BANDITS AT BORDER

Mexicans Attempting to Raid Picket Lines of Horses Dispersed by Troopers.

Brownsville Texas, July 31.—Several shots were exchanged between outposts and guards at the camp of the First Illinois cavalry and supposed Mexican bandits who apparently were attempting to raid picket lines of cavalry horses. So far as is known there were no casualties. The shooting took place two and a half miles north of Brownsville.

A detachment of H troops discovered four mounted men near camp at 12:45 a. m. Two patrols sent out to investigate saw a man leading four horses. Challenged by the guards, he fired a shotgun twice and disappeared in the underbrush as the guards returned the fire.

British Deny Cruiser Report.

Norfolk, Va., July 29.—Official denial by the British embassy at Washington that a British cruiser had visited Chesapeake bay, was received in silence by naval officers here.

U. S. and Mexican Commanders Meet.

Nogales, Ariz., July 29.—General Edward H. Plummer, commanding the United States forces here, and General Elias Calles, military commander of Sonora, conferred informally at the United States customs house upon a larger co-operation of their forces. General Calles assured General Plummer that relations between the Americans and Mexicans along the Sonora-Arizona border are friendly, while the American leader replied that from this side every effort woud be made to further such relations.

$25,000,000 LOSS IN BIG EXPLOSION IN NEW YORK BAY

DETONATIONS FELT IN FIVE STATES BEGIN WITH BLOWING UP OF QUANTITES OF DYNAMITE.

AMMUNITION AWAITING SHIPMENT TO THE ALLIES

Three Known Dead and Five Missing While Scores Are Injured—Fire Starting After First Crash Destroys Thirteen Warehouses on Black Tom Island.

New York, Aug. 1.—Property loss estimated at $25,000,000 was caused by a series of terrific explosions of ammunition awaiting shipment to the Allies and stored on Black Tom Island, a small strip of land jutting into New York bay off Jersey City.

The loss of life still is problematical. It will not be determined definitely until there has been opportunity to check up the workmen employed on the island and on boats moored nearby.

New York was relieved to learn that the toll of death was not as great as at first believed. Until several hours after the explosion reports were current and accepted in New York that hundreds had been killed, including 33 Jersey City firemen.

Three Dead; Five Missing.

Three are known to be dead and at least five more are missing. Scores of persons were injured, some of them probably mortally.

The detonations which were felt in five states, began with a continuous rapid fire of small shells, the blowing up of great quantities of dynamite, trinitrotoluene and other high explosives followed by the bursting of thousands of shrapnel shells which literally showered the surrounding country and waters for many miles around.

Thirteen Warehouses Destroyed.

Fire that started soon after the first great crash which spread death and desolation in its wake destroyed 13 of the huge warehouses of the National Storage company on Black Tom Island, in which were stored merchandise valued between $12,000,000 and $15,000,000. The flames, shooting into the clouds were reflected against New York's "skyline" of towering office buildings which only a few moments before were shaken to their foundations by an earthquake. Miles of streets in Manhattan alone were strewn with broken glass and shattered signs.

Cause of Disaster Unknown.

Early reports that scores had been killed were impossible of verification and the authorities asserted the number of deaths probably would be small. It was said that owing to the extent of the wreckage it might be several days before the exact figures could be obtained.

The cause of the disaster has not been determined. Officials of the National Storage company and the Lehigh Valley railroad, which also suffered heavily through loss of property, declared, however, that reports to them showed a fire started shortly after 1 a. m. this morning on a barge belonging to an independent towing company that had been moored alongside a dock used by the railroad company to transfer ammunition shipments from trains to vessels in the harbor.

Manslaughter Is Charged.

The barge it was said was there without authority either of the railroad or the storage company. The officials refused to disclose the name of the independent towing company saying they were investigating "to ascertain whether the barge purposely had been set on fire as the result of a plot."

Warrants charging manslaughter were issued for the arrest of Albert M. Dickman agent at the Black Tom Island docks for the Lehigh Valley Railroad company; Theodore B. Johnson head of the Johnson Lighterage and Towing company, and Alexander Davidson, superintendent of the National Storage company. They were accused of having illegally permitted explosives to be stored where human life was endangered.

G. A. R. Medalist Dead.

Zanesville, Ohio, Aug. 1.—General R. B. Brown, 72, past commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic and widely known as a distinguished Civil war veteran and newspaper editor, died at his home here following a long illness. General Brown was awarded a medal by Congress for bravery at Missionary Ridge.

SEAMEN THREATEN TO STRIKE

Ten Thousand Workers on Great Lakes Make Demands.

Cleveland, Ohio, July 31.—A strike of 10,000 Seamen, firemen, oilers and cooks on the Great Lakes, Sept. 1, is threatened unless vessel owners accede to demands to be fixed by vote of three unions concerned next week.

Union officials, who claim to have organized 65 per cent of the able seamen on the lakes, say a strike would result in a complete tieup of traffic on the lakes.

RANCHING

Cattle and Horse Ranching in Western Canada — Steers Brought 10 Cents a Pound on the Seattle Market.

That big money is made by the large cattle rancher in Western Canada, and also by the small farmer as well, is shown by the undisputable facts presented from time to time. A rancher, near Gleichen, Alberta, who commenced in a small way nine years ago, recently disposed of 1,243 cattle at a total of $101,304.50, and this was only his surplus stock for the present season.

A December shipment of 217 head of ranch steers brought the owner an average of over $80 per head. They were taken straight from the range without any grain feeding and were in excellent condition to be sold for the Christmas trade. Another shipment of 100 head, averaging $70 each, was made to Seattle. The highest price paid on the Seattle market was for an Albertan steer, which weighed 1,700 lbs., and brought the fancy price of 10c per lb., or $170.

Six carloads of live stock from ranches 65 miles from Pincher, Alberta, shipped to Spokane, excited keen competition there on account of their exceptional quality. The price realized was $10,028. American dealers say they must look to Canada for beef supplies.

A livestock firm, which has shipped over 2,000 head of beef cattle to the American farmer since the middle of November, reports a splendid reception of Alberta stock in the United States.

A carload of choice Alberta steers were sold early in January for shipment to the British Columbia coast at $6.70 per 100 lbs. and, later on, a lot from Carstairs brought $6.90—the highest price paid since the spring of 1915. Shipments from Calgary livestock yards during 1915 were: Horses, 8,675; cattle, 30,577; hogs, 144,515; sheep, 12,410. A course in agriculture and livestock demonstration which has been conducted by the Provincial Dept. of Agriculture here was well attended, showing the interest taken by city residents in agricultural progress.

John Young, of Sidney, Man., gives his experiences in sheep-raising as follows, as quoted in a local paper:

"I bought a bunch of fifty ewes, which cost me $262.50. With this little flock I demonstrated just what can be done in the sheep business. This fall I sold fifty fat lambs at $6.50 per head, $325, and 18 of the best ewe lambs, which I kept, I value at $8.00 per head, $144. The wool sold at an average of $2.07 per head, $103.50. This makes the very nice total of $572.50."

"They ran out nearly every day all winter. The value of hay and oats was small, and one can make them very comfortable through the winter with very little expense. For shelter I have a shed, about 125 feet long and 14 feet wide, which I cover with straw. This gives them protection from the cold winds: yet it is always cool enough to be healthy."

"I intend going in more for sheep this fall, as I believe them to be the most profitable stock on the farm."

Desire of farmers and ranchers to increase their sheep holdings is indicated by the sale of 2,500 head recently at $9.00 each. High wool prices and profitable demand for mutton are the reason given for such a figure.

Manitoba sheep breeders arranged last year for the Provincial Department of Agriculture to handle their wool output on a co-operative basis and obtained most satisfactory results. About 75,000 lbs. of wool were handled, netting the shippers over 25c per lb.—Advertisement.

Mercedes, Tex.

Facing a ten mile hike, Minnesota troops sought their tents early in preparation for their first real test since coming to concentration camp. Company commanders have been taking their men on short practice marches each morning to harden them for longer marches and extensive division maneuvers which are to come later.

Every man in camp except those in the field hospital, the camp guard and the cooks and kitchen detail, was required to make the marches. Rifles and filled canteens were the only equipment carried. The hike was the first taken by the Minnesota regiments as units, most of the work heretofore being by companies.

See Mexican Soldiers.

Colonel Luce decided to take the First south to the Rio Grande, offering the men their first opportunity to see the main border and Mexican soldiers. The Second regiment marched through Mercedes and thence north, while the Third turned West along the railroad.

Regimental parade was held for the first time by the First on the drill grounds west of camp which the men have been engaged in clearing.

General James Parker, commander of the Brownsville district, visited camp on a tour of inspection. He declined to comment on the conditions and progress of the militia.

Student Guards to Return.

Two hundred men, comprising Battery F, the University of Minnesota unit in the First Minnesota field artillery, will come marching back from the border shortly after Sept. 1, as the result of an announcement in Washington by Secretary of War Newton D. Baker. Men in other guard units who wish to return to school, or who are to enter school, also will be released from service.

Units Must Be Permanent.

The announcement means the separation of the University of Minnesota and other college military organizations from the national guard, the reason given being that the guard cannot include units that are not permanent. Federal recognition is to be withdrawn from the college organizations as a part of the guard, and all guard equipment is to be returned to United States arsenals. The order will not interfere with the university having a cadet organzation.

Vincent Pleased.

"I am glad the boys are to come back to school," said President George E. Vincent of the university. "The government evidently does not wish to interferene in the continuity of their studies except in great emergency.

"When Battery F is mustered out we probably will reorganize it as a part of the cadet corps, separate from the national guard. Under the old law, the battery could not get up to date military equipment unless it was a part of the guard, but I have been told this will be possible under the more recent statute.

"I hope the boys will get home in time for the opening of the university, Sept. 27."

Gophers Handle Warship.

On Board United States Flagship Rhode Island, off Sayville Wireless Station, Long Island.—The reserve fleet, including nine ships, is at anchor in view of the wireless towers of Sayville. The Rhode Island was turned over to Minnesota naval militia officers for practice. Buoys were anchored outside the sound in deep water, to represent channels and docks.

Minnesota officers then took command, and, with Minnesota boys at the wheel and on the bridge, performed feats of navigating that indicate considerable previous study and practice. Navigator Swanson of Duluth, Captain Guy A. Eaton and Lieutenant Joseph Carhart were commended by Rear Admiral Helm for the manner in which they handled the Rhode Island. The fleet steamed for Newport, where a big game with the first line high sea fleet will be staged.

It will be a regular battle practice, in which submarines, torpedo boats, destroyers and hydroplanes will participate. All plans concerning the maneuvers are kept secret.

Investigate Poisoning.

An official investigation into the causes for the ptomaine poisoning which exists in the Third Minnesota infantry has been ordered by Brig. Gen. E. M. Lewis. Three more cases were reported from Company H, Olivia, making six cases of 10 seriously ill from this company. Surgeons again examined the canned tomatoes which were thought to be the cause for the illness, and while a majority of the cans opened were found to contain gases, it is the belief that there is some [illegible]

Resche Now Brigadier General.

After the mustering in of Brigadier General F. E. Resche as commander of the Minnesota troops and the election of Lieutenant Colonel H. V. Eva of Duluth as his successor as colonel of the Third regiment, brigade headquarters were opened here. Major A. F. Pratt of Anoka was chosen lieutenant colonel and Captain Carl C. Weaver, regimental adjutant, was promoted to major. Lieutenant A. K. Wheaton of Duluth, and H. C. Luers of Owatonna were assigned as aides to General Resche.

The First regiment has received a shipment of 18,000 rounds of rifle ammunition. What is known as Course B will be given the Minnesota troops, this differing from the regular range work and being necessary here because of the lack of an adequate rifle range. After a thorough drill in practice firing the men will shoot at targets representing prostrate figures. Officers say that such an arrangement can be made without all the facilities provided by a range such as the men had at Fort Snelling.

Build New Field Hospital.

Brig. Gen. E. M. Lewis, post commander, announced that work is to be started immediately on a field hospital to cost $15,000, which will replace the present ranch building. This hospital was proved inadequate to handle the cases sent over from camp and is not provide with the conveniences which the surgeons desire in handling the men.

Money has been provided by the War department for the erection of screened mess rooms and kitchens for all the troops now in camp, it was announced. The kitchens will be so constructed that they can be transported with the troops in case they move south. Surgeons declare that only by such measures can the fly problem be solved and danger from disease minimized. Thus far only the Indiana regiments are provided with such enclosures.

Troops Fire on Mexican.

Straw has been provided for those men having ticks, but this was of little assistance to the Minnesota men, who do not have this equipment. The delay in the shipment of cots has not yet been explained, though the quartermaster has been endeavoring to trace the missing articles. Minnesota guardsmen will continue to sleep on the ground until the cots arrive.

Considerable excitement was caused in camp when men from Company A, First regiment, who were patroling the water canals some distance from camp, fired on a Mexican.

Reorganize Artillery Unit.

Officers and men of the First battalion, Minnesota field artillery, are speculating on rumors of further reorganization of the artillery unit. Captain C. Lesley Ames of B battery probably will be offered the position of major which he recently refused when he nominated Lieutenant Perkins of the regular army for that office. A recent ruling of the War department, which says no commissioned officer in the regular army can accept a position in the national guard which places him under a national guard officer, makes it impossible for Lieutenant Perkins to take the post.

If Captain Ames is made major, it is said Captain Wallace Cole of A battery will be transferred back to B battery, and that Lieutenant Fletcher Rockwood of A battery will be made the commanding officer of A.

Captain Cole formerly was senior first lieutenant of B battery. He was transferred to A when that unit was in the process of organization and brought it up above peace strength by a strenuous recruiting campaign.

★ ★ ★

Accept Battery Officers.

The officers' roll of the First battalion, First field artillery, is intact after the medical examination of the unit just completed by Captain Thomas H. Johnson, chief medical officer. Not one officer was disqualified, although Colonel Arthur Johnson, U. S. A., said following the completion of his medical report, the tests disqualified 70 men, 19 in Battery A, 19 in Battery B, 29 in Battery C and 3 in the First artillery band.

One hundred men are still wanted by the battalion, Lieutenant Colonel W. J. Murphy, battalion commander, said. There are now 115 men on the rolls of Battery A, 135 in Battery B and 148 in Battery C. Battery A must be recruited to peace strength of 133 before the unit can entrain for the south.

U. S. Troops Healthy.

Good-bye to the good old style of lime whitened army camps. The use of lime has been stopped in all camps by orders of Major W. N. Bispham, sanitary inspector for the army of the lower Rio Grande. "We've discovered that flies like white color," said the major. "What we are looking for is something black in the way of a disinfectant. The latest idea is lampblack mixed with petroleum." "We want Americans to know the exact state of health and sanitary conditions here," said Bispham. "Many wild stories are being sent out about illness among the men. All are untrue."

To Aid Soldier Students.

A special loan fund has been provided at the University of Minnesota for students who, because of being at the Mexican border, have been unable to earn money in the summer to continue their school work. Announcement to this effect was made by President George E. Vincent. The rules with regard to late payment of fees will, if necessary, be suspended if the soldier boys are unable to comply with regulations. Time schedules and registration cards will be sent the students.

What's Doing in Minnesota

Jordan, Minn. — Four Minneapolis citizens have been taken into that city all dangerously injured as the result of being hurled twenty-five feet from an automobile near Jordan, Minn., at the breaking of the steering gear.

St. Paul. — D. P. Tierney, assistant state forester, arrived from the forest fire region and conferred with the attorney general's department to ask legal aid for prosecutions under regulations regarding slash and brush disposal.

St. Paul. — First official notice of the appropriation bill recently passed by Congress under which Minnesota will receive more than $1,400,000 Federal good roads aid during the next ten years has been received by Governor Burnquist.

Duluth. — Formal demand for 5 cents more an hour or from 35 to 40 cents, has been made upon the Northern Pacific, which controls the bulk of the Duluth docks. This is for day work. A night rate of 45 cents is asked and 50 cents an hour for loading cement.

St. Paul. — Provision for early establishment of a large industrial and custodial institution to serve as an adjunct to practically all the state penal, correctional and charitable institutions, may be recommended to the next Legislature by the state board of control.

Ortonville.—Ortonville citizens took up arms against an invasion of more than 300 Industrial Workers of the World, and before the latter had been put to rout and driven from town, a number of shots had been fired by both sides, but apparently without injuring anyone.

Duluth. — The big steamer W. Grant Morden, which held the previous record, passed the Soo with 14,404 bushels of wheat more than ever had been carried and cleared from Port Arthur, Ont., with 490,720 bushels of wheat for Port McNicoll, on Georgian bay.

Minneapolis. — Forty-three Minnesotans passed the recent examinations conducted by the state board of pharmacy and have been granted registrations as pharmacists or assistants. As a result of the examinations three Minneapolis men will become pharmacists and 13 will qualify as assistants.

Washington, D. C.—Minnesota gained 1,218 manufacturing establishments in the 10 years from 1904 to 1914, and at the close of the 1914 census had 5,974 establishments of every kind. These figures are in the bulletin, carrying condensation of the forthcoming detailed manufacturing census of the state, that was sent out from Washington. In 1909 there were 5,561 establishments.

St. Paul. — Nothing daunted by their failure to win the route of the Jefferson highway through Northern Minnesota, representatives of the Western and Eastern routes met immediately following the announcement of the choice of the central route by J. D. Clarkson, general manager of the highway, and formulated plans for establishing the Northern Minnesota Scenic highway.

Minneapolis. — Three possibilities for the future of the farm were suggested by President Vincent of the University of Minnesota, speaking at the rural life conference at the university farm. One of these possibilities, the president said, is corporate control of large farming areas; another, cooperative control by farmers themselves, and the third a wider extension of the tenant system.

St. Paul. — Total deposits in the 994 state banks operated under the direction of the state banking department were $93,987,749.41 at the close of business June 30, a net increase of $26,545,958.21 since June 23, 1915. This showing, A. H. Turrittin, state superintendent of banks, regards as the best in the history of the department. The total resources reported were $224,715,202.01, against $198,169,243.80 in 1915.

Wadena. — The tourists in the Jefferson highway sociability run arrived here five minutes ahead of their schedule, although they were delayed by a bad hill between Little Falls and Staples for more than three minutes. On their arrival here a message from Staples was awaiting the officials, which advised the hill will not cause further difficulty to tourists. The business men of Staples have pledged $2,000 to be expended in properly grading the hill.

St. Paul. — Increased revenue from the state tax on liquor licenses and decrease of the wet territory made a paradox discovered by George La Fond, chief clerk in the treasurer's office. "Despite reports of more cities and counties going dry during the year, the state received $41,909.08 liquor license taxes, compared with $38,975.56 during the fiscal year preceding. "The only explantion offered thus far is that wet places must be getting wetter."

Minneapolis. — The animal industry group of the department of agriculture at the University of Minnesota has been reorganized by the acquisition of two new men in such a way as to make it rank with the best similar departments in the country, in the opinion of President Vincent.

Washington, D. C. — The average annual wages of the men employed in industrial plants in Minnesota increased from $560 to $632.43 in the five years between 1909 and 1914, according to the advance report of the United States industrial survey. The increase is nearly 13 per cent.

Prizes Awarded to Western Canada for Wheat, Oats, Barley, Alfalfa and Grasses

The winnings of Western Canada at the Soil Products Exposition at Denver were easily made. The list comprised Wheat, Oats, Barley and Grasses, the most important being the prizes for Wheat and Oats and sweep stake on Alfalfa.

No less important than the splendid quality of Western Canada's wheat and other grains, is the excellence of the cattle fed and fattened on the grasses of that country. A recent shipment of cattle to Chicago topped the market in that city for quality and price.

Western Canada produced in 1915 one-third as much wheat as all of the United States, or over 300,000,000 bushels.

Canada in proportion to population has a greater exportable surplus of wheat this year than any country in the world, and at present prices you can figure out the revenue for the producer. In Western Canada you will find good markets, splendid schools, exceptional social conditions, perfect climate and other great attractions. There is no war tax on land and no conscription.

TREATED WELL IN TRENCHES

Adventurers Resented Arrest When They Returned From Period of "Fun" at the Front.

Mr. Norman Wilkinson tells this story in his book, "The Dardanelles."

I had the story from a naval officer whose duties lay on shore. He was outside his dugout one afternoon when two men in strange raiment passed. Their gait and the fact that both wore navy flannels told him at once that they were bluejacks. Anxious to know what they were doing there, he stopped and questioned them.

"Where are you going?"

"Motor-lighter K, sir."

"Do you belong there?"

"Yes, sir."

"Then what are you doing here?"

"Well, sir," hesitating, "we've just been up to the trenches."

"Were you sent there with orders?"

"Er—no, sir."

"How long have you been up there?"

"'Ow long, sir?" Then to his companion. "When was it we went up, Bill?" Then to captain, "I should say about four days, sir."

Finally the captain ordered them under arrest down to a picket boat in which he was about to visit the flagship. On the way out the captain heard the two adventurers discussing their detention with some bitterness, always ending with the same refrain, "Fine thing, this—under arrest. And they treat you like a gentleman in the trenches—treat you like a gentleman, I say."

It is difficult to imagine the point of view of men running away to get into the trenches and leaving them with regret.—Youth's Companion.

Love Is Blind.

The Little Matter.

A certain captain of industry, complimented on an immense war contract, said in New York:

"One beauty about these contracts is their strict honesty. There are no palms to grease."

"It wasn't always so in war contracts. In fact, they tell a story about a war contractor who once broke the silence of his club reading room with a dreadful sigh.

"'What's the matter?' a brother contractor asked.

"'Alas, alas!' said the first contractor. 'I've just bought five million pairs of shoes at a dollar a pair and sold them to the army for six dollars, and I'm afraid the loss will ruin me.'

"'Loss? Loss?' said the other contractor. 'What are you talking about, man? On five million pairs of shoes, with a five-dollar profit, how can there be a loss?'

"'My dear fellow,' said the first contractor, sadly, 'you forget the little matter of commissions.'"—Washington Star.

The Red Lake River is still at a flood stage on the upper end of it, and all the bottom lands are still covered with water, with no prospect of cutting any hay on them this year. Not only is this year's hay crop entirely destroyed, but thousands of acres of these valuable meadow-lands are ruined, as all the tame grass and the better quality of wild meadow grass are entirely drowned out and where once was growing fine meadow hay now has nothing but black flag and water grass growing on it. The former farmers on these lands are moving out, and seeking other localities. We have lived on the bakns of the Red Lake River for the past ten years, and never saw it continue at a flood stage steadily as it has this year, and it now has the appearance of being totally inadequate of handling the amount of water that is being dumped into it and has spread out until it has flooded thousands of acres of valuable lands, and made them practically worthless for any purpose.

The extreme warm weather of the past two weeks has done considerable damage to the filling out of the early sown wheat. Some fields seems to have suffered more than others, but with favorable weather conditions from now on Pennington and Red Lake counties will still have nearly an average crop. Oats, flax and barley do not seem to have suffered so bad as wheat, and the indications now are that we will have above the average crop of flax, oats, rye and barley.

The farmers are not getting the increase in prices for their produce in proportion to the raise on all other goods. The European war has kept the price of wheat up to an average of one dollar a bushel, but it takes a great deal more wheat at the present market price to buy clothing and other necessities of life, than it took four years ago.

If that railroad strike goes far enough, so that the men actually walk out, it will be one of the worst industrial wars that has ever been in the United States, which may not end until all railroads and telegraph lines are placed under the control of the government, and strikes will not take place any more than they do in the Postoffice Department.

The Democrats will make a strong campaign for the election of a Senator from this state, but we are quite positive that Kellogg is as popular a candidate as their man Lawler, and it now has the appearance that he will have a lead of about sixty thousand Republican votes, that will not vote for a Democrat this year.

The Wilson administration received a black eye at the recent primary election in Texas, all of the supporters of the present chief executive being defeated. This should be a straw to show the direction of the wind, and said wind will probably prove a gale before the fall election.—T. R. Falls News-Press.

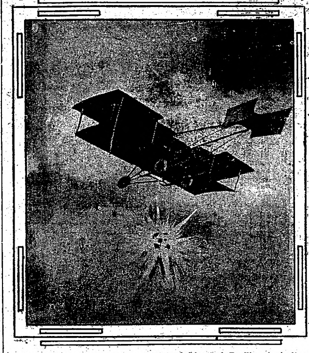
TO ATTACK MINNESOTA STATE FAIR.



De Lloyd Thompson, Fearless Aviator, to Demonstrate Probable Results of an Aerial Attack Upon America by an Enemy Air Fleet at Minnesota State Fair, Sept. 4 to 9.

IS AMERICA prepared for war? Could the United States drive back an aerial war fleet intent upon invading the country?

De Lloyd Thompson, the intrepid birdman who is ranked among the sensations of the year, will give a thrilling preparedness demonstration at the Minnesota State Fair, Sept. 4 to 9, in imitation of an aerial invasion, dropping bombs upon the principal buildings from a gigantic war plane, now being made for him. Similar demonstrations by Thompson at New York City, Washington and Boston excited wide comment this spring.

Bombs Are Dropped.

Sweeping in from the north at night, Thompson will drop bomb after bomb from his aeroplane in imitation of an aerial attack upon the Fair Grounds. He will attempt to locate the Grandstand, Livestock Pavilion, Agricultural Building, and other big structures with his bombs. The explosion of the bombs at night is a thrilling sight. In addition to his bomb throwing exhibition each evening, Thompson will give two daily flights, looping the loop, tail sliding, flying upside down, dropping in the air, and performing in other ways.

ENTIRE TOWN MOVED.

Suburban Residence District Moved 1,000 Miles to Minnesota State Fair.

Moving an entire suburban residence district over 1,000 miles is the magic task which is being undertaken this year to provide the Minnesota State Fair, Sept. 4 to 9, with a new feature.

The model suburb, which is coming from Cleveland, O., in August, cost $10,000, and was designed to demonstrate the value of lumber in the erection of homes. It is to be housed in the new Building Materials Building, adjoining the Art Galleries, and will be one of the biggest educational features at the exposition. A pretentious exhibit of building materials will also be shown.

The White Pine Bureau and the Minnesota Art Commission are co-operating with the State Fair in making the venture a success.

Panama Canal Lighthouses.

It is announced that a feature of the Panama canal will be lighthouses whose lamps are lit and extinguished by the sun, without the aid of human hands. Briefly, the warmth of the sun at dawn, falling on a rod which rests on a lever, expands that rod and so moves the lever which closes the gas valve. At night the rod, getting cooler, contracts and so opens the valve and lets the gas pass, to be lit by a small jet always left burning. The rod can be adjusted according to the temperature conditions of any country. The sun valve is the invention of Gustaf Dalen, the famous Swedish physicist, recently awarded a Nobel prize.—Illustrated London News.

A Museum of Crime.

Professor Hans Gross of the University of Gratz, Austria, has the credit of establishing the first museum of criminology and a criminalistic laboratory, where the weapons, tools and other paraphernalia and materials used by criminals are assembled to assist in the analysis of the workings of criminal minds and a study of methods and systems for dealing with this large and dangerous class of every community. This museum was established in 1895, and since then other establishments of the same character have been organized.

One of the most important of these is the Society of Criminology and Social Defense in Paris, which has a membership of more than 200, including many prominent representatives of the law, the police and medical profession, and it was organized to concentrate and centralize the scattered efforts of individuals who were studying this disquieting social problem and to make the results of their work available for mutual information.

BREATHING IN THE WATER.

In Doing It Properly Lies the Secret of Success In Swimming.

The way to avoid drowning, according to a swimming teacher, is to learn now to swim. Good swimmers don't drown. They might die of chill or starve to death, but as for drowning—pooh!

"How about cramps?" he was asked. "Even good swimmers have cramps."

"Cramps needn't cause a moment's worry. I've seen thousands of good swimmers seized with cramps, and never a one was drowned. All they did was to turn over on their backs and either wait for help or paddle with their free limbs. I've never heard of a swimmer having cramps in both legs and arms. Even then his case would not be hopeless.

"There never was a case of drowning that was caused by cramps. That may seem surprising after the countless water tragedies that have been blamed on cramps. Death in the water is caused by chill or strangling.

"People strangle to death because they are ignorant of the proper method of breathing. When they sink beneath the water they hold their air passages shut. When they come to the top they have to breathe out the air they've used while under water. As breathing out takes fifty times as long as breathing in, they have no time to get a fresh supply of air before they go under again. This keeps up until they breathe in under the water and thus strangle to death.

"The process should be reversed. Breathe in for the second you are above water; then breathe out through the nostrils while under the water, and you can keep it up until you starve to death.

"Nine-tenths of swimming is breathing, and movement is only one-tenth," says the expert.—Kansas City Star.

Japanese Houses.

A number of causes have affected the size of the Japanese house, which seems much too small for a comfortable habitation in the eyes of the foreigner. In the first place, the people themselves are small, the average height of the Japanese male adult being five feet three and one-half inches and that of the female four feet nine and one-half inches. As it is the usual custom to sit on the floors upon cushions, with the legs bent beneath, great height of ceilings is not desirable. The low ceilings may also be attributed to the lack of any heating systems other than the small charcoal brazier known as the "hibashi." The frequency of earthquakes throughout Japan has been a largely contributing cause as well; and the question of expense in a country where economy reigns supreme has also had a powerful influence.

Making a Record.

Sir George Trevelyan told a curious little anecdote regarding an interview he had once had with Thackeray. The novelist was engaged at the time in writing "The Virginians," and in the middle of the conversation he commenced to ask each of the young men in the company what was the greatest length they had ever jumped. The greatest jump claimed was twenty-two feet.

"Well," said Thackeray, "then I will make Washington jump twenty-four."

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. MINNESOTA HISTORICAL SOCIETY

VOL. XVI. SUNBEAM, PENNINGTON COUNTY, MINNESOTA, FRIDAY, AUGUST 11, 1916. NO. 22

Frank LaCounte made a trip to Plummer on last Saturday.

The Highlanding merchants are kept busy dealing out goods on creamery days.

The heavy rain Wednesday night has again stopped work on the roads.

Miss Mabel Nelson of Cloquet, Minn., is visiting with Mrs. Wm. Vaughan this week.

Cows and young stock brought fairly good prices at the John Ramage sale last Monday, but horses and farm machinery were sold rather cheap.

There are some pieces of early sown marquis wheat, that will make about half a crop, if the continued rains do not prevent the harvesting of it.

The heavy rains the past week have washed out some of the road grades so bad, that they are in a dangerous condition, and need immediate repairs.

The flax crop looks very fine, but the spring was so wet and backward that there was not a very large acreage of it sown in this locality.

The farmers have been busy this week trying to harvest, but the continual rains have made many of the fields so soft that it is almost impossible to get onto them with a binder to save the oat and barley crop.

How would it do to try and "Jonah" Red Lake River down to low water mark, by resurrecting the farmers' steam boat, and trying to navigate it? Judging by past experience that would lower the water in a week's time.

"Mine poy" will vote for Wilson in the town of Highlanding, and "mine poy" will vote for him in Kratka, and I vote for him in Deer Park, and by golly I bet he will be elected." Better have Stephen write them about it.

After the election of Hughes in November the Republican party will get an addition of three ex-Democrats for the past three years, in this end of the county, whose coats can stand one more turn, but we will endeavor to see to it, that they do not work as much injury to the Republican party as they have to the Democratic party, when they make their next flop.

The Minnesota State's Prison has a first class ball team, which can a little more than hold their own with any of the outside teams, but they never travel any or visit other cities for a return game. However it is a good thing that the officials allow those unfortunate inmates a little time for recreation and enjoyment; and they can exchange the dark cell as punishment, by telling some of the inmates that if they are not good they won't be allowed to play ball.

Again we wish to call the attentions of mail route patrons to the fact, that their mail service depends on the amount of business done by the postoffice at the head of the route, and while it may be a little more convenient for them to plug all their out going mail into a wayside postoffice, it may cause them to wake up some fine morning, and find that that their mail route has been discontinued, and they can take a walk and get their mail where they have been mailing their letters.

FORM FIRE PREVENTION COMMITTEES SAYS ROBERT W. HARGADINE, STATE FIRE MARSHAL.

Fire prevention committees should be organized in every city, town and village in Minnesota.

An instance of what a committee can do in this respect is shown in a report just prepared by R. W. Hargadine, State Fire Marshal.

In November, 1915, Mr. Hargadine had a general inspection made of Lakefield, Jackson county, and found conditions somewhat hazardous. Following the inspection Mr. Hargadine was a guest at a meeting of the Commercial Club of that city. At the close of this meeting a Fire Prevention Committee was formed by members of the club with the Fire Chief as chairman.

It was the duty of each member to investigate and report all premises which might be fire menaces and orders were issued following each report to the owner to "clean up."

What was the result? The Fire Marshal's department checking up from November, 1915, to August, 1916, found that there had not been one fire reported in Lakefield.

In checking back over the corresponding period in 1915 the Fire Marshal's record showed three serious fires resulting in an aggregate loss of $3,297. In one fire the loss was $2,904.

The public spirit of fire prevention was manifested by the business men of Lakefield from the conditions as found by a deputy in July this year, that they had all complied with orders and suggestions last year, and found the conditions excellent, which speaks well for this plan of reducing the fire waste.

We hope that the Singers will not have us indicted before the next Grand Jury for publishing this latest advice from our State Fire Marshal.

It has been the custom to assess lands lying along the banks of Red Lake River higher than lands further back. But there will be a protest filed against this by river farmers, as they object to paying taxes on watered stock.

C. O. Swanson has advertised his stock and farm machinery for sale at public auction, at the residence of Matt Bakken, on sec. 9, town of Deer Park, on next Wednesday August 16th. This is a case of another farmer giving up trying to farm lands that are continually under water.

When we were a boy on the farm we used to carry water and pour it into gopher holes, until the gopher had to come up to the top to get air. That is the condition of hundreds of farmers east of here, who have been drowned out by the Red Lake River and compelled to abandon their homes. These are the actual facts as they exist to-day, and there is no use to deny them.

When the lumber companies used to drive their logs down the Red Lake River, the farmers were of the opinion that they hindered the drainage of the country, but they have now discovered that the logs was what kept the channel of the river clear, and gave the surplus water an open outlet.

THE SAFETY HABIT

You know the bankers are talking a good deal these days about the "Safety Habit." It is not a safety razor or a safety bicycle, It's safety for the lives intrusted to their care.

The principle applies to the banking business. Our bank employed the Safety Habit at the outset—safety to the depositors money intrusted to our care. Every dollar left with us will be taken care of. Safety is our watch word. We would like to have your account on this basis.

Co-Operative Creameries Show Tremendous Increase in Butter Production.

The Dairy Commissioner, at first annual convention of Saskatchewan Dairymen's association, reviewed progress of 1915 which shows a great increase in the butter production of the co-operative creameries amounting to 1,500,000 lbs. He also said the improvement in quality is shown by the preference accorded Saskatchewan butter in outside markets. Shipments out of the province for the year totaled 52 carloads.

According to bulletin just issued by the Manitoba department of agriculture, the dairy industry had a very successful year in 1915. There was an increase of over 1,000,000 lbs. of creamery butter produced, as against the previous year, about 260,000 lbs. increase in dairy butter and over 25,000 lbs. increase in the cheese output. The increase of the total value of milk and milk products was over $427,000. The production of dairy butter for Manitoba during the year was 4,150,444 lbs. and it brought an average price of 23c per lb.; of creamery butter 5,839,667 lbs. were produced which commanded 29c per lb. on the average; cheese production was 726,725 lbs. which sold at an average price of 15c—the total value of these three products is given as $2,760,698, in addition to which the milk produced is valued at $925,659 and the cream at $158,827, the average price of the milk being reckoned at 2.1c per lb. and of sweet cream at 32c per lb. butter-fat. In connection with the dairy industry it is interesting to note that almost the most important fodder crop now is corn, of which the 1915 production amounted to 190,132 tons. The biggest cultivated fodder crop is timothy which for last season produced 193,357 tons and the next most popular crop was brome grass with 45,815 tons; of alfalfa and clover there were produced some 38,000 tons. The number of cattle in the province is given as 631,005, which is an increase of 130,000 over the previous year.

The fact that the Red Deer, Alberta, cheese factory is handling four times as much milk this season as last winter shows the growing improvement in the dairy industry. On Feb. 14, it was announced the factory had just shipped two tons of cheese for Calgary market.

Cardston, Alberta, creamery in 1915 paid its patrons a rate of 27½c per lb. for butter fat and had a profit remaining over all expenses of $5,584. The creamery during season distributed among farmers $61,117 and manufactured 256,000 lbs. butter and 13,000 lbs. cheese. Average price realized for butter was 28¼ cents.

The development of the dairy industry of Northern Alberta is well indicated by the growth of a prominent dairy business here, which in 1915 produced 2,525,000 lbs. butter, an increase of 400,000 lbs. over the previous year. This product has found a market in all parts of Canada and this year will enter the export trade. Advertisement.

Last of Floating Theaters.

For a generation the theater Dixie and its barge, a cruising theater, brightened the corners in small river towns along the Missouri and the Mississippi. But theaters on flatboats don't pay any more. Recently the amusement flotilla was sold under the hammer by William A. Shelton, United States marshal at Osage City, Mo. It went to a Des Moines (Ia.) man for $2,400. The claims against it, brought under the admiralty laws, totaled $6,000.—Kansas City Star.

DON'T LOSE HOPE IN KIDNEY TROUBLE

I was troubled with what the doctor said was Kidney and Bladder trouble and after trying several doctors, gave up all hopes of ever being well again, until a friend of mine told me about Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root. Before I had finished the first bottle I got relief; and after taking six bottles was completely restored to health. I say to one and all that Swamp-Root is a wonderful medicine.

Very truly yours,
MRS. MARTILE VANDERBECK,

Personally appeared before me this 4th day of February, 1914, Mrs. Martile Vanderbeck, who subscribed the above statement and made oath that the same is true in substance and in fact.

An All-Seeing Eye.

A self-operating eye, which when attached to a typewriter enables that machine to copy any printed matter properly set before it, is the invention of a Brooklyn electrical engineer. The eye consists of a large sphere having a lens on its front side and a field corresponding to a retina on which are situated a large number of selenium cells connected with a source of electric current. The eye is mounted on and moves with the carriage of the typewriter, and is so focused that the image of but one letter is reflected in it at a time. Popular Mechanics Magazine tells how the machine operates.

Only 326,700 immigrants arrived in this country last year, as against 1,218,480 in 1914.

NEW YORK MAYOR SEES SETTLEMENT OF TIEUP AT HAND

MITCHEL MAKES ANNOUNCEMENT AFTER DAY OF CONFERENCES—PROPOSALS SUBMITTED TO BOTH SIDES.

SURFACE CAR TRAFFIC IS SUSPENDED SUNDAY

President of Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Employes Declines to Discuss Terms, But Intimates They Will Be Satisfactory to Strikers.

New York, Aug. 8.—Settlement of the street car strike, which again has resulted in a complete suspension of surface car traffic in all the boroughs of Greater New York, except Brooklyn, is probable today, according to a statement issued by Mayor Mitchel.

The announcement came after a day of conferences initiated by Mayor Mitchel with the co-operation of Oscar S. Strauss, chairman of the public service commission. At these meetings, it was said, a basis of settlement had been reached which would be submitted today to the board of directors of the New York Railways company and to its striking employes.

The mayor gave out a statement in which he said:

Mayor Submits Proposal.

"We have submitted certain proposals for a settlement of the street railway strike to President Shonts of the New York Railways company and to the representatives of the striking employes. A basis of settlement has been found and will be recommended by President Shonts to his board of directors for ratification and by the representatives of the men to the employes for ratification by them.

"The meeting of the board of directors and the meeting of the employes will be held today and upon ratification of the proposed settlement by both sides, the men will immediately return to work and service will be resumed on the entire railways systems. In the meantime and pending the submission of the terms of settlement to both sides, it is deemed inadvisable to make them public."

Looks for Agreement.

William D. Mahon, president of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Employes, confirmed the announcement of Mayor Mitchel, but declined to discuss the proposed terms of settlement.

"We believe," he said, "that if the propositions which have been agreed to by the representatives of the company and ourselves are ratified they will establish a very satisfactory agreement."

Announcement that a settlement was in prospect came soon after all the companies operating surface cars in Manhattan, the Bronx and Queens had ordered to the barns the cars which had been operated during the day. No attempt was made to supply Sunday service on States Island (Richmond).

THIRTY-SIX DROWNED IN TENNESSEE FLOOD

Houses Along Blair's Creek Washed Away—Water Runs Up on Mountain Side 30 Feet.

Middlesboro, Ky., Aug. 5. — The death list due to a flood in the valley of Blair's creek, Claibora county, Tennessee, was increased to 36, when fuller reports from the flooded district was received here.

So far only four bodies have been found. Everything along Blair's creek has been washed away. In some places the water had run up on the mountain side 30 feet.

PLANNED "REIGN OF TERROR"

'Frisco Bomb Plot Suspects' Letters Are Made Public.

San Francisco, Aug. 5.—That Thomas J. Mooney, indicted for murder in connection with the preparedness parade bomb explosion, July 22, planned to inaugurate a reign of terror in San Francisco by importing "Direct action Reds" from other cities, was the declaration of District Attorney C. M. Fickert in making public some of the correspondence discovered by the police in Mooney's desk.

Mooney kept carbon copies of his letters. Henry J. Claussen, of Alameda, Cal., who died in a hospital here last night, was the ninth victim of the explosion to die.

Germans Have Enough Food.

Berlin, Aug. 5.—Germany enters the third year of the war with enough food supplies to carry it through at least two more years, despite the allied blockade, food dictator Adolph von Batocki announced. "The food crisis has passed," said von Batocki. "The crop has been so good, equalling any of peace times, and everything is so well organized that we begin the year with a surplus enabling us to hold out for a fourth or fifth year, counting on the next crops. Germany is now independent of the blockade."

BRITISH ROUT TURKS AT SUEZ

CAPTURE 2,500 PRISONERS INCLUDING SOME GERMANS.

Counter-Attack Near Romani Is Successful—Retreating Enemy Pursued by English Troops.

London, Aug. 8.—The strong Turkish force which attacked the British at Romani, 22 miles east of the Suez canal later, was defeated and put to flight by a counter-attack, says an official statement.

The Turks, adds the statement, are being vigorously pursued by the British, who have taken more than 2,500 prisoners, including some Germans.

The official announcement says:

Turks Employ 14,000 Men.

"The general officer commanding in chief in Egypt reports the following details of the fighting in the vicinity of Romani.

"The enemy made a frontal attack on the British entrenchments in conjunction with a flank attack around the southern flank, employing 14,000 men and heavy howitzers for the operation.

"The enemy suffered heavy losses. By 8 p. m. over 2,500 unwounded prisoners, including some Germans, four mounted guns and a number of machine guns, had been captured. Our casualties were not heavy.

U. S. MEDIATORS HOPE TO AVERT RAILROAD TIE-UP

President Keeps in Touch With Situation—Discusses Steps to Be Taken by Federal Board.

Washington, Aug. 5.—Public men here are loath to believe that the strike of railroad employees which has been voted will be called in the immediate future. The hope of public men generally and administration officials particularly, is that it will not be called at all.

President Wilson has been "keeping touch" with the situation, according to White House statements. The President had a long conference with Commissioner William L. Chambers of the United States board of mediation, at which Mr. Chambers explained the steps that could and would be taken by the commission after the demands of the employees have been formally presented to the railroad presidents.

DESPERATE ENGAGEMENTS ARE FOUGHT AT VERDUN

Germans Make Progress in Chapitre Wood—Repulse British Attacks Near Somme River.

Berlin, Aug. 7.—Desperate engagements continue in the Verdun region, notably in the region of the Thiaumont work, says the army headquarters statement. The Germans have made progress in Chapitre Wood.

On the Somme the battle near Pozieres is still in progress. British local attacks near the river and at Foureaux Wood were repulsed.

TICKET WILL BEAR NAME OF PARKER OF LOUISIANA

Indianapolis, Aug. 5.—Plans for the reorganization and perpetuation of the Progressive party as a national political organization were made at a conference of representatives of the party here. After a heated discussion it was decided it would be impracticable to reassemble the Progressive national convention and nominate a candidate for President.

Instead, the organization will put up an electoral ticket in every state where there is the neucleus of an organization left, bearing the name of John M. Parker of Louisiana, nominee for vice president, in the hope of selecting enough presidential electors to hold the balance of power in the event of a close contest between Republicans and Democrats.

Prosecutor Tells of Wife's Death.

St. Joseph, Mo., Aug. 5.—A coroner's jury has resumed its inquiry here into the murder of Mrs. Oscar D. McDaniel, wife of the prosecuting attorney of this county, who died July 15 after she had been clubbed in her home the night before. The inquest, which began the week following the murder, was adjourned. Mr. McDaniel told the story of how he was called away by a fake telephone call, and upon returning home engaged in a revolver duel with a man supposed to have beaten Mrs. McDaniel.

UNDERSEA LINER ELUDES CRUISERS

DEUTSCHLAND SLIPS OUT OF VIRGINIA CAPES UNOBSERVED BY ALLIED PATROL.

ACCOMPANIED BY TWO BOATS

German Submarine Disappears Unharmed After Reaching Three-Mile Limit—Has Clear Field Ahead Where She Could Submerge.

Norfolk, Va., Aug. 4.—The German submarine merchantman Deutschland passed quietly out of the Virginia capes at 8:30 p. m., on her homeward voyage, apparently unobserved by the allied warships patrol waiting outside the three-mile limit.

She was accompanied to the capes only by the tug Thomas F. Timmins, which had convoyed her down the bay from Baltimore, and by a newspaper dispatch boat.

Cruisers Not Visible.

Her departure to sea followed an 18-mile dash through the lower Chesapeake bay. After proceeding slowly most of the way down, she increased her power at 6:30 and reached the capes just after dusk. None of the allied cruisers was visible as she passed through.

Whether she submerged before reaching the three-mile limit is unknown. The two accompanying boats only know that she disappeared unharmed, and that to all appearances she had a clear field ahead to a point where she could completely submerge in safety.

EDITORS ENJOY ATHLETIC CONTEST AT STAR ISLAND

Short and Tall; Lean and Fat, Scribes of Northern Minnesota Association Compete.

Cass Lake, Minn., Aug. 7.—The annual meeting of the Northern Minnesota Editorial association, held here; came to a close Sunday, and the 150 members and their wives who, during the meeting have visited points of interest here, left in automobiles for Bemidji, where they will entrain for their homes.

The day was spent at Star island, Lake Helen. During the morning open air religious services were conducted by the Rev. Wabon of International Falls.

During the afternoon, following an athletic carnival, in which short and tall, fat and lean, editors and their wives entered competition for prizes, a picnic dinner closed the session.

One of the interesting features of the meeting was the fact that Judge Ives, retired, the oldest editor in the state, and Grant Utley, the youngest editor, and John Smith, said to be one of the oldest Indians in the state, met for the first time.

GOPHER GUARD IS WOUNDED

Private in First Regiment Shot Thru Hand by Mexican.

Camp Llano Grande, Texas, Aug. 7.—Private Albert Bauman of B company, First Minnesota regiment, was fired on and wounded by a man who refused to halt when Bauman, who was on guard 100 yards south of camp, gave the command. Bauman was shot through the left hand and is in the field hospital here.

Mine Sweeper Torpedoed.

London, Aug. 7.—The admiralty announced that the British mine sweeper Clacton was torpedoed and sunk in the Levant on August 8. Five members of the crew are missing and five others wounded.

To Consider Pardon for Dietz.

Madison, Wis., Aug. 7.—Applications for pardons for John F. Dietz and 13 others will be heard by Governor Philipp next Wednesday.

Considerable interest is taken in Dietz's case on account of numerous petitions for executive clemency which have been circulated throughout the state from time to time.

Dietz was convicted in the circuit court for Sawyer county in May, 1911, of murder in the first degree, having shot and killed Oscar Harp, a deputy sheriff.

BRITISH HANG IRISH KNIGHT

EXECUTE SIR ROGER CASEMENT FOR HIGH TREASON.

Hemp Rope Instead of "Silken Cord" Used by Hangman—Revolt Leader Meets Fate Calmly.

London, Aug. 4.—Roger David Casement, former British knight and consul, has been hanged in Pentonville jail for high treason. He was convicted of conspiring to cause an armed revolt in Ireland and with having sought German aid to that end.

Meets Death Calmly.

Casement met his death with calm courage, according to eyewitnesses.

As the party reached the shed where the gallows was erected, the special executioner, a hairdresser named Ellis, approached Casement and quickly pinioned him. The two chaplains, the undersheriff in London and the undersheriff of Middlesex then took up their positions in front of the scaffold, Casement mounted the gallows step firmly and commended his spirit to God as he stepped on the trap.

No "Silken Cord."

A moment later the lever was the trap. The executioner sprung the drop after he had adjusted the hempen noose—not the "silken cord" which the former knight had hoped up to a few weeks ago would be granted as his instrument of death.

G. O. P. NOMINEE STARTS LONG STUMPING TOUR

Hughes and Wife Leave for 10,000 Mile Trip—Candidate to Make Two Score Speeches.

Bridgehampton, L. I., Aug. 7.—Charles Evans Hughes, republican nominee for the presidency, and Mrs. Charles Evans Hughes have just left here on a 10,000 mile stumping tour which will carry them from coast to coast.

The republican candidate expects to make nearly two score speeches in Detroit, Chicago, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Fargo and Grand Forks, N. D.; Helena, Butte and Missoula, Mont.; Spokane and Seattle, Wash.; Coeur d'Alene, Idaho; Portland, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Reno, Ogden, Salt Lake City, Cheyenne, Denver, Topeka, Kansas City, St. Louis, Lexington, Ky., and several points in Maine. He will not return until about Sept. 10.

BRITISH STEAMER MEETS AND DESTROYS SUBMARINE

Captain Upon Arrival at Baltimore Tells of Engagement in Mediterranean Sea.

Baltimore, Aug. 7. — Capt. David Thomson, master of the British steamship Strathness, which arrived here from Mediterranean ports, told of an engagement which he declared his vessel had with a German submarine on July 15 in which the submarine was sunk.

Two gunners who were in charge of a six-pound gun mounted on the after-deck of the Strathness for defensive purposes, sank the submarine, according to Captain Thomson, when a ball struck it amidships, causing an explosion. He said the underwater boat dived suddenly and was not seen again.

SIGNAL CORPS MEN FIRED ON

Fourth Texas Infantrymen Sent to Search for Mexican Bandits.

San Antonio, Texas, Aug. 7.—Four United States signal corps men were fired on at a point about half way between Marfa and Presidio, Texas, according to a report transmitted to General Funston by Colonel Gaston at Marfa. The report did not say who fired the shots but explained that 20 guardsmen of the Fourth Texas infantry had been sent out to search for Mexican bandits or snipers.

King George is Determined.

London, Aug. 7.—King George telegraphed the heads of the Allied states on the occasion of the second anniversary of Great Britain's entry into the war as follows:

"On this, the second anniversary of the commencement of the great conflict in which my country and her gallant Allies are engaged, I desire to convey to you my steadfast resolution to prosecute the war until our united efforts have attained the objects for which we in common have taken up arms."

CLOCK HOLDS SHIP'S SAFETY

Chronometer Is the Most Wonderful and Accurate Timekeeper Made.

A ship's chronometer is the most wonderful and accurate timekeeper made, for upon its accuracy depend the lives of all on board. So accurate, indeed, is a ship's chronometer that it does not vary a second a day.

An error of only a few seconds may put a captain of a vessel miles out of his reckoning at sea, and run the ship into great danger. For that reason every ship's timepiece goes through the most thorough tests before it is pronounced perfect.

It is set going in a very hot room and then transferred to a cold one, for it may be used in any part of the world, from the polar regions to the tropics, and it must always keep good time.

Most large vessels have three chronometers on board in case of accidents, and whenever a vessel goes into port they are sent on shore and tested to see if they are still accurate. On board ship the chronometer is kept amidships because there is the least motion and the smallest variation of temperature.

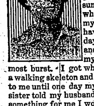
HUSBAND SAVED HIS WIFE

Stopped Most Terrible Suffering by Getting Her Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.



Denison, Texas. — "After my little girl was born two years ago I began suffering with female trouble and could hardly do my work. I was very nervous but just kept dragging on until last summer when I got where I could not do my work. I would have a chill every day and hot flashes and dizzy spells and my head would almost burst. I got where I was almost a walking skeleton and life was a burden to me until one day my husband's stepsister told my husband if he did not do something for me I would not last long and told him to get your medicine. So he got Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for me, and after taking the first three doses I began to improve. I continued its use, and I have never had any female trouble since. I feel that I owe my life to you and your remedies. They did for me what doctors could not do and I will always praise it wherever I go."—Mrs. G. O. LOWERY, 419 W. Monterey Street, Denison, Texas.

If you are suffering from any form of female ills, get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and commence the treatment without delay.

A Quaint Italian Town.

Pavia is not very well known to the tourist. For 200 years, until Charlemagne overthrew them, it was the capital of the Lombard kings, the kings of that one-time Teuton tribe of Langobardi, who conquered Italy, only to be themselves slowly conquered and become Italians, or, more accurately, Romanized. It is they who ruled over the great fertile plain between the Alps and the Apennines. In the Church of San Michele kings of Italy were crowned a thousand years ago; here two Germans at least, Henry the Second—1004—and Frederick Barbarossa—1155—received upon their brows that "iron crown of the Lombards" which conveyed the sovereignty of Italy.

Going It Too Hard

We are inclined nowadays to "go it too hard;" to overwork, worry, eat and drink too much, and to neglect our rest and sleep. This fills the blood with uric acid. The kidneys weaken and then it's a siege of backache, dizzy, nervous spells, rheumatic pains and distressing urinary disorders. Don't wait for worse troubles. Strengthen the kidneys. Use Doan's Kidney Pills.

MINNESOTA GUARD GIVEN FIRST TEST

MAKE TEN-MILE MARCH—TROOPERS CARRY ONLY GUNS AND CANTEENS.

STUDENT BATTERY IS DOOMED

Gets Orders to Return From Border September 1 — President Vincent Pleased — Says U. S. Does Not Want to Interrupt Studies.

Mercedes, Tex.

Facing a ten mile hike, Minnesota troops sought their tents early in preparation for their first real test since coming to concentration camp. Company commanders have been taking their men on short practice marches each morning to harden them for longer marches and extensive division maneuvers which are to come later.

Every man in camp except those in the field hospital, the camp guard and the cooks and kitchen detail, was required to make the marches. Rifles and filled canteens were the only equipment carried. The hike was the first taken by the Minnesota regiments as units, most of the work heretofore being by companies.

See Mexican Soldiers.

Colonel Luce decided to take the First south to the Rio Grande, offering the men their first opportunity to see the main border and Mexican soldiers. The Second regiment marched through Mercedes and thence north, while the Third turned West along the railroad.

Regimental parade was held for the first time by the First on the drill grounds west of camp which the men have been engaged in clearing.

General James Parker, commander of the Brownsville district, visited camp on a tour of inspection.

Student Guards to Return.

Two hundred men, comprising Battery F, the University of Minnesota unit in the First Minnesota field artillery, will come marching back from the border shortly after Sept. 1, as the result of an announcement in Washington by Secretary of War Newton D. Baker. Men in other guard units who wish to return to school, or who are to enter school, also will be released from service.

Units Must Be Permanent.

The announcement means the separation of the University of Minnesota and other college military organizations from the national guard, the reason given being that the guard cannot include units that are not permanent. Federal recognition is to be withdrawn from the college organizations as a part of the guard, and all guard equipment is to be returned to United States arsenals. The order will not interfere with the university having a cadet organzation.

Vincent Pleased.

"I am glad the boys are to come back to school," said President George E. Vincent of the university. "The government evidently does not wish to interferene in the continuity of their studies except in great emergency.

"When Battery F is mustered out we probably will reorganize it as a part of the cadet corps, separate from the national guard. Under the old law, the battery could not get up to date military equipment unless it was a part of the guard, but I have been told this will be possible under the more recent statute.

"I hope the boys will get home in time for the opening of the university, Sept. 27."

Parker Inspects Camp.

Gen. James Parker, United States commander of the Brownsville district, was at camp on an inspection tour of the troops encamped here and at other points along the border. While here he visited each regiment to examine into the condition and equipment of the men, the sanitation state of the camp and the progress made in drill.

Major Lee of the brigade staff has requested permission to enlarge an old target range three miles from camp for the use of the Minnesota troops.

Guards Recover.

All cases of ptomaine poisoning in the Third regiment were reported much improved and a majority have already left the field hospital. Corporal Frederick A. Chubb, Company F, First regiment; Oscar Johnson, Company L, and A. D. Cummins, Company M, Third regiment, were sent to the base hospital.

While drilling in a skirmish formation Corporal Chubb bruised his left leg and it was found that the covering of the bone had been injured. He was sent to the Brownsville hospital, which has better facilities for treating such injuries. The other men were sent in for general diagnosis.

Battery Fully Recruited.

A battery, First battalion, First field artillery, finally is recruited up to peace strength, it has been announced at Camp Bobleter. Thirty-five names were signed during the day. Only twenty were needed. Twenty men were accepted after physical examinations. The others will be accepted, too, if they pass, as the officers hope to recruit their commands up to war strength at once. With each of the three batteries recruited up, nothing but lack of equipment is delaying the First battalion.

To See Service in Mexico.

National guard troops along the border will see service in Mexico, possibly within the next sixty days, according to the statement of a high military authority. The tentative plan, which may include either an invasion or the establishment of a patrol district from coast to coast some forty miles below the border, contemplates the use of all the Minnesota infantry and the Minnesota artillery in this district.

This information comes from an officer in position to know the War department's plans, and is considered thoroughly reliable.

Camp is One of Best.

The Minnesota artillery is completing its camp, and will undertake battalion drill as soon as its horses arrive.

The First infantry has received a complete outfit of light clothing.

Brigadier General James Parker, commander of the Lower Rio Grande district, made a lengthy talk to officers of all Minnesota regiments at the headquarters of General Resche, commander of the Minnesota brigade.

He said the Minnesota camp is one of the best in the valley, and believes the troops can be whipped into shape for field service in a short time.

Hike Twelve Miles.

He made some confidential statements to the officers relative to the Mexican situation, which local reports indicate is becoming worse.

Mistake in calculating the distance to the lake northwest of Llano Grande resulted in the Third Minnesota hiking twelve instead of the required seven miles in its first practice march.

Nine men dropped out on account of the heat and were brought in by ambulances.

Machine guns of the First regiment, inspected by ordnance officers at Harlingen the past two days, have been pronounced satisfactory.

Later, however, the new Lewis gun may be substituted for the Benet-Mercier type now in use. Rifle practice for infantrymen at the fifty-yard range will begin immediately.

Promotions Announced.

The following promotions of members of the guard were announced. To grade of sergeant, C company, Private Frank R. Barthol and Corporals Philip Raemer and Harry E. Kjill; to corporals, Private John H. Deparq and William H. Riddell, H. company; to sergeants, Corporals Victor Vaught, Joseph Hein and Harry H. Baird; to corporals, Privates Richard Ghiselin, Armand Jasmn and Nicholas Philagois, L company; to sergeants, Corporal Edward Castle, Howard Orcutt and Michael O. Boyle; to corporals, Privates L. G. Fraser, William Darwitz and Clyde M. Waterman.

Guard Officers Puzzled.

Military authorities are in a tangle over a war department order received by Fred B. Wood, adjutant general, calling for the honorable discharge of Major Orris E. Lee of brigade headquarters and Captain F. E. Krembs of the First Minnesota infantry, both inspectors of small arms practice.

Military critics were further stirred by announcement that Colonel George C. Lambert of the First Regiment Minnesota Field artillery had been disqualified because of partial blindness of one eye. Gossip concerning his probable successor was rife.

May Be Protested.

General Wood does not know exactly how to interpret the war department order regarding the two inspectors of small arms practice and it is likely that the discharge of these two officers, now at the border, will be protested.

The Dick bill authorized and fully recognized the post of inspector of small arms practice. This law was in effect when President Wilson called for mobilization of the guard and the call mentioned specifically inspectors of small arms practice.

However, the national defense bill which went into effect July 1, does not recognize such officers and the War department notifies Adjutant General Wood of their recall and discharge.

Shower Baths Enjoyed.

Completion of shower baths for most of the Minnesota troops brought relief from terrific heat and the oppressive humidity following the heaviest rain since the militia men arrived in camp. Company streets were miniature lakes and a few tents were flooded by the showers. Some of the companies were caught at mess and there was a lively scramble for shelter. Regimental adjutants received word that a full quota of horses had been shipped from San Antonio.

Vincent Practices Shooting.

Guard and federal officers at Fort Snelling were highly elated over the practical indorsement by President Vincent of the state university of the national preparedness movement. The head of the state institution had spent an entire afternoon on the Snelling rifle range, practicing with a regular army rifle. For some time it has been known that Dr. Vincent would attend the business men's division of the Plattsburg training camp August 10 to September 6.

* * *

Rain Causes Homesickness.

First evidence of nostalgia have been found in the Minnesota regiments. The camp was a sea of mud after a heavy rain which fell during most of Saturday afternoon, breaking up baseball games, preventing the customary evening band concerts and leaving the men with nothing to occupy their time. The most exciting event recently occurred when some one opened the doors of two cars containing mules. The animals jumped out and sought liberty. Most of them were recovered.

STATE BREVITIES

St. Paul.—The state tax commission has heard arguments on the question of whether revenue from leased equipment of a railroad represents gross earnings within the meaning of the gross earnings tax law.

St. Paul.—New good roads aid for Minnesota totaling $142,394.06, under the recent Federal appropriation, will be the subject of a special meeting of the state highway commission within a few days, Engineer G. W. Cooley, of the commission announced.

Ely.—According to officials of the Superior national forest service, fire conditions still are serious in this section. Five fires have been put out and one is under control and is being patroled. Three others are being fought with a crew of seventy-five men.

St. Paul.—The State of Minnesota had $5,456,948.52 cash on hand at the close of the fiscal year ending July 31. A report of the condition of the state treasury prepared by State Treasurer Gooding, shows that the state is considerably better off than it was at the close of the fiscal year July 31, 1915.

Austin. — Gold has been discovered in the sands of the Cedar river at this point. Samples sent to assayers were found to run as high as $1,664.80 a ton. With the appearance of the mineral the fever has spread to the surrounding country, and farmers are sending samples for authoritative inspection.

Albert Lea. — In an effort to determine the advisability of continuing the Albert Lea College for Women, a week's campaign was lunched here to procure pledges which will insure an income of $12,500 annually for a period of five years, $2,500 of that amount to be provided yearly by subscribers of this city.

Mankato.—Ernest Kothendeutal, 17 years old, Oliver Owens, 12 years old, and Leo Owens, 8 years old, have been drowned in the Minnesota river seven miles north of here in Nicollet county. The youngest boy stepped into a pitch hole while bathing and was swept off his feet. His companions tried to save him and went off.

Minneiska—Mary Burkhart, 25 years old, is a critical condition at her home, near here, as the result of a peculiar accident. She was working over a wringer on a washing machine, operated by a gasoline engine, when her hair became entangled in the wringer. Before the engine could be stopped, her scalp was torn from her head.

Virginia.—In the case of Louis Novak and Tony Tomisch of Aurora, on trial here on a charge of unlawful assemblage, Assistant County Attorney Funck ordered the arrest of Martin Zupen and John Seber of Aurora, witnesses in the case, when they admitted they had taken part in the trouble near the Hudson mine. The men were given a hearing.

St. Paul.—Creation of a state department of public domain, to place the adminstration of the state mining, timber, investment and land holdings on a solid business basis has been proposed by State Treasurer A. C. Gooding, following the announcement by State Auditor J. A. O. Preus that the next legislature will be asked to provide for an inventory of state property.

Washington, D. C.—"It is a story of public authority prostituted to private interests that is hardly equalled by Colorado," declared a report of the committee on industrial relations, describing the strike of Mesaba range iron workers. Duluth, St. Louis county, and Minnesota state officials were raked severely by George P. West, who wrote the report of the Colorado strike for the United States commission on industrial relations.

Eveleth.—Matt Kovesto, 36 years old, a carpenter, fired three bullets into his wife's head, a fourth through her arm, and then shot himself in the head. Physicians say the woman cannot live and that Kovesto has slight chance for recovery. Kovesto had been working in the hot sun all day and it is believed he had become temporarily unbalanced by the heat. The couple's five children, panic-stricken by the tragedy which they had witnessed, were given shelter by neighbors.

Hibbing. — Deputy Sheriff Peter Wring, who received a severe gash in the forehead from a rock thrown by a striking miner in a clash between deputies and picketers at Kittsville, is out of the hospital with five stitches in his head. The disturbances that have occurred regularly at Kittsville, Nelson and Leetonia locations were resumed, miners being assailed with rocks and eggs. Deputies say it is impossible to use their riot sticks as mothers unhesitatingly raise their infants as protection for themselves and their men.

Fergus Falls.—Governor Burnquist of Minnesota will address the Otter Tail county fair on September 27, and that day has been set apart as "Governor's Day" by the fair management. An invitation extended to him recently has just been accepted by the Minnesota executive.

Halstad.—Rounding a sharp turn at high speed, six Halstad young people, returning from Galesburg, N. D., were hurled down the side of a steep embankment, their car turning completely over and stopping within a few feet of the Elm river. All were badly bruised.

St. Paul. — Revenue of $837,289.44 from state-owned mines in northern Minnesota for the fiscal year just ended is reported in an official state treasury statement issued. Gain of more than 50 per cent is shown over the previous high record year of 1913 with royalties of $554,702.26.

These drugs will produce sleep, and a FEW DROPS TOO MANY will produce the SLEEP FROM WHICH THERE IS NO WAKING. Many are the children who have been killed or whose health has been ruined for life by paregoric, laudanum and morphine, each of which is a narcotic product of opium. Druggists are prohibited from selling either of the narcotics named to children at all, or to anybody without labelling them "poison." The definition of "narcotic" is: "A medicine which relieves pain and produces sleep, but which in poisonous doses produces stupor, coma, convulsions and death." The taste and smell of medicines containing opium are disguised, and sold under the names of "Drops," "Cordials," "Soothing Syrups," etc. You should not permit any medicine to be given to your children without you or your physician know of what it is composed. Simplicity.

Mrs. Everett M. Raynor of New York, who has been elected president general of the Daughters of the American Revolution, said at a luncheon:

"There are many anecdotes in illustration of the simple living of the fathers.

"One of our country's pre-revolutionary fathers had occasion to call on the governor of his province, and was invited to stay to luncheon.

"Luncheon began, and a liveried servant moved busily about, serving the wine, carving the fowl and so forth.

"The guest watched the servant for some minutes, and then said to him irritably:

"'What are you dance, dance, dancing about the room for, man? Can't you pull up a chair and sit down? Surely there's enough room for the three of us!'"

England Uses Repulped Paper.

We are living in remarkable days. The shortage of paper has resulted in the repulping of paper that already has been used. One of the effects is that certain letters which seem to have been more deeply impressed than their fellows survive the process and come to light in unexpected and inconsequent places. We meet with an "o" here and an "h" there which have no sort of relationship to the otherwise blank sheet.—London Globe.

Humbugs are gilded coins of plausibility from the mint of deception.

Odd Places to Hide Cash.

The woman who, as just revealed in the law courts, hid her savings on her mother's grave in Forest Hill cemetery, probably hit upon a unique cache. But there is no saying. The person who mistrusts savings banks generally looks around for the most unlikely spot in which to deposit wealth, and more than one may hit on the same idea. Old cannon, for instance, seem to form favorable depositors. Quite a quantity of jewelry was found some while ago in a solitary gun which stands in a fort at Shoreham, and about the same time a bag containing 70 sovereigns was doiscovered in an old cannon in Peel park, Bradford. From one of the old Crimean cannon at Liverpool, also, some inquisitive youngsters once brought forth a soldier's discharge papers and notes to the value of £100.—London Chronicle.

NO GRAND JURY.

The first step in reforming the criminal law, says Samuel Untermeyer, is to discard the grand jury system. He insists that it ought no longer to be possible to brand a fellow-citizen by an indictment resulting from a star chamber session in which only one side has an opportunity of being heard. Even though the defendant may easily and clearly prove his innocence, he can never entirely remove the stigma cast on his reputation. Every criminal prosecution, suggests Mr. Untermeyer, should be inaugurated by a complaint supported in open court by enough proof to make out a plausible case.

Many of the ablest lawyers and judges in the country agree. They admit that the grand jury was a useful device for the administration of justice in earlier ages, under different social and political conditions; but they maintain that it is quite out of place in a modern society of intelligent, self-governing and self-respecting citizens. And the experience of almost any community in the United States offers plenty of support for their view.—Crookston Daily Times.

THE "INS" AND "OUTS."

Post Master A. P. Ritchie, of Bemidji, returned home last week from the National Post Masters convention at Washington fully confident that Wilson would be re-elected, and is quoted as saying as follows in the Bemidji Sentinel:

"Just as sure's you're born," said Mr. Ritchie, dropping into one of his favorite expressions and pounding his left palm with his right fist, "Wilson is going to be re-elected. See if he isn't!"

Of course the most of the attendants at that convention were first and second class postmasters with good fat salaries, and of course got as warm as the July weather, for the re-election of Wilson. But just wait until you hear from the "outs" in the chilly month of November backed up by the united Republican party, and you will think that your Wilson administration has been hit by the tail end of a Kansas cyclone.

It might be a good idea if the Grand Jury scrutinized complaints a little more closely before voting for indictments. To use the criminal courts for the purpose of getting even with some one for purely private wrongs is not a new thing. The Grand Jury has it in its power to put a stop to this abuse. If any one has a pet hobby he wishes to inflict on the public, or a private wrong he wants avenged, let him get it at his own expense. This applies to the man who instigates a criminal prosecution and clear up to the man who imposes sentence.—The Eleven Towns.

According to the best reports that last Grand Jury allowed themselves to be used as tools to gratify personal spite of individuals, who were afraid to bring actions in court at their own expense, but wanted to shirk the expense of their malicious lawsuits onto the tax payers of Pennington County, which facts will be clearly proved before a petite jury at the next term of court in at least one case, wherein the publisher of this paper was made defendant.

Judging by the enthusiasm for Hughes where ever he goes the election in November will be as nearly unanimous as the Highlanding primary election, where there were fifty-four Republican votes polled and one Democratic vote. As McKinley remarked when he ran for president, after an administration of Grover Cleveland, "The people are anxious to vote."

If the wets of Beltrami County want some figures on the difference in court expenses in a licensed saloon county and a county option county, they can obtain them by visiting Pennington County, where they will find the court expenses doubled and ten per cent added, and then some.

The Green Flames.

The greatest discovery of borax ever made was the result of the purest chance. A number of years ago a man named Aaron Winters was prospecting for gold or other precious metals in that American inferno known as Death valley. He had his wife with him, and they two worked together until their provisions were at an end; then, bitterly disappointed at their ill success, they started back toward civilization. The first night they camped in Ash valley. Here they lit a fire and prepared to cook their supper. Mrs. Winters called her husband's attention to the peculiar green tinge of the flames. He did not speak, but with shaking hands scratched away the earth and suddenly shouted: "We're rich, Rose; we're rich! It's borax!" He was right. They subsequently sold their claim for a very large sum.

The Wherefore.

"Why are you so sore on that eminent millionaire? He has done some good things."

"I was one of them."—Pittsburgh Post.

Biggest Cattle Show in America This Year Predicted for the Minnesota State Fair, Sept. 4 to 9—All Records to Be Broken in the Swine Show.

INDICATIONS are that the cattle show at the Minnesota State Fair, Sept. 4 to 9, will be the largest exposition of its kind in America this year. Last year the Hamline cattle show was the largest in the country, and more entries have been promised in the last few weeks than were obtained a year ago.

The splendid crop conditions in the Northwest, and the greater attention which is being paid to pure-bred livestock, are said to be the principal reasons for the interest which is being taken in the cattle show at the Minnesota State Fair. Breeders in other parts of America are desirous of meeting the farmers of the Northwest, to sell them the pure-bred stock which is being bought in such numbers to raise the standard of livestock breeding in Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa, North and South Dakota.

Records Shattered.

The Swine Show will break all records this fall, and it is expected that pen room will be taxed to the limit to accommodate all the swine which is coming. The first national show ever promoted by the American Yorkshire Club is to be held at the Minnesota State Fair this year, and the cream of all American herds will be exhibited. The Duroc-Jersey and Poland-China organizations are offering large futurities and special premiums. The Chester White and Hampshire associations have put up special prizes of value. Hundreds of boys are working hard in the Pig Club contest, and there will be more entries in the Pig Club show than ever before.

Big Draft Show.

The show of draft horses is to be larger than for several years. A number of breeders that have never visited the Northwest are coming this year to show their wares to lovers of horses. Farmers are being urged to attend the State Fair and make their arrangements for any pure-bred mares and stallions they intend to buy. An effort will be made to present an unusual opportunity of studying types and breeds of horses, so farmers may be more familiar with the kinds of horses which bring the most money on the market.

As formerly all stock will be judged at the opening of the State Fair, making a visit to the Fair the first part of the week more valuable than one at the latter part. Judging will probably be over by Thursday, Sept. 7.

Spanish Women's Hands.

The hands of a Spanish woman have a classic beauty, and their movements are incomparable. Such hands cannot be described; they can only be admired. When they manipulate a fan or roll a cigarette, when they raise a skirt or arrange a mantilla, it is always done with infinite grace. A Spanish woman alone knows how to use her hands as they truly should be used.—New York Sun.

Broad Brimmed Hats.

Toward the end of the thirteenth century big broad brimmed hats were fashionable in Austria. They were of such huge dimensions that a face under one of them could not be recognized. A poem written by Johannes Hadlaub expresses disgust with the style and the hope that the hats might be consigned to the Danube "so that the pretty faces of our women might once more become visible."

TO GET RID OF SHYSTERS

Efforts of State Bar Association Are Highly Commended.

The Minnesota State Bar Association is to be congratulated for its heroic efforts to improve the standing of the legal profession with the general public.

In the program of their annual meeting to be held at Duluth, Aug. 8th, 9th and 10th, the committee on ethics (moral duty) express themselves as being desirous of ridding the profession of lawyers whose conduct violates their oaths and requires of the bar generally a proper standard of moral responsibility. They also say that the public rightly looks to the bar to purge itself of those of its members whose misconduct merits not only the criticism of the bar but its disciplinary action.

For years our courts have been crowded with suits framed up by dishonorable lawyers, mostly of the personal damage kind.

The present laws give them the privilege of bringing a suit, presenting their evidence and getting it dismissed, going through this operation four or five times until the victim of the plaintiff is completely worn out, and compelled to make an unreasonable settlement to prevent being harassed further.

As the law now reads a personal damage suit can be brought against employers, property owners or householders within five years from the date of an accident. In the larger cities action against the city must be brought within thirty days.

The expense to the taxpayers of Minnesota for such framed up lawsuits is enormous and the principal reason for the large increase in taxes of recent years.

Special attention will be given to the practice, now so general and so much condemned, of loading down the courts of Minnesota with action by nonresident plaintiffs against nonresident defendants on causes of action arising outside of Minnesota.

In a recent issue of the Pioneer Press it was stated that the cost to the taxpayers of Ramsey county alone for such suits amounted to $90,000 a year. Unnecessary suits brought against residents of the state must cost as much or more.

It is the purpose of the bar association to give the public the same protection from the so called ambulance chasers that the city governments now receive.

The expressed intention of the Minnesota State Bar Association to rid the profession of dishonest and shyster lawyers is to be highly commended and will meet with the approval of all of the leading civic associations of the state and the public generally.

Making a Record.

Sir George Trevelyan told a curious little anecdote regarding an interview he had once had with Thackeray. The novelist was engaged at the time in writing "The Virginians," and in the middle of the conversation he commenced to ask each of the young men in the company what was the greatest length they had ever jumped. The greatest jump claimed was twenty-two feet.

"Well," said Thackeray, "then I will make Washington jump twenty-four."

So reputations are made.—London Standard

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. MINNESOTA HISTORICAL SOCIETY

Miss Manda Klemmetson visited at Sunbeam on Sunday last.

Marshall Shedd left for his home at Chetek, Wisconsin, on last Tuesday.

Mrs. Ole Overum and children visited at the Carl Klemmetson home last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Causin visited with Mr. and Mrs. Walter McAndress last Sunday.

There was quite a large crowd in attendance at the Young People's Society, held at the residence of Ole Howard's on last Sunday.

Abel Bost and Frank and Louis LaCounte and Willie Shosten left for Dakota on Tuesday to work in the harvesting and threshing season.

We believe that it will pay to bind the best flax crops this year, as it is much easier to handle in catchy weather if it is bound into bundles.

Mrs. Wm. Parnow, Miss Erma Parnow, Mrs. Wm. Quirk, Mrs. L. Witcherman and Elsie Witcherman were Goodridge visitors on Tuesday.

Our local news column has been badly crowded this week, by a run of advertising matter, which we are compelled to publish to pay expenses.

The farmers are all busy harvesting grain, this week, which is very difficult, owing to the softness of the lands, with no prospects of them getting any dryer.

One of our usual heavy rain storms passed over this locality on Wednesday evening, and thoroughly soaked up the ground, and filled up the lower meadow lands with water.

The Highlanding ferry is a busy place on creamery days, and it is kept steady running back and forth across the river, with the people all talking about the necessity of a bridge at that point.

On our way to Plummer last week, we passed by the farm of Dan Carroll's, in the town of Mayfield and he showed us as fine a field of clover, as we ever saw, growing on land that three years ago was so badly over run with sow and Canada thistles as to choke out the other crops. Mr. Carroll will cut the crop for seed, and seed down other parts of his farm next season.

A CRIMINAL CAUGHT.

In the year of 1878, when we were a youngster, we were employed on a farm in Mitchell County, Iowa, for a term of eight months, during the summer season. There was employed with us a man by the name of David Aldridge, who was at that time forty-five years old. He was a faithful man to work, and a first class farmer, and it was a wonder to us why he was working out by the month at his age. Toward the close of the season, we asked him one day, how it was that he was working by the month at his age, as we had noticed that he saved every dollar of his wages. He told us the following story, which we have never forgotten.

"Only a few years ago," he said "I owned two hundred acres of a fine farm near Madison, Wisconsin, but I was owing some on it, and as I had my barn heavily insured, the temptation came to me to burn the barn, get the insurance, and pay up my debts. My hired man and I laid the plans to burn the barn by placing a lighted candle in the hay loft, so it would set fire to the hay at about twelve o'clock at night. The insurance was also on contents of the barn and farm machinery."

HOW HE GOT CAUGHT.

"Among other farm machinery I had six new wooden beamed Grand Deture plows, and the hired man and I thought that if we took the handles and beams off of the plows, and put them away up stairs in the house, that the fire would not injure the iron part of the plows, and we took them off, and put them upstairs in the house. I had had some wheat stacks burnt that were heavily insured about three months previous to this time, and the Insurance Company got suspicious, and offered five hundred dollars reward for any information that would lead to the conviction of the man who set the fire. My hired man promptly applied for the reward, and offered to tell them how the fire started. As I was supposed to be an honest farmer, no one would believe him, and he told the officers to come with him, and he would show them the beams and plow handles that he had helped me to remove. On that and his evidence I was convicted and sentenced to the Waupun States prison for a term of five years for the crime of arson. The lawyers and my creditors, and the refunding of the insurance money for the wheat stacks burnt took every dollars worth of my property, and when I left the prison I had to work as a common laborer, and came to Iowa, so as to be among strangers."

And so it is with criminals, they always leave a clew somewhere, so they can be caught and brought to justice if the case is properly followed up.

THE SAFETY HABIT

You know the Railroads are talking a good deal these days about the "Safety Habit." It is not a safety razor or a safety bicycle, it's safety for the lives intrusted to their care.

The principle applies to the banking business. Our bank employed the Safety Habit at the outset—safety to the depositors money intrusted to our care. Every dollar left with us will be taken care of. Safety is our watch word. We would like to have your account on this basis.

WILSON TO MAKE ADDRESSES

DECIDES TO MAKE TRIP ACROSS THE CONTINENT.

Itinerary Probably Will Include Many of Cities Visited by Hughes—May Review Troops.

Washington, Aug. 12.—President Wilson practically has decided to make a speaking trip across the continent. No details of the tour have been arranged but it was understood that his itinerary will be worked out within the next few weeks and will likely include many of the cities on the Hughes itinerary.

The President's advisers have been urging him to make a number of speeches but he has been withholding a decision until the work of Congress had progressed further. It was known definitely, however, that if present plans were carried out the President would go to the Pacific coast.

May Review Troops at Border.

One of the suggestions is for the President to review some of the troops on the border, but no decision on that has been reached.

Invitations from cities in all parts of the country are before the President but none will be accepted until they have been gone over carefully by Vance McCormick, chairman of the Democratic national committee, and other Democratic leaders. The possibility that Congress may remain in session after September 1 is preventing the President from making any definite campaign plans. He wants to make no long trips from Washington until after adjournment.

BRITISH MAKE ADVANCE NORTHWEST OF POZIERES

Capture German Trenches in Northern France—French and Teuton Fight Through Night Near Hem

London, Aug. 14.—Hard fighting in the Somme region of France, in Galicia and in the Italian war theater, with further gains for the Allies in all three regions, marked the operations of Saturday night and Sunday.

Northwest of Pozieres, north of the Somme, the British made an advance of from 300 to 400 yards over a front of nearly a mile against the Germans and also captured trenches on the plateau northwest of Bazentin-Le-Petit.

Between Thiepval and the Somme according to Berlin, assaults by the Allies broke down with heavy casualties to the attackers. The fighting near Hem and Maurepas continued throughout the night, the men repeatedly coming to grips in hand-to-hand encounters.

Mariampol, in Galicia, seven miles southeast of Halicz, the town of Podgiacy and several villages along the upper Sereth river have fallen into the hands of the Russians. All along this front, even in the Carpathian region, Petrograd reports that the Russians are continuing their advance against the Austro-Germans.

GERMAN AIRMEN RAID DOVER

Drop Bombs on English Coast Town—Damage Slight.

London, Aug. 14.—Two German aeroplanes dropped four bombs on the English coast of Dover at 12:25 p. m. General French, commanding the home forces, reported that no material damage was done. Anti-aircraft guns came into action aeroplanes went in pursuit of the raiders who made off seawards. The casualities were one officer and six men slightly injured.

Rural Carriers Select St. Louis.

Chicago, Aug. 14.—Fred L. White of Buckhead, Ga., was chosen president of the National Rural Carriers' association and St. Louis as the 1917 meeting place at the closing session of the convention.

Wilson Deeply Concerned.

Washington, Aug. 14. — President Wilson, deeply concerned over the posibility that a general strike may tie up the country's railroads, is prepared to make an insistent personal appeal for an amicable settlement when the representatives of the roads and their employes confer with him at the White House. Since the situation became threatening the President has been in close touch with developments and has used every available agency of the government to bring the two factions together.

EXTENSION OF U. S. FOREIGN TRADE IS URGED BY HUGHES

REPUBLICAN NOMINEE WANTS "PITILESS PUBLICITY" WITH RESPECT TO SECTIONALISM OF ADMINISTRATION.

ADDRESSES AUDIENCE IN CIRCUS TENT AT BILLINGS

Declares He Desires With Respect to American Rights That No One Need Hang His Head in Shame—Assails Wilson for Changing Tariff Views.

Billings, Mont., Aug. 14.—Charles E. Hughes, addressing an audience in a circus tent on the village square, prefaced his advocacy of a protective tariff with the declaration that if he should be elected president nothing would be "pulled off" for private benefit at public expense if he could prevent it.

Mr. Hughes also adopted a Democratic slogan of the 1912 campaign. "Pitiless publicity."

"I desire in all that we do in this campaign," Mr. Hughes said, "to have what was called a little while ago, four years ago, 'pitiless publicity.' I want pitiless publicity with respect to the pork barrel.

America Must Come First.

"I want pitiless publicity with respect to the sectionalism of this administration; I want pitiless publicity with respect to the extravagance and wastefulness of this administration; I want pitiless publicity with respect to the incompetence of appointees of this administration.

"Let us see that we have America first in the hearts of every American, or whatever race or creed, also America equal to her tasks—America efficient."

Mr. Hughes also assailed the administration for having changed its tariff views since 1912 and repeated his declaration in favor of a protective tariff whose enactment and enforcement should be left to the Republican party.

Would Encourage Trade.

"I have had something to do with cutting out abuses, but I believe that in this country we must be strong enough and able enough to prevent abuses, to prevent unjust discrimination, to prevent monopolistic practices; fearlessly to prevent any action inimical to the public interest while at the same time we encourage honest American enterprise, seek an expansion of our trade, endeavor to have our foreign commerce extended and in every way make the American name commercially a name of the first rank throughout the world.

Stands for American Rights.

"And I desire with respect to American rights that no one need hang his head in shame. We are not a warlike people. We do not mean to threaten anybody. We do not want anything from anybody that we are not entitled to, but when we say a thing the world should know that we mean it and that we are able to enforce it."

The nominee repeated previous attacks on the course of the administration toward Mexico, also his declaration that the administration had brought this country into serious differences with Mexico.

HUGHES CONTINUES HIS ATTACKS ON DEMOCRATS

Charges McAdoo Replaced Henry N. Clapp With Tammany Leader as New York Appraiser.

Helena, Mont., Aug. 14.—Charles E. Hughes, continuing his attacks on the administration for its appointments, charged Secretary W. G. McAdoo, "upon reliable information," with having replaced Henry N. Clapp, formerly confidential secretary to John G. Carlisle, with Daniel E. Finn, son of "Battery Dan" Finn, a Tammany leader, as assistant appraiser of merchandise at New York. Some months after Clapp was "put out of the service," Mr. Hughes said, "through fear of criticism on the part of the department he was made an examiner in the customs service, a much lower position than that held before and at a much lower compensation."

Arrested as Diaz Supporter.

Laredo, Tex., Aug. 14.—Juan B. Amaro, former Mexican newspaper man, arrived here from Mexico City, a political refugee, he said, after having spent 45 days in Belem prison in the Mexican capital. He was arrested, he asserted, with about 40 Mexican lawyers of Mexico City, on alleged charges of being connected with the Diaz movement.

To Send All Guards to Border.

Washington, Aug. 14.—A general order to all department commanders has been issued by the war department to send all the remaining national guard organizations in their districts to the border as soon after they have been equipped as transportation can be obtained. The announcement said: "All department commanders have been directed to send all other national guard troops in their respective departments to the border as soon as they are equipped."

WOMAN'S PARTY TO OPPOSE PRESIDENT

CONGRATULATES PROGRESSIVE, PROHIBITION AND SOCIALIST PARTIES UPON ACTIONS.

LAUD REPUBLICAN NOMINEE

Women in Executive Conference Decide to Carry Fight Against Re-election of Democratic Candidate Into the States Where Women Vote.

Colorado Springs, Colo., Aug. 14. — The National Woman's party in executive conference here pledged itself to use its best efforts in the 12 equal suffrage states to defeat the Democratic candidate for president; congratulated the Progressive, Prohibition and Socialist parties upon their indorsement of suffrage for women by national action, and commended the position of Charles E. Hughes, the Republican nominee.

Democracy Is Denounced.

The statement of policy was contained in three resolutions unanimously adopted which contained the following:

Whereas, the present administration, under President Wilson, and the Democratic party have persistently opposed the passage of a national suffrage amendment, and

Whereas, each of the national parties, either by their platform or through their candidates, are pledged to the passage of a federal amendment enfranchising women.

Commend Hughes' Stand.

Therefore, be it resolved, That the National Woman's party, so long as the opposition of the Democratic party continues, pledges itself to use its best efforts in the 12 states where women vote for president to defeat the Democratic candidate for president and in the 11 states where women vote for members of Congress to defeat the candidate of the Democratic party for Congress.

Resolved, That we commend the position of the Republican candidate for president, Charles E. Hughes, for the unequivocal stand which he has taken for human liberty by his indorsement of suffrage for women by national action and assure him of our appreciation of his statesmanlike position.

PAPER SHORTAGE TEMPORARY

Secretary Houston Tells Wilson of Investigations Made by Experts.

Washington, Aug. 11. — Secretary Houston in a letter to President Wilson, tells of investigations made by the forest service into the print-paper shortage and says that experts of the service "are inclined to believe that the present condition may be temporary."

Noted Physician Dies.

Philadelphia, Aug. 12. — Dr. J. B. Webster, widely known in medical and geographical circles throughout the country, died here from heat exhaustion.

President's Wife Sues Clerk.

Washington, Aug. 14.—William B. Hopkins, formerly a clerk in the department of agriculture, has had the limelight turned on him.

He was sued for $30 by Edith B. Wilson, wife of the president of the United States.

Although both parties are reticent concerning the action, it appears that Hopkins bought some trinket from Galt and Brother, which is the trading name used by Mrs. Wilson in the conduct of her jewelry business.

ENOUGH WHEAT FOR AMERICA

MILLIONS OF BUSHELS FOR EXPORT REQUIREMENTS.

Sensational Rise in Prices Result of Market Adjusting Itself, Federal Officials Say.

Washington, Aug. 11.—This year's wheat crop will be sufficient for the needs of home consumption and there will be enough left to meet the normal export requirements.

That is the view of government officials who said the sensational rise in wheat prices and a corresponding increase in the price of flour, following the government's last report indicating a crop about two-thirds the size of last year's, was the result of the market adjusting itself from a crop of abnormal proportions to one of much smaller size.

Unusually Large Carry-Over.

Experts of the Department of Agriculture calculate 620,000,000 bushels of wheat will be required for home consumption this year. A crop of 654,000,000 bushels, as forecast Aug. 1, would leave 34,000,000 bushels of this year's crop available for export.

In addition there was an unusually large carry-over of old wheat from last year's crop, amounting to approximately 160,000,000 bushels, or about 75,000,000 bushels more than the average carry-over of the preceding five years.

With the carry-over of old wheat and the surplus of this year's estimated crop, officials believe the United States will have at least 150,000,000 bushels available for export purposes.

SIXTY-SIX DEAD, FLOOD TOLL

Property Loss in West Virginia Estimated at $5,000,000.

Charleston, W. Va., Aug. 12.—Sixty-six persons are known to have lost their lives in the flood which swept three West Virginia mountain streams rendering 10,000 persons homeless and causing a property loss estimated at $5,000,000.

Reports still were meager owing to interrupted wire and rail communication, but the authorities expressed the belief that the death toll might reach 100.

RUSSIAN DRIVE UNCHECKED

Czar's Forces Are Only Seven Miles From Halicz Now.

Petrograd (via London), Aug. 14. — The Russian drive in Galicia goes forward unchecked, and, the war office announced a number of additional villages have been captured. Russian forces have reached Miriampol, seven miles southeast of Halicz, the key to Lemberg.

Chicago Wheat Pit Assailed.

London, Aug. 14. — The Chicago wheat pit is the object again of a violent attack in the Daily Express.

"Undeterred by the world war the wheat gamblers of Chicago are sending skyward the prices of grain from which mankind derive its daily bread, amassing their gains with as little compunction as the Bourbons used to gather taxes," it declares.

Substitute for Munitions Tax.

Washington, Aug. 12.—A net profit excise tax against all manufacturers selling goods to foreign governments as a substitute for the munitions tax in the pending revenue bill is being seriously considered by Democrats of the Senate finance committee. It probably will be agreed on for submission to the Democratic caucus. The tax on munitions of war, including copper products, as proposed in the House bill, has been giving Democratic Senate leaders considerable trouble.

NEW YORK IN THE TROPICS?

Gulf Stream Some Day May Warm the Icy Waters of the North.

Some day the Gulf stream may smash back the icy waters of the Labrador drift and make New York as warm as European and Asiatic cities of the same latitude. It may even come to pass, as Father Odenbach of Cleveland suggests, that these parts will be tropical. True, the Jesuit scientist reassures us by saying that a great swerving of the Gulf stream is improbable, but even the slim possibility fills the imagination with exotic pictures. Orange groves in northern New Jersey, coffee plantations in place of Suffolk county cabbage patches, rubber forests in Connecticut, alligators devouring canal-boat captains in Newton creek and anacondas asleep in Westchester jungles—it would all be worth while living to see.

But the time is not yet. This month's heat is only natural. And in August, when a seeming simoon comes upon us, do not misjudge the Gulf stream. The hot air will be from the great wind stream that rises in the campaign textbooks and flows until a Monday evening in November, the New York Sun observes.

Too Much to Believe.

"The late Bishop Hare," said a Sioux Falls physician, "used, very reasonably, to impute skepticism to misunderstanding.

"He once told me about a Philadelphia business man of skeptical tendencies, who said to him:

"'My dear Mr. Hare; I do not refuse to believe the story of the ark. I can accept the ark's enormous size, its odd shape and the vast number of animals it contained, but when I am asked, my dear doctor, to believe that the children of Israel carried this unwieldy thing for forty years in the wilderness—well, there I'm bound to say my faith breaks down.'" — Living Church.

One Twin Too Many.

With the coming of the twins the entire household arrangements were sadly disorganized. Master Bobby and Miss Dorothy were relegated to the background, where they moped and sulked.

Bobby, more militant than his sister, was scouting through the upper halls one morning when he discovered the twins being prepared for their bath. Having in mind the fate of several litters of kittens within his knowledge, he rushed to the head of the stairs, and, beckoning his sister, cried in a hoarse whisper:

"Dottie, come on up, quick! They're goin' to drown one of 'em!"

High Pay.

A Buffalo man stopped a newsboy in New York, saying: "See here, son. I want to find the Blank National bank. I'll give you half a dollar if you direct me to it." With a grin, the boy replied: "All right, come along," and he led the man to a building half a block away. The man paid the promised fee, remarking, however: "That was half a dollar easily earned." "Sure!" responded the lad. "But you mustn't fergit that bank directors is paid high in Noo Yawk."—Exchange.

The Best Passage.

A somewhat conceited clergyman, who was more celebrated for the length of his sermons than for their eloquence, once asked the late Father Healy what he thought of the one just preached.

"Well, sir," replied the humorist, "I like one passage exceedingly well."

"Indeed, Father Healy, and pardon me for asking which passage you refer to?"

"Well, my dear sir," replied the wit, "the passage I refer to was from the pulpit in the vestry room."

After the Show.

"What's that awful noise in the cafe?"

"I think, sir, the pony ballet has got into some pony smashes."

Some men make room at the top by pushing other men off.

STOPS ORCHESTRA OVER BET

Director Called to Telephone to Listen to Wagner's "Tra La" Imitation of Music.

Ernest Hussar, director of the Hungarian orchestra at the McAlpin roof garden, was called from his platform to the telephone the other night.

"I say," he heard, "you've got to decide a wager. Tra, la, tra lala, tra—my friend bets $100 that's from 'Faust.' I say it isn't. Tra la, tra lala—"

"Really," broke in the musician, "I can't waste my time—"

"Just a minute. Tra la, pom pom, tra lala. Get me?"

The musician had become interested. "Sounds something like 'Lorsque donc des Folles Amours.' But that goes lala tra, tra la lala—"

"That's it, exactly," came the voice from the other end of the wire. "I win the $100. Thanks so much."—New York Tribune.

Hammers.

The famous hammers of history, among warriors and saints, are Pierre d'Ailly, hammer of heretics, who presided over the council which condemned John Huss (1350-1425); Judas Asmonaeus (Maccabeus), the Hebrew warrior (B. C. 166-136); St. Augustine, "hammer of heresies" (395-430); John Faber, who wrote a book, "Hammer of Heretics" (1470-1541; St. Hilary (350-368), the "hammer of the Arians, and, most generally so named, Charles Martel (689-741).—Philadelphia Evening Ledger.

More Satisfactory.

"No, but he's lifted the mortgage from the farm since we were married."

How Many.

It is interesting to know that a Delaware man has worn a pair of shoes for 17 years without once having them mended. It might also be interesting to know how many pairs of trousers he has had meanwhile.

WILSON ALONE CAN AVERT RAIL STRIKE; ARBITRATION FAILS

CONTROVERSY IS LAID BEFORE PRESIDENT AT HIS REQUEST AFTER WORKERS FLATLY REFUSE NEGOTIATIONS.

DECLARES WALKOUT WOULD BE DISASTER AT PRESENT

Chief Executive to Hold Conference With Both Factions at White House Before Strike Order is Issued by The Leaders of the Men.

New York, Aug. 15. — A general strike on virtually all the railroads of the nation, paralyzing commerce and throwing approximately 2,000,000 men out of employment, can be averted only through the good offices of President Wilson, as a result of Sunday's developments in the dispute over the men's demands for an eight-hour day and time and a half for overtime.

The controversy was laid before the President at his invitation, after the workers flatly rejected any form of arbitration. They refused mediation Saturday.

Leave for Washington.

Soon after accepting the President's summons, extended through the federal board of mediation and conciliation, the men announced that the leaders of the four railroad brotherhoods would leave for Washington at midnight, accompanied by 30 of the 600 delegates assembled here. An hour later the railroad managers said that they would leave for the capital at the same time.

Both parties will reach Washington in time for an early conference with the President. The hour for the meeting will be arranged by Secretary Tumulty.

Would Be Catastrophe.

Mr. Tumulty brought with him a communication from President Wilson addressed to the brotherhoods and the railroad managers, pointing out that such a paralysis of business as would follow a general railroad strike would be a catastrophe at any time, but would be nothing short of a disaster under present condition. On this ground the President based his request for a conference with representatives of both factions before a strike order is issued by the leaders of the men.

Negotiations had not been broken off when Mr. Tumulty left Washington, but when he reached Philadelphia he received a telegram from W. L. Chambers, one of the mediators, informing him the men had declined to arbitrate. Mr. Tumulty's first step after reaching New York was to cell President Wilson on the long distance to decide upon an hour for the fateful conference at the White House today. The President told Mr. Tumulty he would cancel all engagements to discuss the situation.

Refuse Arbitration.

The final break came after the men had been in secret session nearly six hours. Reports differ as to the reason for the failure of the negotiations in view of the cheerful outlook of the night before.

The men assert they refused arbitration because the railroads insisted on arbitrating their "contingent proposition." The board of mediators in a statement, declared, however, the men rejected their proposition, contending that they would not arbitrate even if the railroads waived the contingent propositon.

WILL GET FIRST HAND VIEWS OF AMBASSADORS

Lansing to Discuss Blacklist With Page and Sharp in this Country.

Washington, Aug. 14. — The homecoming of Ambassador Sharp from Paris and Ambassador Page from London at the present time when the State department is considering its next steps in representations on the Allied blacklists, the question of Polish relief and other subjects which concern the Allies jointly, has advanced the impression that President Wilson and Secretary Lansing intend to gather first hand information of the attitude of the London and Paris foreign offices.

Woman Candidate Defeated.

Topeka, Kan., Aug. 14.—Complete official returns show that Dr. Eva Harding, democrat, first woman to seek a congressional nomination on a major party ticket, has lost to Rev. H. J. Corwine by a majority of 337.

French Cruiser Leaves Pensacola.

Pensacola, Fla., Aug. 14. — The French cruiser Admiral Aube, which unexpectedly entered this port Saturday, has left without the purpose of her visit becoming definitely known Captain Leskivit took on no fuel or supplies but did receive a packet of documents from the French consul. Marine observers commented on the cruiser's apparent efforts to get first hand information of the port. Soundings taken when she approached, crossed, and left the bar did not attract attention.

CAMP CONDITIONS ARE ALMOST IDEAL

SECOND MINNESOTA INFANTRY COMMANDER MAKES REPORT TO ADJT. GEN. WOOD.

GUARD IS SHOT BY MEXICAN

Private Bauman of First Regiment Receives Wound in Hand While on Outpost Duty in Texas—Assailant Escapes Through Brush.

Llano Grande, Tex. Col. W. T. Mollison of Faribault, Second Minnesota infantry on the Mexican border, is on record in a letter to Adjt. Gen. Fred B. Wood that conditions at Camp Llano Grande, Tex., are almost ideal.

"In justice to the ones left behind and to correct any false impressions that may have been caused by reports, I want to give you the real facts concerning conditions that exist here among the Minnesota troops, at least the Second Minnesota.

"All Well and Happy."

"We are all well and in fine spirit—no serious sickness. We are getting plenty to eat and good food. While we were short on ice for a couple of days, we are now getting plenty of ice. Our water is being boiled for protection and is pure. The spirits of the men are exceptionally good—all cheerful and happy. The camp resounds at night with the songs of the men. The weather is delightful. While the temperature is high during the day, we do not feel the heat as much as we did at Fort Snelling. The nights are delightfully cool and we all sleep well."

Gopher Guard Is Shot.

Private Albert Bauman, Minneapolis, member of B company, First infantry, was shot through the left hand by an unidentified Mexican at 4 a. m., Aug. 5. He probably will lose one finger. Bauman was a member of Corporal A. H. McLeod's Cossack outpost of four men, which was located about 150 yards south of the First regiment's picket line, where all the regiment's horses are located.

Fires at Mexican.

Bauman, the only sentry awake, noticed a man approaching. He called to him to halt, but the man kept coming toward him. He ordered him to halt a second time, and was raising his rifle to fire, when the Mexican fired at him with a revolver.

Bauman dropped to the ground. The Mexican ran. Corporal McLeod was awakened by the shot and he fired three times to alarm the guard and Captain Percy McClay. The corporal also fired at the fleeing Mexican.

"Greasers" Escape.

After Bauman had been cared for, Captain McClay and his men scoured the brush, but were unable to locate the Mexican. Investigation disclosed pony tracks south of the camp, but the Mexican laborers employed cleaning the camp say they know nothing of the affair.

Officers believe one or two Mexicans came across the river with the intention either of starting trouble or stealing horses.

Alleged Spy Stabbed.

Victoriana Trevino, a relative of General Trevino of the Carranza army, was stabbed four times and probably fatally wounded by Louis Hernando in the Mexican quarter of Mercedes.

Hernando charged Trevino with being a spy for the Mexican authorities at Matamores.

Secret service men and rangers for this district admit that Trevino has been suspected of being a Mexican spy. Hernando has not been arrested, but is being protected from the friends of Trevino by American authorities.

Military authorities say Trevino has visited the Llano Grande camp on several occasions and following each visit would report across the river.

Most Peculiar Scorpion Bite.

Albert Gertz of St. Paul, member of D company, First infantry, holds the record for the most peculiar scorpion bite. While eating at the noon mess Gertz was bitten on the inside of the lip by a scorpion which was hidden on a piece of bread. He is able to be about the company street. Gustav Open of St. Paul, member of L company, First infantry, was sent to the base hospital at Brownsville. He has a complication of diseases.

* * *

Guards to Relieve Regulars.

There have been persistent rumors in camp that the First Minnesota is to relieve the Twenty-eighth regulars soon, but it is unlikely that any organization in this camp will leave until a few more weeks of training have been given. The Twenty-eighth is doing patrol duty in the Fort Ringgold district, about forty miles west of here.

Complete Inspection of Highways.

Minneapolis. — Officials of the Jefferson Highway association, who conducted a tour of the road from St. Joseph, Mo., to Winnipeg, arrived in Minneapolis on their return lap. After a short stay they departed for home by way of St. Paul, the high bridge, Northfield, Faribault, Owatonna, Albert Lea, Minn., and Mason City, Hampton and Des Moines, Iowa. The party consisted of J. D. Clarkson, general manager of the association, Carthage, Mo.; Walter Parker of New Orleans, and S. Wolstencroft, Des Moines.

Best Drilled Battalion.

"The best drilled battalion I have seen in the division," this was the comment of Major L. M. Nuttman, senior inspector-instructor of this division after inspecting the Second battalion of the First regiment. Major Nuttman, accompanied by Colonel Luce, and Major E. J. Andrews inspected the equipment, tents and kitchens of Companies E, F, G and H, and then took the men out on the regimental parade for a brief drill, the companies were put through extended order formations and company movements and executed the commands with precision.

Assemble in Four Minutes.

As a measure of preparedness and discipline the First regiment was treated to a surprise shortly after noon mess, when "To arms" was sounded. Four minutes after the bugles sounded the call the regiment was arrayed and battalions were in the positions assigned to them in case of a night attack. Each man carried his rifle, and a bundle containing 60 rounds of ammunition.

Major Higbee's battalion took up a position along the road west of camp, which commanded all approaches from the brush in that direction, while Major C. T. Smith's battalion deployed south towards the corral. Major Andrew's battalion was held in reserve. The band reported at the hospital tent to act as stretcher bearers

Clothes Don't Count.

Taken by surprise, the men reported in all stages of undress, one man wearing only a cartridge belt. Soldiers ran from the shower baths, dropped crap games, and left their blankets to report in their company street.

One man, who was caught in the act of shaving, and reported with his face covered with lather, was the butt of many jokes before the men were dismissed. In case "To arms" is sounded the men are required to report with their rifles and ammunition without regard to the clothing worn.

Johnson Ordered to Border.

After an absence from regular service for four years, Lieutenant Colonel Arthur Johnson, U. S. A., chief mustering officer at Fort Snelling, has gone to Brownsville, Texas, to join the Thirty-sixth infantry, one of the new regular army regiments provided for by an act of congress on June 3, 1916. Captain George R. Green, U. S. A., will succeed Colonel Johnson as commander at the fort and will superintend the equipment and departure of the First battalion First field artillery.

Colonel Johnson received the order "to move" from the war department at Washington. He wired Major General Thomas H. Barry departmental commander at Chicago, that he was to leave and that he would leave Captain Green in command.

Eligible for Commissions.

Colonel Johnson has served with the Twenty-second the Nineteenth, the Seventeenth, the Thirteenth and the Eleventh regiments.

A telegram from General Barry said that all university students who had at one time attended a cadet camp were eligible for examination for commissions in the regular army. Applications can be made to the adjutant general's office of the war department at once, Colonel Johnson stated, and the examinations for Twin City and Minnesota applicants will probably be held at Fort Snelling.

Invoices on a part of the equipment requisitioned from St. Louis were received. This means that at least some of the supplies are on their way. As soon as they are all here and the men are fully equipped, the departmental headquarters at Chicago will be notified that the unit is ready to leave for border service.

Two Officers Dismissed.

Two militia officers who were inspectors of small arms at Llano Grande with the Minnesota National guard, have just reached St. Paul with the statement that they were peremptorily discharged because the government had made no provision for such inspection. The men are Capt. F. E. Krembs, St. Paul, and Maj. C. E. Lee of Stillwater. The men were appointed to the inspection after having worked their way up from the ranks. "As I understand the conditions," said Captain Krembs, "it will be necessary for me to enlist as a private in order again to become identified with the guard. I had difficulty in returning to St. Paul because of the suddenness of my dismissal. I was without funds for berth accommodations."

Town Hard on Nerves.

Mercedes is no place for a nervous person. The oldest inhabitant is apt to frighten the timid visitor by his recital of raids, and later when the timid visitor discovers the electric light dimming and hears shots he is justified in hiding. The next morning he learns that there was a fire in town and that the shots were fired to alarm the villagers.

Stop Shooting in Brush.

General E. H. Lewis, camp commander, has issued orders to all regimental commanders to take steps to stop promiscuous shooting in the vicinity of the camp. There has been complaint about men shooting in brush south of First Minnesota camp.

To Safeguard State Loans.

The state investment board considered "the need of throwing reasonable safeguards around $25,000,000 of trust funds," which the state now has out on loans, principally to schools and municipalities. Payments were ordered on applications for new loans aggregating $725,000. Discussion of the need of greater safeguards was precipitated by a communication from Examiner Fritz, criticizing conditions revealed following the sentencing of former Treasurer Walter J. Smith and R. C. Pickit.

BLIND PLEAD WITH INVENTOR

Liquefied Radium Helps to Restore Sight—May Be "Great Discovery."

More than six thousand blind persons, by deputy or directly through the mails, have besieged Ethan I. Dodds, the Pittsburgh inventor of radium screen "eyes," pleading piteously with him to restore their sight.

Mr. Dodds, with the aid of liquefied radium, did succeed some months ago in improving if not restoring the vision of a man who suffered a peculiar visual ailment that had made him blind. Talking of that achievement, the inventor, who already had spent two fortunes experimenting along that line, said he'd give all he could ever hope to possess in this world if he could only promise sight to a few of the blind who had thus appealed to him. But, as yet, he was "only on the edge of a great discovery," and could not, without many added qualities, hope to apply it in any general way to the restoration of sight.

Now Mr. Dodds has received from sightless sufferers more than six thousand pathetic appeals; some of them accompanied by signed checks in blank, saying: "Fill out for any amount you choose, if you can give me back my eyes."—Pittsburgh Post.

Jane Settled Him.

"Jane," said her mistress, "you really will have to put a stop to the visits of your follower."

"Yes, I must, ma'am," replied Jane.

"But you have said that before," expostulated her mistress, "and there it's ended."

"I'm sure I've done my best, ma'am," said Jane; "it isn't easy. But I'll try and settle him on my next Thursday out."

Her next Thursday out came and went. Her follower also came and went (with Jane), and Jane eventually returned in a radiant mood.

"I've settled him this time, ma'am!" she exclaimed breathlessly.

Her mistress was delighted. But in the hour of victory one should be generous to the fallen foes, so she expressed hope that Jane had not been too hard on the young man.

"Hard on him!" cried Jane. "No, ma'am, that I wasn't. I've just married him, and I leave at the end of the month!"

Giving Her an Object Lesson.

Mrs. Saft came in from a chat over the fence with her neighbor, and her face was hard and red.

"Come here, Tommy!" she commanded her young son. "I am going to punish you, but open the windows first!"

"What for?" said Tommy, beginning to weep.

"Well, I have just heard that that cat across the road said I have no authority over you, and I want her to hear you getting a whipping. Come here, sir!"

No Change.

Bill—How times have changed!

Jill—Whatyer mean?

"Why, less than three hundred years ago the whole of Manhattan island had a value of twenty-four dollars. Parts of it are now valued at the rate of forty million dollars an acre."

"I can't see much change. I couldn't have bought it three hundred years ago or now."

Not Impressed.

Father (impressively) — Do you know, my son, that a single drop of nicotine would quickly kill a rabbit?

Son—Well, nature's fixed that, all right, for rabbits don't smoke.

The Wheat Yield Tells the Story of Western Canada's Rapid Progress

160 ACRE FARMS IN WESTERN CANADA FREE

The heavy crops in Western Canada have caused new records to be made in the handling of grains by railroads. For, while the movement of these heavy shipments has been wonderfully rapid, the resources of the different roads, despite enlarged equipments and increased facilities, have been strained as never before, and previous records have thus been broken in all directions.

The largest Canadian wheat shipments through New York ever known are reported for the period up to October 15th, upwards of four and a quarter million bushels being exported in less than six weeks, and this was but the overflow of shipments to Montreal, through which point shipments were much larger than to New York.

Yields as high as 60 bushels of wheat per acre are reported from all parts of the country; while yields of 45 bushels per acre are common.

Thousands of American farmers have taken part in this wonderful production. Land prices are still low and free homestead lands are easily secured in good localities, convenient to churches, schools, markets, railways, etc.

There is no war tax on land and no conscription.

THE SUNBEAM.

BY W. G. HUNT, EDITOR
M. G. HUNT, PUBLISHER

Published every Friday, at Sunbeam, Pennington County, Minnesota.

Entered as Second-class matter August 30 905, at the post office at Sunbeam Minn. under the Act of Congress of March 3, 1879

Nearly Solid Republican.

Politicians seem to be agreed that the campaign is Minnesota, for the election of governor will be very one sided, and that Governor Burnquist will carry the state by from 75,000 to 100,000 majority.

There will be more interest taken in the campaign to give Hughes an old time Republican majority, and it now looks like a land slide to him, so far as this state is concerned.

There is no doubt of Frank B. Kellogg being sure of election, but he is not taking any chances, and will make a campaign as vigorous as he did for the nomination.

We hope to see Minnesota send a solid R. delegation to Congress, but if any of the nominees fall by the wayside, it will not be the popular choice of the people Halvor Steenerson, from the Ninth District.

There is to be no election of State Senator this year, as Hon. D. P. O'Neill holds over.

The fight for the election of State Representative from this District will be between John A, Duffy of Red Lake Falls, and Oscar Stenvick of Bagley. Mr. Stenvick was elected two years ago by a small enough majority to make this an interesting campaign, as Mr. Duffy was a close second to him in the primary campaign, and did not make as vigorous a campaign as Mr. Stenvick did. Pennington county has the deciding vote on the election, as Red Lake County will give Mr. Duffy an overwhelmingly majority; while Clearwater County will undoubtedly give a majority to Stenvick, notwithstanding he was not their first choice.

All county officers hold over for another term under the four year law, except the Judge of Probate and Clerk of District Court. H. E. Iyes and Wilhelm Michelet are candidates for re-election to their offices which they now hold, and as they have made a high record for efficiency in their positions, the voters will undoubtedly not take kindly to turning them out, because another man wants the job.

REDUCING COST OF LIVING.

President Wilson will only make a short campaign, not starting out until the last of September. It will not take him long to repeat that story he told the common people four years ago, about reducing the cost of living. Let's see he reduced the price of bacon from sixteen cents to twenty-five cents a pound. He reduced the price of beef from twelve cents to twenty-four cents a pound. He reduced the price of sugar from six cents to ten cents a pound. He reduced the price of a pair of shoes from two dollars and fifty cents to four dollars and fifty cents per pair, and at the same time reduced the price of cattle and hogs, and nearly every other product of the farm, is not selling for as good prices to day as they were four year ago.

Now Mr. Wilson we are anxious to hear you explain this to the satisfaction of the producer and consumer, so as to get their votes again. If you can do this we will give you the credit of being the smartest man that ever ran for office.

We rather enjoy reading the rabid Democratic papers now days, as Hughes has certainly stirred them up enough to make them boiling mad. His speeches seems to have had about the same effect on them that you would observe in kicking over an ant hill, and see every ant grab an egg and start to run, and he will keep them a running, and be elected by an overwhelming majority in November.

Hughes has certainly opened some bad sores on the administration of President Wilson, by exposing his interference with the civil service. We do not know as the President is really to blame, as he seems to be under the complete control of politicians, who do all the boosting of him, while they have driven the votes of the common people away from him, by the injustices done to them, to favor politicians.

Clover seems to be the only sure remedy for killing out the sow thistle, and it is just as well for the present farmers to apply this remedy at once as for them to wait until the thistles have driven them out of business. Let the clover drive them out, and feed the clover to stock, and see how soon your bank account will start to grow.

This is about the time of the year, that the state high salaried expert sits at his desk with an electric fan, and advises the farmers to hoe up the weeds.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

THE LOCAL NEWS

The Red Lake River took another substantial rise this week.

Miss Elida and Manda Eklemetson visited at the Larson home on Sunday last.

T. G. Rome made a business trip to St. Hilaire Wednesday, returning Thursday.

Miss Ella and Elsie Causin, and Henry Hyland and Harry Causin visited at Sunbeam on last Sunday.

Sever Nelson of Mayfield township, had a fine two year old heifer struck by lightning, in his pasture, last week.

The meadow lands both on and back from Red Lake River are so badly flooded with water that cutting hay is up hill business.

Wm. Causin and Walter Mc Andress drove down to Plummer Sunday, after two loads of lumber for the Rhoda Catholic church.

While we do not expect to make collections from farmers at this time of the year, yet we do expect that business men should at least pay the small amount of their subscription bills.

Edwin Lande has decided to sell off his stock, and quit farming, as the greater part of his meadow lands are under water, and have been in that condition all summer. He will remove with his family to Fargo, N. Dakota.

We never saw any better flax crop than there is this year; but if the present wet weather continues there will not be much of it harvested. unless the weather continues favorable after the ground freezes, so the farmers can get onto their fields,

Permission Granted,

TO BUILD BRIDGE AT HIGHLANDING.

Yesterday we received the following telegram from Congressman Steenerson, which speaks for itself:

Washington, D. C.
Aug. 22nd.

W. G. Hunt,
Sunbeam, Minn.

The bill granting consent of Congress for Highlanding Bridge has been signed and printed copies of law received yesterday and mailed to you to-day.

H. Steenerson,
M. C.

We did not receive copy of the law as passed, but will publish it passed next week. Great credit is due our Congressman Steenerson for rushing this bill through the present session of Congress. We do not believe there is a place in the state of Minnesota where a bridge is more necessary than at this point, and it has been our effort for the past five years to try and get one, and this is the first permission that has been granted for a reasonable bridge across this river, and we feel certain that next summer the patrons of the Highlanding Creamery, living on the south side of the river, can drive their teams up to the creamery door after crossing a good substantial bridge at Highlanding. The people living on the south side of the river will not be compelled to go into Red Lake County to get their grain to market and can auto down to their county seat, as well the people who have been fortunate enough to be located on the north side of the river.

WILSON'S CLAIM IS BETTER

How will Minnesota go? J. P. Coughlin in the Waseca Herald speculates as follows: "Republican politicians claim that Minnesota is a 'Republican state' and that Hughes will carry the state as a consequence. The election returns of four years ago do not bear out this statement. Taft, the Republican nominee for president, received only 64,000 votes in this state, while the Progressive candidate received 125,000, or nearly two to one. It is the Progressive vote that will determine the election results in Minnesota next November. And Hughes has no more claim on the vote than Wilson."

It is all right for the Democratic Press to whistle to keep their courage up, but there is no use for them to figure on getting any of the Roosevelt Minnesota vote of four years ago to vote for Wilson. In fact they are the most radical at the present time for Hughes. The Taft Republicans are not saying so much, but will be there to vote their party ticket in November, and just please figure about all of those 125,000 votes for Hughes, for he will surely get about all of them, and a lot of Democratic additional votes.

AUCTION SALE!

Edwin T. Lande will sell off his stock and farm machinery at public auction, on Saturday Sept. 2nd, at his farm on section 15, town of Deer Park, consisting of the following stock:

6 cows from 4 to 7 years old. 4 heifers 3 yrs. old. 2 bulls 1 yr. old. 2 bulls 2 yrs. old. 1 yearling heifer. 4 heifer calves. 6 steer calves. 3 sheep, 1 wide tire wagon, and one narrow tired wagon. 3 head of horses and one team of yearling mules. Also other farm machinery and household goods. Time given until Nov. 1st 1917.
Henry Enderle, Clerk.

MAINTENANCE OF AMERICAN RIGHTS

Had this Government by the use of both informal and formal diplomatic opportunities left no doubt that when we said "strict accountability" we meant precisely what we said, and that we should unhesitatingly vindicate that position, I am confident that there would have been no destruction of American lives by the sinking of the Lusitania. There, we had ample notice; in fact, published notice. Furthermore, we knew the situation and we did not require specific notice. Instead of whittling away our formal statements by equivocal conversations, we needed the straight, direct and decisive representations which every diplomat and foreign office would understand. I believe that in this way we should have been spared the repeated assaults on American lives. Moreover, a firm American policy would have been strongly supported by our people and the opportunities for the development of bitter feeling would have been vastly reduced.—From Mr. Hughes' speech of acceptance.

THE SAFETY HABIT

You know the Railroads are talking a good deal these days about the "Safety Habit." It is not a safety razor or a safety bicycle, It's safety for the lives intrusted to their care.

The principle applies to the banking business. Our bank employed the Safety Habit at the outset—safety to the depositors money intrusted to our care. Every dollar left with us will be taken care of. Safety is our watch word. We would like to have your account on this basis.

SYSTEMATIZE your household expenses by opening a bank account for your wife. Give her a check book and teach her the use of it. Pay the butcher, the grocer, the baker, with a check. Then at the end of the month you'll find out just how much it costs you to run the home. When payment by check is made there never is any doubt as to whether or not a bill is paid. The check is a receipt.

Besides, a checking account will give your wife a business education. The number of ordinarily bright women who know absolutely nothing of banking is surprising. If you are a husband, father, brother, you cannot tell when death may overtake you, and it is well that your wife, daughter and sister know something of banking.

USE PAPER CUPS FOR SODA

Up-to-Date Drink Fountains Are Now Adopting Most Sanitary Device.

Glass soda service—the kind our grandfathers and the grandfathers of the present generation of germs knew—is doomed. The new paraffined paper cups for sodas and sundaes that now are being adopted by up-to-date fountains all over the United States, are to be had in all of the regulation sizes.

They are made of pure white paper and no glue of any kind holds them together. They are paraffined on the outside only, so that they can be used as successfully for hot drinks as they can for cold. Special metal holders are made for them, giving them a solid background, which prevents the spoon from being pushed through the paper. The metal dispensing tube holds 150 of the cups, which are placed in the tube point upward. When needed, a metal holder is placed on the cups, top downward. By turning the cupholder to the right the metal tongue is made to clasp the creased paper, and cup and holder can then be removed together from the machine.—Illustrated World.

Everybody needs it—stored for emergency in a well-developed, well-preserved, well-nourished body and brain.

Grape-Nuts food stands preeminent as a builder of this kind of energy. It is made of the entire nutriment of whole wheat and barley, two of the richest sources of food strength.

Grape-Nuts also includes the vital mineral elements of the grain, so much emphasized in these days of investigation of real food values.

Crisp, ready to eat, easy to digest, wonderfully nourishing and delicious.

SLAV ARMY BREAKS THROUGH AUSTRIAN LINE IN VOLHYNIA

RUSSIANS CROSS THE STOKHOD AND PUSH ON BEYOND RIVER —CAPTURE SERIES OF HEIGHTS.

CENTER THEIR EFFORT ON NEW DRIVE TOWARD KOVEL

Terrific Fighting on Crest of the Carpathians Where Czar's Troops Are Battling Within Sight of Hungarian Plains—Teutons Retire Near Jablonitza.

Petrograd, Aug. 22.—After breaking through the Stokhod line in Volhynia, the Russians made a further advance and captured several positions, the war office announced.

The Russians are apparently centering their efforts on their new drive toward Kovel.

Berlin admits that General Brussiloff's troops have crossed the Stokhod at one point and Petrograd says that the Russians have pushed on beyond the river and captured a series of heights on the road to Kovel.

Battle For Hungarian Plains.

Fierce fighting continues on the crest of the Carpathians where the Russians are battling within sight of the Hungarian plains. No indication has been given, however, of the strength of the forces engaged in this region and it is uncertain as yet whether General Brussiloff is making a serious effort to invade Hungary.

The Russian announcement says:

"In the region west of Lake Nobel German attacks were repulsed with heavy enemy losses.

Stubborn Fight for Village.

"On the River Stokhod in the region of the village of Rubkachervische, we captured Tcheriche farm and several heights. There was a stubborn fight for the village of Tobol, which after changing hands several times finally remained in our possession. Cossack cavalry attacked, killing more than 200 Austrians. In this region we captured six officers, more than 600 men, 15 machine guns, two mine throwers, one searchlight, and telephone apparatus.

"In the direction of Korosmezo (in Hungary three miles from the border) our troops drove back the enemy to the heights west of Jablonitza and Voronka, and occupied the heights."

SLAV FLANKING MOVEMENT ENDANGERS GERMAN FORCE

Russians Are Gradually Enveloping Kovel and Lemberg as Austrians Fall Back.

With the Russian Armies in the Central Russian Front (via Petrograd, to London), Aug. 19.—The continued success of General Brussiloff's two powerful movements which gradually are enveloping Kovel and Lemberg, have begun to have a marked effect on the situation in the central portion of the front.

The Austrian line now has receded so far before the repeated thrusts of the southwestern Russian forces in southern Poland and Galicia that the Germans are in danger of flanking movements from the south.

BERLIN ADMITS FLEURY TAKEN

French Gain Ground on Verdun Front, War Office Announces.

Berlin, Aug. 21.—British attacks on the Somme front were repulsed says the official statement. On the Verdun front the French penetrated the village of Fleury. The announcement reads:

"North of the Somme the fighting gradually decreased in intensity. Near Ovilliers, hand-to-hand fighting continued until evening. Northwest of Pozieres and on both sides of the Foureaux wood isolated British attacks were repulsed."

ARMY EQUIPMENT LOST IN TEXAS HURRICANE

San Antonio, Texas, Aug. 21.—a government wireless from Brownsville said that General Parker, commanding, had ordered temporary abandonment of all military encampments. The wooden buildings of the Iowa camp were blown down, the Illinois camp was under water, the horses of the Illinois guard suffered greatly from exposure, much equipment had been lost and all roads were impassable.

Charged With Enticing Babies.

Council Bluffs, Iowa, Aug. 18.—Gathering her seven small children around her, Mrs. Evelyn Clark escaped from a home for dependents, and fled to the Iowa bluffs along the Mississippi river. Police and sheriff's posse scoured the hills in the search of her for hours, and finally found her with her baby in her arms, where she had fainted after a long climb. The other youngsters were huddled around her. She now is charged with "enticing, taking away and decoying" the children from the custody of the county.

PRESIDENT VETOES ARMY BILL

MEASURE SENT BACK TO CONGRESS BECAUSE OF "JOKER."

Wilson Objects to Section Exempting From Discipline Retired Officers of the Army.

Washington, Aug. 19.—Because a "joker" inserted by Chairman James Hay of the house military affairs committee exempted from discipline retired officers of the United States army, President Wilson vetoed the army appropriation bill, one of the administration's principal preparedness measures.

Carried $267,597,000.

The bill carried $267,597,000 for maintenance of the reorganized regular army and national guard. The "joker" was forced into the bill by the house conferees over the opposition of the war department.

As a result of the veto, all provisions for the support of the national guardmen and regulars now in Mexican service are held up, as is the provision for relief of dependent families of soldiers in service on the border. The president's veto necessitates passage of a new bill, and possibly may delay adjournment of congress.

CHAIRMAN OF N. P. ROAD DIES

Elected First Vice President of Great Northern Railway When Organized in 1890.

New York, Aug. 19.—Colonel William P. Clough, chairman of the board of directors of the Northern Pacific Railroad company, died at the Presbyterian hospital in this city, following a short illness. Mr. Clough was a director of several other railroad companies and was vice president of the Northern Express company.

May 31, 1887, he resigned his position with the Northern Pacific railway company and the next day entered the service of the St. Paul, Minneapolis & Manitoba railroad, where he first was associated with the late James Jerome Hill. A few months later he became second vice president. Upon the organization of the Great Northern Railway company, February 1, 1890, Mr. Clough was elected its first vice president.

Gigantic Under-Sea Merchantman Eludes Allied Warships, According to Report Via Geneva.

New York, Aug. 21.—A telegram received from Berlin, via Geneva, says that the German submarine Deutschland has arrived safely at Bremen from the United States.

Sailboat Upset; Five Drown.

Queen Is Mexican Road Owner.

Mexico City, Aug. 18.—Queen Mary of England will benefit by the return of the Mexican railway between here and Vera Cruz, which has been in the control of the constitutionalist authorities for more than a year, to the shareholders. Large stock holdings in the English company which built and owns the railroad are credited to the queen's account, although the fact is said not to have any bearing on the decision of the Carranza government to allow the company to re-enter into possession of the road.

PRESIDENT BRINGS RAILROAD DISPUTE TO CRITICAL POINT

TELLS OFFICIALS HE HAS NOT ABANDONED PRINCIPLE OF ARBITRATION—IMPORTANT DEVELOPMENTS SOON.

WILSON SENDS TELEGRAM DEFENDING HIS PROPOSAL

Declares Means Must Be Found to Prevent Recurrence of Situation—Hill and Other Western Railroad Presidents to Arrive Shortly —Employes Await Decision.

Washington, Aug. 22.—President Wilson, after a week of conferences with ranking officials of the railroads and leaders of their employes threatening a nation-wide strike, is believed by all parties to have brought the situation to a point where decisive developments may be expected within a few days.

While the negotiations took no actual forward step, the President replied to the contentions of the road officials that the principle of arbitration would not be endangered by his plan for putting the eight-hour basis day into effect, while a commission investigates its practicability.

Holds to Arbitration Principle.

In a telegram made public at the White House the President declared he held firmly to arbitration as a principle and that his plan strengthens rather than weakens it. He also said that some means must be found to prevent the existing situation from ever arising again.

Meantime the road officials who have tentatively refused to accept Mr. Wilson's proposal, continued conferences among themselves. The labor leaders marked time awaiting a definite decision from the employers.

The President's telegram defending his plan was in reply to an appeal from George Pope, president of the National Association of Manufacturers urging that the principle of arbitration be preserved in the strike negotiations.

Must Not Occur Again.

The President replied:

"Allow me to acknowledge the receipt of your telegram of August 18, and to say in reply that I hold to the principle of arbitration with as clear a conviction and as firm a purpose as any one, but that unfortunately there is no means now in existence by which arbitration can be secured. The existing means have been tried and have failed. This situation must never be allowed to arise again, but it has arisen. Some means must be found to prevent its recurrence, but no means can be found offhand or in a hurry or in season to meet the present national emergency. What I am proposing does not weaken or discredit the principle of arbitration. It strengthens it, rather. It proposes that nothing be conceded except the eight-hour day, to which the whole economic movement of the time seems to point, and the immediate creation of an agency for determining all the arbitrable elements in this case in the light, not of predictions or forecasts, but of established and ascertained facts. This is the first stage of the direct road to the discovery of the best permanent basis for arbitration when other means than those now available are supplied."

There were no outward developments pending the arrival of the additional railroad executives to whom the president sent invitations yesterday. Louis W. Hill, president of the Great Northern, and several other western railroad presidents will arrive shortly. Representatives of both sides are prepared to remain here until the final word is spoken and a strike declared or averted.

BIG BOND ISSUE URGED TO MEET BORDER EXPENSES

Washington, Aug. 19.—A bond issue of $130,000,000 to meet extraordinary government expenditures due to the Mexican situation was unexpectedly recommended to Congress by a majority of the Senate finance committee with the concurrence of the Treasury department.

The bond issue is urged in the report of the finance committee Democrats filed in the Senate on the $205,000,000 revenue bill. In addition to the proposed issue and the revenue bill the finance committee asserts that a further appropriation of $86,000,000 will be necessary to defray the expenses of operations in the Mexican emergency if conditions on the border continue as they now are after December 31, 1916.

Turk Loss at Suez, 9,000 Men.

London, Aug. 21.—In the recent operations around Katia, east of the Suez canal, the losses sustained by the Turkish force were estimated at about 9,000 men, including prisoners, or virtually one-half the force, according to a further report on the Egyptian operations given out by the war office.

The report says: "The pursuit of the enemy was maintained until the 12th and it now is possible to form a more accurate idea of the enemy's strength and losses. The enemy force amounted to probably 18,000 men.

BRITISH LOSE TWO CRUISERS IN FIGHT WITH TEUTON NAVY

GERMAN SUBMARINES AND ENGLISH SCOUT SHIPS CLASH IN THE NORTH SEA, LONDON REPORTS.

ONE U-BOAT SUNK; ANOTHER RAMMED, IS BRITISH CLAIM

Kaiser's Fleet Makes First Appearance Since Battle of Jutland—Fifteen Warships Accompanied by Two Zeppelins Sighted by Trawlers.

London, Aug. 22.—The German high seas fleet has again appeared in the North sea and in a clash between German submarines and British scout ships two British light cruisers were sent to the bottom.

London reports that one of the submarines was destroyed and that another was rammed and possibly sunk.

This is the first appearance in the North sea of strong German naval forces since the battle of Jutland on May 31.

The first news that the Germans had left the shelter of their mine fields and fortified bases was brought to Holland by trawlers which reported sighting a German squadron of 15 warships, including large cruisers.

Crews of Both Ships Saved.

This fleet was accompanied by two Zeppelins and was steering northwest in the region of White Bank.

The two British vessels lost were the Nottingham and the Falmouth. The crews of both the ships were saved with the exception of 39 men.

The Germans also claim to have sunk a British destroyer and damaged a battleship but this is denied in London. According to the British admiralty the German fleet avoided an engagement with the main British forces and returned to port when its scouts reported the approach of strong British squadrons.

According to an official announcement issued by the admiralty shortly before midnight, one German submarine was destroyed by the British while another was rammed and possibly sunk.

ITALIAN STEAMSHIP IS REPORTED TORPEDOED

Believed Sunk While on Way to New York—Had Accommodations for 1,700 Passengers.

London, Aug. 21—The Italian steamship Stampalia, which plies between New York and Italian ports, has been sunk, says a dispatch to Lloyds.

The Stampalia was a passenger liner of 9,000 tons gross. In common with other Italian liners, it mounted guns for protection from submarines. The last report of its movements was its arrival on July 30 at Genoa from New York, so that it apparently was sunk on the return voyage to the United States. It was commanded by Captain Lavarello. The London dispatch is interpreted as meaning that the Stampalia probably was the victim of an Austrian or German submarine in the Mediterranean.

OLD SETTLERS FIGHT; 3 DEAD

Two-Days' Fight Is Caused By Too Much Moonshine, Editor Says.

Springfield, Mo., Aug. 21.—Three men are dead and eight injured, three seriously, it is believed, as a result of a series of fights which marked the recent Old Settlers reunion at Rocky Comfort, in McDonald county, Missouri. Belated news of the tragedies was brought here by William L. Crow, a local editor.

Larrimore, Crow related, was slain in a brawl by Vanslack, who killed himself with a shotgun follow Larrimore's death. West's throat was cut in a fight with an unidentified man.

The fight continued two days and was said to have been started in too liberal libations of "moonshine."

GERMAN CROP REPORT GOOD

Country Is Assured of Supplies of All Food Necessaries for Another Year.

Berlin, Aug. 21.—(Via Wireless.)—A statement from the office of Adolph von Botocki, president of the food regulating board, says that information now at hand gives assurances that this year's crops will be much in excess of those of the last peace years. It declares Germany is assured of supplies of all food necessaries for another year.

Pacific States Fear Car Shortage.

Portland, Ore., Aug. 21.—Oregon, Washington and Idaho will have 50,000,000 bushels of wheat to move to the Atlantic seaboard within the next six months and practically no cars are in sight in which to move it, according to a comprehensive survey completed by local railroad men. The railroads will be called upon to provide about 38,500 cars, the average capacity of a car being 1,300 bushels. Virtually all the grain of the Pacific northwest except that needed for domestic consumption will move by rail.

WHY WOMEN WRITE LETTERS

To Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co.

Women who are well often ask "Are the letters which the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. are continually publishing, genuine?" "Are they truthful?" "Why do women write such letters?"

In answer we say that never have we published a fictitious letter or name. Never, knowingly, have we published an untruthful letter, or one without the full and written consent of the woman who wrote it.

The reason that thousands of women from all parts of the country write such grateful letters to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. is that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has brought health and happiness into their lives, once burdened with pain and suffering.

It has relieved women from some of the worst forms of female ills, from displacements, inflammation, ulceration, irregularities, nervousness, weakness, stomach troubles and from the blues.

It is impossible for any woman who is well and who has never suffered to realize how these poor, suffering women feel when restored to health; their keen desire to help other women who are suffering as they did.

Housework Is a Burden

It's hard enough to keep house if in perfect health, but a woman who is weak, tired and suffering from an aching back has a heavy burden.

Any woman in this condition has good cause to suspect kidney trouble, especially if the kidney action seems disordered.

Doan's Kidney Pills have cured thousands of suffering women. It's the best recommended special kidney remedy.

DRILL FORGOTTEN FOR DAY OF SPORT

MINNESOTA GUARDSMEN PARTICIPATE IN ATHLETIC CONTESTS OF ALL KINDS.

GOPHERS WIN FIRST HONORS

State's Infantry Regiments Are Paraded as Brigade—Indianans and Nebraskans Participate in Day's Review, Honors Go to Gophers.

Mercedes, Tex.

There was no school for the Minnesota troops on the border last Friday. This, the first break in the routine which has been permitted, was field day, a part of the extensive program of athletics made out for the men of the Brownsville district by General Parker. All drills, tactics, schools and most of the fatigue work were suspended.

Events of distinctly military nature featured the day's sports; interest centering on the wall scaling contest, litter bearers' race, pitching shelter tent contest, blank cartridge and equipment races, and the competitive squad drill. In addition to this, the usual short dash was included and boxing and wrestling bouts staged during the afternoon.

All the regiments in camp will hold like programs and on August 30 an inter-regimental field day will be staged under the direction of General Lewis.

Gophers Win First Honors.

For the first time since the review of the Minnesota brigade at the Snelling speedway fiasco, July 4, the three infantry regiments from Minnesota were paraded again as a brigade, the review being in honor of Major General John F. O'Ryan, commander of the division of New York national guard stationed west of Llano Grande, and of Brigadier General James Parker, commander of the Brownsville district. Regiments from Indiana and Nebraska also participated in the day's review, but the honors easily went to the Minnesota troops.

Special Commendation.

The First regiment made the most pleasing appearance and E company of St. Paul, Captain Anderson commanding, and B. K. and F companies of Minneapolis received special commendation from spectators for the marching and general appearance.

Duluth Companies Praised.

The Third regiment also made a hit with the spectators, especially A company, commanded by Captain McDevitt, and C company, commanded by Captain Nelson. Both are Duluth organizations.

The Second Minnesota infantry made a fairly good showing, but the companies seemed rather small in comparison with other Minesota and Indiana regiments.

To Fill Lambert's Place.

Officers of the First Minnesota Field artillery were to vote on the successor to Colonel George C. Lambert, discharged for physical disability. All officers of the Minnesota artillery have the right to vote, either by telegram or letter. Major George E. Leech, Minneapolis, and Lieut. Col. William J. Murphy, St. Paul, were rated as leading possibilities for the commission.

The first battalion was said to be scheduled to entrain for the South Wednesday, but the announcement of the election, made by Adjutant General Fred B. Wood at the direction of Governor Burnquist, made it appear that the departure would be later. General Wood refused to discuss this matter.

May Reorganize Battery F.

General Wood was inclined to believe reports from Llano Grande, Tex., that Major Leach had asked Governor Burnquist for authority to reorganize Battery F, which is made up largely of University of Minnesota men. These men are to return to complete their studies some time after September 1.

Captain George R. Greene, inspector and instructor of Minnesota field artillery for the past 18 months, succeeded Colonel Arthur Johnson, senior mustering officer, Fort Snelling. Colonel Johnson has just left for Brownsville, Texas, to become lieutenant colonel of the Thirty-sixth infantry.

Students Home Sept. 1.

General E. M. Lewis, camp commander, has received from the War department a memorandum of the policy to be pursued by the administration with reference to university students or prospective students who are now members of the national guard. According to this notice, all organizations of the guard comprised of undergraduates are to be returned to their home stations September 1 and mustered out. Federal recognition of these organizations will be withdrawn.

Praises Plattsburg Camp.

W. C. Smiley, St. Paul, major and judge advocate of Minnesota headquarters, formerly of Company C, and later lieutenant of volunteers in the Spanish-American war, returned from a month in the military training camp at Plattsburg, N. Y. "It was a wonderful experience, one that every man with a month to spare in the summer ought to get," said Major Smiley. "We were under regular army discipline and they made every effort to pump into us every ounce of military training possible."

Reasons for Mobilization.

General James Parker, commander of the military section in which the Minnesota men are stationed, sees three reasons for the mobilization of the militia. These are: Protection of the border; necessity of exercising diplomatic pressure, and preparedness.

Here is General Parker's statement of the situation as printed in the Illinois Cavalryman and the Minnesota Border Patrol, two weekly papers issued by Illinois troops at Brownsville and Minnesota troops at Llano Grande:

"The question is now being asked by many men of the state troops here in camp, 'What are we here for?' It is well that an answer be made to this question, and that it be kept in mind by all. The government and the people of the United States certainly appreciate the sacrifices that are being made by officers and men of the state troops in performing this service. They have left homes and families. They have left important positions. They have come to a hot and sometimes disagreeable climate.

Render Service to Nation.

"But they should feel that what they are doing is not being done in vain, that they are rendering to this country a wonderful service, that they should be thanked and are being thanked by the people of the United States for patriotic services done the country.

"What is this service? In the first place, this country was and is still threatened by war. The conditions on the other side of the Rio Grande are worse than they have ever been before. Villa is still at large. He is likely to make another raid. The temper of the American people becomes more and more impatient. The people are realizing that the prestige of the country is suffering. Unforeseen situations are constantly occurring and some of these situations may demand action.

May Go Into Battle.

"It is therefore apparent that this army may be of service as a fighting force. It is therefore apparent that it should become prepared. That the officers and men should be fully trained. This can only be accomplished by long hours of drill each day and by enthusiastic work.

"Secondly, if it is desired to exercise diplomatic pressure, the existence of a large armed force is necessary.

"It goes without saying that this armed force should be well trained and fit for fighting. It should be trained in drills, because these bring about discipline and prompt obedience to commands. It should be drilled in target practice in order that when it goes into battle its fire would be formidable. A soldier who cannot shoot is not half a soldier.

Training Essential.

"It should be drilled in marching, in order that troops may be concentrated quickly at important points, that our army may be able to pursue the enemy and defeat it. It should be trained in camping and all the various duties of the soldier in camp, sanitation, cooking and the care of arms, equipment, etc., in order that it may always be ready for duty, and in order that it may move in campaigns without confusion.

"The very fact that the weather is hot or wet, that the camps are dusty or muddy, prepares the troops for the inevitable conditions of a campaign, and for the hardships that the troops may have to undergo. It is well, therefore, that troops should become hardened and accustomed to undesirable conditions such as these.

Guard Is Officers' School.

"Thirdly, we are here because this is the greatest step toward preparedness the United States has ever taken. We are training men, and especially officers, for future wars. In case of any great war we will need an immense army of millions of fighting men, and to train them we will need tens of thousands of officers and noncommissioned officers as drillmasters.

"The national guard is a school for officers of volunteers or of our conscript army. It is to the national guard largely that we must look for the men with military training who are to whip our millions of conscripts into shape."

Experts Conquer Tree Disease.

Professor F. L. Washburn, state entomologist and director of the fight being waged in Minnesota against white pine blister rust, said to threaten vast pine forests in the state, has reported to Governor Burnquist that satisfactory progress is being made. A special fund of $1,000, voted by the state under the statute relating to calamities, is proving a great help, Professor Washburn said, permitting among other things the employment of five experts.

To Exterminate Plague.

Four of the special men are trying to exterminate the plague near Taylor's Falls where serious infection was found in the timber. The fifth is starting a survey along the St. Croix and Wisconsin rivers and Wisconsin authorities are co-operating in the survey.

In only two nurseries in the state has the rust been found, he adds.

Boost Amendment No. 1.

An automobile invasion of southern Minnesota by northern Minnesota orators is the coup planned by sponsors for Amendment No. 1, the "revolving fund" amendment to the constitution that is before the voters at the November election. Open-air speeches on the streets of southern Minnesota towns will urge the importance of this amendment, specially desired by the northern counties, to the state at large. Several automobiles will be donated for the trip, which will be made in October.

St. Paul. — The state board of law examiners has recommended to the state supreme court for admission to the bar 32 applicants who passed the board examinations last month.

Stillwater.—Sale of the old state prison property exclusive of the warden's residence to the city of Stillwater for $8,000 has been closed between the state board of control and Mayor John R. Colliner, representing the city.

Duluth. — Trial of ten persons held in connection with the murder of Deputy Sheriff James Myron at Biwabik, has been started before District Judge Martin Hughes at Virginia. These men charged with murder are alleged to be I. W. W. leaders.

St. Cloud. — Three hundred white-clad delegates from the Twin Cities paraded here from their Great Northern special train to the Davidson theater for the opening of the twenty-sixth annual convention of the State Christian Endeavor union.

St. Paul.—State Auditor J. A. O. Preus has announced that the next sale of state timber will take place at the capitol at 10 A. M. Monday, October 16. A considerable amount of stumpage on state lands that is rated liable to waste will be offered.

Le Sueur. — With a record of having had only six pastors in its half century existence, the First Presbyterian church of this city celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of its founding. The jubilee exercises mark also the ninth year of the pastorate of Rev. Leon L. Smythe.

Twin Valley.—John A. Jorgenson, harnessmaker, often expressed a horror of having his body long exposed to river water. So when he committed suicide by drowning in the Wild Rice river he tied a rope about one foot and the other end to a tree to prevent the loss of his body.

Kinney, Minn.—Four men, alleged Industrial Workers of the World, attempted to kidnap Mrs. Edward Eno, wife of a deputy sheriff, her sister Mrs. Lucy Clark of Virginia, Minn., and her four-year-old son as they stepped from a Mesaba electric car here. One of the kidnappers struck Mrs. Clark over the head with a club, inflicting a serious scalp wound.

State Treasurer A. C. Gooding signed warrants for the payment of principal and interest on $123,487.50, the first state educational certificate of indebtedness. A recent legislature authorized the issuance of such certificates by the board of control to cover the cost of state university, normal school and other structures in excess of appropriations.

St. Paul.—Marked gains in state revenue this year from the 5 per cent gross earnings tax against railroads are further indicated by reports filed with the state tax commissioner by six additional companies. Although two reports showed decreases, the aggregate is considerable larger for the first half of 1916 than for the corresponding period in 1915.

Faribault.—Attorney General Lyndon A. Smith has directed Louis S. Headley, an assistant , to go to Faribault to make a special investigation of the condition of the Faribault Fire Relief association, following the report of Deputy Public Examiner J. O. Cederberg, alleging that Edward F. Kelly, treasurer of the organization, is short $11,188, according to his examination.

St. Paul. — Possible abolition of the contingent fund system at the University of Minnesota is threatened. State Treasurer Gooding advised the board of university regents that he was unable to find legislative or other legal authorization for the system which involved an average of $30,000 of state funds and at times greater amounts, all used for the payment of minor current expenses.

Minneapolis. — The offer of $84,604 in cash prizes to exhibitors at the Minnesota State Fair, Sept. 4 to 9, is said by members of the board to be itself sufficient to make the 1916 exposition one of the best in the history of the state. This sum for the educational and material interests of a state, Secretary J. C. Simpson says, has never been equalled by any state fair association in the United States.

Lindstrom.—The seventeenth annual convention of the Luther League of Minnesota, which closed here, elected the following officers: President, Rev. C. J. Kockey of Minneapolis; vice president, Harry Anderson of Minneapolis; secretary-treasurer, Miss Mabel Sander of Lindstrom; statistical secretary, Miss Cora Aslakson of Cannon Falls; corresponding secretary, Miss Serapha Peterson of North St. Paul; and treasurer, Edgar Elfstrand of Lindstrom.

Minneapolis, Aug. 15.—Mrs. O. M. Cutler, wife of Captain Cutler of the First Minnesota infantry, and her guest, Miss Evelyn Laughlin, Seattle, suffered possible fatal injuries when the Cadillac car driven by Mrs. Cutler's uncle, Louis LaClair, Glenwood City, Wis., was smashed by a high-powered automobile on East Seventh street, St. Paul.

Virginia. — "The I. W. W. has made a fatal mistake," declared mining operators here. "They have used the United States mail to deliver threatening letters containing pieces of crepe, alleged to be but tiny samples of what would be hanging on the recipient's door unless he stopped work."

Clear Lake. — Fire which destroyed the new high school building here, is believed to have been of incendiary origin. The building was erected at a cost of $30,000, and the interior work was just being completed. Plans for rebuilding will be made at once.

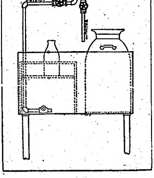
KILLING MILK BACTERIA

No Objection to Pasteurization When Properly Done.

Seems Probable That Within Few Years Supply for Large Cities Will Be Thus Treated—Three Processes Now in Use.

There is no valid objection to pasteurization when properly performed, and the process makes safer even the most carefully handled and inspected milk. It seems probable that within the next two years a large proportion of the milk supply in the large cities will be pasteurized. There is already a marked tendency in this direction.

Before the value of pasteurization as a hygienic measure was as well recognized as it is today, it was practiced in secret by a number of milk dealers as a means of preserving milk and preventing it from souring. Its commercial value in this respect is undoubtedly great, but its chief function is the destruction of disease-producing organisms. Proper pasteurization should destroy about 99 per cent of all the bacteria in the milk, although when the bacterial count of the raw milk is low the reduction may be somewhat smaller. The efficiency of the process, it is pointed out, cannot be based on the per cent, but rather on the character of the bacteria destroyed.



Sink Arranged for Pasteurization of Milk.

The kinds of bacteria that remain alive after pasteurization depend on the temperature to which the milk is heated and the species of bacteria which are in the raw milk. Three processes of pasteurization, known respectively as the flash process, the holder process and pasteurization in the bottle, are now practiced in this country. In the flash process the milk is raised quickly to a temperature of about 160 degrees F. or more, held there for from 30 seconds to a minute, and then cooled quickly. In the holder process the milk is heated to a temperature of from 140 degrees to 150 degrees F. and held there for half an hour. When pasteurization in bottles is practiced, the raw milk is put into bottles with water-tight seal caps, which are immersed in hot water and held for from 20 to 30 minutes at a temperature of 145 degrees F. In this way the pasteurized milk is not subjected to any danger of reinfection. On the other hand, the seal caps must be absolutely tight and this involves increased cost. In general, it may be said that the holder process is coming into greater favor than either of the others. This process permits of the use of lower temperatures which, for various reasons, is highly desirable.

RATE OF SEEDING FLAX CROP

Where Rainfall Is Not More Than Twenty Inches Twenty Pounds to Acre Is Recommended.

Where the annual rainfall is not more than 20 inches, flax need not be sown at a greater rate than 20 pounds to the acre. This should be reduced to 15 pounds under drier conditions. Where the rainfall is more than 20 inches, a slightly higher yield may be obtained if 25 pounds are sown to the acre. The sowing of more than 25 pounds to the acre on nonirrigated land does not pay.

SHALLOW PLOWING IN FAVOR

Loose Soil Conserves Moisture—Kills Weeds and Puts Land in Much Better Condition.

Water moves slowly through a loose soil and a loose soil will, therefore, serve as a mulch and conserve moisture. This is one of the reasons for shallow cultivation. Killing weeds, putting the land in better physical condition, and furnishing modes of entrance for oxygen and nitrogen are other reasons. Failure to cultivate properly is one way of farming at a loss.

PAINT IS GOOD INVESTMENT

It Is Necessity if Life of Building Is to Be Considered—Apply Often as Required.

Paint is not a luxury to be added to the building some time in the future —perhaps not until decay has taken place—it is a necessity if the life of the building is to be considered, and is a profitable investment that should be made as often as the farm buildings require it.

WHY CHILDREN RUN AWAY

Not Mere Naughtiness That Starts Kiddies on the Road to Adventure Land.

When little Willie runs away to ride the brake beams, to become a hunter of the wild Apache, or mayhap a Jesse James; when curly-headed Mary toddles far from home with her dollie, the mother usually attributes their truancy to "mere naughtiness" or bad companions, or maybe original sin.

But the children's motive, according to investigators, is the same as that which makes their parents visit Europe or their uncle John start off on a hunting trip. The causes ascribed for these various actions are usually quite different from the real cause, which is the primitive racial instinct to wander—an instinct so deep-seated that it is found in lower animals as well as in man.

We all have it, presumably, but some of us are more enmeshed by conventionalities and the habits of civilized society that we never really respond to the luring call of the wild or the blind impulses to start off somewhere—no matter where. Others are so attuned to this instinct that only lock and key can keep them in one place.

Sad.

"You look worried, old man."

"I am. I'm afraid all the money will be worn out before I get any of it."

No Steady Job for Him.

A southern man tells of a darky named Theophilus Baxter, known as "the champion banjo player of Alabama."

Wishing to afford a northern friend an example of real darky music, a Mobile woman went to Baxter's house, with a view to enlisting his services at a musical function. She found his wife instead.

"Very sorry, missy," said Baxter's spouse, "but Theophilus he ain't playin' de banjo any more. He jest puts in all his time fishin' now."

"What led him to give up his playing?" asked the disappointed caller. "Has he got religion?"

"No, mussy, he ain't got religion, but he's done got skeered."

Scared? Of what?"

"Of dat minstrel show, honey. De boss learns dat my ole man kin play, an' he offers him a stiddy job doin' it. Yassum, an' it skeered Theophilus so bad dat he quit banjo playin' right away."—Philadelphia Ledger.

THE SUNBEAM.

BY W. G. HUNT, EDITOR
M. G. HUNT, PUBLISHER

Published every Friday, at Sunbeam, Pennington County, Minnesota.

Entered as Second-class matter August 31, 1905, at the post office at Sunbeam Minn. under the Act of Congress of March 3,1879

HISTORY REPEATS.

It will be remembered that THE SUNBEAM continually warned the farmers three or four years ago to be careful about contracting debts under the present administration, and now they begin to see that we were right. It does not make any difference to a farmer how much gold there is lying in the banks if he has no way of getting it out. There are a number of Eleven Towns farmers who bought high priced horses and fancy harnesses for them, for the reason that they could buy them all complete on time. But it is the history of the Democratic party, that when they get the middle classes about so deep into debt, that the pay day arrives.

We saw the same conditions under the administation of Grover Clevelnnd, that are likely to prevail under the present administration, and all that has kept them from doing so up to the present time, is the flood of money coming from the European countries that are at war, buying ammunitions and other supplies. But if that war should suddenly close, under the present administration, you would promptly see a shut down in the United States equal to the 1895 panic, when all merchants posted the "no credit" sign, and the bankers told you that they had no money to loan, but must have what was due them, or they would foreclose the mortgages. There is no use to deny the facts, that under Democratic prosperity a large number of northern Minnesota farmers have reached the end of the road, where it is no longer possible for them to pay their interest and taxes on their property, that has been mortgaged to the limit, and the shut down day is in sight.

This has certainly been a discouraging year for the Eleven Towns farmers. Their wheat crop has been a complete failure, and the weather is now so rainy that it will be nearly impossible for them to save their oat and barley crop, and put up hay enough for their stock during the winter. Not only has the Red Lake River overflooded all of the meadow along it's banks, but the meadows not affected by it are so soft that it is an utter impossibility to get onto them to cut hay. But out of the most severe battles, there are always survivors, and that is the case up here, and those who survive the calamities of this season may hope to reap their reward in the future, as better years are coming.

President Wilson has announced that he will not make a speech making tour of the country, but will make speeches to civic bodies on invitation. The first bodies that he ought to address is the meat trust, who would undoubtedly loudly applaud him for reducing the cost of living by nearly doubling the cost to the consumer, without any material advance to the producer.

While there are not as many farmer failures at the present time, as there was under the administration of Grover Cleveland, yet they are about twice as numerous as they were four years ago. Lots of gold in the country; but the only good it does the farmers is to raise the price of what he has to buy.

HARDLY NECESSARY, NOW.

President Wilson will make no campaign tour.—Washington dispatch.

Well, after listening to Candidate Hughes for a few weeks it does seem like a work of super arogation.—Duluth Herald (Dem.)

A good way to crawl out of a hole, that Hughes has driven him into, and made him pull the hole in after him.

Of course he can't make any speeches this year to the common people for fear some rube in the crowd would ask him how about reducing the cost of living, that he preached about four years ago?

What could he say in reply? History proves that a Democrat can not be elected for President of the United States only about once in twenty years. They have had their inning, and they will have their outs in November. Come Woodrow give us just one speech, so we can compare it, with what you said four short years ago.

The attendance was so light at the Pennington County Fair this year, that it has discouraged the management. The claim is made that the farmers do not take enough interest in it. How can a farmer be expected to take more interest in a county fair, than he does in his harvest work? The dates of holding that county fair, have always been set so early in the season that the farmers would not leave their harvest fields to go. If they would set the date of the fair at about the middle of September, the farmers would turn out and be glad to attend it. But if they are bound to have it in harvest, they must depend on the idle rich for their patronage.

That was a fine report sent out by the Society of Equity of St. Paul, advising the farmers to hold their wheat for one dollar and sixty cents a bushel, after they had found out by careful investigation, that the farmers had no wheat, and were not likely to have any this year.

Lady—I should like to look at a flat which I see is for rent in this building, but no one has answered my bell.

Man—I'll show it to you. Right this way, mum.

"Well, this is something like it. The rooms will suit, I'm sure. What sort of a janitor have they here?"

"The very best in the city, mum."

"Obliging?"

"The kindest hearted gentleman to be found anywhere, mum."

"Honest?"

"As the day is long, mum."

"Is he attentive to his duties?"

"He's just workin' himself to death, mum. Always thinkin' up some new thing to make folks comfortable."

"Well, I declare! I wouldn't lose this flat for the world. Where is the janitor now?"

"I'm him, mum."—Kansas City Star.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

The Flag and the Man

Hughes Points the Way

The speech of the Republican candidate for President was a keynote speech, indeed. Not one person in the great audience at the Carnegie Hall meeting was in doubt for one moment as to just what he meant by everything he said.

His address was comprehensive, logical, clean and all sufficient for the occasion. There can be no dispute as to this. Plainly Mr. Hughes is a man who "knows what he wants when he wants it," and it is the opinion of political authorities who heard him and who have since read his remarks that he knows, also, how to get it.

It was incumbent upon the Republican candidate to confine the scope of his remarks to the limitations of the occasion, but his crushing analysis of the shortcomings of the present administration of the government is merely an earnest of what the tone and the contents of his speeches will be when he gets on the stump.

At Carnegie Hall Mr. Hughes adverted to every general question that is apt to be a serious issue in the campaign and in language that will be absolutely clear to every man or woman able to read he stated his opinions, his convictions and his purposes. On the stump he will argue those points in detail. As an orator he is eloquent, his personality attractive and his marshalling of facts so cohesive that he holds his audience to the end. He makes it easy for them to follow him and his points are not lost.

There was nothing equivocal, nothing apologetic in the Republican candidate's speech of acceptance. He called a spade a spade, and the unanimous opinion of those who heard him was that he shot to the center and rang the bell. The Republican campaign is now open, and those who will speak and write and work for the success of the Republican ticket can wish for no more adequate campaign document, no more satisfactory statement of issues than are found in the candidate's salutatory.

THE COMPELLING PERORATION TO MR. HUGHES' ACCEPTANCE SPEECH.

We live in a fateful hour. In a true sense, the contest for the preservation of the Nation is never ended. We must still be imbued with the spirit of heroic sacrifice which gave us our country and brought us safely through the days of Civil War. We renew our pledge to the ancient ideals of individual liberty, of opportunity denied to none because of race or creed, of unswerving loyalty. We have a vision of America prepared and secure; strong and just; equal to her task; an exemplar of the capacity and efficiency of a free people. I endorse the platform adopted by the Convention and accept its nomination.

Brief Sentences Featuring the Speech of Acceptance of Charles E. Hughes.

America First and America Efficient.

We are too great a country to require of our citizens who are engaged in peaceful vocations the sort of military service to which they are now called.

We cherish no illusions. We know that the recurrence of war is not to be prevented by pious wishes.

We denounce all plots and conspiracies in the interest of any foreign nation.

Adequate preparedness is not militarism.

During this critical period, the only danger of war has lain in the weak course of the Administration.

The Nation has no policy of aggression toward Mexico. We have no desire for any part of her territory.

We propose that in the competitive struggle that is about to come the American workingman shall not suffer.

This representative gathering is a happy augury. It means the strength of reunion. It means that the party of Lincoln is restored, alert, effective.

The dealings of the Administration with Mexico constitutes a confused chapter of blunders. It is a record which cannot be examined without a profound sense of humiliation.

We must take Vera Cruz to get Huerta out of office and trust to other nations to get our own citizens out of peril. What a travesty of international policy!

Destroying the government of Huerta, we left Mexico to the ravages of revolution.

I stand for adequate Federal Workmen's compensation laws.

The Administration was to seize and punish Villa for his outrage on our soil. It has not punished any one; we went in only to retire.

I favor the vote for women.

WANTS AN EFFECTIVE SYSTEM OF RURAL CREDITS.

We propose to promote by every practicable means our agricultural interests, and we include in this program an effective system of rural credits. We favor the wise conservation of our natural resources. We desire not only that they shall be safeguarded, but that they shall be adequately developed and used to the utmost public advantage.—From Mr. Hughes' speech of acceptance.

The Kratka Creamery butter maker quit on Tuesday, and the reason as given, was that he did not propose to be a chore boy for Stephen Singer. You know since Stephen joined the Democratic party, and got to be a delegate, he feels a little above doing common labor, and has made it a point to make it part of the duties of the Kratka Creamery butter maker, to clean out his barns, and do other small jobs beneath the dignity of a man, who stands so high in the councils of the powers that be, so the butter maker quit.

Read the act of Congress granting permission to construct a bridge at Highlanding. The plans as submitted for this bridge calls for it to be from ten to twelve feet above low water mark, so there is now nothing to hinder the construction of a bridge across the Red Lake River at Highlanding, and the next move on the checker board is to get the County Commissioner to construct the bridge, and it seems that the people of the eastern end of the county had ought to have enough coming from the amounts paid into the Road and Bridge fund of the county, from the eastern part to construct this one bridge, and if they can mention a place in the county where a bridge is more badly needed, let us hear from them.

The long expected railroad strike has been called for next Monday morning, when all car wheels in the United States will stop. President Wilson had about as much success in preventing the strike, as he had in establishing peace in Mexico, but he found that this was a case where watchful waiting would not work. The strike as ordered ties up all mail trains, as well as freight trains.

What came very near being a fatal accident happened at Highlanding yesterday. Mrs. Hover Falkedahl was ferrying a horse and buggy across, and the horse became frightened and backed off the ferry, throwing Mrs. Falkedahl with an infant into the center of the river. Johnnie Nelson went to her rescue and just reached her in time to save her life. It took some time to revive the baby, which was nearly dead. The horse was also rescued from drowning. THE SAFETY HABIT

You know the Railroads are talking a good deal these days about the "Safety Habit." It is not a safety razor or a safety bicycle, It's safety for the lives intrusted to their care.

The principle applies to the banking business. Our bank employed the Safety Habit at the outset—safety to the depositors money intrusted to our care. Every dollar left with us will be taken care of. Safety is our watch word. We would like to have your account on this basis.

SYSTEMATIZE your household expenses by opening a bank account for your wife. Give her a check book and teach her the use of it. Pay the butcher, the grocer, the baker, with a check. Then at the end of the month you'll find out just how much it costs you to run the home. When payment by check is made there never is any doubt as to whether or not a bill is paid. The check is a receipt.

Besides, a checking account will give your wife a business education. The number of ordinarily bright women who know absolutely nothing of banking is surprising. If you are a husband, father, brother, you cannot tell when death may overtake you, and it is well that your wife, daughter and sister know something of banking.

ITALY DECLARES WAR ON GERMANY; BERLIN NOTIFIED

DECLARATION OF HOSTILITIES MADE THROUGH GOVERNMENT OF SWITZERLAND — KAISER'S EFFORTS FAIL.

LATINS READY TO THROW ARMIES AGAINST GERMANS

Final Step Becomes Inevitable When King Victor Sends Troops to Saloniki to Co-operate in Campaign of Allies as Germany is Directing Opposing Forces.

Rome, Aug. 29.—Italy has declared war on Germany.

Announcement of the formal declaration of war was made simultaneously in Rome and Berlin.

The declaration was promulgated through the government of Switzerland which was requested by Italy to notify the imperial government of Germany.

The Swiss government notified Germany that Italy considers itself at war with Germany from and after August 28. War on Germany will formally begin today.

Ready to Strike Blow.

Through this step, Italy has aligned itself fully with the Allies. At the commencement of the war Italy was an ally of Germany as a member of the Triple Alliance. Germany has striven vainly to prevent the Italian government from taking this final step, as it will place the Italian government in position to throw its great surplus of troops into the campaign against Germany.

Until the Macedonian campaign, Italy's military operations were confined strictly to the Austrian front, but the limited area of this front prevented the government from bringing into action more than 50 per cent of its mobile armies.

Berlin Announces Declaration.

Berlin formally announced the declaration of war by Italy with the following statement:

"The Italian government has declared through the Swiss government that it considers itself from August 28 at war with Germany."

Italy and Germany have been drifting steadily toward war. In fact, Italy's formal declaration amounts to little more than official recognition of a state of affairs which already existed. The declaration became inevitable when Italy recently sent troops to Saloniki to co-operate in the campaign of the Allies, as Germany is directing the opposing forces and has troops on this battle line.

MAUREPAS FALLS INTO HANDS OF JOFFRE'S MEN

London, Aug. 26.—Striking simultaneously, the British and French in a desperate rush, have made substantial gains on the Somme front, according to Paris and London. Maurepas has fallen to the French, who have pushed forward more than 200 yards beyond the town on a front of a mile and a quarter. The British report a 300-yard advance south of Thiepval, and the capture of many prisoners.

Slavs Take Armenian Town.

No change is reported from the East, but the Russian offensive in Armenia apparently is assuming powerful proportions. Petrograd reports the reoccupation of the important Armenian town of Mush, and the capture of 2,300 prisoners at Rachta.

The Italians who are pushing their offensive on the extreme northeast of the Austro-Italian line, claim the capture of several Austrian positions.

G. A. R. ENCAMPMENT OPENS

Veterans of the Civil War Gather in Kansas City.

Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 28.—A city of red, white and blue greeted the opening of the golden jubilee encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic here today. All of the buildings in the downtown district, as well as many houses in the residential section, are draped from top to bottom with bunting and flags.

Fully 75,000 visitors are in town. Nearly 40,000 of this number are federal veterans of the Civil war. The rest are delegates to the conventions of the auxiliaries of the G. A. R.

Auto Turns Over; One Killed.

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 28.—Alexander Mesick, 40, was killed and two other men were injured when an automobile in which they were driving overturned on the Green Bay road near here.

Fall Kills Minnesota Priest.

Chicago, Aug. 28.—Rev. Agnatius Thomazin, 70, Catholic priest of Albany, Minn., plunged to his death here from the rear of the sixth floor of the Sherman hotel. He had been ill several months. His head struck the pole of a wagon and dashed out his brains. Father Thomazin came here from St. Cloud, Minn., July 24. He was accompanied by Mrs. Martha McCloskey, his housekeeper. She said the priest had been despondent over his retirement from active church service because of age.

NAVY WOULD NEED 175,000 TRAINED MEN IN WAR TIME

San Diego, Cal., Aug. 29.—"In the event of war, the United States navy would need at once 175,000 trained men," was the statement made by Rear Admiral William F. Fullam, chief in command of the Pacific reserve fleet, in an address delivered here on board the cruiser South Dakota to the civilian volunteers. The admiral expressed surprise that the people on the west coast took so little interest in the unprotected state of their coast line.

BULGARIANS INVADE ALBANIA

CONTINUE TO PRESS ON INTO GREEK TERRITORY.

Russians Start New Offensive in Riga Region—Allies Capture Trenches in France.

London, Aug. 29.—Bulgaria, despite the disapproval of its Teutonic allies, continues to press the invasion of Greece, adding new ground to the already occupied territory, and in addition has begun an invasion of Albania.

The sudden advance on Albania was disclosed in a statement issued in Sofia narrating the commencement of the Albania invasion and announcing the capture of Malik in Albania.

Bulgars Advance on Aegean.

King Ferdinand's men are approaching the mouth of the river Struma, advancing along the course of the stream. Paris admits that the Bulgars have taken all except one of the forts of Kavla on the Aegean, but says the newly acquired positions have come under the fire of the British warships.

Despite bad weather there has been considerable fighting and a renewal of mine warfare along the British front in France. London reports the capture of 200 yards of a German trench north of Bazentin-le-Petit and a further gain northwest of Ginchy. Berlin says that British attacks south of Thiepval, northwest of Pozieres and north of Bazentin-le-Petit were without success.

Slavs Start Offensive.

The Russians for some time inactive in the Riga region again have started an offensive. However their efforts to cross the Dvina river southeast of Riga and also near Friedrichstadt failed, according to Berlin. On the remainder of the Russian front no important fighting has been reported. In the Carpathians, Petrograd chronicles a fresh advance at Koverla mountain near the Hungarian border.

VILLA KILLED WITH POISON, JAPANESE PHYSICIAN SAYS

Bandits Gamble With Dice to Select New Leader to Impersonate Chief.

Chihuahua City, Mex., Aug. 26.—A Japanese physician of the name of Nodko claims to have brought about the death of Villa by slow poison, given under the guise of medical treatment, according to the Chihuahua local papers.

After Villa's death, Doctor Nodko is quoted as saying that the remaining Villa leaders gambled with dice to decide who should impersonate the dead chief, and the lot fell to Colonel Baca, who bears a strong personal resemblance to Villa.

SEES DISEASE IMMUNE RACE

Physician Suggests Inoculation of Children to End Plagues.

New York, Aug. 28.—The possibility of making children immune to infantile paralysis and ultimately of breeding a race immune to all infectious diseases, is suggested by Dr. Herman B. Baruch in the current Medical Record.

"There is reason to believe," Dr. Baruch writes, "that if children are injected with serum drawn and prepared from the blood of their parents or others who have suffered from infantile paralysis, scarlet fever, or any other diseases, such offspring will be rendered immune to these diseases."

NEW DANCE TO OUT-DO TANGO

New Thrill Planned By American Masters at Convention.

Chicago, Aug. 28.—A new thrill is in store for American dancers within a few days, Carl Christensen, an officer of the American National Association of Dancing Masters, now in convention, has announced. It is an entirely new dance, distinctly American and different from the fox trot, tango, waltz or any other present dance, Christensen said. The association's experts are working on it to place it before the country as the American dance.

Villista General Escapes.

El Paso, Aug. 28.—Manual Choa, the Villista general who surrendered Juarez to the Constitutionalists last December under a grant of amnesty, was captured in this district along with three followers, by Mexican customs patrols and escaped after killing one of his guards, according to reports received by General Francisco Gonzales at his Juarez headquarters.

General Gonzales reports that his men are close on the trail of the fugitives.

In his proclamation he denounces Enver Pasha, Talaat Bey and Djemal Pasha, stanch supporters of Germany.

PRESIDENT TO ASK CONGRESS SESSION TO PREVENT STRIKE

BREAK BETWEEN RAILROADS AND EMPLOYES BELIEVED INEVITABLE—LAWS DISCUSSED WITH LEADER.

BROTHERHOOD MEN, TIRED OF WAIT, LEAVE CAPITAL

Employes Delegate Their Powers to Committee of Twenty-four Instructed Not to Agree to Arbitration of Demand for Eight-Hour Day.

Washington, Aug. 29. — Tentative plans for a joint session of the Senate and House to hear President Wilson ask for legislation to prevent the threatened nation-wide railroad strike were discussed by the President with Senator Kern, the Democratic leader, when it seemed virtually certain that a break between the railroads and their employes must follow final conferences at the White House today.

Possibilities of legislation were talked over by the President with Senator Newlands, chairman of the Interstate Commerce committee, and Secretary Lane. During the day the President made a quiet trip to the Senate office building to find Senator Kern attending a meeting of the finance committee.

No Agreement Expected.

Since Saturday night the belief that negotiations between the railroad executives and representatives of the men would end without an agreement has been growing.

This feeling was strengthened when the members of the brotherhood committee of 640, tired of their long wait departed for home after delegating their powers to effect a settlement or call a strike to a committee of 24, instructed under no circumstances to agree to arbitration of the demand for an eight-hour day at the present rate of pay for 10 hours.

Wilson May Go Before Congress.

Whether the plans considered by President Wilson and his advisers at the capital will be carried out depends upon developments, but it is understood that if all efforts fail to bring the employers and their men together the President will go before Congress and ask that it deal with the situation even if that necessitates indefinitely prolonging the present session.

Unless the railroad heads recede from their demand for arbitration of the eight-hour day proposal, one brotherhood head said a strike affecting about 400,000 men will be called within the next ten days.

Executives Demand Arbitration.

Representatives of both the railways and the brotherhoods will confer with the President today. The executives of the lines will present the plan to which they agreed finally Saturday. Its outstanding feature is a demand for arbitration of wages under the eight-hour day or any day.

When they have departed, the brotherhood heads acting under instructions received from the committee of 640 will go to the White House and apprise President Wilson that they cannot accept arbitration of this feature of their demands and that in general they stand on his proposal made a week ago to concede the eight-hour principle and arbitrate the other issues.

Legislation to Prevent Strike.

What will follow no one attempts to forecast accurately. There was a report, however, that the President might ask the men to postpone action for a period in order that he might seek legislation which would force and provide for a settlement without tying up the country's transportation system.

Secretary Lane and Senator Newlands worked until late in the night framing bills for presentation to Congress.

The measure given most serious consideration was one drawn along the lines of the Canadian act, which provides for investigation of industrial disputes by a commission for one year and prevents strikes and lockouts during the period of investigation. If it is finally decided to press such a measure, an effort will be made to put it into effect at once.

Eight Dead in Mexican Wreck.

Laredo, Texas, Aug. 28.—Eight persons were killed and a score injured when a passenger train was wrecked on the Mexican International near Paredon, state of Coahuila, according to reports received in Nuevo Laredo. There were no Americans on the train.

Four Hurt in Auto Accident.

Minneapolis, Aug. 28.—Four people were injured, one of them seriously, when Albert Pease, proprietor of a rooming house at 246 Second avenue south, tried to take a sharp turn in the Watertown road between Crystal Bay and Long Lake in his automobile while traveling 30 miles an hour. The machine turned over on top of the occupants, bounded back and toppled over again. Laura Johnson, 1410 Vine place, was hurled 40 feet. Her shoulder was dislocated and she was cut and bruised about her face and body.

MAKING RAPID STRIDES

Canada Improving in Every Way —Agriculturally, Commercially and Financially.

The reports coming to hand every day from all branches of industry in Canada speak highly of the constructive ability of that country.

Recently the managing directors of the Canadian Credit Men's Association gave out the statement that business in Western Canada was good. In every branch it is better than in 1913, and everyone will remember that in that year business was excellent. He says:

"The beauty of it is the way in which payments are coming in. Merchants all over the West are taking their cash discounts. Such a transformation I never saw.

"From the records in the office I knew it was getting better. We clear here every retail merchant in the country every three months, and we are therefore in the closest touch and have intimate knowledge of the way trade is going and how payments are being made. Conditions at the present moment are better than I had dreamed it was possible that they should be.

"The statements which we are receiving with reference to the standing of country merchants indicates that there will be very few failures this fall. It is quite remarkable. Men who have been behind for years and in the hole are actually paying spot cash for everything, and taking their cash discounts. Banks and loan companies this fall will have more money than they know what to do with.

"This is about the condition of trade, and I am glad to say there is no exaggeration in what I have said. The business of the prairie provinces is in splendid condition."

Crop reports are also good. From all parts comes the word that the crop conditions were never better, and the situation at the time of writing is that there will be fully as great a yield as in 1915, when the average of wheat over the entire country was upwards of 30 bushels per acre. The harvest therefore will be a heavy one—and, following the magnificent harvest of last year, the farmers of Western Canada will all be in splendid shape. Old indebtednesses, much of which followed them from their old homes, are being wiped out, improvements are now being planned, and additional acres added to their present holdings.

During the past year there was a large increase in the land sales both by the Canadian Pacific and Canadian Northern land companies, as well as by private individuals. A great many of the purchases were made by farmers who thus secured adjoining quarters or halves, the best evidence probably that could be had of the value of Western Canada land when those who know the country best are adding to their holdings. A number of outsiders have also been purchasers, but very little land has changed hands for speculative purposes.

An evidence of the prosperity of the country is found in the fact that such a large number of farmers are purchasing automobiles.

Alleged hard times in Manitoba have not dampened the ardor of motorists or prospective ones. The automobile license department reported a few days since that there are 1,600 more private owners of cars in the province this year than last. The number of licenses issued this year was 10,400, as against 8,800 last year. At an average cost of $1,000 each the newly purchased cars represent a total outlay of $1,600,000, while the total number of cars in the province are worth approximately $10,000,000. The new cars are of modern types.

Many people, for some unexplained reason, have feared and continue to fear that this country will experience a period of industrial and business dullness after the war. There seems to be no justification for such a speculation.

On the contrary, there are sound reasons for belief in the prediction of Mr. Kingman Nott Robins, vice president of the Farm Mortgage Bankers' Association of America, who, in the Monetary Times, declares that Canada will experience her greatest proportionate development in production immediately after the conclusion of the war. The country will certainly have exceptionally favorable commercial conditions to take advantage of.

There will be the great need of Europe in the work of reconstruction, and along with this, the natural tendency of the allies to trade among themselves, and perhaps special trading privileges. Mr. Robins points out that the greatest development in the United States followed the costly and destructive civil war.

Mr. Robins, in an address before the Bondmen's Club of Chicago, expressed the opinion of a far-thinking mind and the review of an experience of the last of his numerous trips through the Canadian West. When he said he regarded the spirit of the Canadian people, as he found it, the most admirable and encouraging feature of the entire situation. They are facing the sacrifices of war courageously and with calm confidence as to the result, and in similar spirit they face the economic future, confident, but expecting to solve their problems only by dint of hard and intelligent effort.

An important part of Mr. Robins' address, which invites earnest attention, is that in which he refers to the land situation, and when his remarks are quoted they carry with them the impression gained by one who has given the question the careful thought of a man experienced in economic questions, and specially those relating to soil and its production. He is quoted as saying:

"Agricultural Canada was never so prosperous, and immigration of agricultural population both during and after the war seems a logical expectation, finding support in an increasing immigration at present from the United States, in spite of numerous canards spread broadcast throughout the United States to discourage emigration to Canada. The lands of Western Canada, however, as long as they are as at present the most advantageous for the settler of any on the continent, must continue to attract, despite misrepresentation, and on the increase of its agricultural and other primarily productive population depends the economic future of Canada. All other problems are secondary to this, and the large interests of Canada, recognizing this fact, are preparing to secure and hold this population both during and after the war. They are content to let city development and other secondary phases and superstructure follow in natural course. This recognition of the true basis of economic development is an encouraging augury for the future."

"The war has brought the United States and Canada nearer together economically than ever before. The total investment of United States capital in Canada doubtless exceeds $1,000,000,000, of which $300,000,000 has been invested since the war began. Except for Great Britain, Canada is the United States' best customer. Our exports to all of South America in the last three years were less than a third of our exports to Canada in the same period, although Canada has been rigidly reducing her imports since the war began. Even France, a good customer of the United States, bought $70,000,000 less than Canada during 1913, 1914, 1915. And yet Canada's purchasing power is in the first stages of development only. It has been estimated that the United States can support a population of 600,000,000. Using the same basis of calculation in reference to natural resources, Canada can support a population of 400,000,000.

"Canada is potentially the most populous, and, in primary production, at least, the richest unit of the British empire, and it behooves us in the United States to know our Canada."

The social conditions throughout Western Canada are everything that could be desired. Schools have been established in all districts where there may be ten or twelve children of school age, and these are largely maintained by liberal government grants. A fund for this purpose is raised from the revenue derived from the sale of school land, one-eighteenth of all lands being set aside as school lands. All the higher branches of education are cared for, there being high schools at all important centers, and colleges and universities in the principal cities.

The different religious denominations prevail, each having its separate church, and religious services are held in every hamlet and village, and in far-off settlements the pastor finds an attentive congregation. The rural telephone is one of the great modern conveniences that brings the farm home nearer to the market.

It is not saying too much to state that in matters of social importance, in the most remote settlements they carry with them the same influence as is to be found in the most prosperous farming districts of any of the states of the Union.—Advertisement.

HOW MRS. BEAN MET THE CRISIS

Carried Safely Through Change of Life by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Nashville, Tenn.—"When I was going through the Change of Life I had a tumor as large as a child's head. The doctor said it was three years coming and gave me medicine for it until I was called away from the city for some time. Of course I could not go to him then, so my sister-in-law told me that she thought Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound would cure it. It helped both the Change of Life and the tumor and when I got home I did not need the doctor. I took the Pinkham remedies until the tumor was gone, the doctor said, and I have not felt it since. I tell every one how I was cured. If this letter will help others you are welcome to use it."—Mrs. E. H. BEAN, 525 Joseph Avenue, Nashville, Tenn.

Forget to Pay.

Patrons of Winchester barber shops seem to have a mania for forgetting to pay their tonsorial bills. In many cases it is done unintentionally.

One evening, recently, a former Winchester resident who now lives in California entered a barber shop for a haircut and shave. He was in a hurry. His business for the evening included a lodge meeting and most important of all, catching a train for his home. Many of his old-time friends were in the shop when he stepped from the chair. He bade them all good-by and started to leave the shop. He had not yet paid his bill.

"Did you forget something?" the barber asked as the customer was leaving the shop.

"Oh, yes, I beg your pardon," the customer replied. "Good-by, good-by."

And the bill still remains unpaid.—Indianapolis News.

GUARDS CONSUME MUCH ICE CREAM

MINNESOTA SOLDIERS SHUN SALOONS FOR SODA FOUNTAINS AT MERCEDES, IS REPORT.

TROOPS RELIEVE REGULARS

Companies From First Regiment Leave Llano Grande Camp for Outpost Duty—Son-in-Law of President Is Visitor.

Llano Grande.

Although there are two beer saloons within four miles of camp, there has been little intoxication among the men, and no complaint of any Minnesotans being drunk. The soda fountains at Mercedes, Llano Grande and Donna are working overtime, however, and the proprietors are making fortunes.

A woman in Houston, who manufactures much of the ice cream sold to the soldiers in the Lower Rio Grande valley, is said to be clearing $1,000 a week.

Extra Train Brings "Pep."

Pop has been sold in large quantities and an extra express train has been placed on the branch railway in the valley to handle ice cream and pop shipments.

Every man in the First Minnesota infantry now is provided with a bed sack and straw has been issued to every man, so there will be no more sleeping on the ground for the soldiers in this regiment.

The government has not yet supplied the promised cots, but the men are living in hopes. With floored tents and bed sacks filled with straw, however, the men will get along very nicely.

New Y. M. C. A. Popular.

The new Y. M. C. A. is proving one of the most popular places on the Llano Grande camp. During the field meet holiday more than 10,000 men took advantage of the facilities of the institution to write letters "back home."

Captain L. R. S. Ferguson, chaplain of the First, says his stationery is exhausted, and if any Minnesota people desire to make contributions, he can dispose of it among the men.

All of the Minnesota regiments are building commodious mess shacks. These buildings are screened in and will contain both the kitchen and the mess hall, so that cooking and eating will be away from the flies and other insect pests.

Leave Camp for Outpost Duty.

Companies A and C, First Minnesota infantry, and battalion headquarters with Major M. L. Higbee in command, have left Llano Grande camp for outposts along the Taylor military road and the Rio Grande to relieve units of the Twenty-sixth regular infantry. A company, Captain O. D. Cutler, goes to the Mercedes pumping station, with battalion headquarters and C company, Captain D. O. Stegner, goes to Progreso.

C company is a St. Paul organization. B company, Minneapolis, and D company, St. Paul, will go to Donna pumping station and Campion store as soon as roads are passable. Each company will stay two weeks.

Francis B. Sayre of Williamstown, Mass., son-in-law of President Wilson, who is inspecting Y. M. C. A. institutions in the valley, was at Llano Grande.

Oppose Students' Release.

Officers of the Minnesota brigade are a unit in expressing disapproval of the move to grant discharges to college students enrolled in the guard in order that these men may return to their classes in September. Opinions of the colonels of the four Minnesota regiments submitted in compliance of General Lewis' request were to the effect that college students could better afford to remain on the border than many others in the organizations and that such a measure would tend to disorganize the regiments. All four commanders favor rescinding the order.

Breadwinners First.

Loss of a semester or even a year of collegiate work is of minor consequence in the case of these young men when compared to the absence of a business or professional man for the same period, the officers say. It is the general feeling that men who are sacrificing their business interests and in many cases their positions in remaining with the guard are entitled to first consideration in the matter of discharges. It is pointed out that men in this class have families dependent on them, while the college man has not as yet entered on a business career, and while the one has only a part of his training postponed by his service with the colors, the other has everything at stake.

Plans Milk and Cream Exhibit.

J. J. Farrell, state dairy and food commissioner, is preparing for a milk and cream exhibit that he promises will be a feature of the Minnesota State Fair. Prizes are offered by the state, the commissioner says, and details of the exhibit contest will be supplied upon application to the dairy and food commission, at the state Capitol. "Every milk producer and dealer should be interested in knowing how his products compare with those of competitors," Commissioner Farrell [illegible]

Complain of Drinking Water.

There has been considerable complaint in the national guard camp here concerning the quality of the drinking water, but this problem is being solved by the boiling of the water and the use of large water bags which act not only as filters but cool the water as well. When the Third, the first of the Minnesota regiments to arrive here went into camp there was scarcely any water at hand. An hour or so after the troops detrained a Mexican teamster brought a tank of water in a tank wagon which apparently had been used for oil.

Taste Oil and Alkali.

In addition to the natural alkali taste of the water it also tasted of oil. It was warm and the men could not drink enough of it to satisfy their thirst.

Barrels were used at first as the receptacles for the drinking water. They were for the most part open and exposed to dust and mosquitos. Ice in sufficient quantities to cool the water for the entire regiment was not forthcoming for several days, and it was during this period that many men of the Third were ill of bowel trouble.

Analysis Shows Larvae.

It was about a week after the Third arrived before water could be drawn from the taps, the officials in charge having rushed the troops in here without adequate provision for supplying them with water.

After about two weeks in camp it finally dawned on the military authorities that it might be well to analyze the water. An analysis was made and the report shows that the water as drawn from the open canals contained mosquito larvae.

It was then that an order was issued to boil the water for twenty minutes before permitting the soldiers to drink it.

Receptacles Too Small.

This was a safe and sane order, but the receptacles for boiling the water were small and the companies were provided with an unsufficient number of receptacles to supply enough water for the men, who were then engaged to a large extent in fatigue duty.

If there had been plenty of ice to cool the boiled water rapidly the system might have been successful, but there was a scarcity of ice for several days, and I saw scores of men drinking from the taps before the water was boiled.

These water bags hold about fifty gallons of water. They are hung above the ground, where the breeze will strike them, thus cooling the contents. Each bag has four taps, operated by the pressure of the finger.

Bags Solve Problem.

There is no contamination of the water by the dipping in of greasy cups. These taps also are used in the filling of canteens.

It is possible to boil the water now and keep these bags filled with a plentiful supply of cool water.

When every company is equipped with one of these water bags—and most of the companies have requisitioned them—there should be no further complaint regarding the quality or quantity of drinking water in this camp.

Guards Back for Recruits.

Twenty-seven of the Minnesota boys in khaki, brown of skin, hard of muscle and with the gleam of two months of out-of-doors in their eyes, jumped out of a tourist car at the St. Paul union station and joined in a rush to the telephones to call up home or friends. The men are from all three regiments and have come back to get 800 recruits to bring the regiments up to war strength.

Here are the Minneapolis boys:

Lieutenant Henry R. Prescott, Sergeants Sidney Hayes, Reynolds Bairncross and John C. Gates, Corporals Harry S. Shoultz and Richard Cullum and Privates James G. Nye and Loring L. Williams. The boys from St. Paul are Lieut. Milo A. Price, Sergeant Frank Fogle and Private John C. Parsons.

From All Parts of State.

The others are from all over the state. They are:

Capt. A. O. Stubested, commanding the recruit detail and hailing from Winona; Lieut. Donald F. Mackenzie, Second regiment; Lieutenants William A. Brown and Edward B. Coultier, Third; Sergeants Alvin H. Schutz and Robert W. Craig, Second; Sergeants Peter Romanski and George Stevenson, Third; Corporals Rudolph D. Robeck and William Gerrity, Second; Corporals John L. Carmody and Joseph D. Nelson, Third; Privates Stewart Griswold and Russell Barneck, Second, and Privates Ernest Eckhelm and Clinton C. Welborn, Third.

For Indefinite Stay.

The men bought breakfast in a restaurant near the union depot in St. Paul and without waiting to go home entrained on the St. Paul street railway for Fort Snelling, where they reported at 9:30 for orders to Capt. George R. Greene of the United States army, chief mustering officer at the fort, who will assign them to their recruiting divisions.

To Raze Buildings in 23 Towns.

Orders have been issued by Robert W. Hargadine, state fire marshal, condemning 23 buildings in scattered towns of the state. A shack at the main entrance to the fair grounds at St. Cloud was ordered razed following complaints from citizens there. Other orders included condemnations of four buildings in West Concord, two each in Willmar, Rice, Winnebago, St. Clair and Rushford and one building each in Kenyon, Hutchinson, Mantorville, Dodge Center, Hardwick, New Prague and Glencoe.

St. Cloud. — Picnics of the St. Cloud grocers and the M. E. church were postponed because of the spread of infantile paralysis in this section.

Duluth. — Rye sold at $1.20 a bushel, the highest price ever recorded for it on the Duluth Board of Trade, Aug. 22. The highest previous price for rye was $1.17.

Virginia. — An automobile driven by Munroe Shandeling and carrying eleven persons, mostly children, to a Jewish picnic at Ely lake, turned over today, killing one child and injuring most of the others.

Red Lake Falls. — The only remaining "wet" towns in Northwestern Minnesota, Red Lake Falls and Plummer, probably will be "closed" soon by the Federal Indian bureau, according to prohibition headquarters.

Owatonna. — Miss Rosette Hendrix of Minneapolis has been re-elected president of the Minnesota Women's Christian Temperance union of the annual convention here. With but one exception, other executive officers also were re-elected.

Winona. — Funeral services for Charles E. Ely, the first white boy to walk what now are the streets of Winona, have taken place at De Smet, S. D. Ely died in a sanitorium at Hot Springs, S. D. He had been in poor health for years.

Owatonna. — The state board of visitors has submitted to Governor Burnquist a highly commendatory report on conditions at the state public school for indigent children at Owatonna. There are 211 boys and 107 girls in the institution.

St. Paul. — The commission recently appointed by Governor J. A. A. Burnquist to revise and codify Minnesota laws relating to children, at a second meeting which was held at the state capitol, adopted a plan of organization and procedure.

Bemidji. — Members of the state normal school board and the presidents of the five state normals, with their wives, were guests here. They met to consider plans relative to the erection of the new normal school here. The site of the proposed building was inspected and general plans agreed on.

Fergus Falls. — L. L. LaRue, traveling passenger agent of the Great Northern railroad in this district for several years, has been transferred to the freight department, with headquarters at St. Paul. Mr. LaRue will be in charge of the territory out of Great Falls, Mont., and will spend most of his time in that section.

West St. Paul. — Governor J. A. A. Burnquist has signed a proclamation calling a special election November 7, in the petition of citizens of West St. Paul and vicinity asking that part of Dakota county be set aside and annexed to Ramsey county. The election will be in the district affected and on the same day as the general election.

St. Paul. — Andrew E. Fritz, state public examiner, in a report of an examination just completed of St. Paul municipal departments and made public shows a practical shortage of $2,475 in armory funds unaccounted for in the records, also numerous minor irregularities and cites a need for more systematic and thorough accounting by the city administration.

St. Paul. — Vigilance for several reasons is necessary in Minnesota to prevent the spread of the white pine blister rust, according to a statement made by F. L. Washburn, state entomologist. The blister attacks many varieties of evergreen trees, as well as many kinds of shrubs. The white pine blister rust has been found in two nurseries near the eastern border of Minnesota.

Faribault. — According to Lyndon A. Smith, attorney general, a further inquiry by Louis S. Headley, one of his assistants, into the condition of the Fire Relief association at Faribault, tends to sustain findings in the examination by J. O. Cederberg, deputy public examiner, whose report charged Edward F. Kelley as treasurer of the organization with $11,188 alleged shortage.

St. Paul. — According to a statement issued by State Auditor J. A. O. Preus, a new high record will be set this year in Minnesota's production of iron ore, despite recent reductions attributed to the strike on the Mesaba range. The auditor estimates that 1916 shipments from Minnesota mines will reach or exceed 40,000,000 tons, compared with the previous high record of 36,338,264 tons in 1913.

Minnesota, with an annual potato crop of 36,000,000 bushels, and which last year led all other states of the Union in the harvest of the tubers, will fall far short of its mark this year. This is the opinion expressed by H. G. Krum, Ramsey county agricultural agent, and is based on the shortage of the early crop and the present condition of the late crop which usually is harvested about October 1.

Argyle. — Optimism is rampant in the Red River valley, according to H. L. Melgaard, president of the Farmers & Merchants' bank. Mr. Melgaard asserted the farmers rather take the talk of a crop failure as a joke, as they have so much of last year's big crop left over that many are holding on to it in the hope of $2 wheat.

It is up to the State Highway Commission and the various county boards to make the best possible use of the $142,394.06 which the Federal government has assigned as Minnesota's share of the $5,000,000 appropriation under the Federal road act.

Ingenious Mr. Smith.

When Mr. Smith—your intimate friend Smith—awoke the other morning he was greeted by his wife with this:

"My sweet boy, do you know you came home late last night, and that you talked in your sleep?"

"Great Scott! No, did I?" said Smith, badly agitated. "What did I say? Tell me."

"I just couldn't make it all out, but it ended like ante-up-jackpot stake."

"Oh, yes, yes, my dear, I was reciting a little Esperanto that a friend was teaching me; I intended to tell it to you when I came home. It means 'How is my darling girl tonight?'"

No Trouble.

"Do you have any trouble keeping servants out where you live?" asked the city man.

"None whatever," replied the commuter.

"You surprise me."

"I thought I would. You see, we can't get any servants in the first place, so of course, we have no trouble keeping them."

"No one allowed to use this elevator except the man in charge. Anyone doing so will be discharged."

Billy was stepping on to go up when the manager turned round and said:

"I say, can't you read?"

"Yes," said Billy.

"Well, what does that notice say?" asked the manager.

"By gum, we'll both be sacked if we're catched."

"Lickers" Worth While.

"My papa can lick your papa," boasted Johnny, aged six.

"I don't care; my mamma can lick your mamma," came back Jimmy.

"Both of you make me tired," chimed in Sammy. "My papa and my mamma can both lick me, and the worst part of it is they take turns about doin' it."—Indianapolis News.

BY W. G. HUNT, EDITOR

Entered as Second-class matter August 30 905, at the post office at Sunbeam Minn. under the Act of Congress of March 3.1879

The Deer Park Johnstown flood writer has certainly got some queer ideas about Red Lake and its outlet Red Lake River, judging by his article in the last week's News-Press.

The article is hardly worthy of consideration, in view of the fact that it's purpose seems to be to stir up ill feeling and create strife, where there should be none.

The people of Highlanding certainly get awful mad at the Red Lake River sometimes, but they are like a parent with an unruly child. While they might discipline the child they would not get mad enough at it to kill it, and Highlanding would certainly object to having the Red Lake River moved over into Deer Park township.

Supposing that there was any possibility of getting any Legislature to carry out this wild scheme, where is he going to get the cash to dig the ditch? The government would certainly not appropriate the money; and the state would not give a dollar, so the only resource would be to tax it up to the land. As our lands are already bonded to the limit for drainage, and beyond the ability of lots of the farmers to pay, our Deer Park correspondent can be sure that D. P. O'Neill would oppose any wild cat scheme of this kind.

Our Deer Park neighbor is in no way affected by the floods of Red Lake River, and we would like to ask him why he don't go ahead and put up his hay this year? The Highlanding farmers on Red Lake River have got lots of hay put up, one of our nearest neighbors having eighty tons, and another one a hundred and six. What is the reason you Deer Park fellows have not got your hay put up?

As a matter of fact this has been the rainiest season that we have ever had since the opening of this reservation, and not only has the Red Lake River been at a flood stage all summer; but every other river in Minnesota has been in the same condition.

We have found out by past experience that it is best not to disclose all the efforts being made for the improvement of Red Lake River, but our Deer Park friend will get his mail some fine day, and learn that the government is having a survey made of the river to deepen and straighten it so it will take care of all flood waters in an ordinary season, but in seasons of this kind not only is the river flooded, but the whole country is in the same condition, and a ditch from the town of Hickory to St. Hilaire, would not benefit any one, and as there is no money to dig a mile of it, there is no use to further consider it.

CHANGING SEASONS BRING COLDS.

"Stuffed up head," clogged-up nose, tight chest, sore throat are sure signs of cold, and Dr. King's New Discovery is sure relief. A dose of this combination of antiseptic balsams soothes the irritated membrane, clears the head, loosens the phlegm, you breathe easier and realize your cold is broken up. Treat a cold persistently; half way measures leave a lingering cough. Take Dr. King's New Discovery until your cold is gone. For 47 years the favorite remedy for young and old. At your Druggist, 50c.—Adv.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Mark Twain as "Attraction."

A girl who was a stranger to Mark Twain once found her way into his Bermuda home with the hope of getting a sight of the author. She came suddenly in contact with him and frankly explained her errand.

"Have you seen the crystal cave yet," he asked, "or the aquarium?"

"No; I came to see you first," she answered.

"Well, you shouldn't have seen me first," he answered. "I run in opposition to the crystal and the aquarium. But they're not shucks to me. I'm lots better. I give them their money's worth. But you should see them. Then you'll appreciate me."

This was said in his most earnest drawl and with only a sparkle of humor in his keen blue eyes.

One of New York's Tiny Streets.

New York has some queer streets and Edgar street is one of them. It has been built up solidly on both sides from end to end for generations, but it has no numbers and no one lives on it, and no one does business there. The letter carrier never stops. [illegible] Fifteen long steps take you along the sidewalk from one end to the other. [illegible] little thoroughfare [illegible] street, lying between Broadway and the Hudson, below Rector street, in oldest old New York.—New York World.

RID YOUR CHILD OF WORMS.

Thousands of children have worms that sap their vitality and make them listless and irritable. Kickapoo Worm Killer kills and removes the worms and has a tonic effect on the system. Does your child eat spasmodically? Cry out in sleep or grind its teeth? These are symptoms of worms and you should find relief for them at once. Kickapoo Worm Killer is a pleasant remedy. WHAT ONE BIG MAN THINKS OF ANOTHER

President W. H. P. Faunce, of Brown University, is a pretty live wire who keeps abreast of the times, has keen powers of observation, and knows a good man when he sees him. Here is what he has to say about the Republican Candidate for the Presidency:

"I have known Justice Hughes intimately since we were students together at Brown and have seen him a thousand times at work and at play. No man of our generation has a finer combination of character and intellect. Absolutely fearless, unselfish, loyal to American ideals, he is worthy of a nation's trust.

"All his friends know that behind the dignity of bearing is a rich fund of humor and good fellowship. Whether he is climbing a mountain, reading novels, playing with his children, resisting a political lobby or delivering the opinion of the Supreme Court, he is ever the same rugged, democratic, fair-minded American. His varied experience has given him wide horizon and sympathy with every aspect of American life.

"He possesses two qualities rarely found together—the judicial temper and the capacity for swift and resolute action. Under his administration the fog which now besets many public questions would be cleared away.

"His penetrating mind goes to the heart of any subject he selects and strips off the irrelevant at once. Such a mind is peculiarly needed amid the intricate problems that now confront America.

"We need more than good intentions. We need clear vision, sound judgment, strong will, unhesitating decision. In short, we need Charles E. Hughes."

IN PREPAREDNESS THE ADMINISTRATION HAS FOLLOWED, NOT LED.

In the demand for reasonable preparedness the Administration has followed, not led. Those who demanded more adequate forces were first described as "nervous and excited." Only about a year and a half ago we were told that the question of preparedness was not a pressing one; that the country had been misinformed. Later, under the pressure of other leadership, this attitude was changed. The Administration, it was said, had "learned something" and it made a belated demand for an increased army. Even then, the demand was not prosecuted consistently and the pressure exerted on Congress with respect to other Administrative measures was notably absent.

We are told that the defects revealed by the present mobilization are due to the "system." But it was precisely these defects that under the constant warnings of recent years, with the whole world intent on military concerns, should have been studied and rectified. The Administration has failed to discharge its responsibilities. Apparently, it is now seeking to meet political exigencies by its naval program. But it has imposed upon the country an incompetent naval administration.

—From Mr. Hughes' Speech of acceptance.

Miss Sarah Homme will teach the Deer Park school this term.

M. E. Hyland threshed the grain on the Andrew Johnson farm Tuesday afternoon.

Miss Minnie Nelson left for Thief River Falls Monday, where she will attend High School.

Wheat only turns out about five bushels to the acre, and is of very poor quality.

R. R. Johnson and Mr. Oss, of Goodridge, were buying cattle in this locality this week.

The Highlanding school started Tuesday, with Miss Miller, of Thief River Falls, for teacher.

There were quite a few of the young folks of this vicinity that attended the dance held at Mavie Saturday evening.

Attorneys W. E. Rowe and F. A. Grady of Crookston opened the chicken season in this locality yesterday.

Several Indians from the Reservation have been camping near here, the past ten days digging snake root.

There was quite a large crowd at the auction sale of Edwin T. Lande, last Saturday, and all cattle brought good prices.

Corn seems to be a very good crop this year, but owing to the cold backward spring, there was very little of it planted in this locality this year.

The failure of the flax crop last year, caused a large number of the farmers to not sow any this year, and now it is the only crop that promises good returns.

The prairie chicken season opened yesterday, but there seems to be very few chickens this year. The cold wet spring undoubtedly is the reason.

Miss Ella and Marie Causin, left for Thief River Falls Monday, where they will attend High School, after spending the summer vacation at home.

The mosquitoes are certainly having their inning this week, as they are so thick that you can cut slices of them with a knife, and their bills are ground to a needle point.

The County Auditor of Koochiching County has been removed from office by Governor Burnquist. It appears that he made contracts to misappropriate the county funds to contractors on roads. That is the proper way to do business, when a county official starts crooked work, promptly fire him.

"Mine boy Stephen," got a man to run around the country, and gather up cream from the farmers, so he, Stephen, could get the butter milk to feed his hogs. The man's salary was so small that one of his horses died last week for lack of breath. The next thing that Stephen saw to speculate on was the horse's hide, so he bought it, and ordered it delivered near the bank of Red Lake River opposite of Kracka. As he did not have any one to go and handle the hide, he had to go himself, and the smell of it, drove him from the vicinity, and now he wants the poor cream hauler to refund him the price he paid for the hide. "Only thing boy Stephen is smart, I tell you!"

AN UNBIASED VIEW.

From Washington Correspondence New York Evening Post:

It is idle for even the Democrats to claim that Mr. Hughes' speeches have not been effective. Whether or not they have seemed to the voters in the West and Northwest is something very difficult to judge at this distance, but it is not to be denied that right here in Washington Mr. Hughes' utterances have had a very concrete effect. It is an ill wind that blows no good. The rumpus that Mr. Hughes has stirred up about civil service reform has really gotten under the skin of the Administration. It is something which the President and his political advisers carelessly ignored. So it is with a portion of Mr. Hughes' criticism of the Mexican policy. When he argues that the paramount duty of the United States is to protect its citizens abroad in their lives and property, he is standing on unimpeachable ground. And the Administration knows it. The effect, certainly, of Mr. Hughes' remarks will be to stiffen the hand of the Administration in dealing with a question of protection for Americans abroad.

Governor Hughes announces in one of his speeches that he is a constructionist. But we are willing to admit that so far as Democratic policies are concerned he is a destructionist.

Tammany leader Charles F. Murphy announces that he will retire after the campaign. It is believed that many other more or less distinguished Democrats will follow his example.

You know the Railroads are talking a good deal these days about the "Safety Habit." It is not a safety razor or a safety bicycle, It's safety for the lives intrusted to their care.

The principle applies to the banking business. Our bank employed the Safety Habit at the outset—safety to the depositors money intrusted to our care. Every dollar left with us will be taken care of. Safety is our watch word. We would like to have your account on this basis.

LOOK TO FOURTH GENERATION

Writer Sees Little to Praise in the First Three Generations of Modern Americans.

The North American child is too often merely the by-product of marriage. It serves as an outlet for that pride which its parents cannot always reasonably take in themselves. It is petted, cajoled, pampered, overdressed and underdisciplined, till there is evolved a strange pygmy for whom the world soon grows banal, who is destitute of the petitionary appeal of childhood and who surveys an already anticipated and thoroughly analyzed future with the cold eyes of unnatural knowledge, Alan Sullivan writes in Harper's Magazine for August. The world is its football. It is smart beyond description. But there is in the forced garden of its life no sheltered bed where may bloom the flowers of graciousness or peace. Of such will be the new aristocracy, and its traditions will be of grandfathers who, by virtue of that fine native American longheadedness, delivered the goods of their period and were promptly and suitably rewarded. But there will be few traditions of courtliness, scant reminders that noblesse oblige, and but scattered memories of inherited responsibilities. The sempiternal dollar will still dominate. One generation was too busy collecting and the other will be too busy spending. The second generation offers no promise and the third but little. The fourth will probably open a new and finer cycle.

The Difference.

"Politician, isn't he?"

"Oh, no, he's a statesman."

"Well, what's the difference?"

"A statesman, my dear chap, is one who is in politics because he has money. A politician is one who has money because he is in politics."

No, Claud, a man isn't necessarily a simpleton merely because he lives the simple life.

"There's a Reason"

Katy Did!

By Florence Lillian Henderson

(Copyright, 1916, by W. G. Chapman.)

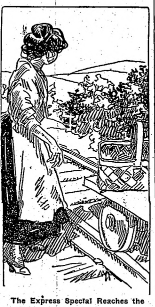
"Katy did! Katy did! Katy did!"

Katy blushed. She hurried her steps, actually embarrassed. What Katy did, she alone and Bruce Danvers knew, yet she fluttered when she recalled it all, and just now because she was passing the very spot where a week previous young Danvers had told her he loved her and asked her to return his kiss—and Katy did.

And now from the trees came the remindful hilarious chorus of the merry insects, as though they had seen it all and were proclaiming it to the world.

"Father says that Bruce is not our kind," soliloquized Katy Branson. "That is true, for his father is president of the road. But Bruce—Mr. Danvers said that even the best father in the world should not stand between him and the girl he loved best. Oh, I hope he meant it—I must believe that, or it would break my heart!"

Then Katy tripped home to her duties. They were humble ones, yet she graced them. Old Mr. Branson and his wife and daughter lived in a rather unusual environment. They had a little home surrounded by a few acres about half way up Clover Cut. The cut was four miles long and until the year previous had been a part of the railroad. Then the company had decided to save a mile of crooked windings along the valley and abandoned the cut single track. They tore out the connections at either end and left the worn rails to neglect, weeds and rust.



The Express Special Reaches the Bridge in Forty-Five Minutes.

Mr. Branson had formerly been a section superintendent, but had grown too old to work except around the little home plat. He had put in crops of early vegetables for which there was a good cash demand at Brocton, a mile down the line beyond the north end of the cut. A battered up light handcar had been dumped in the ditch and left there when the old line was abandoned. He had got it righted, and with Katy's help, too. He had patched it up and, lo and behold! a new order of traffic, for Katy learned to man it. Every day she loaded it with the baskets of kitchen produce and ran it the three miles to the end of the rails. There were always half a dozen Brocton boys on hand at the terminus, ready and willing to carry the baskets to the town stores where Katy disposed of their contents.

Then one afternoon her faithful—or faithless—cohorts, as the case might be, disappointed her, enticed away by a ball game. That mile down the hot graveled roadbed of the main line looked an arduous adventure to Katy, for her two baskets were big, well laden and heavy. A well-mannered young fellow sauntering by discerned her plight. He insisted on becoming her knight chevalier. That was the beginning of her acquaintance with Bruce Danvers.

He had been frank and open with her as to his prospects. "They depend upon my father just now," he told Katy, "but I can start out to earn my living independently if he objects to our engagement."

"Do nothing rash, dear," pleaded Katy, almost piteously, though, and he smiled at her fears and looked the valiant whole-souled fellow he was, and she trusted him, and hoped everything would come out just as he predicted.

Then a fateful day came to Katy. She had not seen Bruce Danvers for a week, nor had she received a line from him. That did not worry her, for she never doubted his fidelity. It made her feel surely lonely, however. Everything went at odds that day, it seemed. She had to carry the baskets to Brocton, she was delayed in getting rid of her produce. There was another long wait in settling with a fractious merchant. It was dusk quite as she neared the entrance to the cut. She set down her baskets and rested on a fallen tree beside some bushes. Then she peered through the interlining branches, for the sound of voices attracted her and a startling declaration in the gruff tones of a man thrilled:

"Let's start, then," the accents fell distinctly upon her ear. "The express special reaches the bridge in forty-five minutes. She's carrying a full treasure chest and it's ours if we plant a few ties in time."

Katy sprang to her feet. In a flash she recognized the four men for what they were—train wreckers and looters. She formed a speedy impulse to hasten back to Brocton and give the alarm, but her fleeing form was seen.

"Stop her, whoever she is—been spying on us!" roared out a sturdy voice.

The quartette started a slanting run towards the road leading into Brocton. Katy realized that even if not directly headed off, she would soon be overtaken. The cut—the handcar! It was less than two hundred feet away. She left the baskets where they were, abruptly changed her course—and made the dash contemplated.

Zing! The closeness of a speeding bullet made her fair face blanch. Cracketty—jangle! She set the propeller bars in action. She heeded not a second fusilade, nor the menacing threats of her pursuers. The dim dusk overtook her. The men left far behind. How far had her action defeated the plans of the plotters? Katy thought rapidly.

They might send a contingent down the cut after her, while others hastened down the main line to carry out their unholy work. Was there time to run the handcar the full length of the cut and cover the half-mile stretch to the main line? Katy feared not. Two-thirds of the cut route covered, she jumped to the ground and ran up the sharp incline leading to the higher levels, a mile in width, then the deep gap just beyond the bridge.

Katy knew what she was about, and raced like an expert runner. She arrived breathless and tottering at the edge of the gap. There was a farmhouse five hundred yards distant, but Katy could afford to waste no time. All along the edge of the gap were little cocks of hay, cured and dry as tinder. A country boy stood leaning on his pitchfork, lighting his pipe. Katy ran up to him.

"Quick!" she fairly ordered, "give me a match."

"You—you—you don't smoke?" gasped the astounded bumpkin, but he produced the article asked for.

Katy grasped the fork. She struck the match on its handle, dropped it in a heap of hay, lifted the blazing wisps on the tines of the fork and threw them twenty feet down into the gap.

"More! more! more!" she fairly screamed, as she caught the echo of the whistle of the special, not half a mile distant.

"It's dad's hay—who will pay?" blurted out the lad.

"The railroad company, and richly," panted the undauntable Katy. "Pile it down, keep up the blaze. Ah, we've done it—we've done it!"

Yes, the blaze had halted the train, aye, and saved it, for when the train crew went ahead at Katy's direction, they found a pile of ties on the curve near the bridge that would have sent every coach on the train into the ditch, a wreck.

And as Katy stood, the adored heroine of the occasion, who should come up but Bruce Danvers and his father.

"It's simply irresistible, Bruce," the railroad magnate told his happy son a little later. "The girl has real railroad stuff in her. She saved our lives and she's good as gold. Make her Mrs Danvers as soon as you like."

Picardy Names.

Whence come the names of the Picardy villages, strange even in France, on the ground now being fought over by French and Germans? Among the names of places mentioned are Bray, which is of Celtic origin and signifies a swamp or morass. Fay is from the Latin "fagus," meaning a beech tree. Hem is a home or habitation. Estrees is from the Latin "stranta," meaning route. Fins is from "finis," signifying the limits. Combles means vales or valleys. The termination "oy" is applied to a plantation: Quesnoy, Tilloy, Autnoy, Rosoy. The name of "Bois des Trones" is simply "the wood of the thrones." The name of the city of Albert was formerly the same as the name of the stream, Ancre. It was changed when the lordship passed to the house of Albert de Lyne of the family Alberti, originally of Florence. Peronne, noted because of the captivity of King Louis XI at that place, was for a long time called La Pucelle, "the Maiden."

You Can't Help Your Baldness.

According to Miss Dorothy Osborn of the Ohio State university, baldness in men is inherited just as much as horns in sheep.

Baldness in women is more frequent than is generally known, she declares, "because women can conceal their baldness much more easily than men." She finds that a woman is bald only when she inherits it from both parents. If one of her parents was bald, however, she may transmit baldness to one-half her sons. If a mother is bald, her sons will be bald, no matter whether the father is or not. Her daughters will not be bald unless the father was also.

OLD STRAWBERRY BEDS

Dead Leaves Around Old Crowns Should Be Removed.

Plants in Center Should Be Thinned and Rest Thoroughly Cultivated With Hoe—Give Young Plants Chance to Start.

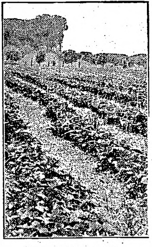
(By E. P. SANDSTEN, Colorado Agricultural College, Fort Collins, Colo.)

As soon as the picking season is over, the strawberry bed should be mowed and raked off. The dead leaves around the old crowns should also be removed and burned. The rows are generally crowded with plants in the center, and these should be thinned out and the rest thoroughly cultivated with the hoe. Then the beds should be given a coating of well rotted barnyard manure and worked into the ground, and a liberal supply of water applied.

In many cases where the rows are heavily matted and the young plants have taken root between the rows, it is advisable to plow up the center of the rows, leaving the young plants to form the new row.

Strawberry plants produce the heaviest at the first season's fruiting and decline very rapidly after that time. For this reason, it is advisable to remove the old plants and give the younger ones a chance to develop. The old plants can easily be told from the young plants by the roots. Old plants have dark-colored roots, while young plants have light-colored. Also the crowns of the old plants become black and elongated, while on the young plants the crowns are short and light-colored.

Good fruit growers will ordinarily not fruit the beds more than two seasons, it being cheaper and more profitable to set out a new bed. But where only limited ground is to be had, the renovating system above described can be utilized to advantage.



Wide Hedgerow System.

TO PREVENT POTATO BLIGHT

Disease Can Be Controlled to Certain Extent by Spraying With Bordeaux Mixture.

It is not always possible to prevent the blight, but you can control it in large measure by thorough and frequent spraying with bordeaux mixture. The first spray should be put on when the potatoes are about six inches high and should be repeated at intervals of ten days to two weeks as the new leaves appear.

To make the bordeaux mixture dissolve six pounds sulphate of copper in 25 gallons of water. In another vessel slake six pounds of fresh stone lime and dilute to 25 gallons. Strain the lime solution and mix the two together when you are ready to spray. Do not attempt to keep from one spraying to another any of the unused mixture.

CREAMERY GRADE ALL CREAM

Better Prices Stimulate Farmer to Obtain Better Cattle—Better Grade of Butter.

(By L. G. RINKLE.)

The American farmer who sells cream should insist that the creamery grade his cream. This will tend to cull out the poor quality of cream and make possible a better grade of butter. Give the creamery a good grade of cream and they can make a good grade of butter. Good butter sells for a high price, therefore top prices can be paid for the cream. Better cream prices stimulate the farmer in obtaining better dairy cattle and increase the desire for a more careful study of economical milk production.

VALUE OF GOAT RECOGNIZED

Animals Were Long Looked Upon as Jokes in This Country—Goat's Milk is Health-Giving.

Goats have long been looked on as jokes in this country, though in some foreign countries they have been relied on as sources of meat, milk and material for the manufacture of cloth. Of recent years the health-giving qualities of goat's milk are being recognized, as well as the palatability of kid meat, and the silky-haired varieties are being pastured on waste lands to good advantage. The forestry service is using these animals to clean out the dense brush on the reserves, so that grass may get started.

GETTING PROFIT FROM BEES

Honey Gatherer Is Faithful and Deserving Creature—Buy Nuclei From Reliable Man.

(From the Missouri College of Agriculture.)

Have you bees?

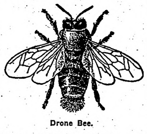
Why waste a honey crop?

Why let your neighbor's bees get your crop?

Buy bees by the pound, with a good Italian queen.

Get a few swarms of your own this summer.

Buy neglected stands of bees and take care of them and give them a chance. The bee is a faithful and deserving creature.



Drone Bee.

Furnish a neighbor bee keeper with a few good hives, with frames and comb foundation starters, and pay him for hiving a few swarms in them for you.

Buy good, strong colonies of bees in hives with straight combs. These should be secured from someone known to be reliable and experienced in bee keeping.

Buy a few nuclei from a reliable bee-supply man. A nucleus is a part of a colony of bees secured by dividing up a strong colony into two, three or four parts, putting each part in a separate hive to build up into a full colony.

TROUBLES OF MELON GROWER

Frequent Loss Caused by Anthracnose Attacking Plant—Blights Foliage and Spots Fruit.

Melon growers frequently suffer loss from anthracnose, a disease which blights the foliage and spots the fruit. The leaves are covered with irregular, dark, dead spots, and may die before the melons are ripe. The trouble develops on the fruit in the form of water soaked, and later sunken spots of varying size which have a pink center.

The fungus which causes watermelon anthracnose attacks cucumbers, cantaloups, and squashes. Warmth and moisture or rainy weather are especially favorable to the spread and development of the disease. It can be largely controlled or prevented by spraying thoroughly with fresh homemade bordeaux mixture.

The disease usually appears when the fruit is nearly grown. Watch carefully for the leaf spot and spray as soon as it appears. If the weather is favorable for its development, spray two weeks before the melons begin to mature, and make a second application a week later.

TO PREVENT HORNS GROWING

Clip Away Hair Surrounding Buttons on Calves and Then Make Use of Caustic Potash.

Horns on dairy cows are a common source of annoyance to dehorned cattle and oftentimes the udders of cattle are seriously injured by horn jabs. Unless the cow is used for show ring purposes by all means remove the horns.

To keep a herd of hornless cows the best way is to begin by dehorning the calves. This can be done when the calf is but four or five days old by using caustic potash. Simply clip away the hair surrounding the small buttons and rub on the caustic potash until the skin bleeds slightly or until a small blister is formed. If the work is properly done a dent can be felt in the skull in a few days and no horns will develop.

FUNGOUS DISEASE OF BEANS

Both Wax and Green Varieties are Troubled With Anthracnose—Spray With Bordeaux.

Anthracnose is a fungous disease of both wax and green beans, appealing first as small purplish discolorations but later developing into large, dark spots surrounded by a light brown ring. These spots often run together. A pink mass of spores forms in the center of these spots. The fungus penetrates through the pod and into the seed, causing it to become spotted. The most important method of control is by seed selection. If the disease appears early, the plants can be sprayed with a 3-5-50 formula of bordeaux mixture. Crop rotations and the burning of the infected plants is also very important.

LIGHTING SYSTEM FOR FARM

Add to Convenience as Well as Attractiveness—Encouragement for Small Isolated Plants.

Good lighting systems for house and barn add to the attractiveness as well as to the convenience of farm life. Trouble is usually due to ignorance or negligence. The introduction of modern equipment, such as high-efficiency lamps, has done much to encourage the development of small isolated plants and a few years may make their use common.

Was His Humor Conscious?

A young woman in Pittsburgh was recently looking at material in one of that city's leading dry goods stores in an attempt to select what would make an attractive skirt for the seashore. The clerk rather strenuously suggested the availability of several patterns.

"But," said the young woman, "they are rather loud, don't you think?"

Without a glimmer of a smile, and in a perfectly correct tone for a salesman to assume, he replied:

"Too loud for awnings—just right for skirts."

GUARDS CONSUME MUCH ICE CREAM

MINNESOTA SOLDIERS SHUN SALOONS FOR SODA FOUNTAINS AT MERCEDES, IS REPORT.

TROOPS RELIEVE REGULARS

Llano Grande.

Although there are two beer saloons within four miles of camp, there has been little intoxication among the men, and no complaint of any Minnesotans being drunk. The soda fountains at Mercedes, Llano Grande and Donna are working overtime, however, and the proprietors are making fortunes.

A woman in Houston, who manufactures much of the ice cream sold to the soldiers in the Lower Rio Grande valley, is said to be clearing $1,000 a week.

Extra Train Brings "Pop."

Pop has been sold in large quantities and an extra express train has been placed on the branch railway in the valley to handle ice cream and pop shipments.

Every man in the First Minnesota infantry now is provided with a bed sack and straw has been issued to every man, so there will be no more sleeping on the ground for the soldiers in this regiment.

The government has not yet supplied the promised cots, but the men are living in hopes. With floored tents and bed sacks filled with straw, however, the men will get along very nicely.

New Y. M. C. A. Popular.

The new Y. M. C. A. is proving one of the most popular places on the Llano Grande camp. During the field meet holiday more than 10,000 men took advantage of the facilities of the institution to write letters "back home."

Captain L. R. S. Ferguson, chaplain of the First, says his stationery is exhausted, and if any Minnesota people desire to make contributions, he can dispose of it among the men.

All of the Minnesota regiments are building commodious mess shacks. These buildings are screened in and will contain both the kitchen and the mess hall, so that cooking and eating will be away from the flies and other insect pests.

* * *

Leave Camp for Outpost Duty.

Companies A and C, First Minnesota infantry, and battalion headquarters with Major M. L. Higbee in command, have left Llano Grande camp for outposts along the Taylor military road and the Rio Grande to relieve units of the Twenty-sixth regular infantry. A company, Captain O. D. Cutler, goes to the Mercedes pumping station, with battalion headquarters and C company, Captain D. O. Stegner, goes to Progreso.

C company is a St. Paul organization. B company, Minneapolis, and D company, St. Paul, will go to Donna pumping station and Campion store as soon as roads are passable. Each company will stay two weeks.

Francis B. Sayre of Williamstown, Mass., son-in-law of President Wilson, who is inspecting Y. M. C. A. institutions in the valley, was at Llano Grande.

For State Constabulary.

Officers of the Minnesota national guard will support any bill establishing a state constabulary in Minnesota. So far as can be learned, they are unanimous in favor of such a measure as is proposed by Senator E. J. Westlake.

Major A. A. Caswell of Anoka is one of the men who favors a state constabulary.

"If we retain the old national guard system," he said, "I believe we should have state constabulary. I do not believe militiamen should be called upon to do strike duty, and I am sure that it would be easier to get men to enlist in the guard if we had a state constabulary."

Others Favor Plan.

Captain Frank Reed, adjutant of the First Minnesota and legislative candidate in Minneapolis, is another who favors the plan.

"It would be particularly valuable," he said, "for there are many men who will not enlist in the national guard because they fear that they will be called out for strike duty. A state constabulary would solve the problem.

Major Albert Pfaender, New Ulm, former member of the state legislature, is another who is enthusiastic in favor of the plan for a state constabulary. In fact, of the scores of officers I have talked with, each favors the plan.

Guards Reach Progreso.

Llano Grande.—C company, First regiment, of St. Paul, finally is at Progreso after being fifty-four hours on the road. Equipment was carried by mule teams; auto trucks which were used were stuck in the mud but finally got through. Regulars stationed at Progreso were taken to Mercedes in the bedraggled machines. The First regiment temporarily is without a colonel, Colonel Luce having left recently for a short business trip to Minneapolis. The regiment has just been paid for July.

Inefficient Officers to Go.

Inefficient officers of the national guard on the border will be weeded out, General E. M. Lewis, camp commander, told officers at the first general officers' meeting since the camp's establishment. General Lewis said he will hold regimental commanders responsible for the efficiency of their respective officers and if the commanders fail to eliminate the inefficient, steps would be taken to eliminate the commanders.

To Take Up Problems.

He said some of the regiments in camp have made progress, but others have not done satisfactory work. He enjoined the officers to remedy this situation also.

General Lewis asked all officers to take up immediately small combat problems for the men, stating that if the troops are ordered into Mexico the battles will be with small units.

He announced target practice in this camp will begin at once. Four hundred men can fire at once on the range and about four regiments can be cared for daily.

Must Keep Up Appearance.

General Lewis urged the officers to take steps to keep the men clean and well appearing, and ordered them to make requisitions at once for such clothing as necessary.

He said the general appearance of the men had improved before the recent tropical storm, but the men have been "backsliding" since, due he thought to the dirty manual labor necessary to drain the camp.

The general ordered the officers to see that every man in camp is provided with mosquito bars to prevent an epidemic of dengue fever, which, he said, has reached Mercedes from Brownsville.

The general also asked the officers to stop promiscuous firing by soldiers in the brush surrounding the camp and to bring all offenders to trial.

"Only good luck has prevented some one from being killed," he said.

* * *

Men Build Mess Halls.

The camp of the First Minnesota resembles a city addition just after a big real estate boom. Skeletons of frame buildings break the monotony of lines and lines of drab tents, soldiers and mule teams and motor trucks are hurrying lumber along Minnesota avenue for other buildings and the sound of the hammer is heard in the land.

No, the militiamen are not building houses to replace their tents. They, that is those who have had some experience as carpenters and many who have not, are constructing mess houses. These buildings will serve at kitchen and dining room and will be fly proof. Each company will have its own "cafe" and there is a spirited contest on to be the first to complete its building. Company E of St. Paul has a slight advantage which the other organizations are working hard to overcome.

Captain Frank E. Reed, regimental adjutant, has so far recovered from the burns received Sunday night as to be able to operate his typewriter again. Captain Reed maintains that he was attempting to adjust a gasoline lantern when the explosion occurred. Colonel Luce says that the adjutant doubted the explosive qualities of the brand of gasoline supplied and was testing it with a lighted match.

Second Minnesota Sergeant Dies.

H. E. Johnson, sergeant in Company ding E. Johnson, sergeant in Company K, St. Peter, of the Second Minnesota, died at the field hospital following an operation for appendicitis a week ago. For a week previous to the operation Johnson had been under treatment at the regimental infirmary because of an abrasion on his leg, but not until the day of the operation did he complain of the other trouble. He was taken to the hospital immediately, but it was found that gangrene had set in. The soldier is survived by his mother, a widow, and one brother.

The Third regiment spent part of the day on the target range at rifle inspection and the First will take up this work at once.

Dana Schmahl, son of Secretary of State Schmahl, has been elected second lieutenant in Battery D.

Mules Rescue Trucks.

Twelve government motor trucks carrying A and C companies of the First Minnesota infantry to the Mercedes pumping station at Progreso stuck in the mud four miles south of Mercedes. Wagons with mules were sent to the relief of the trucks and extricated them after several hours' work. Major Matt Higbee, after looking at the roads, wanted permission to haul the outfit by mule teams, but the Brownsville headquarters said the trip must be made by motor and 12 motors started. It took three days for the 10-mile trip.

All the Minnesota regiments marched six to eight miles with packs and some equipment. Only three men fell out.

Colonel Erle D. Luce has left here for Minneapolis on a short business trip. He also will aid in recruiting.

Government Is Criticized.

Llano Grande.—There is considerable criticism by officers here of the government's policy of allowing students or prospective students to return home to attend school or college, and at the same time ordering recruiting parties to return home to bring more men to the border. Officers generally are of the opinion the students are better able to sacrifice a year or part of a year from school or college than are business or professional men away from their business.

STATE BREVITIES

Knife River.—Teamsters who demand the same pay as pulpwood handlers, 50 cents per hour, stopped the loading of wood here, the Alger Smith company not granting their demands.

Duluth.—Changes in Minnesota grain grades, made by the state board of grain appeals at a meeting in Duluth, have been announced by the chairman, E. R. Rehnke, of Minneapolis.

Owatonna.—Fire of unknown origin destroyed the L. G. Campbell flour mill here. The mill, which had a capacity of 800 barrels daily, was rebuilt last year. The loss is estimated at $100,000.

Duluth.—With its decks covered by a mountain of loose grain, hiding half the deckhouse, the big steamer Livingstone, Captain H. Oertling, came into port. Local marine men were amazed at the unprecedented sight.

Minneapolis.—Destruction of a new concrete bridge on the exhibition space of the state highway commission near machinery hill, will be a feature of the educational campaign planned by the commission during the Minnesota State Fair.

Duluth.—With a $500 reward as an incentive, the Cook county, Minnesota woods were filled with armed men in an effort to capture Fred Davis, wanted by the Federal authorities, they say, on suspicion of having robbed the postoffice at Grand Marais, Minn.

Winona.—V. Gardner, manager of the savings department of the Northwestern National bank, Minneapolis, was elected secretary of the Winona Association of Commerce. He will succeed H. F. Whipple, who becomes cashier of the new National Bank of Winona.

Hibbing.—The Industrial Workers of the World commissary, known as the "Strikers' Relief Store," has closed its doors. The few remnants of supplies were transferred to the office of Secretary Paul DiSanto at Workers' hall, where they will be dealt out to the needy.

Winona.—A test case in which the Minnesota Health Board and physicians throughout the state will be interested was started here when D. B. Pitchard, a local officer, signed a complaint charging Dr. L. G. Wilberton of Winona with failing to report a case of infantile paralysis.

Perham.—Louis Dombeck, 40 years old, and his son, Romo Dombeck, 7 years old, were killed late at night when the automobile in which they were riding with several companions stalled on a crossing of the Northern Pacific railway near here and was struck by a passenger train.

St. Paul.—Governor J. A. A. Burnquist in an open letter to a member of a committee of the state federation of labor that conferred with him regarding the miners' strike on the Mesaba iron range in northern Minnesota, made his first formal statement anent the strike that began in June, and explained his attitude.

Moorhead.—"Sooners" are reported to be hunting ducks in the famous Manston slough district, between Barnesville and Wolverton, Minn., and game officials have been notified of their activities. Reports from the district say that the sooners are getting big bags of game, for the ducks are unusually plentiful this season.

Stillwater.—C. J. Swendsen, chairman of the state board of control, which supervises the state prison twine plant, has expressed satisfaction at the announcement that the Federal Department of State is to ask the Mexican government to inquire into sharp advances in sisal prices and to request the Federal Trade commission to obtain additional data on the subject.

Mendota.—The decomposed body of a soldier, evidently murdered, has been found by Sheriff Murname of Dakota county and Deputy Sheriff Buck of Minneapolis along the railway tracks south of Mendota. The Fort Snelling authorities have searched their records and believe the dead man is Private Andrew Samuelson, cook in D company, Second Minnesota infantry.

Stillwater.—Figures from the report of F. A. Whittier, state parole agent, just made public, show a decrease in the number of prisoners committed to the state prison at Stillwater in the year ending July 31, compared with the previous year. Mr. Whittier calls attention to the fact that the year just closed is the first under the Minnesota county option law, which has banished saloons from 44 counties.

St. Paul.—Minnesota State trust funds now total $36,288,569.23, having increased $2,842,212 during the biennial fiscal period just ended, principally through proceeds of sales of timber, minerals and agricultural lands, according to a statement issued by State Auditor J. A. O. Preus. The report shows the accumulations from various sources in the past two years, and the manner in which they have been invested.

Stillwater.—Andrew W. Anderson, town of May, has been elected a member of the Washington county board of commissioners, succeeding the late J. W. Houle of Forest Lake. He was chosen by the chairmen of the town and village boards in his district, receiving five out of seven votes.

Northfield.—The fiftieth annual convention of the Congregational conference of Minnesota will be held in Northfield the week beginning Oct. 8. The conference will convene just half a century after the meeting at which Carleton college was founded by the state Congregational conference.

SAW ADVERTISING IN SONG

Concert Committee Balked at Suggestion Made by the Close-Fisted Coal Dealer.

They were getting up a charity concert in the small provincial town, and the committee determined to work hard to make a great success of it. The local magnates and tradesmen were called on, and to one of the latter, a coal merchant, whose place was somewhere in the North, an appeal was duly made.

"Ah'm very sorry," was the coal merchant's reply to the committee's representative, "but Ah's stopped subscribin' tae a' these things."

"Well, you'll give us an order for an advertisement on the program?" suggested the caller.

The coal merchant shook his head. Then a sudden inspiration seized him.

"Ah'll tell ye what Ah'll dae, though," he said. "Ah'll get ma dochter tae sing for ye."

"Right you are," said the other. "What will I put her down for?"

"'Keep the Home Fires Burning.'"

"Can't be done," declared the concert man emphatically, folding up his papers. "If you won't subscribe I'll take jolly good care you get no free advertising on our program."—London Answers.

Menial Labor.

Father was trying diplomatically to get Johnny interested in arithmetic.

"Surely you want to learn percentage," he said. "That teaches you how to figure the averages of the baseball teams and players."

"What do I care?" retorted Johnny. "The fellers that play the game don't have to do that. They hire some cheap skate to do it for 'em."

REALLY A SIMPLE MATTER

Johnny's Reference to Dictionary Must Have Given Him Considerable Enlightenment.

"Father," said the son, looking up from a book with a puzzled expression on his face, "what is pride?"

"Pride," returned the father, "pride! Why—a—Oh, sure you know what pride is. A sort of being stuck up, a kind of—well, proud, you know. Just get the dictionary; that's the thing to tell you exactly what it is. There's nothing like a dictionary, Johnny."

"Here it is," said the latter, after an exhausting search, "Pride—being proud." "Um—yes, that's it," replied the father.

"But—"

"Well, look at 'proud.' That's the way; you have got to hunt these things out, my lad."

"I've got it," answered Johnny. "Pre—pri—pro—why—"

"What does it say?"

"'Proud—having pride.'"

"That's it! There you are, as clear as day. I tell you, Johnny, there is nothing like a good dictionary when you are young. Take care of the binding, my son, as you put it back."—Pathfinder.

THE SUNBEAM.

BY W. G. HUNT, EDITOR
M. G. HUNT, PUBLISHER

Published every Friday, at Sunbeam, Pennington County, Minnesota.

Entered as Second-class matter August 30, 1905, at the post office at Sunbeam Minn. under the Act of Congress of March 3, 1879

This week we met a farmer driving some prime beef cattle to market, and asked him how much he was getting a pound for them, and he said 4½ cents and 5½ cents a pound. This is less than was being paid for stock five years ago, and yet the city consumer is paying nearly double the price that he paid for meat five years ago. Now we would like to arise and inquire where this leak is, that has doubled the cost to the consumer and reduced the price of the producer? If President Wilson can explain this to the satisfaction of the producer and consumer, he may be able to again get all their votes by his reduction of the cost of living talk.

There is not a county in the state of Minnesota, that has any better qualified Judge of Probate and Clerk of Court than Pennington County has, and they should both be retained in the office they have given such good service in, and we believe they will both be elected by an overwhelmingly majority in November. We have repeatedly said, we are opposed to making any changes in county officials unless there is some good and valid reason for doing so, and we have not heard one single reason given by any voter of Pennington county why these two officials should not be re-elected.

We notice a great deal being written about clover running out. It don't run out in this country, but the older it gets the stronger it gets. Walter McAndress cut five acres of his second crop clover for seed last fall expecting that he would not have much of a crop on that piece this year, but he cut a heavy crop of hay off of it, and there is another big crop ready for seed.

Judging from a careful persual of Hughes' speeches in his arraignment of the Democratic party, for their methods of conducting the civil service, the same condition of affairs exist all over the United States that exist in eastern Pennington County. Enough said. The people vote in November, and you bet they will clean that outfit up proper.

We wonder if President Wilson can explain to the consumers of the cities, why it is that they are now paying more for a barrel of flour than the consumers of London, England, are paying for the same brand of American flour. If he can he will again get their votes on the great qustion of reducing the cost of living.

We expect to hear that John A. Duffy will call on the voters of Pennington County two or three days before election. We believe that Duffy would make a fairly good representative.

Now that Carranza has disposed of the interference of President Wilson, we may expect to see the Mexican Revolutionists continue to do business at the old stand.

No matter how the present railroad strike is settled, it will add strength to the movement that is growing fast for government ownership of all railway lines.

Clearwater County will hold their county fair on Sept. 28, 29 and 30th, a much more sensible date than to hold it during the [illegible]

We are in receipt of a letter, which informs us that the Engineer will be up here soon to make the survey of Red Lake River, Mr. O'Neill will notify us in advance, so that any representative of the people, who is well acquainted with the conditions on Red Lake River can have an opportunity to meet him. It will be necessary to explain anything to him, for he can readily see what the trouble is, and that the river is not big enough to take care of the water. His report is what the government will depend on in deciding to make the improvements on the river, and we are pleased that he can look at it, at the present time.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

This Player "Quick Study."

For remarkable memory it would be hard to outdo a strolling player of the eighteenth century, of whom Sir William Robertson Nicoll has written. For a wager he once undertook to memorize the whole of the next day's Daily Advertiser and accomplished his task by repeating every line in the journal, news, headings, advertisements and all in perfect order and without a slip.—London Tatler.

When Cruelty Isn't Cruelty.

The magistrate of the department of Seine-et-Oise, in France, once gave a decision in a claim of cruelty to a horse which is remarkable as a legal subtlety. The law provides that the offense is punishable only when committed in public. If the sore is covered by the collar, he holds, the offense is not committed in public. If it is not covered by the collar there is no cruelty. In either event the case must be discharged.

Crowd of a Million.

It has been estimated that a million persons assembled in a crowd, with the allowance of three square feet a person, would cover an area of about seventy acres.

RID YOUR CHILD OF WORMS.

Thousands of children have worms that sap their vitality and make them listless and irritable. Kickapoo Worm Killer kills and removes the worms and has a tonic effect on the system. Does your child eat spasmodically? Cry out in sleep or grind its teeth? These are symptoms of worms and you should find relief for them at once. Kickapoo Worm Killer is a pleasant remedy. At your Druggist, 25c.—Adv.

DUTY OF THE ADMINISTRATION TO STOP PLOTS AND CONSPIRACIES.

We denounce all plots and conspiracies in the interest of any foreign nation. Utterly intolerable is the use of our soil for alien intrigues. Every American must unreservedly condemn them, and support every effort for their suppression. But here, also, prompt, vigorous and adequate measures on the part of the Administration were needed. There should have been no hesitation; no notion that it was wise and politic to delay. Such an abuse of our territory demanded immediate and thorough-going action. As soon as the Administration had notice of plots and conspiracies it was its duty to stop them. It was not lacking in resources. Its responsibility for their continuance cannot be escaped by the condemnation of others.—From Mr. Hughes' speech of acceptance.

ADEQUATE NATIONAL DEFENSE DEMANDED

We demand adequate national defense; adequate protection on both, our Western and Eastern coasts. We demand thoroughness and efficiency in both arms of the service. It seems to be plain that our regular army is too small. We are too great a country to require of our citizens who are engaged in peaceful vocations the sort of military service to which they are now called. As well insist that our citizens in this metropolis be summoned to put out fires and police the streets. We do not count it inconsistent with our liberties, or with our democratic ideals, to have an adequate police force. With a population of nearly one hundred millions we need to be surer of ourselves than to become alarmed at the prospect of having a regular army which can reasonably protect our border, and perform such other military service as may be required, in the absence of a grave emergency. I believe, further, that there should be not only a reasonable increase in the regular army, but that the first citizen reserve subject to call should be enlisted as a Federal army and trained under Federal authority.—From Mr. Hughes' speech of acceptance.

FAVORS WOMAN SUFFRAGE.

Some time ago, a consideration of our economic conditions and tendencies, of the position of women in gainful occupations, of the nature and course of the demand, led me to the conclusion that the granting of suffrage to women is inevitable. Opposition may delay, but in my judgment cannot defeat this movement. If women are to have the vote, as I believe they are, it seems to me entirely clear that in the interest of the public life of this country, the contest should be ended promptly. I favor the vote for women.—From Mr. Hughes' speech of acceptance.

There is no use to expect to put up any good hay this year by trying to mow down a lot of it at one time. The only way is to mow two or three loads one day and stack it the next day.

THE NORTHWEST SCHOOL OF AGRICULTURE, CROOKSTON, offers courses in Agriculture, Home Training, Normal Methods, Gasoline and Auto Engineering. Write the Registrar for illustrated booklet and full information.

Thief River Falls is to have a market day to-morrow, at which farmers can sell any surplus stock or farm machinery, that they have for sale, at public auction. This gives the buyer and seller an opportunity to get together, and as all goods are auctioned off free of charge, it is certainly a good idea. We regret that we did not receive the notice in time for publication last week.

Olof Ramstad of the Citizens Bank, Thief River Falls, has been up in this territory the past week, buying up stock, and we suppose looking after stock that the bank has security on. This is a desperate year for the putting up of hay, and a large number of farmers will be compelled to dispose of at least part of their stock.

Ye editor, publisher and farmer landed his 51st load of first class hay into the stack Wednesday, and is not worrying about his winter's feed for fourteen head of stock. We expect to place several more loads in stack the coming week, so some of our farmer friends can get a load of hay by calling at the printing office. We hired an Indian three-fourths of a day, and the balance of the work was done by the editor and publisher.

Maine Goes Republican.

PROGRESSIVES SOLID IN LINE.

The Republicans carried Maine by about 14,000 majority at last Monday's election.

The Progressives cast a solid vote for the Republican ticket. This state gave Wilson their electorial vote four years ago, owing to a split in the Republican party, but they cast a solid united vote this year, and cleaned up the Donkey Party from cellar to garret, electing two Republican U. S. Senators, and a soldid delegation to the Lower House of Congress, and a Republican Legislature. The Democrats said four years ago, "As Maine goes, so goes the November election." and history will repeat itself this year. Just wait until they hear from Minnesota with from 60,000 to 80,000 majority, and they will conclude that the Progressive Party are solid in line for Hughes this year, as they have had enough of Democratic mismanagement of this nation.

THE BANDIT VILLA HEADED NORTH

El Paso, Texas, Sept. 9.—"I'll shout 'gritto' in Chihuahua City on the eve of Mexican Independence Day, September 16," is the threat that Pancho Villa is said to have made to natives along the line of his northward march.

The rancher, who brought the story to this city, stated that Villa has a force of fifteen hundred men fully armed and well fed at his back, and that he is moving toward the north steadily advancing a short distance every day.—Crookston Times.

This is the same gang of Mexican bandits that invaded the United States and murdered American citizens at Columbus, Texas, and which millions of good American dollars were spent, and our soldiers ordered into Mexico to hunt down, with another heavy toll on American soldiers' lives. Will the voters of the United States keep a party in power that will allow our soldiers to be ordered back, when they were persuing this gang of cut throats so hot, that they were likely to catch them? We guess not, and we would advise Villa to head south before the 1st of April, as there will be a new man attending to his case after the 4th of next March.

There now seems a strong probability that the adopted Donkey Party, of Stephen Singer, the wile postmaster of Kratka, will carry the states of Georgia, Tennessee, Mississippi and possibly Texas, but that will hardly be sufficient to prevent the wise dictator from getting his claws clipped, at about the time they dehorn cattle next spring.

We received a letter from Oklahoma this week, which stated that the season had been so dry down there, that the fruit crop had been very light. So if it is the European war that caused the wet weather in Minnesota, Oklahoma must have been at the dry end of the gun.

The ground is so soft that there cannot be any flax harvested at the present time, and more rain may be expected soon, very soon.

THE SAFETY HABIT

You know the Railroads are talking a good deal these days about the "Safety Habit." It is not a safety razor or a safety bicycle, It's safety for the lives intrusted to their care.

The principle applies to the banking business. Our bank employed the Safety Habit at the outset—safety to the depositors money intrusted to our care. Every dollar left with us will be taken care of. Safety is our watch word. We would like to have your account on this basis.

ROUMANIAN FORT TAKEN BY BULGAR AND GERMAN ARMY

TEUTONIC ALLIES PRESS FORWARD IN DRIVE ON BUCHAREST—KING FERDINAND'S MEN SUFFER LOSSES.

AUSTRIAN RIGHT WING IS PUSHED BACK TWO MILES

Slavs' Attempt to Break Through Teuton Lines Southeast of Lemberg Fail, According to Vienna—British Advance Continues, War Office Announces.

London, Sept. 12.—The Bulgarians are evacuating Varna, the principal port on the Black sea, according to a semi-official news agency dispatch from Odessa.

London, Sept. 12.—German and Bulgarian forces have captured the old Roumanian fortress of Silistria, which lies on the eastern bank of the Danube about 25 miles northeast of Turtukai and 60 miles east of Bucharest, the capital of Roumania. The capture is announced by the Berlin war office, which adds that the Roumanians and Russians fighting in Dobrudja have suffered considerable losses.

Bend Back Austrian Wing.

North of Orsova, however, Roumanians are keeping up their advance against Austrians, having compelled the Austrian right wing, after it had pushed them back two and a half miles, to withdraw to its former position, under a strong counter-attack. Attempts by Roumanians to advance against heights west of Csik Szereda were repulsed.

In southern Bukowina, near the junction of the Hungarian and Roumanian borders, Germans are in contact with Roumanians.

Russian Gain Conceded.

Berlin and Vienna concede a gain of ground to Russians in the Carpathians west of Shypot. Everywhere else, says Berlin, Russian attacks have been repulsed.

Attacks by Russians to break through Austrian lines southeast of Lemberg failed, according to Vienna.

Repulse of German bombardments formed the chief features of the fighting Sunday in the Somme region. The attacks by the Germans against the British took place north of Ginchy and against the French south of Berny-en-Santerre.

Shows British Advance.

A recapitulation by the British War office of the results attained by the British on the Somme front during last week shows an advance on a front of 6,000 yards to a depth varying from 300 to 3,000 yards.

In addition to numerous air battles between French and German aviators, in which seven German machines were forced down, French aircraft have heavily bombed German depots and establishments in the regions of Chauny, south of St. Quentin, Ham and Peronne. London claims for British air men the destruction of three German machines and the driving down of others in a damaged condition.

The Bulgarians, according to Paris, have been forced to abandon several trenches in the district east of Vetrenik, while the British have shelled Jenikoi and Nevoyen and made a raid on the Doiran front.

In Albania the Italians have taken without opposition several Austrian points of vantage.

GERMAN LOSS 3,355,000 SINCE BEGINNING OF WAR

British Estimate for August Alone Shows Casualty List Total of 241,900.

London, Sept. 11.—German casualties in the war in the month of August, according to a compilation here from the German casualty lists, totaled 241,900. This brings the German total since the beginning of the war, as compiled from the same sources to 3,355,000.

Detailed figures for the period of the war to the end of August, 1916: Killed, 812,000; prisoners, 165,000; missing, 234,000; wounded, 2,144,000; total, 3,355,000.

U. S. CONSULATE DESTROYED

Building at Alexandretta Shelled by Allied Warships, Turkey Reports.

Berlin, by wireless to Sayville, Sept. 11.—A Turkish official report, dated September 4, says:

"Small hostile warships shelled Alexandretta. The damage to Turkish property was insignificant. The United States consulate was destroyed completely. No lives were lost."

Printers' Pact With Publishers.

New York, Sept. 11.—James Dahm, former president of the Typographical union in this city, asserted that members of the Typographical union here have an agreement with the American Newspaper Publishers' association that no declaration of a strike can be made by the local officers of the union independently. The order, he said, would have to come from the international officers, who are located at Indianapolis. It would be necessary to give the publishers 48 hours' notice before a strike was declared.

GREAT CAMPAIGN TO MAKE BETTER CITIZENS

On September 1 the United States bureau of education began its nation-wide campaign to make better citizens. The slogan of the campaign is to be "America First." The first and most important step is to induce 3,000,000 non-English-speaking immigrants to attend night schools. The commissioner of education has designated men dealing with every branch of the immigrant problem to serve on a committee of one hundred to further the purpose of the campaign. American employees throughout the country are volunteering their services to act as teachers to the foreigners. The photograph shows a large industrial establishment employing thousands of immigrants with its English-teaching school assembled. The factory itself has undertaken the task of enlightening its immigrant employees. The teachers seen at the blackboards.

RECORD SESSION CONCLUDED

'TWO-BILLION DOLLAR' CONGRESS ADJOURNS SINE DIE.

Administration Champions Answer Republicans' Taunts—Assert United States Is a $2,000,000,000 Country.

Washington, Sept. 9.—Congress adjourned sine die at 10 o'clock, Friday morning, concluding a session record-breaking in many respects, with appropriations and authorizations for the future running well toward two billion dollars.

Senator Owen announced in the Senate that he would not further press his corrupt practices bill at this session but would let it remain the unfinished business before that body and call it up again next session.

Near $2,000,000,000 Mark.

Recapitalization of the nine months' work of Congress showed that there had been appropriated for the year 1917 for expenditures of the government more than $1,600,000,000 and that authorizations had been made for future expenditures which would bring the grand aggregate of appropriations almost to the $2,000,000,000 mark.

Taunts Answered.

Administration champions in informal reviews of the Congress answered Republican taunts of a "$2,000,000,000 Congress" with declarations that the United States is a $2,000,000,000 country."

Big Bills Put Through.

The final legislative measures put through were the eight-hour bill to avert the nation-wide railroad strike, and the revenue law, by which the government is to raise $205,000,000, and which provides for the tariff commission.

In the revenue measure is also contained the provision by which the president is given power drastically to retaliate against the British blacklist and the British mail seizures. If, in the president's opinion, a foreign government, engaged in a war in which the United States is not participating, is shown to be discriminating against American shippers, ships of the nation involved can be seized and the ship captain imprisoned. Use of mails, interstate express companies and cable, telephone and telegraph lines can be refused to citizens of governments which discriminate against Americans in commercial matters.

BLISS TO TELL COMMISSION OF CONDITIONS ON BORDER

Will Give First Hand Information to American-Mexican Board at New London.

Washington, Sept. 11. — Secretary Baker has granted the request of the American-Mexican commission to have Major General Tasker H. Bliss, assistant chief of staff, go to New London, Conn., to give the commissioners information he has gathered first hand concerning the military situation along the international boundary.

General Bliss will leave whenever notified he is wanted. The general is regarded as one of the army's most competent authorities on Mexican questions. As assistant chief of staff, he has more to do with the military operations along the border than any officer except Major General Funston, and recently he completed a personal inspection of all the border patrol militia camps.

To Transfer Interned Vessels.

Washington, Sept. 8.—Arrangements are being made by the navy department to transfer the German auxiliary cruisers Prinz Eitel Friedrich and Kronprinz Wilhelm from the Norfolk navy yard to Philadelphia. The transfer, which is to be made because of congested space at Norfolk, will take place between September 20 and 30, and the German ships will be convoyed and protected by battleships of the United States navy to prevent attacks or the escape of the ships. It is expected that England will agree.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE VICTORY IS NEAR

TRIUMPH "IN A LITTLE WHILE," PREDICTED BY PRESIDENT IN SPEECH AT ATLANTIC CITY

WILSON PLEDGES SUPPORT

Methods by Which He Would Bring About Votes for Women Not Mentioned in Address—Executive Cheered by Thousands.

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 11. — Triumph for the woman suffrage cause "in a little while" was predicted by President Wilson here in a speech before the annual convention of the National American Woman Suffrage association.

"I have come here to fight with you," the President declared. Immediately the 4,000 women present stood and cheered. A few minutes later Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, honorary president of the association, with Mr. Wilson still present, declared:

"We have waited long enough to get the vote. We want it now. I want it to come during your administration." Again the great audience of women stood and cheered, waving handkerchiefs.

The President's pledge of support to the suffrage question caused Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, president of the organization, to say in a speech soon after he closed: "You touched our hearts and won our fealty when you said you had come here to fight with us."

The President did not speak on the method by which he would bring about woman suffrage, but said: "We shall not quarrel in the long run as to the method of it."

The women in their speeches also failed to mention the question of method.

ENGLAND FIRM ON BLACKLIST

Friction Predicted Because of Retaliatory Steps Taken by Congress.

London, Sept. 11.—Friction between the United States and England as a result of the retaliatory steps taken by Congress toward the British trade blacklist was predicted by Lord Robert Cecil, minister of war trade for Great Britain.

Lord Robert based his prediction of friction on the probability of the United States withholding clearance to British vessels.

A reply to Secretary Lansing's note protesting at the blacklist may be expected soon, he stated, and said:

"It is not likely that Great Britain will change her blacklist policy at the request of the United States."

MANILA BAY HERO IS DEAD

Captain Hodgsdon, Retired, Passes Away at Detroit Home.

Detroit, Sept. 11.—Capt. Daniel B. Hodgsdon, U. S. N., retired, died at his home here. Captain Hodgsdon, at the time of the battle of Manila bay, commanded the United States dispatch boat McCullach. He was born in 1836 and during the Civil war saw service in the lower Chesapeake bay.

Freighter Hits Lake Steamer.

Cleveland, Sept. 9. — The steamer City of Erie, carrying 1,000 passengers back to the city from Cedar Point and Put-In-Bay, collided with the freight steamer Belgium just inside the breakwater. A hole was torn in the bow of the City of Erie and part of her upper works ripped off. The passengers made a rush for the life preservers, when it was found no damage had been done below the water line, and the passenger boat then was towed to the dock. The freighter was trying to turn around in the harbor.

AUSTO-HUNGARY WANTS PEACE

UNWILLING, HOWEVER, TO MEET TERMS OF ENEMY.

Will Not Yield Territory to Allied Nations, Minister of Foreign Affairs Says.

Vienna, Via Berlin to London, Sept. 12.—The Austro-Hungarian minister of foreign affairs, Baron Stephen Burian von Rajaecz, discussed with the correspondent of the Associated Press the position of the dual monarchy in the world war.

"Austro-Hungary is far from lying down, as hoped by some," said the minister. "It is true we would hail peace with joy but not the sort of peace our enemies would impose. So long as we have to defend ourselves against those who want to take part of our territory, we naturally are unwilling to discuss peace."

Not Surprised at Roumania's Act.

The minister then reviewed the situation prior to Roumania's declaration of war, said:

"We offered Roumania no territorial concessions at any time after having discovered in the case of Italy that the world was likely to mistake our reasonable attitude for weakness. Nor were we taken by surprise by Roumania. What did fool us was that Roumania made up her mind so quickly. We knew in June, after the setting in of the latest Russian offensive that Rome and Bratiano (the Roumanian premier) had made a definite bargain.

Austria Doing Her Part.

Replying to a question as to the monarchy's military and economic status at this moment, the minister said he had no anxiety on that score. But he added: "Some think we are not doing enough. In addition to holding the Italians checked, we have managed to render useless Brussiloff's great offensive which is not exactly child's play."

WHEAT AND CORN CROP MILLIONS OF BUSHELS OFF

Outlook for Former Cut Down to Below Amount Required for Home Consumption.

Washington, Sept. 11.—Heavy damage to the country's cereal crops during August caused a loss of many millions of bushels in prospective production, cutting down the outlook for wheat to below the amount required for home consumption.

The Department of Agriculture's monthly forecast estimates the wheat crop at 611,000,000 bushels, or 9,000,000 bushels less than is calculated to be necessary for domestic use. A carry-over of approximately 160,000,000 bushels of old wheat from last year's record-breaking crop, however, will make up the deficiency and leave something like 100,000,000 bushels available to supply the heavy demands of foreign nations for American wheat.

The heavy loss in prospective production of corn was due to drought.

BREMEN TO REACH U. S. IN TEN DAYS, LONDON HEARS

London, Sept. 8.—It is reported here that the German submarine merchantman Bremen may be expected at an American port within 10 days, probably at New London, Conn.

Danes May Avoid Elections.

Copenhagen, Denmark, Sept. 7.—In the event of the present negotiations for a coalition cabinet succeeding general elections probably will be avoided and the question of the sale of the Danish West Indias to the United States will be settled by a plebiscite in Denmark. Conservative Leader Ellinger says he expects the negotiations will succeed and that should they do so, Christopher Hage, at present minister of finance, would become premier, with Foreign Minister Scavenius remaining in his present post.

NOT LIKE NEW EXPERIENCE

Butcher Had Suffered Before From the Pranks Indulged in by His Frisky Horse.

The eccentricities of Yankee character are innumerable, and they are almost always amusing. In a Maine town a gentleman was standing wtih some friends on his tennis lawn when the horse of the village butcher—a rather frisky animal—came dashing madly over a terrace from the street, flinging the unfortunate butcher into the tennis net with a shoulder of beef on top of him, and a big block of ice thumped with a good deal of force into his side.

The fiery steed completed his work by dragging the wagon to which he was attached over his prostrate master and then flying away to demolish it and the lawn turf together by careening along until stopped by a tree. The butcher was taken up insensible and pretty badly bruised. As soon as he could be restored to consciousness one of the bystanders pronounced the usual conundrum whether he was hurt.

The butcher tried to move, found he could not, gave a sickly smile, and then said, jauntily:

"Oh, it's nothing! I don't mind. I'm used to it."

Gentle Influence.

"Do you think going into politics improves a man's disposition?"

"As a rule," replied Miss Cayenne. "He is obliged to look pleasant at least often enough to have his picture taken for campaign purposes."

There is nothing quite so uninteresting as a human phonograph.

Doubtful Case.

The judge's five-year-old son, John, had been naughty when his parents were having company and had been reproved. That night when his mother went up to hear John say his prayers he suggested that he ask God to teach his parents how to bring him up properly.

John was quite penitent and prayed humbly: "Please, God, teach mother how to make me a good boy." He paused for a moment, then added thoughtfully. "And father, too, if you can do anything with him."

Looking On the Bright Side.

"What became of that plan you had to get rich raising chickens?"

"It wasn't altogether a success."

"Was it any kind of a success?"

"It didn't do me much good. But it made a few surviving chickens very happy and comfortable."

Revenge.

"Look here, neighbor. That dog of yours comes in here every day and digs up my flower beds, and I want you to put a stop to it."

"Suppose I don't! What then?"

"I'll plant so many flowers that your darned old dog will wear himself to a frazzle trying to keep them dug up."

After a Moonlight Night.

Bacon—Have you seen the beach this morning?

Egbert—No; something worth seeing?

"It certainly is."

"Covered with sea shells?"

"No; covered with hairpins."

The bubbles in a teacup follow the spoon because it attracts them just as a magnet attracts steel.

"Its place in the sun"

TO hold "its place in the sun," is the avowed purpose of a great nation's conflict. To hold "its place in the sun," is the object of every business in the great fight for industrial and commercial supremacy.

To be able to hold "its place in the sun," is the supreme test of an asphalt roof. It is the sun, not rain or snow, that plays havoc with a roof. If it can resist the drying out process of the sun beating down upon it, day after day, the rain or snow will not affect it except to wash it clean and keep it sanitary.

Certain-teed

takes "its place in the sun" and holds it longer than other similar roofing, because it is made of the very best quality roofing felt, thoroughly saturated with the correct blend of soft asphalts, and coated with a blend of harder asphalts. This outer coating keeps the inner saturation soft, and prevents the drying out process so destructive to the ordinary roof.

The blend of asphalts used by "The General" is the result of long experience. It produces a roofing more pliable than those which have less saturation, and which are, therefore, harder and drier.

At each of the General's big mills, expert chemists are constantly employed to refine, test and blend the asphalts used; also to experiment for possible improvements. Their constant endeavor is to make the best roofing still better.

The quality of CERTAIN-TEED is such that it is guaranteed for 5, 10 or 15 years, according to thickness (1, 2 or 3 ply). Experience proves that it lasts longer. Behind this guarantee is the responsibility of the world's largest manufacturer of roofings and building papers.

The General makes one third of America's supply of asphalt roll roofing. His facilities are unequaled, and he is able to produce the highest quality roofing at the lowest manufacturing cost.

CERTAIN-TEED is made in rolls; also in slate covered shingles. There is a type of CERTAIN-TEED for every kind of building, with flat or pitched roofs, from the largest sky-scraper to the smallest residence or out-building.

CERTAIN-TEED is sold by responsible dealers all over the world, at reasonable prices. Investigate it before you decide on any type of roof.

FOUND HE COULD DO BETTER

Story of Man Who Turned From His Wickedness Ended in Somewhat Unexpected Manner.

The late John Philip Quinn, the reformed gambler, who for 20 years traveled all over America exposing the electric roulette wheel and other cheating devices had a reform story that he would tell while exhibiting his queer paraphernalia in his private car.

"Don't be afraid of reform," he said. "Help every poor devil who wants to reform. The way most people act, you'd think they all believed religiously in the reform story.

"'You stopped smoking because she asked you to?' was the question put to a solemn-looking chap.

"'Yep.'

"'And you stopped drinking because she asked you to?'

"'Yep.'

"'And you gave up your poker parties and went into refined, serious society for the same reason?'

"'Yep, yep, yep.'

"'And then, I suppose, you married her.'

"'Well, you see, after I'd reformed like that, I found I could do better.'"

Personal Appreciation.

He had been telling her in a frank, straightforward way about what an athlete, business man and all-around great fellow he was.

"By the way," he asked, "who is your favorite character in fiction?"

She looked at him with gentle intensity and answered, "You are."

SECOND INFANTRY CLAIMS BEST CAMP

COMMANDERS CAREFUL IN STAKING OUT SITE—FLOODS SPOIL APPEARANCE IN THIRD.

IN FIELD TO ENLIST NEW MEN

Recruiting Squads on Tour of State to Visit Many Towns—Twenty-nine Officers and Men Sent Back From Border Camp for Work.

Llano Grande.

The Second Minnesota infantry claims to have the best camp in Llano Grande. The commanders of the Second, Colonel W. T. Mollison and Lieutenant Colonel C. H. Danforth, realized on their arrival that Texas is a big state and that it was not necessary to crowd their company streets close together. In staking out their camp they allowed ample room for officers' quarters and company streets, and as a result have had to do little shifting of tents.

The First regiment pitched its tents as staked off by the regular army officer who laid out the camp site, and as a result it has been necessary to make several shifts of tents. The last shift was made last Sunday, and when the new mess shacks are completed the First will have a good camp, with plenty of room.

Third Is Cramped.

The Third regiment is a little cramped for room, and the weekly floods have been a handicap to the efforts to make the camp pleasing in appearance.

The Second battalion of the First Minnesota field artillery is remodeling its camp, especially the officers' row. When this work is completed the artillery will have one of the best camps at Llano Grande.

The noncommissioned staff of the First Minnesota infantry boasts of the long service of its members. Regimental Sergeant Major Marion G. Randolph has served nine years; Battalion Sergeant Major Hugh T. Hall, seven years; Loyal T. Bintliff, three years; Emil J. Blade, eight years; Charles E. De Laine, twenty-eight years; Alexander Sidney Hayes, seventeen years, and Bugler Ernest F. Boruski, five years.

C Has Veterans.

C company of the First, now at Progreso, a St. Paul company, also has some veterans. Corporal Walsh served in the Philippines with the Thirteenth Minnesota and Private Darragh was with the Second Wisconsin in Porto Rico.

Lieutenant Roy Robinson of St. Paul, who has been with the supply company of the First Minnesota since coming to Llano Grande, has been transferred to the machine gun company of that regiment.

The Y. M. C. A. still is the most popular institution in camp. More than 1,500 letters were written in the building by the Minnesota men Sunday. About seventy-five privates are taking lessons in Spanish at the building. Private Borgen of the Third Minnesota is teacher. R. A. Henderson, secretary of physical education of Texas university, will inaugurate a recreation program for the institution this week.

Chaplain Ferguson of the First Minnesota has received a supply of song books and is now organizing his glee club. He hopes to have fifty or more voices. Chaplain Ferguson also is endeavoring to get talent for "stunt night," every Wednesday evening at the Y. M. C. A.

Men of E battery, Minnesota field artillery, are growing whiskers that will make Carranza blush for shame. The battery's barber left without notice the other day.

"Stunt Nights" on Wednesdays.

The St. Paul boys in D company insist that Willie Mastella, who hails from Osakis, is the best company cook in camp, and point with pride to the fact they ate 300 fritters at one sitting. C company, however, comes back with the assertion that while its company cook is named Kidder, there is nothing to compare with his Sunday morning apple turnovers.

Squads Seek Recruits.

St. Paul.

Adjutant General F. B. Wood has just announced plans for the recruiting force of 29 officers and men recently sent back from Camp Llano Grande and receipt of orders for the return of Battery F, First Minnesota Field artillery, and modifying previous orders relating to discharges and provisions for dependents of the men at the border.

Five recruiting squads that have been in a school of instruction at Fort Snelling since arriving from the South have started on regular work.

Luce Addresses Elks.

Col. Erle D. Luce, in command of the First Minnesota infantry, who has returned from the border to supervise recruiting and to investigate the present relations between the Luce line and the Dan Patch railroad in regard to terminal rights, spoke before the Elks' lodge on the life led by the boys on the border. The approach of winter is certain to bring a flood of applications for enlistment, according to Colonel Luce. Another inducement offered is an opportunity to learn Spanish.

Open General Stations.

Lieutenants Milo Price and Henry R. Prescott opened recruiting stations in Minneapolis and St. Paul and the state fair grounds. These will be general stations at which enlisting men can state their preference among the various Minnesota units, General Wood explained.

Four remaining squads made up of one commissioned and two non-commissioned officers and one private each have been sent out on itineraries subject to change and with instructions to move headquarters when a field is exhausted.

To Cover State.

Lieut. W. O. Brown will head the squad ordered to Duluth first and later to the Iron Range towns. Lieut. E. B. Cutler and squad will begin at Anoka and work toward Crookston. Capt. A. O. Stubstadt and squad will open at Winona and work along the river back toward the Twin Cities. The last squad, headed by Lieut. Donald McKenzie, will begin recruiting at Faribault and then move to Northfield, Owatonna, Mankato, St. Peter and other towns in central southern Minnesota.

Ordered Home.

Supplementing the original order for the mustering out of service of Battery F, the unit composed of students at the University of Minnesota, information was received by General Wood that the commanding general of the southern department was directed by the adjutant general of the army to return to the state mobilization camp Battery F, First Minnesota field artillery, and certain units from Illinois, to be held at the camp pending further instructions.

The information included a statement that hereafter no individuals will be discharged on account of being bona fide students or teachers in colleges and schools. This order supersedes all previous orders.

Curb on Discharges.

Another order from the adjutant general's office at Washington, D. C., was as follows:

"In view of the provisions contained in the appropriations bill providing funds for taking care of dependent relatives of soldiers, the Secretary of War directs that previous orders relating to the discharge of enlisted men on account of dependent relatives be revoked to take effect in all cases which originate hereafter."

General Wood explained that while the order is not retroactive, it means few if any discharges for men on the ground of claims of dependents.

Select Seed Corn Now.

Minnesota farmers should drop everything else to select and store seed corn, in the opinion of farm management experts at University farm. They advise that seed corn selecting be done between September 10 and 20, even though threshing, silo filling and winter crop seeding wait. They hold that any of these may wisely be subordinated to selecting next year's seed corn. They believe the value of the corn crop can be increased by $7,500,000 a year by proper seed selection.

Frosts Impair Quality.

"Seed corn that does not germinate 90 per cent or better is not fit to be planted for the production of ears," said Prof. C. P. Bull. "Germinating qualities alone regulate the value of seed corn. Even fodder corn seed should have high germination testing power, although a false impression to the contrary prevails.

"Killing frosts on standing corn is almost sure to impair the germination of the seed, so it is better to cut too early than too late."

Pay for Stolen Honey.

Some three weeks ago three men of the Third Minnesota infantry were arrested south of camp on the charge of stealing honey from a farmer and destroying some of the bee hives. The men were tried by summary court and proved they had destroyed no hives.

Meanwhile the thefts of honey continued, and the fact was brought to the attention of General Lewis, who ordered an inquiry made in every regiment in camp.

As a result it was learned men in every regiment had visited the bee farm, and each regiment was assessed an amount of money in proportion to the number of men found to have visited the place. The bee farmer is now on Easy street.

Guards Stand Test Well.

Minnesota soldiers have just undergone a severe test in the stiffest practice march which the troops have experienced. All three regiments covered more than 12 miles in heavy marching order, carrying filled packs, blankets, shelter tents, canteens, and mess kits. Despite the 60-pound load, and the dust and heat very few men dropped out and the regiments marched into camp singing "Cheer, Cheer, the Gang's All Here."

Swim After March.

Colonel Mollison lead his command to Donna while both the First and Third marched east. Colonel Evans permitted his men to take a swim in the lake about seven miles from the camp after the march over dusty roads.

Resents Governor's Slight.

W. F. Houk, state commissioner of labor, withdrew his acceptance of an invitation to participate in a parade in St. Paul on Labor day, assigning as his reason the departure from the usual custom of the labor organizations to invite the governor to take part. In a letter to Secretary F. W. Lariviere, Mr. Houk asserted that Governor J. A. A. Burnquist has been in sympathy with labor and that in the failure to extend an invitation, the committee did a great wrong.

STATE BREVITIES

Eveleth. — That bullet holes in the boilers of steam shovels would be an effective manner of stopping operations of the mines of the Mesaba range was the suggestion given to local strikers by J. Larton, addressing a crowd of miners, according to report.

State Fair Grounds. — Minnesota livestock in competition with some of the best in the country held its own at the Minnesota state fair even against the pure bred favorites from Iowa. In the 10 Belgian classes, Minnesota horses obtained nine awards.

Lake Crystal. — The general assembly of the Welsh Calvanistic Methodist church is being held at Lake Crystal. This assembly meets every three years. The last meeting was held at Utica, N. Y. Chicago, Racine, Wis., and Columbus, Ohio, are extending invitations.

St. Paul. — A ruling by the state legal department that many timber operators must commit trespass in order to open logging roads, shows the need of amendment to the timber laws, according to state officials. The opinion was given after a trespass claim had been defended on the ground that the cutting was done to open a logging road.

Lake Crystal. — The triennial general assembly of International Welsh Calvinistic churches was held here. The following executive officers were elected for the next three-year period: The Rev. W. E. Evans, Mankato, president; the Rev. R. E. Evans, Philadelphia, secretary; the Rev. S. W. Griffiths, Cleveland, Ohio, statistician; Dr. E. E. Jones, Oakhill, Ohio, treasurer.

International Falls.—Supplementary charges implicating additional Koochiching county officials in alleged illegal expenditures of county funds aggregating more than $200,000 have just been filed with Governor Burnquist. The governor announced that the official investigation ordered on the first charge will proceed as far as the law will allow, despite the resignation of County Auditor L. H. Slocum, the only official named in the original charges.

St. Paul. — A bulwark in the nation's defense in time of war and one of the strongest links in the chain of business prosperity of the nation in time of peace. This is the condition of Minnesota, according to a statement made by J. J. Flather of the University of Minnesota faculty, speaking in behalf of the Minnesota Board of Governors in charge of the work of making an industrial survey of the resources of the state for the naval consulting board.

Chisholm. — Alleging that Municipal Judge Masters sets bail in the cases of I. W. W. pickets arraigned before him at too high a figure, local agitators circulated a petition, addressed to Governor Burnquist, among the strikers of the village demanding that Judge Masters be removed.

Winona. — William Dixon of this city made what is thought to be the season's record catch along the upper Mississippi, when he snared a catfish weighing 95 pounds, near Dresbach, this county. The fish measured four and a half feet from tip to tip. It is said to have been caught on a set line

Dangerous Question.

"In court-martial trials in our army," says an officer, "the attorneys are selected from the officers at the post without reference to their legal training or their ability to handle a case.

"A young surgeon, whose ignorance of law was complete, found himself appointed counsel for the defense at his new post, and when he entered the court his only legal knowledge was that he had a right to 'object' to the tactics of the other side. When, therefore, one of his witnesses was placed under cross-examination, the lawyer-surgeon sprang to his feet and shouted lustily: 'I object!'

"'On what grounds?' demanded the prosecuting attorney.

"'On what grounds?' repeated the surgeon. 'On very good grounds. Why, if my witness tells the truth when he answers that question, it will ruin my case!'"—Case and Comment.

Largest Lily Pond.

Near the city of Washington, says the Woman's Home Companion, is the largest commercial water lily garden in this country, and it is managed by a woman, Mrs. Helen Fowler.

Mrs. Fowler ships 250 water lilies every morning in mid-summer, and selects every flowers herself, for she can tell you just how many times each tightly closed bud will open, and she sends out nothing but the freshest and the best.

At hybridizing Mrs. Fowler is an expert, and one of her new varieties is a beautiful lily called Suffragette.

Clash of Ideas.

For the first time in his life the unintellectual man had been lured into a museum. Among the scientific treasures shown him by his intellectual friend was a case full of stuffed birds. There was one specimen that rather interested him. He asked what it was, and was told that it was a cassowary.

"I have heard of the cassowary," said the unintellectual man, "but this is not my idea of it."

"Perhaps not," said his friend, "but it is God's idea."

A Woman's Problem

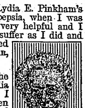
How to Feel Well During Middle Life Told by Three Women Who Learned from Experience.

The Change of Life is a most critical period of a woman's existence, and neglect of health at this time invites disease and pain. Women everywhere should remember that there is no other remedy known to medicine that will so successfully carry women through this trying period as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs. Read these letters:—

Philadelphia, Pa.—"I started the Change of Life five years ago. I always had a headache and backache with bearing down pains and I would have heat flashes very bad at times with dizzy spells and nervous feelings. After taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I feel like a new person and am in better health and no more troubled with the aches and pains I had before I took your wonderful remedy. I recommend it to my friends for I cannot praise it enough."—Mrs. Margaret Grassman, 759 N. Ringgold St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Beverly, Mass.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, for nervousness and dyspepsia, when I was going through the Change of Life. I found it very helpful and I have always spoken of it to other women who suffer as I did and have had them try it and they also have received good results from it."—Mrs. George A. Dunbar, 17 Roundy St., Beverly, Mass.

Erie, Pa.—"I was in poor health when the Change of Life started with me and I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, or I think I should not have got over it as easy as I did. Even now if I do not feel good I take the Compound and it restores me in a short time. I will praise your remedies to every woman for it may help them as it has me."—Mrs. E. Kissling, 931 East 24th St., Erie, Pa.



No other medicine has been so successful in relieving woman's suffering as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Women may receive free and helpful advice by writing the Lydia E. SWANSON WANTS MORE DITCH TAXES

William A. Swanson has another article in last week's issue of the News-Press, regarding drainage of the Red Lake by a ditch. As Mr. Swanson is quite fond of accusing others of not representing the best interests of the people, may it not be just barely possible that Mr. Swanson is representing the interest of the drainage companies in this matter, that have already had such fat picking out of Pennington County, that they would like to get another slice of the bacon, and would be willing to suck the last drop of blood out of the farmers to obtain it?

Now we want to correct Mr. Swanson's statements about Judicial ditch No. 1, which he says runs parallel with Clearwater River for a distance of twenty-four mile. This ditch has done more damage to the farmers in western Mayfield township than it has ever benefited ~~them~~. Last summer when we had that heavy rain it tore the grade out on the section corner of sections 26 and 27, and run over and flooded the whole country, and this was only a ditch. Ask yourselves what the conditions would have been, if the water from Red Lake River had been dumped onto that territory.

Four years ago last winter we were all complaining about Red Lake River drying up, so we could not get water for stock, and now we are complaining about too much water, so the only remedy for these different conditions in different seasons, is to dredge and deepen the river, and build a dam to control the water at the outlet of Red Lake, and this is certainly too big a proposition for the farmers to try to handle and have it assessed up aganst their land. The argument of making a new channel for Red Lake River to cut across the country from Hickory to St. Hilaire will never receive any more attention than is being given it by Mr. Swanson.

Friends of Mrs. Idan Thoreson who moved from this township to Canada last spring, where Idan Thoreson took up land, received a letter from her last week, stating that they had such a heavy freeze up, that it killed all the grain and grass, so they were unable to get feed for their stock. So severe was the freeze up that the small streams and ponds were covered by heavy coats of ice. These are the facts as they actually are in Canada, reported by your former neighbors.

Hughes' campaign speeches seems to touch the sore spots of the Democratic editors, for they are showing their teeth daily. If his arraignment of the Democratic administration were not facts, it would not make them so mad.

The exposure by Judge Hughes of the Democratic abuses of the civil service are certainly facts, abundant proof of which can be had by looking up the present mail service in this territory.

Last Saturday night's heavy rain storm advance the price of wild hay from four to six dollars a ton, and timothy from six to eight dollars per ton, with very little for sale.

Haying conditions in this locality are certainly very discouraging, and the farmers who are depending on putting up wild hay for their stock will only be able to secure from one-fourth to one-half enough for their stock, while those who are fortunate enough to have hay sufficient for their own use, will have none to sell. To make a bad matter worse, there is also a failure of the straw crop, and what there is, is so badly rusted that it is unfit for feed, so about the only remedy left for a large number of the farmers is to sell off their stock.

The bandit Villa, who President Wilson spent millions of good U. S. coin to hunt down, is again headed for the United States with an army of fifteen hundred men, ready to loot and murder American citizens, while Wilson will do a little more watchful waiting. The present administration is certainly making a laughing stock of Uncle Sam's Mexican policy.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. THE LOCAL NEWS

Mrs. T. Lande and Miss Hona Sande were visitors at the T. G. Rome home on last Sunday.

R. R. Johnson, the Goodridge cattle buyer was in this locality this week, buying stock.

Charles Newbury and sons John and George, were up this way duck hunting last Sunday, and made this office a pleasant call.

Oats for feed will be a very scarce article in this locality this year, and we believe that some of the farmers will have to ship in grain for their own use.

We do not, of course, know what rent the wile Stephen gives for the private use of the Kratka creamery, that he inveigled the farmers into building to obtain butter milk for hogs.

Mr. Tvedt, the senior member of the Goodridge Tvedt and Son farm machinery and lumber dealers, was transacting business in this locality on Wednesday, and made this office a pleasant call.

What flax was seeded last spring has turned out to be a fairly good crop, but about all the good can be got out of it is to look at, as it will be an utter impossibility to get onto the field to harvest it.

Sam Swanson left for Chisholm last week, where he has obtained employment for the winter. Owing to his crop being a complete failure he was obliged to abandon his home, and go to work out. His family are still living on the farm.

There was another good soaking rain visited this locality yesterday, just to remind us that the weather clerk was still doing business at the old stand, and had plenty of water left in the tank, to dump onto Northern Minnesota.

A man who visited Kratka this week informs us, that he never saw such a poor specimen of a hog as one that was fed on butter milk from the Kratka creamery. It must be that Stephen laid in a bigger stock of hogs than he had butter milk for, so he will have to hustle up collecter Brown.

Halvor Myrum of Mayfield was a pleasant visitor at Sunbeam Sunday. He informed us that they had forty acres of fine meadow land, that they had cut hay on every year, until this season, and it had been so wet this year that they had not cut any hay on it at all, and they are not drowned out by Red Lake River.

The Red Lake River has been going down rapidly the past few days, and will soon be down into its banks. Now we can see what has been the trouble that we have had the bad flood conditions all summer on the upper river, while it has been lower than ever at Thief River Falls. When that dam went out last spring it let the bed of the river down at Thief River Falls to a level, where it was plugged chuck full of "dead head" logs; and there was no chance for the water to get out from the upper river; Now that they have started to back up the water, so it has a clear channel above the logs, it will soon go down to its natural [illegible]

There is not a more painstaking official in the Pennington County Court House than Clerk of Court Harry Ives. He devotes his entire time and attention to his work, and does not trust it to deputies or assistants. He is a candidate for re-election to his present position, and we desire to say a few words regarding his campaign. As we have said before, he gives his personal attention to conducting the affairs of his office, and in view of this fact, it is an impossibility for him to personally interview any great number of the farmer voters. To make this plain, supposing a resident from the eastern part of the county had some important business to transact at the Clerk of Court's office, and traveled twenty-five miles to Thief River Falls, only to find that the Clerk of Court was out in the northwestern part of the county talking politics, and you would have to wait until the next day to see him personally. His opponent is an unknown man to the people of the county, but he has nothing else to do, only to travel around and ask for votes, asking you to elect him to a position that you do not know whether he is qualified to fill, and turn out one of the best qualified Clerks of Court in northern Minnesota, and a man who is always on the job and attending to business.

A complaint has been made by a farmer near Ada against a Mr. J. P. Raymond, purporting to be a representative of Gregg Publishing Company, selling subscriptions to "Motoring Life" and "Scientific American." This farmer states that Raymond collected $.98 to pay for a year's postage on these magazines promising the subscriber a state or county map as a premium. He further states that Raymond posed as a representative of the Northwest School of Agriculture. Neither the Gregg Publishing Company nor the Agricultural School know anything about this person. This warning is sent to guard people against him and, if possible, to secure information which will lead to a further investigation of his methods of doing business.

THE SAFETY HABIT

You know the Railroads are talking a good deal these days about the "Safety Habit." It is not a safety razor or a safety bicycle, it's safety for the lives intrusted to their care.

The principle applies to the banking business. Our bank employs the Safety Habit at the outset-safety to the depositors money intrusted to our care. Every dollar left with us will be taken care of. Safety is our watch word. We would like to have your account on this basis.

IN youth is the time to start a bank account. Read the lives of the successful men in every line of endeavor. In the recital of their life stories they proudly relate how they earned their first dollar and how they opened their first bank account.

Youth for many is a prodigal time. But it is the time when the young man who wants to be a success in life should lay the cornerstone by opening a bank account and adding to it. The ambitious young man needs no urging to open an account. It is to the young man who is scattering his money foolishly that this appeal is made.

VILLISTAS ROUTED AT CHIHUAHUA CITY; 600 BANDITS SLAIN

GENERAL TREVINO WOUNDED DURING FIGHTING IN WHICH RAIDERS RELEASE PRISONERS FROM PENITENTIARY

DE FACTO FORCES TURN ARTILLERY ON OUTLAWS

Public Buildings Recaptured and Attackers Completely Defeated—Several of Captured Men Executed as Bandits—Villa Does Not Enter City With Troops.

Mexico City, Sept. 19.—General Obregon, minister of war, announces that a thousand followers of Francisco Villa who attacked the town of Chihuahua were routed with a loss of 600 men killed and many captured.

After the battle General Trevino's troops were able to take part in the regular Independence day parade at 11 o'clock in the morning. During the fighting General Trevino was slightly wounded in the shoulder.

Villa Aided by Townsmen.

Aided by some of the townspeople, the Villa forces attacked at 11 o'clock at night and took the penitentiary and the municipal and federal palaces. General Trevino gathered his troops, placed his artillery, recaptured the public buildings and completely defeated the attackers in the early morning light. The captured men will be tried by court martial.

General Obregon has sent a message of congratulations to General Trevino.

Several of the captured men have been executed as bandits.

Normal conditions prevail at Chihuahua.

The details of the defeat of the Villa forces aroused enthusiasm here.

Political Prisoners Released.

During a heavy rain, and while the people were hard asleep after the festivities of two nights in honor of the Mexican independence day, the Villa forces entered the town in two columns. One made straight for the penitentiary where they released Jose Yenez Salazar an amnestied rebel on trial for plotting against the government, and other political prisoners. Others rushed for the government buildings and federal palace, driving out the small Carranza guard.

General Trevino, after rushing his troops to vantage points, took personal command of the artillery at Santa Rosa, and by a few well-directed shots made the buildings untenable. The bandits caught under the double fire fled out of the city to the northwest.

Although in command of the attack, Villa did not enter the city with his troops.

SETH LOW, FORMER MAYOR OF NEW YORK, IS STRICKEN

One Time President of Columbia University Dies at Age of Sixty-Six Years.

New York, Sept. 18.—Seth Low, former mayor of New York, and one time president of Columbia university, died at his country home, Broadbrook Farm, Bedford Hills, N. Y., at the age of 66 years. He had been ill several months of a complication of diseases. A change for the worst was announced Saturday night, and it was then said the patient probably could not recover.

Mr. Low's most recent activities were exerted in an effort to find a solution of the differences between the railroad brotherhoods and the railroads. He had long been consulted by heads of the brotherhoods.

Did Not See Train Coming.

Quaketown, Pa., Sept. 18.—A party of six automobilists all from South Bethlehem, Pa., were killed when their car was struck by a train at a railroad crossing near here. It is believed that Mr. Hunsicker, who was driving, did not see the approaching train.

GREECE'S POLICY TOWARD ALLIES TO BE BENEVOLENT

London, Sept. 18.—M. Kalogeropoulos, the Greek premier, declared that the new government will observe the most benevolent neutrality toward the Allies, says a Reuter dispatch from Athens yesterday.

"He repudiates allegations that he is Germanophile," adds the dispatch, "although he confesses that he is an admirer of Germany."

Poindexter Is Nominated.

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 15. — United States Senator Miles Poindexter, who was elected as a Republican six years ago and who joined the Progressive party four years ago, was renominated as the Republican candidate for senator in the primary election, defeating Will E. Humphrey, now representative in Congress from the First district by a plurality estimated at 7,000. Henry McBride of Seattle, who was governor of the state from 1901 to 1905, was nominated as the Republican candidate for governor.

WILSON'S ONLY SISTER DIES

MRS. ANNE HOWE PASSES AWAY PEACEFULLY.

President Will Accompany Funeral Party to South Carolina—Death Due to Peritonitis.

New London, Conn., Sept. 18.—Mrs. Annie Howe, only sister of President Wilson, died here at 6:40 a. m. Saturday.

Joseph Wilson, brother of the President, and Mrs. Howe's sons, Wilson and George, her daughters, Mrs. Cothran, and Miss Margaret Wilson were at the bedside when the end came. Mrs. Howe died peacefully.

President Wilson was immediately notified. Information here soon after Mrs. Howe's death was that the President would not come to New London. The body will be sent to South Carolina for burial, however, and the President and Mrs. Wilson will accompany the funeral party.

Since the President was here early this week Mrs. Howe had been constantly under the influence of opiates. She had few lucid intervals. Death was due to peritonitis and attendant complications. During the last few days a Christian Science practitioner was with Mrs. Howe often, but is understood to have visited her as a friend and not professionally.

Mrs. Howe was born in Virginia, and, like her brother, was educated there. She has two sons, Wilson Howe of Primos, a suburb of Swarthmore, Pa., connected with the Pennsylvania railroad, and Dr. George Howe, a professor at the University of North Carolina, and a daughter, Mrs. Perin Colhran of Raleigh, N. C.

Washington, Sept. 15.—Both Japan and Russia have given the United States formal assurances that the new Russo-Japanese treaty does not repeal or affect the treaties of 1907 and 1910, in which those nations pledged themselves to maintain the integrity of China and the open door policy.

Department officials let it be known that the statements were entirely satisfactory and that inquiries regarding the new treaty, over which they had been considerably perturbed, probably would not be pressed further.

French and Slavs Close to Serbian Border—Bulgars Resist.

Paris, Sept. 18. — French and Russian troops advancing rapidly on the Western end of the Macedonian front have arrived in front of Florina, close to the Serbian border, south of Monastir, the French war office announced.

Further east the Serbians are advancing on both sides of Lake Ostrovo, defeating the Bulgarians in engagements near Kajmaskalen and continuing to throw troops across the river Brod, where the Bulgarians are resisting them on the right bank of the river.

Chicago, Sept. 15. — Sweeping victories for Governor Edward F. Dunne and former Congressman Frank O. Fulton for the Republican nomination to Congress for the Sixth district, characterized the Illinois primary election.

Thinks Bread Price Increase Just.

Chicago, Sept. 15.—Chicago bakers apparently are justified in their proposal to raise the price of bread, according to Mrs. Julian Heath, president of the National Housewives league, in a statement made public here. Mrs. Heath conferred with officials of the National Association of Master Bakers. She bases her conclusions on the increased cost of the ingredients for bread and urges housewives to buy 10-cent loaves and so save money. Investigation will be resumed by the U. S. district attorney's office.

BRITISH USE LAND DREADNAUGHT IN LATEST ASSAULTS

LATEST WAR MARVEL JUMPS TRENCHES CARRYING DEATH AND HAVOC INTO GERMAN LINES.

UNEARTHLY MONSTER IS CHEERED BY TROOPERS

Machine Modeled After Motor Car on Enormous Scale Plays Important Part in Sweep Forward on Western Front—Details of Construction Kept Secret.

British Front in France, Sept. 18.—A giant land dreadnaught, modeled after a motor car on an enormous scale, was brought into action by the British army in its lunge at Thiepval.

The appearance of the latest war marvel, which jumped trenches and shell craters, carrying death and havoc into the German lines was greeted by a tumult of cheering among the British troops.

Supports Infantry Charge.

For several days, the interest and curiosity of the army has been centered in the giant machine. Nothing more wonderful has been seen in this war than its advance in support of the infantry charge.

Details of the machine's construction and its destined use had been kept secret by the War department until its appearance on the western front. It seems to have played an important part in the sweep forward which at the present writing has gained the village of Flers.

"Unearthly Monsters" Spitting Fire.

London, Sept. 16.—The reference in the official communication issued by the war office to a new type of armored car, is the first official mention of a development that has been much whispered about recently in army circles.

On the subject the Times says: "Our inventors have not hesitated to tread boldly upon unbeaten paths. We may imagine the feelings of German infantry in shell battered trenches when in the uncertain light of dawn they saw advancing upon them an array of unearthly monsters cased in steel, spitting fire and crawling laboriously but ceaselessly over trenches, barbed wire and shell craters."

TRAINS ARE ATTACKED BODIES FOUND ON LINES

Police Patrols Established on Roofs—Charges of Criminal Conspiracy Against Leaders.

New York, Sept. 18.—Doubt was expressed last night that the threatened strike today of crafts affiliated with the car men who quit their places here September 6 would occur. This view was strengthened when Thomas W. O'Connor, president of the International Longshoremen's association, announced that the members of his union, said to number 35,000, would not be called out before Thursday, "if at all."

Resolutions on which several New York trade unions voted provide for strikes involving about 80,000 men. These strikes are intended to tie up the traction lines by cutting off their power through shortage of fuel, walkouts of engineers and bringing about strikes among all workmen engaged in labor contributing to operation of the lines. If this does not have the desired effect a general strike of 400,000 workmen—both men and women—in Greater New York is contemplated. To meet this threat employers are said to be laying plans to bring charges of criminal conspiracy sympathetic strikes.

Police patrols have been established along the roofs of buildings on Ninth avenue, but despite this trains were bombarded with bricks and stones. One woman was seriously injured.

HUMAN PULMOTOR SAVES LIFE

Steward Resuscitates Passenger Taken From Sinking Steamer.

Marshfield, Ore., Sept. 18.—The action of J. E. Johnson, chief steward of the dredge Michie, which took passengers from the sinking Congress, saved the life of F. Tyson of Seattle, who was removed to the barge from the burning vessel in an unconscious condition. No pulmoter was to be had. Johnson stepped forward. Bending down, he put his mouth to the mouth of the unconscious man and began drawing the poison fumes from the latter's lungs into his own. Suddenly Tyson sighed deeply and opened his eyes. His life had been saved.

Murder Suspect Hurt in Leap.

New York, Sept. 16.—Arthur Waltonen, who was arrested in Ironwood, Mich., in connection with the murder of Mrs. Elizabeth Nichols, a wealthy New York widow, leaped from the New York Central train on which he was being brought to this city in the custody of detectives, as it passed through Harmon, N. Y. The train was brought to a stop and Waltonen was found in a ditch beside the tracks, severely injured. He was brought to the city and hurried to a hospital. His condition is said be serious.

GERMAN U-BOATS SINK 161 STEAMERS DURING AUGUST

Berlin, Sept. 18.—(Via wireless)—"During August," says an official admiralty statement, "126 hostile merchant ships, totaling 170,679 tons gross, were destroyed by submarines of the Central powers or by mines; and 35 neutral merchant ships, totaling 38,568 tons, carrying contraband of war to enemies."

BATTERY F REACHES BOBLETER

MINNESOTA UNIVERSITY BOYS RETURN FROM BORDER DUTY.

Shiver From Cold But Are Glad to Get Back—Mustering Out in Two Weeks.

Fort Snelling, Minn., Sept. 19. — Proudly exhibiting the spoils of their "conquests" and their mascot, "Dick," Battery F, the State University contingent in the First Minnesota Field artillery, which left Camp Bobleter for border duty at Camp Llano Grande, Texas, July 10, arrived at Fort Snelling at 10 a. m., where they will go into barracks until mustered out of the service.

There were 172 men and five officers, every man wearing a coat of tan and appear in perfect physical condition, despite the fact that they all were shivering in the chilly Minnesota weather. They said it was positively frigid when compared to the 110 degree temperatures they have been used to.

"We've had a great time, but are mighty glad to get back to Minnesota and a real country," was the expression heard on all sides.

The troop train, which arrived over the Burlington, was switched directly to Fort Snelling without stopping in St. Paul. When the long journey ended at the fort the artillerymen, cheering over their return, swarmed off to be greeted by parents and friends who had not seen them in the last two months. Many touching reunions between the men and those who had waited patiently at the fort were witnessed.

Bucharest Admits Armies Are Falling Back as Forces of Central Powers Advance.

London, Sept. 18.—In the Dodrudja region of Roumania, Bucharest admits that the Russian and Roumanian troops are retiring northward before the advance of the forces of the Central powers. Violent fighting is in progress in this region. In Transylvania, however, the Roumanian forces are continuing their progress and have reached the Aluta river, northwest of Kronstadt.

There has been no change in the situation on the Eastern front from the Carpathians to Riga.

ILLINOIS GUARDS SHIVERING

Governor Dunne Asks Furlough for Two Entire Regiments.

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 18. — A furlough of 10 days for the entire First and Second regiments of the Illinois National guard in camp here, is asked by Governor Dunne in a telegram sent to the War department. The governor declares the men are suffering from cold and have not enough equipment to keep them warm. The troops are said to have only single blankets and not enough clothing, at least at night.

I. W. W.'s To Serve Mulligan Stew.

Virginia, Minn., Sept. 16.—Claims are made by the I. W. W. strikers that large sums of money will be received from all parts of the country for the defense of their leaders who are charged with murder. The I. W. W. will serve "Mulligan stew." One of the leaders produced a clipping from a Chicago newspaper which reads: "There will be a Mulligan stew served by the I. W. W. to raise funds for the striking miners of the Mesaba range. The stew will be cooked and served in tin cans."

I. W. W.'S UNABLE TO GIVE BAIL

BONDS OF $935,000 DEMANDED IN PENNSYLVANIA.

Jobless Army Gets Hearing at Scranton—Prisoners Loaded in Four Trolley Cars by Sheriff.

Scranton, Pa., Sept. 18.—Bail in the aggregate sum of $935,000 was demanded of the 187 Industrial Workers of the World who were given hearings here for participation in the forbidden meeting raided in Old Forge and which resulted in 267 arrests by Sheriff Phillips, a dozen deputies and 20 state troopers.

Each defendant also was fined $10 for disorderly conduct. None gave bonds or paid the fine and all went back to the county jail. The charges preferred against them were unlawful assembly, forcible entry, conspiracy, meeting to riot, and disorderly conduct. The other prisoners, including the 20 alleged Industrial Workers of the World leaders, will be given hearings later.

Loaded in Four Trolleys.

The prisoners were loaded into four trolley cars and taken in batches of 50 each to four different ward magistrates. Officers testified to the forbidden meeting and the attendants forcing their way in against the protests of the wife of the proprietor of the hall. The defendants' lawyers contented themselves with a protest against the size of the bail. They were told by the magistrates they could go into court and have it reduced if it was exorbitant. This suggestion was not followed. The defense will make no further move, counsel said, until the habeas corpus hearing.

HEARINGS ON ARMOR PLANT SITE CLOSED BY DANIELS

Selection for $11,000,000 Establishment Probably Will Not Be Made for Two Months.

Washington, Sept. 16.—Hearings before Secretary Daniels and the general board of the navy on the question of a suitable location for the projected $11,000,000 government armor factory, closed with approximately 125 cities and rural districts asking for the plant.

A selection probably will not be made for more than two months.

All possibility of purchasing a ready built plant was disposed of during the hearings.

Secretary Daniels said that every proposal would be given careful consideration and no precaution would be omitted to make the selection the best possible.

BULGARS STILL HOLD KAVALA

Greeks Taken at Forts Are Sent to Germany, Berlin Says.

London, Sept. 16.—Although it had been previously stated that the Greek forts at Kavala were evacuated by the Bulgarians, Berlin says they are all in the hands of the Bulgars and that the Greek troops which were at Kavala have been sent to Germany where they will remain until the end of the war," in the status of neutrals."

Vancouver, B. C., Sept. 16.—Woman suffrage and prohibition apparently have been adopted by the voters of British Columbia, according to incomplete returns received here from the general election.

Americans Endangered at Kavala.

Athens, Sept. 15.—The British legation has informed Garrett Droppers, the American minister, that the Greeks have surrendered to the Bulgarians the last of the forts defending the seaport of Kavala, in northeastern Greece. Several of the forts were occupied some time ago by the Bulgarians. Warships of the Entente Allies have removed 1,500 Greek soldiers to Thasos. Rioting at Kavala is reported and it is said houses and shops have been pillaged. A number of Americans are endangered.

OLD PRESCRIPTION FOR WEAK KIDNEYS

A medicinal preparation like Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, that has real curative value, almost sells itself. Like an endless chain system the remedy is recommended by those who have been benefited to those who are in need of it.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is a physician's prescription. It has been tested for years and has brought results to countless numbers who have suffered.

The success of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is due to the fact that it fulfills almost every wish in overcoming kidney, liver and bladder diseases, corrects urinary troubles and neutralizes the uric acid which causes rheumatism.

Do not suffer. Get a bottle of Swamp-Root from any druggist now. Start treatment today.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Adv.

Prompted Miss Ellen Terry.

Miss Ellen Terry a few weeks ago was giving a Shakespearean recitation of an entertainment in aid of a war fund, and a large part of her audience were the girls from a widely known Chelsea school. Knowing every line by heart, they were following the recital with breathless attention. Suddenly Miss Terry faltered and, as often happens on the stage, the actress' mind for one moment became a blank. Then, just as the pause threatened to become awkward, the small, ringing voice of a twelve-year-old schoolgirl gave the necessary words.—London Mirror.

A Declaration Demanded.

"How is Crimson Gulch going next election?" asked the stranger.

"What's your object?" inquired Bronco Bob.

"I don't quite understand you."

"Locate yourself. If you're lookin' fur bets, it's a legitimate question an' will be treated respectful. But if you're simply tryin' to start a political argument, you're in danger."

By Way of Solace.

"Of course," said the old friend, "you find that money does not bring happiness."

"Certainly," replied Mr. Dustin Stax, "and just between ourselves, I find no such thing. When engaged in bargaining, I made that remark from time to time merely to reconcile the other fellows to his losses."

HIBBING MISUSES FUNDS IS CHARGE

IRREGULARITIES COST CITY $62,000, STATE EXAMINER REPORTS TO GOVERNOR.

REGIMENTS STAND HARD TEST

About Sixty Guardsmen Forced to Fall Out on Long March—Scarcity of Ambulances Causes Inconvenience—Trooper Makes Balloon.

Hibbing.

Shortages and overcharges have cost the village of Hibbing nearly $62,000 in the last five years, says a report filed with Governor J. A. A. Burnquist by Andrew E. Fritz, state public examiner. The legality of other transactions involving $48,250 additional village funds is questioned.

How the village receipts ran up from $333,850 in 1910 to more than $900,000 in 1914, is shown, also an increase in village expenditures from $303,000 in 1910 to $1,233,700 in 1914. Another comparison discloses that in March, 1915, 1,296 persons were on the village payrolls and 1,710 voters cast ballots for candidates for mayor of the village.

Few Officials Named.

Mayor Victor L. Powers is mentioned but once in the report, and then as one of several officials criticized for accepting claims for collections against village employes. This is in connection with a statement that improper methods are permitted in indorsing payroll vouchers and orders, and leave nothing to indicate that the right parties receive the orders, according to the examiner.

Village officials are criticized for lack of proper accounting in some departments, but few are named in the report. Supplementary reports are to follow, it is explained, the examination being continued, and state officials said that further disclosures or irregularities and questionable expenditures of village funds will be made. The present report fills 268 pages.

Few Fall Out on March.

Minnesota infantry troops have just had their most severe marching test since they came to Texas. With packs, guns and about 40 pounds of equipment the infantrymen of the First, Second and Third regiments marched distances ranging from 12 to 15 miles. It was hot and about 20 men in each regiment were compelled to fall out. There was some difficulty in getting these men back to camp as each regiment took only one ambulance and some of the men had to wait on the road.

With three companies of the First Minnesota on border patrol duty on the Rio Grande south of camp, the First regiment made its weekly "hike" somewhat short in numbers. The men marched through Mercedes and continued about two and one-half miles east.

H Is Banner Company.

H company, the smallest company in the regiment, was the banner company on the march, only losing one man.

The First Minnesota was given a thorough inspection and for the first time had a practice at pitching "pup" tents. The inspection was on regimental parade ground.

When Captain Percy McClay led company of Minneapolis out of camp to do garrison and patrol duty at Champion's store on the Rio Grande eight miles southwest of camp, the men of the other companies lined up and cheered. This is the third company of the First to go on border duty. A company is at Mercedes pumping station and B company at Progreso.

No Ice Cooled Water.

Second Lieutenant David Moore, F company, First Minnesota, has been refused a commission under the workings of the new army bill and will return to Minneapolis.

Second Lieutenant Walter R. Graham of E company, who has been with the Twenty-eighth at Fort Ringold, will go with the regiment to Fort Sam Fordyce, Texas.

The Second Minnesota misses ice water which has been supplied until recently. Big canvas bags have replaced the water barrels and air-cooled water has supplanted ice-cooled water. Chloride of lime is being used in the Second Minnesota water and the water is no longer boiled.

A Spanish class which meets twice a week is a feature of the schedule in Mollison hall.

When it comes to model kitchens I company, Second Minnesota, Northfield, can hold up its head with any of them. The kitchen accommodations include not only a large icebox, but vegetable cellars.

* * *

Favors Ditch Improvements.

The state drainage board has voted to recommend to the next Legislature the appropriation of a special fund for ditch improvements to prevent further floods in Wilkin county. G. W. Burrows, R. E. Johnson and J. A. Jorgeson made up a commission that urge action to that end. They explained that the cut-off in Ottertail river is of no practical value under existing conditions and that a rebuilding of its mouth is necessary to make it adequately serve the purpose for which it was built.

Regiments Sent Home.

Taps were disregarded in the Third at Llano Grande and genuine soldier yells, mingled with old time cat calls. The Minnesota, Indiana and Nebraska men were saying good-bye to the New York and Louisiana regiments sent home. A small army of men congregated along the tracks shortly before 8 p. m. when the first of a series of Pullman passed through. The cheering was continuous until 11 o'clock.

Enough money has been made from the Third Minnesota regimental exchange to purchase ball suits for the regimental team and this has been done by Chaplain W. S. Emery.

Colonel H. V. Eva, commanding the Third Minnesota infantry, has asked that Lieutenants Rudolf L. Gaalaas of Stillwater and Milton Gallup of St. Paul be reassigned to their regiment for field service. Both officers were barred at Camp Bobleter after taking the physical examination. Since their regiment has been in the south both have passed the examination and been mustered into service.

On Recruiting Duty.

The regiment is short two commissioned officers, as Lieutenant Edward B. Cutter of Anoka and William A. Brown of Duluth are at home stations on recruiting duty.

Colonel George E. Leach of the First Field artillery welcomes rain at Llano Grande. He has no horse shoes for the artillery horses and if it weren't for the rain and mud he would have difficulty in using any of the horses for drill.

Captain Charles Pullis, U. S. A., who was last year stationed in Minnesota as instructor to the militia artillery, is with Pershing in Mexico.

Captain F. B. Cruse, who was designated as inspector instructor for Minnesota artillerymen, has been made a lieutenant colonel of Pennsylvania artillery and has left for Pennsylvania.

Letter Starts Probe.

When Corporal Norman Thompson, H company, Second Minnesota, Mankato, wrote home to father that conditions at Llano Grande were such that he didn't expect to live until the letter reached home, he started something.

An investigation was begun but it ended soon. The records show that on July 2, after he had written the letter home, Corporal Thompson voluntarily and of his own free will reënlisted in the national guard for six years.

Builds Balloon in Camp.

Construction of a balloon, 96 feet high and 1,140 feet in circumference, with the limited facilities at hand in a military camp—that was the task accomplished by Charles W. Hardin, Company I, First Minnesota. Hardin, who is a professional balloonist, enlisted in Fergus Falls with the hope of seeing service as an aviator. After waiting six weeks for a balloon, he decided that immediate action was necessary if he was to have his equipment. Building a balloon in camp presented many difficulties. Thus far, Hardin has made but one flight owing to poor weather conditions, but he has promised more. Men from other companies have been making contributions to the fund and the balloon has been practically paid for. Army officers expressed some surprise that Hardin had been able to accomplish this task in camp. They have been watching his work and it is probable that he may receive official recognition as an aviator.

* * *

Raise Recruiting Costs.

Artillery officers in camp at Fort Snelling awaiting orders to entrain for the border have been compelled to "pass the hat" among themselves in order to raise money with which to pay recruiting expenses. With the three batteries of the First battalion of the First Minnesota Field artillery numbering approximately 167 men each, and more men needed before the membership will reach the government requirement, the state adjutant general says he has no money for recruiting expenses. The federal government declines to pay state camp bills. The officers are "digging up." One day recently, the sum of $17.50 was collected in the hat passing process. This and other money goes for printing of circulars and the expense of recruiting parties.

Luce Says Men Like South.

Col. Erle D. Luce of the First Minnesota regiment has reiterated his belief that the guardsmen at the border are satisfied. "As a general proposition I think the boys of all the regiments down there are enjoying themselves," he said, "though of course I'm hardly qualified to speak for any but my own outfit. I know they are satisfied. I do not care to enter into a controversy with the men of the Second." Sharp issue was taken with Colonel Luce's statement published recently that "no one on the border wants to come home." Fred H. Stopple and Norman W. Mackay, members of D company of the Second Minnesota, wrote from Llano Grande setting forth what they say is the "true feeling of the majority of the men."

* * *

Artillerymen Indignant.

Officers and members of A, B and C batteries, Camp Bobleter, are indignant at rumors that they will not be sent to the border, but will be mustered out of the Federal service. But for the recent railroad tension, the batteries would be on the border, they declare. The fact a recruiting detail of six officers and twenty-one men are stationed in all parts of the state enlisting men to fill the ranks of F battery, and the infantry regiments on the border, is additional proof, they say.

Winona.—Interest of racing fans in this section centered upon the horse races last week at the Winona county fair at St. Charles.

Brainerd.—Proving too heavy for a condemned 75-foot bridge at Pillager, near here, a traction engine fell a distance of 40 feet into the Crow Wing river. No one was injured in the accident.

St. Cloud.—That Minneapolis was the home of the unidentified woman whose body was found in the Mississippi river here was indicted to the police in following up recent discovered clues in the case.

Virginia.—The first authentic case of infantile paralysis on the Mesaba range has been found at Eveleth, where Mollie, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kochevar, was declared to have the disease.

Duluth.—Forty-five dollars a month and board is now being offered in Duluth and other northern cities for woodsmen for the winter cut. This is $10 a month more than was ever offered; yet virtually no men can be hired.

Winona.—When a car ahead of a locomotive on the Great Western railway jumped the track and flipped over the edge of a 75-foot trestle near here, it carried Dominik Bronk, brakeman of Winona, to death. He fell beneath the overturned car.

Duluth.—Shot through the abdomen by the accidental discharge of his revolver, Aywood Frazer, aged 17, Duluthian, was fatally wounded while fishing in the Cloquet river and died following an operation here. Fraser was with five companions.

Brainerd.—With street lights turned off at night pending increase in taxes Brainerd has felt somewhat like an English town dodging Zeppelins. The Minnesota and International Falls railway early morning passenger train came to town and ran by the station in the dark.

Duluth.—Threatened trouble with the Longshoremen's unions of Duluth and Superior which has caused some uneasiness among the grain shippers of the Head of the Lakes will be amiably settled to the satisfaction of the unions, according to W. F. Smith, secretary of the Superior union.

Hibbing.—Charging that the republication at this time of the state report on Hibbing municipal affairs was purely a political move to counteract his forthcoming candidacy for governor on an independent ticket, Mayor Victor L. Power said it would be shown this village received "dollar value for every dollar spent."

Bemidji.—The first criminal indictment ever returned in Minnesota in connection with alleged timber theft on state land has been returned by the Beltrami county grand jury in session at Bemidji. John Miller and M. Purritannen are accused by the grand jury with having unlawfully entered upon state land and cut timber.

St. Paul.—Governor Burnquist and members of the Minnesota state monumental commission arranged to leave St. Paul to dedicate Minnesota monuments to dead soldiers from this state in three national cemeteries. The exercises will take place as follows: Little Rock, September 22; Memphis, September 23; Andersonville, September 26.

Willmar.—Twenty-eight escapes from the state hospital for inebriates at Willmar during August practically equalled the number of admissions during the month, else the capacity of the institution would be overtaxed now, George H. Freeman, superintendent, has reported to the state board of control. There are now 72 inmates in the hospital or one less than a year ago.

Crosby.—After having lost several weeks' work "watching their families and themselves hovering on the brink of starvation with nothing between them and one of Northern Minnesota's winter's, they said, 200 members of the Industrial Workers of the World, which organization called a strike of iron miners on the Cuyuna range, met in executive session and voted to call off the strike.

Badger, Minn.—The State Drainage board has just inspected the work of deepening and straightening the Roseau river from near this point to the Canadian line and also work of the same character from a point near Roseau lake to that already done. The former contract costing $80,000 is near completion and was approved by the board on condition the contractor remove temporary dams.

Duluth.—Judge Bert Fesler in district court here refused to quash indictments charging murder in the first degree and assault in the first degree brought against Philip Masonovich, Joe Nikich, John Orlandich, Joseph Zernogortovich, Felicia Masonovich, Carlo Tresca, Sam Scarlet and Joseph Schmidt, by a grand jury at Virginia in connection with the alleged killing of Deputy Sheriff James C. Myron.

International Falls.—Investigation of alleged illegal expenditures of more than $200,000 of Koochiching county funds and charges of malfeasance and nonfeasance against County Auditor L. H. Slocum, and County Commissioners William Harrington, Harold Royem and R. S. McDonald, all suspended from office by Governor Burnquist pending an inquiry, will begin September 25 at International Falls.

St. Paul.—Trustees of the Minnesota State teachers' retirement and insurance fund at an annual meeting at the State Capitol accepted thirty-four new members and eleven applications for

One Thing Lacking.

The family was going on an outing in the woods, and mother was packing the lunch basket.

"Let me see," she murmured. "I've got lettuce sandwiches, olive sandwiches, peanut butter sandwiches, macaroons, pickles, ginger snaps and chow-chow. I wonder if I've forgotten anything."

"How about putting in something to eat?" said father sarcastically.

Can't Perform a Miracle.

"A Virginia inventor has brought out a motor-driven plow from which the motor can be removed for other work about a farm," said the city man.

"Do you suppose it could be attached to the farmhand and make him move any faster?"

A man may lead a woman to the altar—after which he becomes a follower.

Save the Babies.

INFANT MORTALITY is something frightful. We can hardly realize that of all the children born in civilized countries, twenty-two per cent., or nearly one-quarter, die before they reach one year; thirty-seven per cent., or more than one-third, before they are five, and one-half before they are fifteen!

We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save a majority of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinctures and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain more or less opium or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity, they stupefy, retard circulation and lead to congestions, sickness, death. Castoria operates exactly the reverse, but you must see that it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. Castoria causes the blood to circulate properly, opens the pores of the skin and allays fever.

Genuine Castoria always bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

Iron is Greatest of All Strength Builders, Says Doctor

A Secret of the Great Endurance and Power of Athletes

Ordinary Nuxated Iron Will Make Delicate, Nervous, Rundown People 200 Per Cent. Stronger in Two Weeks' Time in Many Cases.

NEW YORK, N. Y.—Most people foolishly seem to think they are going to get renewed health and strength from some stimulating medicine, secret nostrum or narcotic drug, said Dr. Sauer, a well-known Specialist who has studied widely both in this country and Europe, when, as a matter of fact, real and true strength can only come from the food you eat. But people often fail to get the strength out of their food because they haven't enough iron in their blood to enable it to change food into living matter. From their weakened, nervous condition they know something is wrong but they can't tell what, so they generally commence doctoring for stomach, liver or kidney trouble or symptoms of some other ailment caused by the lack of iron in the blood. This thing may go on for years, while the patient suffers untold agony. If you are not strong or well, you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of ordinary nuxated iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see for yourself how much you have gained. I have seen dozens of nervous, run-down people who were ailing all the while, double their strength and endurance and entirely get rid of all symptoms of dyspepsia, liver and other troubles in from ten to fourteen days' time simply by taking iron in the proper form. And this after they had in some cases been doctoring for months without obtaining any benefit. But don't take the old forms of reduced iron, iron acetate or tincture of iron simply to save a few cents. You must take iron in a form that can be easily absorbed and assimilated like nuxated iron if you want it to do you any good, otherwise it may prove worse than useless. Many an athlete or prize-fighter has won the day simply because he knew the secret of great strength and endurance and filled his blood with iron before he went into the affray, while many another has gone down to inglorious defeat simply for the lack of iron.

NOTE—Nuxated Iron recommended above by Dr. Sauer is not a patent medicine nor secret remedy, but one which is well known to druggists and whose iron constituents is widely prescribed by eminent physicians everywhere. Unlike the older inorganic iron products, it is easily assimilated, does not injure the teeth, make them black, nor upset the stomach; on the contrary, it is a most potent remedy, in nearly all forms of indigestion, as well as for nervous, run-down conditions. The manufacturers have such great confidence in Nuxated Iron that they offer to forfeit $100.00 to any charitable institution if they cannot take any man or woman under 60 who lacks iron and increase their strength 200 per cent. or over in four weeks' time provided they have no serious organic trouble. They also offer to refund your money if it does not at least double your strength and endurance in ten days' time. It is dispensed by most druggists. If your druggist or general store is without a supply, ask them to get it for you.—Adv.

"Needed--a Goat."

Reports in Washington say that President Wilson is going to make William Jennings Bryan the goat for the Tampico incident which is one of the darkest chapters in American history. This was the time that the American ships withdrew from the Mexican city of Tampico, and left a number of American men, women and children to the mercy of an enraged mob of Mexicans. They were later rescued by the German cruiser Dresden, who told the Mexican commander that if they were harmed, he would blow the city to pieces with his guns. The date of this deplorable incident was April 19, 1914. No wonder the President, filled with shame, wants to find a scapegoat.

We are of the opinion that about all of the Progressive Republicans of Minnesota are pretty solidly lined up for the election of the Republican ticket this year. The publisher of this paper was one of the Progressives that got enough of assisting to split up the Republican party, so as to let the Democrats in. We did the same trick, by casting our vote with the Populist Party, but the last term of Grover and clover, satisfied us for a number of years. and we voted for McKinley, and we are going to vote for Hughes this year, and the whole Progressive Party will vote about ninety-eight per cent for him, for they were a Progressive Party that won't indorse the backing out policy of President Wilson.

Practically all the chairmen of the important committees in Congress come from the South. That is the reason, perhaps, that the people from this end of the country have had so much put over on them.—Ex.

You bet they have had it put over on them, and they are going to grab the big end of the stick in November,

The Democrats are still consoling themselves, because Maine did not give a bigger majority for the Republican ticket. But they will not have the consolation of seeing Hughes elected by a small majority in November, by such an overwhelming majority that it will even make a Democrat sit up and take notice.

Republicans of Thief River Falls have organized for the campaign by the election of a District Committee, Dr. H. G. Hieber, was elected chairman for the county committee and Andrew Trovaton secretary, and they propose to make a live county campaign for the National and State tickets.

The mail route patrons between Kratka and Highlanding via Bronkeberg, are not likely to vote for a four years continuance of a tri-weekly mail service, when they could have a daily mail service at exactly the same expense to the government.

It is no wonder that the Democratic Press are kicking about Hughes' hammer, for they realize that he is building the scaffold, on which they will be executed and put out of the business of running this government on November [illegible]

RURAL CARRIER EXAMINATION.

The United States Civil Service Commission has announced an examination for the County of Pennington, Minn., to be held at Thief River Falls, on October 14, 1916 to fill the position of rural carrier at Goodridge and vacancies that may later occur on rural routes from other post offices in the above-mentioned county. The examination will be open only to male citizens who are actually domiciled in the territory of a post office in the county and who meet the other requirements set forth in Form No. 1977. This form and application blanks may be obtained from the offices mentioned above or from the United States Civil Service Commission at Washington, D. C. Applications should be forwarded to the Commission at Washington at the earliest practicable date.

At your Druggist, 50c.—Adv.

The country lying tributary to Red Lake River, east from Highlanding, and lots of other parts of the Eleven Towns will soon be sparsely settled, as the people are simply drowned out of the country. There are a large percentage of them who have mortgaged their farms and stock to the limit to improve their farms, and were wholly dependent on their crops for their living, and when that was a complete failure they were left with nothing but their stock to depend on. But the flood conditions have been so bad that they could not even get hay for their stock, so they are compelled to get out of the country. There is no use denying conditions as they exist, for if the people do not receive aid and that soon, they must abandon their homes or starve, and they are preparing to get out of the country, as they simply have no way of making a living, until they could get another crop.

WOMEN SHOULD BE FOR CHARLES E. HUGHES, SAYS ROOSEVELT.

"Mr. Hughes has unequivocally taken the right position, and as regards all other positions he, and not his opponent, is entitled to the support of both men and women, and therefore the women in the enfranchised states who do not in this election support him forfeit the right to say they have done their utmost for their sisters in the non-enfranchised states."—From a letter of Theodore Roosevelt to Miss Alice Carpenter.

Need of Constructive Legislation.

Just before the European war broke out we had a million skilled mechanics out of work and nearly half a million railroad men were idle, together with nearly half a million freight cars. The railroads were suffering from lack of freight to carry to market, and industry was gradually becoming stagnant. In Louisiana two hundred thousand acres of sugar land were plowed up because of Democratic changes in the tariff law. It is generally conceded by all save the blind that the country was not progressing. Attempts were made to keep courage up by the predictions made by Secretaries McAdoo and Redfield and President Wilson of the great trade booms which were soon to appear but which failed to materialize until the outbreak of war on the continent.

EDITORIAL PARAGRAPHS.

Two futile invasions of Mexico and six separate and distinct policies on the question of permitting arms and ammunition to be sent into that country are included in the performance of the Wilson administration in its dealings with our southern neighbors in less than three years. It is this characteristic instability of the government that makes people want a change.

When Charles E. Hughes said: "The dealings of the administration with Mexico constitute a confused chapter of blunders," he gave an explicit characterization of the Wilson administration's policy in one sentence.

MR. HUGHES ANSWERS.

Those Who Clamored for His Views Are Hearing Them.

Those friends of Democracy who clamored so loudly for Mr. Hughes' opinions upon current issues while he still held the high office of justice of the supreme court, are now fully answered by the private citizen, who surrendered his judicial position to accede to the wishes of a majority of the people as expressed through their instructions to their delegates to the Republican national convention.

Mr. Hughes has not disappointed those who have reposed confidence in his character and judgment. In his speech of acceptance he has clearly set forth the vital issues upon which the Republican party proposes to conduct the campaign this fall. On the platform he is telling the nation wherein the present administration has been at fault and what is necessary to be done to restore the United States to the place of respect and honor to which it is entitled in the eyes of the world.

MR. HUGHES HAS EXPLODED THE "KEPT-US-OUT-OF-WAR" ARGUMENT.

Mr. Hughes' attack upon the "kept-us-out-of-war" argument has aroused a story of enthusiasm.

"Kept us out of war?" he demands. "Why, there were nineteen men—good American soldiers, shot down at Vera Cruz, and many Mexicans were killed by our men. That was war. Moreover, it was a very ignoble war. I have heard three explanations of the Vera Cruz move.

"First, it was explained that it was made in order to compel somebody to salute the flag—somebody who had insulted us. But the flag was not saluted and has not been to this day. Then it was said that the salute was not what we sought, but to prevent the landing of a boatload of ammunition intended for Huerta. The ammunition, landed, however, and it has been shown that it reached Huerta in due season without interference on our part.

"When that reason was shown to be untenable, a third one—and possibly the real one—finally was advanced. It was said that our seizure of Vera Cruz was a move to compel the retirement of Huerta. It seems possible that this is true, although we had promised the Mexicans that we would not interfere in their affairs and told them more than once that we wanted them to handle their own affairs.

"That is why the Mexicans could not understand us and that is why they show little faith in our promises."

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. WE WANT THE AMERICAN FLAG UNSULLIED.

"Now, my friends, we want not only American efficiency in business, in efficiency in the organization of business, in the protection of the factors of human industry and commerce, we want the American flag unsullied and the American name honored throughout the world."—From Mr. Hughes' speech at Chicago.

MANANA

Manana, which is Mexican for "watchful waiting," is the Democratic keynote in the campaign. The Wilson drive is to begin "sometime" after September 1; but no definite engagements have been made, it is announced, for him to commence making political speeches. He has tentative engagements to make some Western visits about the middle of September but nothing positive. Plans are being formulated for carrying on a campaign to capture the woman vote of the country, but who will make the speeches on this phase of the controversy has not been determined. It had been expected that Mr. Bryan would speak in the Maine campaign, but it is now believed he cannot do so, but will make some speeches later. And so it goes. Watchful waiting will prevail while, in the meantime, Mr. Hughes is carrying on a positive campaign and arousing the entire Western country.

WILSON'S POLICIES BLOWN UP.

Charles Evans Hughes did have explosives with him when his motor car was searched by a Canadian soldier, but they were under the candidate's hat. Mr. Hughes will set them off on his Western tour and some of Mr. Wilson's policies will be blown up.—New York Sun.

THE LOCAL NEWS.

Ole Olson left for North Dakota this week.

Miss Erma Parnow was a pleasant caller at Sunbeam Thursday afternoon.

Church services were held at the Highlanding Church on last Sunday.

Miss Annie Olson visited with Miss Myrtle Hunt on Wednesday afternoon.

Martin Hyland and his son Henry made a business trip to Thief River Falls to-day.

Walter McAndress has been cutting his clover seed crop this week.

A cattle buyer from St. Hilaire bought a car load of cattle in this locality the past week.

The Ole Giving threshing rig has been threshing on the north side of Red Lake River this week.

Quite a number of farmers are rushing the fall plowing along, getting ready for next years crop.

Jerry O'Brien of Cavalier, N. Dak., was visiting relatives and friends in this locality, and looking after his realestate interests here, this week.

Eddie Hyland and Ole Olson have moved their threshing rig onto the north side of Red Lake River this week, and are threshing on the Shosten farm.

There was a small attendance at the Parnow auction Wednesday, as about all the farmers want to sell off some stock instead of buying, owing to the scarcity of hay.

The Clark farm was sold the past week to a buyer from Blue Earth, Minnesota, but whether he bought it for speculation, or to make his home here, we did not learn.

WEDDING DANCE.

I will give my wedding dance at the Erie Hall, on Saturday evening, October 7th. All are cordially invited to attend.

Henry Hyland.

We have had one whole week without rain, and if we can get one more week of fair weather, there will be a prospect that the farmers can yet save part of their flax crop.

THE NORTHWEST SCHOOL OF AGRICULTURE, CROOKSTON, offers courses in Agriculture, Home Training, Normal Methods, Gasoline and Auto Engineering. Write the Registrar for illustrated booklet and full information.

The present season has been so wet and discouraging, that we often hear farmers make the remark, "We have been drowned out two years now, and we are only going to try one more year, and if the next season is like the two past seasons, we are going to strike out for higher land and a dryer climate;" and they can not be blamed, as a farmer can not very well exist by farming water

Goodridge is having a very malignant scourge of scarlet fever As this is a contagious disease, it is up to the people of that village to see to it that there is a suitable quarantine maintained, so as to confine the disease to as few persons as possible. While we do not wish to be understood as publishing anything detrimental to the interests of that village, yet it is our duty to warn the people of this locality of the prevalence of an epidemic of scarlet fever at Goodridge.

Donkey Figuring.

The Minneapolis Daily News, its great representative of Wilson's reduction of the cost of living has at last figured it out, that if 40 per cent of the Progressives who voted for Roosevelt four years ago would vote for Wilson he would get the electoral vote of Minnesota. But let us figure 100 per cent of them for Hughes, and about 20 or 30 per cent of them who voted for Wilson four years ago on top, and see where you will land in. Remember The Democratic editors are always claiming big gains for the Democratic party, until the votes are counted, then they will land where they did in Michigan.

Take for an illustration, this township of Highlanding, Pennington county. At the last Presidential election there were cast 79 votes. Republican 18, Democratic 10, Progressive 10, Socialist 28, Prohibition 8, at this years June Primary, there were 55 votes cast, 54 Republican and 1 Democrat. Does that look like the Progressives were turning to Wilson, or the Democrats turning away from him?

The common American people are tired of the watchful waiting policy of Wilson, and the political gang that are running the civil service of this country, and they are going to oust them out of business on November 7th.

A CAPABLE OFFICER

Of the county officers seeking re-election at the general election this fall, no one is more deserving or better qualified than Wilhelm Michelet, Judge of the Probate Court. Mr. Michelet has, by unswerving devotion to the office he holds, won a host of friends throughout the county.

He has discharged the duties of his office in a businesslike manner, is courteous and prompt in his dealings with everybody, has shown partiality to no man or cause and is well qualified, intellectually and otherwise, to hold the office of Judge of Probate. It will be well for the people of Pennington County to think twice, or, three times if necessary, before they displace him.—The St. Hilaire Spectator.

President Wilson will not answer Hughes' mud-slinging abuse and attacks. No doubt he considers them too weak and idiotic to merit reply, and he is right. A gentleman never condescends to rowdyism.—The Gully Advance.

He can't answer, because he knows Hughes is telling cold facts, and he dare not deny them, and the American people have their ear to the ground listening, as you Dems will find out November 7th.

The residence of George Singer, at Rhoda, Minnesota, was destroyed by fire on the 13th day of October 1913. He was paid insurance as follows: on dwelling $500.00, furniture $375.00, provisions $100.00. We publish this information for the benefit of those who know about how much loss was actually sustained, and as the facts were taken from the records of the Bray Mutual Fire Insurance Co., it certainly can not be criminal libel to publish it.

The Red Lake River has been gradually going down this week, but it is too late to save the hay crop, as about all the bottom land that has been under water during the entire summer, will have to be reseeded to timothy and red top before it will produce much hay.

Clancy's Comment on Old Friend's Clearness of Intellect Apparently a True One.

A local architect is sponsor for the following Irish anecdote:

Pat was reported lying at death's door, so Clancy and McManigan determined to call upon him and do what they could to ease his last moments. Arriving at Pat's domicile, they were admitted by the sick man's weeping wife and conducted to the chamber of not-far-off death.

Pat looked very bad indeed, and his friends hardly knew whether they had come in time or not. But the near-dead man rose up as they neared the bed. One grizzled hand pointed floorward at the bedside and in a weak whisper the sick man bade his friends hand him that which he sought. They looked underneath and found a jug, which Pat joyfully clasped to his breast.

"I want," says he, "fer you, me friends, to take a last bit of a swig with me."

Acquiescing, Clancy grasped the jug and removed the stopper. He placed his nose to the opening, a smile creasing his rugged countenance. Before drinking, however, he turned to McManigan. "Sure and he's sinsible to the viry ind," said he, nodding sagely.—Columbus Dispatch.

New Definition.

"What's a diplomat?" asked Mrs. Rattlebrain of her husband.

"Does your sweetheart allow you to kiss her?"

"There's a Reason"

What's Doing in Minnesota

Stillwater. — Stillwater was host to the twenty-fifth annual state conference of charities and correction, which held a four-day session here.

Bemidji. — Nymore, a village of 1,500, will become a part of Bemidji October 7 if the local aldermen abide by a vote with which they have adopted the necessary ordinance on first reading.

Lake City. — Despondent because of ill health, Mary Schmauss, 26 years old, took her life by shooting, at her home in this city. She was found in her room with a bullet wound in her heart, when her mother investigated a revolver report.

Moorhead. — A bullet that crashed through a window into the F. L. Getty home here, narrowly missing a member of the family and flattening against a wall, is believed to have been fired by a property owner guarding his apple orchard against a band of boys.

St. Paul. — The apple crop in Minnesota is only 40 per cent of the average this year, according to the reports of dealers, and what apples there are are in scattered sections. Hot weather and the ravages of bugs early in the spring are blamed for the poor crop.

St. Paul. — October 9, the anniversary of the Chicago fire in 1871, has been set apart by Governor J. A. A. Burnquist as fire prevention day. An organized effort in cities and villages and on farms is to be made at this time to reduce the fire hazard by a general clean-up.

Minneapolis. — County commissioners of Minnesota are said to have been converted in considerable numbers to a belief in concrete as a desirable bridge material. C. E. Nagel, deputy state highway engineer in charge of bridges said the bridge-testing demonstration at the state fair had convinced many.

Moorhead. — With drainage work amounting to $59,382.97 accomplished the past summer and plans laid for an additional $114,623.33 worth, Clay county's 1916 record in this respect bids fair to stand as a record throughout the state. Appropriations have been made for the work planned bringing the year's total up to $173,806.30 in funds voted.

Duluth. — Odin Halden, St. Louis county auditor, has completed certification to the state of wolf bounties. About 1,000 of the pirates of the wilds were killed in St. Louis county during the last 15 months and approximately $15,000 was paid out for bounties. Last winter the deep snow made it comparatively easy to kill wolves.

St. Paul. — Minnesota spent $6,325,278.84 on its thirty state institutions in the last fiscal year, and more than a third of that sum went to the University of Minnesota, according to figures compiled in the office of A. C. Gooding, state treasurer. The statement comprised all appropriations, including those for buildings, maintenance and the like.

Minneapolis, Minn.—Fires at the Foster Robe & Tanning company plant and the Campbell Livery company stable both starting within a few minutes of each other, shortly after midnight, resulted in the loss of one life and damages estimated at $50,000 to the livery stable, its contents and adjoining buildings, and $40,000 to the tanning plant buildings and contents.

Stillwater. — The forty-second annual session of the St. Croix Valley Old Settlers' association was held at the Sawyer home here, where during the past years the same association has gathered in ever-decreasing numbers. The oldest settler of them all, A. L. Larpenteur, St. Paul, who came to Minnesota in territorial days, Sept. 15, 1843, was among the first to arrive.

Virginia. — The strike on the Mesaba iron range has been declared off by Industrial Workers of the World. The votes of local unions in Biwabik, Aurora, Chisholm, Hibbing and at other points have made it impracticable for other striking miners to continue the fight. No vote was taken in Virginia, according to the I. W. W., and it is not felt it will be necessary to take any further votes.

Rochester. — "The ministry is a poor place to make money. The people see to it a preacher does not get more than enough for a living," declared Bishop Charles B. Mitchell of St. Paul, in an address before the Minnesota conference of the Methodist Episcopal church here. "The ministry has a tendency to develop selfishness, against which the true minister must fight," he said.

International Falls. — Charges of nonfeasance against two more Koochiching county commissioners, not mentioned in the first allegations of illegal expenditures of county funds, aggregating $200,000, which resulted in suspension of the county auditor and three other commissioners, pending investigation, have been filed with Governor Burnquist, together with a petition asking that they likewise be suspended.

St. Cloud. — Vladimir Miller of Minneapolis was slightly wounded here in attempting to escape from the state reformatory with a fellow inmate, Tony Biotti of Duluth. The boys made their dash for liberty by jumping to the outside grounds from an icehouse on which they were working.

St. Paul. — The death rate for the whole state was lowered from 10.8 in 1914 to 10.1 in 1915. "If the death rate of Minnesota can be kept down despite the fact that it daily is developing an older population," Dr. Bracken said, "it will be another feather in the state's cap as a health resort."

NEW HEALTH CODE PLANNED BY BOARD

COMMISSION NAMED BY GOVERNOR TO RECOMMEND LAWS ORGANIZES AT CAPITOL.

REPORTS OF BREAK DENIED

Lieut. Col. Murphy Says Rumors of Dispute Over Command Are Unfounded—Will Not Send Battery Boys Back to Border.

St. Paul.

The commission of nine members recently appointed by Governor Burnquist to recommend any needed legislation on the subject of public health organized at an initial meeting at the Capitol and deferred until needs are ascertained, the decision on the scope of its work—whether it will recommend an entirely new state health code as was done recently in New York or merely supplementary legislation on separate subjects.

Governor Burnquist was requested to ask the United States Public Health service to detail an expert on organization to make a survey of state health administration in Minnesota.

This action followed a statement by Dean E. P. Lyon of the medical college at the University that he had heard reports that "the general impression is the state health department is not all that it should be."

Dean Lyon was chosen chairman; Dr. W. L. Beebe, president of the Minnesota Public Health association, vice chairman, and Dr. I. J. Murphy, secretary of that association, and also secretary of the commission.

At the next meeting to be called by the chairman, members will present for discussion health needs peculiar to their various lines of work.

"Governor Burnquist's idea in appointing this commission was that it should look over the immediate field to find out what health needs are now most urgent in Minnesota," Dr. Murphy said.

"It may be that provision for visiting nurses in country districts, regulations for sanitation in camps, and perhaps other like subjects may develop that a reorganization of the state health work and its machinery may be found desirable."

Mr. Houk suggested the importance of legislation on the subject of occupational or industrial diseases.

"Minnesota is compensating workmen for accidents, but where one is killed or injured there are nearly 100 contracting industrial diseases," he said.

Denies Reports of Break.

Reports that a dispute as to the superiority of command between Colonel George E. Leach and Lieutenant Colonel W. J. Murphy of the First field artillery, was likely to result in sending four members of Battery F back to the border have been indignantly denied by Colonel Murphy.

The four men were members of the headquarters detail of the field artillery stationed at Camp Llano Grande. Because they were university students and formerly members of Battery F, Colonel Leach ordered them to report at the headquarters company at Camp Bobleter, in command of Colonel Murphy. Monday, the day after the battery returned to Fort Snelling, Colonel Murphy transferred them to Battery F, so that they might be mustered out of the service in time to return to the university.

"There has been no question raised on the possibility of my sending the boys back to the border," said Colonel Murphy. "The order transferring them to Battery F has been issued, and they will be mustered out with their battery. There is no dispute between Colonel Leach and myself relative to the validity of Colonel Leach's command, and I am only too anxious to join him on the border and deliver to him the responsibility of the First battalion."

Seek Advice on Grain Act.

O. P. B. Jacobson of the Minnesota railroad and warehouse commission; R. T. Emerson, chief grain inspector, and E. R. Rehnke, chairman of the state grain appeal board, are in Washington to confer with officials of the Department of Agriculture as to the enforcement of the recently enacted federal grain grading and inspection law. They will meet with the Federal officials in order to become fully informed as to what changes, if any, may be required in the present methods of handling the grain coming under their jurisdiction. Commissioner Jacobson expects to go to Baltimore later and attend the National grain dealers convention.

Schmahl Answers Charge.

Secretary of State Schmahl, on his return from a drainage inspection trip, made an investigation of the complaint filed by A. A. Trovaten of Barnesville, who says he has been unable yet to get an automobile dealers' license and tags applied for Dec. 28, 1915. Mr. Trovatan has filed his complaint with Governor Burnquist, and asks for Mr. Schmahl's removal for "nonfeasance" in office. "Our records show that Mr. Trovaten's application was received and sent to the factory," said Mr. Schmahl.

"Yes, my dear."

"And then go to the milkman's and tell him to leave an extra pint of cream to-morrow?"

"Yes, my dear."

"And when you get to your office will you call up my sister and tell her I'll be over Tuesday? They don't charge you for calls there."

"Yes, my dear, and say, wifie, would you mind sewing up this little rip in my coat before I start?"

"Good land, aren't you men terrible! You're always wanting something done."—Exchange.

No Enterprise.

H. C. Frick, the steel millionaire, said one day to a Pittsburgh reporter:

"The man who lacks enterprise is always a lazy, do-nothing man. It's like the story of the clock and the sundial.

"In an old-fashioned village there was a movement on foot to purchase a town clock for the town hall, but Jabez Hartley said:

"'No, no. That'll eat into a lot of money. What do we want a town clock for, anyhow. Why, lying abed of a morning, can't I see the time by the sundial over the church porch?'

"'Yes, jabez,' said a progressive, but suppose the sun isn't shining? What do you do then?'

"'Why,' said Jabez, 'I know then it ain't fit weather to be out o' doors, so I stay where I am for the day.'"

How He Told.

The late Lord Kitchener collected old china, and to a lady interviewer he once said:

"You are evidently as ignorant of china as the miner volunteer was ignorant of the Australian farms.

"One miner soldier said to another in the streets of Cairo:

"'That's a fine-lookin' chap, that there Canadian over there.'

"'He ain't no Canadian; he's an Australian,' the other miner answered.

"'How can ye tell, man?'

"'Why, don't you see he's got a kangaroo feather in his hat?'"

Evidence.

"I guess the ancients must have had their troubles with careless servants, too."

"What makes you think so?"

"Just look at the way those old time pieces of statuary are all smashed up."

"How is your daughter progressing with her music?"

"First rate," replied Mr. Cumrox. "She's gettin' so now she dosn't have to grab the first invitation. She can take a chance on somebody saying, 'Please do sing' two and sometimes even three times."

Conditional Gratitude.

"Father," said the small boy, "how long is it till Thanksgiving?"

"How do I know?" answered the man who is worried about politics. "It all depends on who's elected next November."

Suspicious.

"When Bill Simmons goes to church, they always pass the contribution box to him before anyone else."

"Why is that? Is he such a generous giver?"

"Not he. By passing it to him first, they don't stand a chance of losing anything but the empty plate."

Abundant Supply.

"Have you always kept your promises?"

"I couldn't keep 'em all," admitted Senator Sorghum. "But I have usually been able to substitute still better ones for those that didn't pan out."

Like A Boy at 50 Bubbling Over With Vitality—Taking Iron Did It

Doctors says Nuxated Iron is greatest of all strength builders—Often increases the strength and endurance of delicate, nervous folks 200 per cent. in two weeks time.

NEW YORK, N. Y.—Not long ago a man came to me who was nearly half a century old and asked me to give him a preliminary examination for life insurance. I was astonished to find him with the blood pressure of a boy of 20 and as full of vigor, vim and vitality as a young man; in fact a young man he really was notwithstanding his age. The secret he said was taking iron—nuxated iron had filled him with renewed life. At 30 he was in bad health; at 46 careworn and nearly all in. Now at 50 a miracle of vitality and his face beaming with the buoyancy of youth. As I have said a hundred times over, iron is the greatest of all strength builders. If people would only throw away patent medicines and nauseous concoctions and take simple nuxated iron, I am convinced that the lives of thousands of persons might be saved, who now die every year from pneumonia, grippe, consumption, kidney, liver and heart trouble, etc. The real and true cause which started their diseases was nothing more nor less than a weakened condition brought on by lack of iron in the blood. Iron is absolutely necessary to enable your blood to change food into living tissue. Without it, no matter how much or what you eat, your food merely passes through you without doing you any good. You don't get the strength out of it and as a consequence you become weak, pale and sickly looking just like a plant trying to grow in a soil deficient in iron. If you are not strong or well you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of ordinary nuxated iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see for yourself how much you have gained. I have seen dozens of nervous, run-down people who were ailing all the while, double their strength and endurance and entirely get rid of all symptoms of dyspepsia, liver and other troubles in from ten to fourteen days' time simply by taking iron in the proper form. And this after they had in some cases been doctoring for months without obtaining any benefit. But don't take the old forms of reduced iron, iron acetate or tincture of iron simply to save a few cents. You must take iron in a form that can be easily absorbed and assimilated like nuxated iron if you want it to do you any good, otherwise it may prove worse than useless. Many an athlete or prize-fighter has won the day simply because he knew the secret of great strength and endurance and filled his blood with iron before he went into the affray, while many another has gone down to inglorious defeat simply for lack of iron.—E. Sauer, M. D.

NOTE.—Nuxated Iron, recommended above by Dr. Sauer is not a patent medicine nor secret remedy, but one which is well known to druggists and whose iron constituents are widely prescribed by eminent physicians everywhere. Unlike the older inorganic iron products, it is easily assimilated, does not injure the teeth, make them black, nor upset the stomach; on the contrary it is a most potent remedy in nearly all forms of indigestion, as well as for nervous, rundown conditions. The manufacturers have such great confidence in Nuxated Iron that they offer to forfeit $100.00 to any charitable institution if they cannot take any man or woman under 60 who lacks iron and increase their strength 200 per cent. or over in four weeks' time, provided they have no serious organic trouble. They also offer to refund your money if it does not at least double your strength and endurance in ten days' time. It is dispensed by most druggists. If your druggist or general store is without a supply, ask them to get it for you.—Adv.

WHO IS THY NEIGHBOR?

Hon. John A. Duffy of Red Lake Falls was in this city the fore part of the week in the interest of his candidacy for the state legislature. Mr. Duffy seems to be meeting with considerable favor in this city and will undoubtedly receive a good vote here. There are also many throughout the country who are of the opinion that he should be accorded hearty support for the reason that the interests of Pennington and Red Lake counties are so closely allied, whereas the county of his opponent has very little in common with either.—T. R. Falls News-Press.

The above is about the way we size up the election of a Representative from this District. We have long since made it a practise to keep tab on the doings of the members of the Legislature elected from the District in which we reside, and we feel confident that John A. Duffy would make a Representative that would best represent the best interest of Pennington county in the next legislature. We believe this for the reason that his own interests are so closely allied with the interests of this county. The time has long since past when it is for the interest of a banker to legislate detrimental to the best interests of his farmer constituents, and if we elect John A. Duffy as a member of the next Legislature from this District, we will elect a man who will use his best endeavors to represent the farming interests of the District.

"Where does God draw the line," inquires "the Old Man Hereof" of that breezy weekly newspaper, The Mesaba Ore. We venture the suggestion that if God don't draw the line he ought to, on the cuss who takes his newspaper out of the office and reads it week after week and year after year and never offers to pay for it, but, when he sees the patient and long suffering editor means business and proposes to have his money or know the reason why, marks his paper "refused" and sneakingly shoves it back into the postoffice.—Worthington Globe.

If God don't draw the line on those chaps, along with His other affairs, it's no wonder He overlooks some of the things that should be attended to.—Mesaba Ore.

God long since drew the line on dirty cusses of this kind, and turned them over to the tender mercies of the Devil, of the lower regions.

The Spanish war cost us less loss of American lives than has been lost under the peace policy of Wilson in Mexico. But in the Spanish war, we cleared the decks for action, and promptly "cleaned up" every thing that got in our way. Under President Wilson's peace policy, we hold up our hands, while the other fellow uses the gun. But look out there, you greasers, there will be another man behind the gun after March 4th.

The American people are only waiting for an opportunity to vote, and when they do vote on November 7th they will vote for America.

And we haven't yet got either Francisco Villa or that [illegible]. We are still "watchful waiting."

There must be something wrong with the publication of a newspaper at Red Lake Falls, as the present publisher wants to get out, and every new prospective buyer seems to get cold feet. What Red Lake Falls really needs is a man with capital enough to buy the plant and exist for about six months without any help from local business men, then wake up the town from a live newspaper editor's stand point.

CHANGING SEASONS BRING COLDS.

"Stuffed up head," clogged-up nose, tight chest, sore throat are sure signs of cold, and Dr. King's New Discovery is sure relief. A dose of this combination of antiseptic balsams soothes the irritated membrane, clears the head, loosens the phlegm, you breathe easier and realize your cold is broken up. Treat a cold persistently; half-way measures leave a lingering cough. Take Dr. King's New Discovery until your cold is gone. For 47 years the favorite remedy for young and old. At your Druggist, 50c.—Adv.

After eighteen years satisfactory service to the public Mrs. E. F. Marshall has been relieved of the duties of post mistress at Red Lake Falls, as a Demo wanted the job and salary. Civil service rules only apply under a Republican administration, and the "outs" will soon have an opportunity to vote, and as they are in an overwhelming majority, they will go in with a walk away.

SLOAN'S LINIMENT FOR NEURALGIA ACHES.

The dull throb of neuralgia is quickly relieved by Sloan's Liniment, the universal remedy for pain. Easy to apply; it quickly penetrates without rubbing and soothes the sore muscles. Cleaner and more promptly effective than mussy plasters or ointment; does not stain the skin or clog the pores. For stiff muscles, chronic rheumatism, gout, lumbago, sprains and strains it gives quick relief. Sloan's Liniment reduces the pain and inflammation in insect bites, bruises, bumps and other minor injuries to children. Get a bottle to-day at your Druggist.—Advertisement.

A CLOGGED SYSTEM MUST BE CLEARED.

You will find Dr. King's New Life Pills a gentle yet effective laxative for removing impurities from the system. Accumulated waste poisons the blood; dizziness, biliousness and pimply, muddy complexion are the distressing effects. A dose of Dr. King's New Life Pills to-night will assure you a free, full bowel movement in the morning. At your Druggist, 25c.—Adv.

WE SHOULD CONSIDER WHAT IS RIGHT THEN DO IT

"Our Government is based on the idea that we have Legislatures to investigate, to consider what is right and to do what is right. It is based on the idea that public opinion is formed from discussion of questions, and that we can come possibly to right solutions. It is not based on the idea that the Government must act without knowing the justice and merits of the cause in which it acts."—Mr. Hughes in His Speech at Portland, Maine.

THERE SHOULD BE NO ACTION UNDER PRESSURE, UNDER DICTATION.

"We have one priceless treasure in this country, and that is the reign of good judgment after public discussion. In the long history of the people, victory after victory has been won over tyranny and force. We have a free press, we have a free form of public discussion, to the end that there may be a general understanding of our activities and a general appreciation of what is necessary to the improvement of our conditions. We may disagree about this measure or that, but we have confidence in the public judgment in the long run. Hence there is one thing which we must always maintain, and that is that there shall be no action on the part of our elected representatives, taken under pressure, under dictation. We must know what the facts are and what justice requires."—Mr. Hughes in His Speech at Portland, Maine.

"I don't care, if I am elected President, what becomes of my personal political fortunes. I propose that we shall have no more if I can stop it, of these 'kiss me and I'll kiss you' appropriations in Congress."—From Mr. Hughes' speech at Chicago.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. ANSWER: EIGHT HOURS, NOT EIGHT YEARS.

(Special Dispatch to the N. Y. Herald.)

BAR HARBOR, Me., Monday.
To the Editor of the Herald:—

Maine's answer to Wilson:—"Eight hours, but not eight years."—A Former Progressive.

If President Wilson were really earnest in telling the suffrage women "I come to fight for you," he would have put a suffrage measure through Congress by the same stop-watch method that he used to force the railway wage increase bill [illegible]

DEMAND WAS NOT FOR EIGHT-HOUR DAY.

"It is said that the judgment of society has made the demand for the eight-hour day. This was not an eight-hour day, and the judgment of society had nothing to do with the proposition laid before Congress and passed by Congress. The proof of this is found in the bill itself, which proposes an investigation to find out whether Congress had any business to do the thing which it was asked to do, and which it did do."—Mr. Hughes in His Speech at Portland, Maine.

If Wilson's Mexican Peace Policy cost more money and American lives than the Spanish War, where would the country land if they should happen to get into war, under the guidance of Woodrow?

THE LOCAL NEWS

The weather has been fair this week and the flax fields are beginning to dry up.

Owing to our type setter quitting the business, we are so badly crowded with work, that we have been obliged to leave out a number of news items.

WANTED: A girl to set type. Experience not required, as it is not difficult to learn to set plain work. Good opportunity to learn trade and civil service work. Inquire at this office.

Mr. Huddleson, of Rudell was an overnight visiter at Sunbeam, on Tuesday. He reports that the floods still continues down there.

Arthur Toupin, the Oklee banker was looking after his realestate interests in this locality today and made this officea pleasant call.

Eddy Hyland and Ole Olson, are thrashing on the north side of Red Lake River, this week, but will again move over on the south side next week.

Miss Erma Parno Jesse Toftland Mr and Mrs Henry Hyland Edward Hyland and Miss Annie Olson autoed to Thief River Falls Wednesday afternoon.

We learn that Ignoce Kolski, of Deer Park township, who moved to Chicago about a year ago has returned, better satisfied with Pennington county than he was when he left.

Miss Myrtle Hunt, who for the past four years has been our faithful office assistant will now take up the duties of life in a home of her own. As she was an only daughter she will not only be missed by us in the office, but more so by her mother in the home. But she will live near enough to her old home so her mother can visit her until she becomes more accustomed to the change.

Thief River Falls is so well pleased with the success of their last market day, that they will hold another one on Friday October 20th. This is a good opportunity for any farmer to dispose of any stock, or any kind of property, that he wants to sell and convert into cash. J.W. LaBree auctions off all property offered for sale by the farmers free of charge.

MARRIED: At the residence of the brides parents Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Hunt, at Sunbeam Minnesota on Wednesday Oct 4th Mr. Henry Hyland, of Deer Park, and Miss Myrtle Hunt, of Sunbeam. Only the near relatives of the Bride and the groom were present, the ceremony being performed by Edwin T Lunde of Deer Park Township. A wedding reception will be given at the Erie hall tomorrow night to which all their friends have been invited to attend. The young couple will make their home in Deer Park Township, and The Sunbeam joins with their many friends in wishing them a long and prosperous journey through life.

The post office at Neptune has been discontinued. Another body blow at the mail service of eastern Pennington county. But we occasionally hear a man say, that he is going to vote to continue a party in power for four more years that has deliberately put its knife into the heart of the people by depriveing them of an honest mail service.

Mending Amber.

To mend amber requires a certain amount of care, though the process is a simple one. Apply some linseed oil to the broken edges and then hold the oiled parts over a gas jet, covering the rest of the amber meanwhile with a cloth. As soon as the oiled parts become sticky with the heat press the edges which are to be united together and hold them very carefully till cold.—Exchange.

We are publishing the speech of Hon. Knute Nelson this week made at Sunberg Minn., which should be read and considered by every voter in this state.

Under the Wilson administration and the Democratic tariff law the cost to the people of the United States, for 15 articles of food alone has increased in the last four years approximately one-seventh.

An American family, under the Taft administration, that spent $300 per year for these foods, is now paying for the same articles, under the Wilson administration, $342 annually.

WEDDING DANCE.

I will give my wedding dance at the Erie Hall, on Saturday evening, October 7th. All are cordially invited to attend.

Henry Hyland.

He Owned Up.

"Young man," said the stern parent, with the accent on the "young," "do you intend to stay here all night holding my daughter's hand and looking her in the face like a sick calf?"

"No, sir."

"What do you intend to do, then?"

"Well, I had thought when you did us the kindness to retire I would put my arm around her waist, and if she did not object too forcibly I might risk a kiss."—London Mail.

Then Something Happened.

The hobo from the city has different ideas from the farmer as to working hours. The Country Gentleman says that a hobo got a job from a farmer in the busy season. He worked till 9:30, then had his supper. At 4 the next morning he was called to get up. He ate a hearty breakfast, then started upstairs again, saying, "This is the best place I ever worked—two suppers in one night and back to bed again."

An Accent That Survives.

The cockney has survived for many centuries in the midst of speech that is deemed more cultured. It is a curious fact that in the Bahama islands, which were settled more than 200 years ago by Londoners, the cockney speech is as strong as it is in Cheapside.

BRITISH TRACTORS AID IN SMASH TO BUPAUME REGION

"TANKS" AGAIN BROUGHT INTO ACTION, RAINING THEIR MACHINE GUN FIRE INTO THE GERMAN TRENCHES.

EAUCOURT L'ABBAYE TAKEN IN GREAT DRIVE FORWARD

Germans Fail in Two Surprise Attacks Against French, Paris Reports—Russians Start Big Offensive in Galicia With Purpose of Driving on Lemberg.

London, Oct 3.—The left wing of the British army between the Ancre and Somme rivers in France has advanced on nearly a two-mile front from the east of Eaucourt L'Abbaye to the Albert-Bapaume road, capturing in the operation the town of Eaucourt L'Abbaye and throwing their line to within about four miles of Bapaume itself.

Assisting in the advance, the British army's new weapons, so-called "tanks," were again brought into action, raining their machine gun fire into the German trenches.

In addition the British line to the east has been sent forward for good gains into the German front, according to London.

German Surprise Attacks Fail.

In the Champagne region the Germans, says Paris, attempted two surprise attacks against the French, but both of them failed.

The Germans have been cleared out of positions near the Stuff redoubt which they had held since the heavy fighting of last week and also have been forced to give up all except a very small portion of Schwaben redoubt in this region.

French Capture Trenches.

Between Lesars and Flers the troops of General Sir Douglas Haig have pushed forward their positions. During Saturday night and Sunday, German trenches near Morval and Clery fell into the hands of the French in grenade fighting.

Berlin reports, however, say that attacks by the British east of Thiepval and by the French in the vicinity of Rancourt, Courcelette, Merval and Halle were repulsed.

In Galicia, the Russians have started another big offensive with the purpose of driving on to Lemberg. The official reports from Petrograd and Berlin are at variance with regard to the results of the fighting. Petrograd reports that 30 miles northeast of Lemberg, along the Brody-Krasne railway the Russians are forcing their way forward despite the stubborn resistance of the Teutonic allies and have captured 1,987 officers and men. Also south of Brzezany, 50 miles southwest of Lemberg, and along the right bank of the Zlota Lipa, Austro-German positions are reported to have been taken and 112 officers and 2,268 men made prisoners.

TRAIN HITS STREET CAR; TEN KILLED, 33 INJURED

Grand Trunk Freight Crashes Into a Crowded Trolley at Detroit—Passengers Crushed Under Wheels.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 3.—Ten persons were killed and 33 injured about midnight when a Grand Trunk switch engine pushing three freight cars crashed into a crowded street car at Forest avenue and Dequinder street on the East side. Several of the injured, all of whom were taken to hospitals, were so seriously injured that they are not expected to recover. Eight of the dead were taken to the county morgue while one died in a hospital and another on the way there. All of those killed were so badly mutilated identification was impossible.

GREECE IS EXPECTED TO DECLARE WAR AT ONCE

Those Close to King Are Confident He Will Telegraph Decision to Allied Rulers.

Athens, (via London, Oct. 3.—Notwithstanding the persistent assertions by adherents of former Premier Venizelos and the Allies that King Constantine is merely playing for time and does not intend to declare war, those close to the king are confident that he will telegraph his decision to King George, Emperor Nicholas and President Poincare without further delay.

The Athens stock market is extraordinary bullish.

General Strike Move Unpopular.

New York, Oct. 2.—Officials of the Association of Street and Electric Railway Employees have begun the distribution of a $55,000 strike benefit fund among the streetcar men here on strike since Sept. 6. Each striker was to receive $5. The fund came from the headquarters of the association and the organizers said a similar amount will be distributed each week. Efforts to organize a general strike in support of the carmen suffered a check when 300 brewery workers returned to work.

CALLS PRESIDENT COWARDLY

ROOSEVELT DECLARES WILSON NOT MAN OF HIS WORD.

Denounces Policy of Administration in Dealing With Germany After Lusitania Disaster.

Battle Creek, Mich., Oct. 3.—Theodore Roosevelt sprang to the front in his speech here and assumed the job of Republican gladiator-in-chief in the party's effort to crush Woodrow Wilson. With little attempt at oratory, the colonel pointed the way to Charles E. Hughes himself and all subordinate campaigners by assailing the President in blunt language and with specific charges.

He denounced the President as cowardly, and declared he was not a man of his word. He ridiculed him throughout his speech and held him up as a chaser of expedients.

Would Have Seized Ships.

Digressing from his prepared address, when speaking of the Lusitania, he said:

"You ask me what I would have done. I'll tell you what I would have done. I would have seized every German ship interned in an American port and then I would have said to Germany: 'Now you tell me what you will pay and I'll tell you how much the United States will take.'"

Another interpolation was to the effect that, while he had not coined Mr. Wilson's phrase, "Pitiless publicity," he had at least practiced it while in the White House.

REPUBLICANS SEEK WAR, WILSON TELLS DEMOCRATS

G. O. P. Success Means Country Will Be Drawn Into European Struggle, President Asserts.

Long Branch, N. J., Oct. 2.—In a vigorous denunciation of the Republican party, President Wilson told a delegation of young Democrats from New York that the "certain prospect of Republican success in November is that we shall be drawn in one form or another into the embroilments of the European war," and that the force of the United States will be used to produce in Mexico the kind of law and order which some investors in Mexico consider most to their advantage."

The President made his first out and out political speech of the campaign from the porch of Shadow Lawn. Urged on by the enthusiastic cheers and waving banners of several thousand young men, he assailed the Republican party, and laid down the issues on which he believes the campaign should be fought.

Hollweg Says Allies Prevent Peace.

Berlin, Sept. 30.—Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg's reichstag address, placing the blame for the continuation of the European slaughter at the door of Germany's enemies, won enthusiastic approval from the majority of the reichstag members on Friday. The chancellor made no offers of peace and he indicated that in view of the utterances of allied statesmen it would be folly to expect an early ending of the war. His speech is said to have lacked the hopeful tone of his former addresses.

VILLISTAS DEFEAT CARRANZA TROOPS

OCCUPY AND HOLD TOWN OF CUSIHUIRACHIC, U. S. GOVERNMENT AGENT IS INFORMED.

PART OF GARRISON REVOLTS

Meager Details of Conflict Obtainable Town Is Important Mining Center, Several American Owned Enterprises Located There.

El Paso, Sept. 30.—That Pancho Villa had administered a severe defeat to Mexican de facto forces and was still in possession of the town of Cusihuirachic Thursday night was the report received by agents of one of the United States government departments late Friday.

From the Mexican manager of an American owned mine near Cusihuirachic, officers here are in receipt of a telegram saying he had fled and was coming to Juarez on a gasoline velocipede over the railroad. It is believed here if the Carranzistas were victorious the manager would have returned to the mine.

Both Sides Suffer.

In one of the bloodiest battles since the Mexican revolution began, a large force of Villista bandits engaged Carranza troops at Cusihuirachic, 50 miles west of Chihuahua City.

From representatives in Cusihuirachic, mining men here have received a message indicating that Villa had captured the town after fierce fighting, in which part of the garrison revolted and went over to the bandits.

It is reported that Villa in person led his army to the attack. From Carranza authorities at Juarez few details are available. It was said that up to the present the only news received was a message to Chihuahua City from General Ramos, asking that a hospital train and surgeons be rushed to his assistance. Ramos himself was slightly wounded.

The town of Cusicuriachic is an important mining center. Several American owned mines with offices in El Paso are located in that region.

SEED WHEAT SHORTAGE IN NORTHWEST FEARED

Minnesota and Dakotas Face Serious Situation—Steps Taken to Help Farmers.

Minneapolis, Sept. 29. — Minnesota and the Dakotas are said to be threatened with a serious shortage in the seed wheat supply for next year's sowing. Hugh J. Hughes, editor of Farm, Stock and Home, is sounding the alarm after an investigation of the quantity of this season's wheat crop, and authorities at the University's agricultural college are taking steps to marshal all their agencies to help the farmers meet the situation.

Poor quality of the bulk of this season's crop, the low germinating power of much of the seed and the shriveled character of much other seed that shows good germinating power are assigned as the chief factors in the seed problem.

A campaign has been begun to urge the farmers of the three states to test all wheat being held for seed and to make sure that enough is held to care for next spring's sowing.

"Drys" Seek Wilson's Stand on Liquor.

Grand Junction, Colo., Sept. 29.—A second attempt was made by the Prohibition national campaigners to get President Wilson on record as to his stand on the liquor question. Having failed to receive a reply from the President to a telegram sent a week ago from San Francisco to the White House calling his attention to the fact that California "wets" were quoting him as being opposed to prohibition, another telegram signed by Oliver W. Stewart, was addressed to the executive at Shadow Lawn.

PRESS BACKS LLOYD-GEORGE

BRITISH PAPERS COMMENT ON DECLARATION.

Agree That War Must Go On to "Knockout"—Warning to Would-be Peacemakers Is Approved.

London, Sept. 30.—Lloyd George's declaration that the war must go on to a "knockout" and the warning to neutrals to make no peace overtures at present, contained in an interview has won the unanimous support of the English press.

The Lloyd George statement, described by the Express as a "historic manifesto," was printed in every morning newspaper in Great Britain and telegraphed to all the great news agencies throughout neutral and Allied countries. The newspapers printed lengthy editorial comment.

"This really historic manifesto" said the Express, "puts in direct and unequivocal words what every man and woman in the British empire feels. Germany's growing conviction that if the war continues she must be broken and beaten, inevitably, leads to neutral agitation for peace.

"American politicians, eager for the hyphenated vote, undoubtedly would suggest mediation, asking the belligerents to kiss and forget their quarrels. To all would-be peacemakers, whether in America, Rome, Spain or other neutral countries, the war secretary bluntly says:

"'Keep out of the ring'."

"It is at once a declaration of British resolve, and a warning to those who would thwart it that Great Britain simply won't listen at this juncture to whines and overtures from Germany through any source," said the Mail.

Mexico City, Oct. 2.—The police of Mexico City believe that with the capture recently of Ramen Canteli they have broken up a band of burglars and robbers which has taken loot said to amount to more than $100,000 from the prosperous residence districts.

The band was known as "The Grasping Hand," from the black imprint of a hand which always was left somewhere about the place where they operated. It is believed many persons have not reported their losses for fear of vengeance.

New Telephone-Telegraph.

A new telegraph instrument has been invented by means of which any telegraph operator may send messages in the Morse code over an ordinary telephone. This new instrument can be attached to any telephone and the connection between it is purely mechanical. It does not require any additional electric circuits. The telephone key has a pivot at the end. It produces a sharp distinct sound and is connected with the metal case of the telephone by two clamps. It is claimed that Morse signals sent by this instrument carry longer distances than the human voice over long distance telephones, so the telephone-telegraph can be of great value in both supplementary and in verifying telephonic conversation.

What the Doctor Knows

KIDNEYS MUST BE RIGHT TO INSURE HEALTH.

Few people realize to what extent their health depends upon the condition of the kidneys.

The physician in nearly all cases of serious illness, makes a chemical analysis of the patient's urine. He knows that unless the kidneys are doing their work properly, the other organs cannot readily be brought back to health and strength.

When the kidneys are neglected or abused in any way, serious results are sure to follow. According to health statistics, Bright's Disease, which is really an advanced form of kidney trouble, caused nearly ten thousand deaths in one year, in the State of New York alone. Therefore, it is particularly necessary to pay more attention to the health of these important organs.

An ideal herbal compound that has had remarkable success as a kidney remedy is Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

The mild and healing influence of this preparation, in most cases, is soon realized, according to sworn statements and verified testimony of those who have used the remedy.

When your kidneys require attention, get Swamp-Root at once from any pharmacy. It is sold by every druggist in bottles of two sizes—50c and $1.00.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper. Adv.

WOULD HEAL BY COLOR'S AID

Avoid Red, Green and Brown in Hospitals, Is the Advice Given by Artist.

H. Kemp Prosser, who designed the two interiors in the French play "Labergette" at the Garrick theater, thinks persons who wish to retain their vitality and normality in war time should avoid certain colors, says a London correspondent of the New York Herald.

"Cardinal red," he said, "is the symbol of murder, hate and cruelty. Sage green means vileness, and brown decay.

"Lemon yellow, on the other hand, suggests to persons who are sensitive to color influence, life and light. That is why I suggest this color should dominate color schemes in hospitals and homes for wounded soldiers.

"In my rest room at Chelsea for soldiers the symbolic colors used were lemon yellow, mauve, sapphire, turquoise and blue. A golden piano was draped with a lemon-yellow curtain on which were embroidered a dove bearing the emblem of peace, an Egyptian symbol expressing the keys of life and a white rose, emblem of power and silence. Beautiful lamps repeated the colors blue, mauve and turquoise."

Motor Trucks to Market.

With the possible exception of the territory around Boston, motor trucks are now giving better service in South New Jersey than in any other part of the country. That is a noted farm and garden section with good roads and producing crops which must be hauled promptly to market. One farmer, finding railroad facilities unsatisfactory, sends his motor truck with produce 90 miles to market night after night, and out of all this may come a partial solution of transportation troubles. It is very doubtful if there will ever be another extended trolley line built in New Jersey, because the auto passenger service will take its place. Motor truck service will, in like manner, absorb more and more of express and freight traffic and do it cheaper and with better satisfaction to the shipper.

SUPPLEMENT TO THE SUNBEAM, SUNBEAM, MINN., FRIDAY, OCTOBER 6, 1916.

OPENS HUGHES CAMPAIGN IN MINNESOTA

Nelson in Keynote Speech at Sunberg Outlines Big Issues

EMPHASIZES DESTRUCTIVE FEATURES OF TARIFF LAW

Declares Claim That Wilson Kept Nation Out of War Is Most Far-fetched and Ludicrous—Asserts Conduct of President and Democratic Party Demonstrates How Utterly Unfit They Are to be Entrusted With the Government of This Noble and Magnificent Country.

Sunberg, Minn., Sept. 30.—Senator Knute Nelson delivered the keynote speech of the Hughes' campaign in Minnesota here today before one of the largest crowds of voters that ever gathered in Kandiyohi county.

Special trains carrying twin city republicans arrived at Brooten at noon. Automobiles were waiting at the station to take the party to Sunberg.

More than 1,000 farmers living in the surrounding districts were in attendance. Automobile clubs throughout the county made arrangements to attend the meeting in a body.

A delegation of 200 from Willmar, another large one from Granite Falls, and large parties from Benson, Appleton, Montevideo, Glenwood, Morris and Sauk Center helped to swell the outdoor audience.

Senator Nelson spoke as follows:

Owing to dissensions in the ranks of the Republican Party, and to the fact that it had two candidates in the field, Woodrow Wilson was, in the fall of 1912, elected President of the United States by a minority, though a plurality, of those who voted at that election. The fact that he was chosen by a minority ought to have made him less partisan and more considerate of the welfare of the American people. He ought to have been less eager to inflict his ultra-Democratic propaganda upon the American people, for he held an elective mandate only from a minority. He had no right to assume that a majority of the people were in favor of him because he was a Democrat, or that they were in favor of radical, socialistic, and ultra-economic schemes of Democratic legislation.

Dominated Congress.

No President, since the days of Jackson, has so sought to dominate Congress and to subrogate it to his will and to dictate the legislative policy of the country as President Wilson. To accomplish this purpose and to give emphasis to his wishes, and partly for the sake of notoriety, he began, at the outset of his administration, to adopt the custom of delivering in person, orally his messages to the two Houses of Congress in joint session, a custom which had not prevailed since the early days of the Republic. All other Presidents, save Washington, have been content to send their messages in writing to Congress. Not so with President Wilson. By such an oral mesage he inaugurated his tariff legislation, and by such an oral message—his last—he urged and induced Congress to pass the law giving certain classes of railroad men—the best paid men in the railroad service—the same pay for an eight hour day's work that they were receiving for a ten hour day's work, or an increase, by legislative fiat, of twenty-five per cent, and in nowise involving the limitation of the hours of labor to eight hours a day.

Whenever there was friction among the Democrats in the Senate or House in regard to the legislative program of the President, the matters would be referred to a Democratic caucus, and the decrees of the caucus became the decrees of a united Democracy. Legislation inspired by the President, and fortified by caucus rule, has, to a large extent, been the method that has prevailed under this Democratic Administration.

Congress in Session Almost Continuously.

And under this method Congress has been in session two years, seven months, and fifteen days of the three years and seven months that have transpired of President Wilson's term. This leaves less than a year of his term up to date that Congress has not been in session.

President Wilson was inaugurated the 4th of March, 1913. Although our Country was then in a most prosperous condition, under the Republican tariff law of 1909, which afforded adequate protection for American industries and enterprises, and was not burdensome to any interest, yet his first purpose was to uproot and destroy this system of tariff protection and to substitute therefor a so-called free trade, or "tariff for revenue only" system. In pursuance of this policy, he immediately summoned Congress in extra session; and Congress, in obedience to such summons, met on the 7th day of April, 1913. He did not leave Congress long in doubt as to what he expected it to do, for on the next day he delivered in person his message to the two Houses of Congress in joint session. In this message he declared that:

Wilson's Message to Congress.

I have called the Congress together in extraordinary session because a duty was laid upon the party now in power at the recent elections which it ought to perform promptly, in order that the burden carried by the people under existing law may be lightened as soon as possible and in order also that the business interests of the country may not be kept too long in suspense as to what fiscal changes are to be, to which they will be required to adjust themselves. It is clear to the whole country that the tariff duties must be altered.

* * * * * * * * *

The sooner that is done the sooner we shall escape from suffering from the facts and the sooner our men of business will be free to thrive by the law of nature (the nature of free business) instead of by the law of legislation and artificial arrangement.

* * * * * * * * * *

We must abolish everything that bears even the semblage of privilege or of any kind of artificial advantage and put our business men and producers under the stimulation of a constant necessity to be efficient, economical, and enterprising, masters of competitive supremacy, better workers and merchants than any in the world. Aside from the duties laid upon articles which we do not and probably cannot produce, therefore, and the duties laid upon luxuries and merely for the sake of the revenues they yield, the object of the tariff duties henceforth laid must be effective competition, the whetting of American wits by contest with the wits of the rest of the world.

Republican Tariff Law Replaced.

In obedience to this Executive mandate, Congress—the Democrats being in control of both Houses—proceeded to formulate and enact a new tariff act, which finally became a law on the 3rd day of October, 1913, and took the place of the Republican tariff law of 1909. In making his first assault upon the tariff, President Wilson and his Party followed in the wake of Cleveland and his Party in 1893-4. It is always the protective tariff that is an eyesore to the Democratic Party. We of the older generation can well recall the disastrous effects of the Democratic tariff law of 1894, both in its destruction of protection and in its failure to provide a sufficiency of revenue for the needs of the Government. But President Wilson's tariff law of 1913 is much more destructive of all just protection, and much inferior as a revenue provider, than Cleveland's tariff law of 1894.

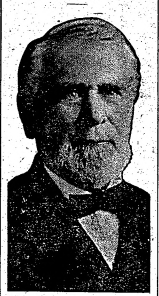
But for the great European war and the great demand for our products resulting therefrom and the greatly inflated prices arising from this excessive demand, this last Democratic tariff act would have resulted in as great, yes, even greater, industrial stagnation and suffering among laboring men than prevailed in 1894, 1895, and 1896. The war has been the greatest relief that has come to the Democratic Party. During its pendency it has smothered the great delinquencies and short-comings of that party.

Destructive Features of the Tariff Law of 1913.

While this law removed much of the protective duties on the products of our various manufacturing industries and thus, to some extent, crippled them, yet this was mild compared with the havoc wrought on the products of our farmers. Nearly all the products of our northern farmers were either put on the free list or so greatly reduced as to be practically on the free list, and afford no real protection. I will not weary your patience by going into details. Those who are curious about the exact figures can compare the agricultural schedules of the Republican Payne tariff law with those of the Democratic Underwood law and thus easily discover the difference. Had it not been for the great European war our Northern farmers would have sustained losses by the million from the effects of the Underwood law. With a wheat crop of over a billion bushels in the United States and upwards of 350,000,000 bushels in Canada, leaving a surplus, over food and seed, in the two countries, of upwards of six hundred million bushels in 1915, our wheat farmers would have had, but for the great war, fifty or sixty cents a bushel wheat instead of receiving from $1 to $1.50 a bushel for the same. And the same pro rata difference would have occurred in respect to oats, rye, barley, cattle and hogs.

The avowed purpose of the Underwood tariff law was to destroy protective duties as far as practicable, and by means of the tariff secure ample revenues. The law was successful in destroying the good effects of protection, but it was an utter failure as a revenue producer, as the following statement, compiled from official records, of imports and the duties collected thereon for the fiscal years from

SEN. KNUTE NELSON



1910 to 1916, both years inclusive, shows:

[1] Payne law took effect Aug. 6, 1909—eleven months.

[2] First full year, Payne law.

[3] Democrats took control of House. Tariff revision by schedules, vetoed by President Taft.

[4] Democrats assume complete control; general revision under way.

[5] Underwood law took effect Oct. 4, 1913—nine months.

[6] Eleven months war period.

[7] Full war period. High record on imports, low record average duty rate.

Great Decrease in Duties.

The flood of importations and the paucity of the duties collected during the fiscal year 1916, as compared with the fiscal years 1910, 1911, and 1912, show how open the door of protection has been and how scant the duties collected have been. In the meantime, while there was such a great decline in the duties collected under the new tariff law, there was no diminution in internal revenue taxes, including corporation and income taxes, but rather a considerable increase. Yet, notwithstanding such increase, owing to the great decrease in duties, it became necessary for the Democratic party to secure additional revenue for the needs of the Government, and this was obtained through the act entitled "An Act to increase the internal revenue and for other purposes," approved October 22, 1914. This law, by its terms, was to remain in force until December 31, 1915. It imposed additional taxes on beer, spirits, wine, and tobacco, and levied occupation taxes, besides inflicting upon us annoying stamp taxes. The life of this act was, by the Joint Resolution of December 17, 1915, extended for another year. Under this law there has been collected up to the end of the fiscal year 1916 the sum of $136,347,428 in taxes, thus supplying to some extent the deficiency of duties arising from the Underwood tariff law. The imports, as I have already pointed out, were as great in the fiscal years 1914 and 1915 as in the fiscal years 1911 and 1912, yet the duties collected each of those years were over one hundred million dollars less, thus demonstrating that even as a revenue producer the Underwood law was not equal to the Payne tariff law. In view of these facts it is, therefore, idle for Democrats to claim that it was the war that necessitated the passage of this additional internal revenue act. This is not true. It was because the Underwood law was not as good a revenue producer as the Payne tariff act. The Democrats have proved themselves incompetent to enact even a "tariff for revenue only" law. I append hereto a table, from the Statistical Abstract, of the various internal revenue taxes collected during the fiscal years from 1910 to 1916, both years inclusive, together with footnotes showing under what laws the several taxes were collected:

Year.	Internal revenue.	Excess of ordinary receipts (+) or ordinary disbursements (—).

Democratic Claims.

The Democrats are not boasting of, or making any claims, in this campaign on their tariff legislation. They are simply ignoring the issue, or charging its failure to the European war. Neither do they boast of their foreign or Mexican policy, except to mildly, and by way of apology, claim credit for keeping us out of war. President Wilson has certainly not kept us out of his species of war in Mexico. He has had his two wars there—the earlier Huerta war at Vera Cruz, and the later Villa war on the border and in Northwestern Mexico, which seems to be still pending. I do not care at this time to enter into a discussion of his vacillating and erratic Mexican policy. It is more or less familiar to most of you, and it certainly has not been to the credit of our Country.

Kept Us Out of War.

The claim that President Wilson has kept us out of war with the belligerents of Europe is most far-fetched and ludicrous, and would do credit to Munchhausen. We all know that the warring nations of Europe have had their hands full on land and sea in battling against each other. None of them had any ships or soldiers to spare for an attack upon, or invasion of, our Country, and none of them have manifested a purpose or desire to make such an attack or invasion. And as to our own Country, we have not been in condition to invade or attack any of the belligerents, or any other country save Mexico. In the pursuit of Villa, the best we could do was to send about eighteen or nineteen thousand regulars into, and along the border of, Mexico. These were all the regular troops we could muster, and our militia, or National Guard, could not, under the Constitution, be taken out of our Country and used in a foreign war. And as to our navy, it is admitted on all sides that it is far inferior to that of England, Germany, and even to that of France. How could any sane man, under such circumstances, harbor the notion of our making war upon any of the great belligerents in Europe? Imagine, if you can, Secretary Daniels riding on the prow of one of our battle cruisers, leading a small American squadron of our battle fleet, convoying a fleet of transports with our eighteen or twenty thousand regulars, for an attack upon one of the great belligerents of Europe. It could not have cost President Wilson any sleepless nights to abandon such a scheme. The truth, in brief, is that none of the belligerents could well get at us, nor we at them. The only war President Wilson has had on his hands and suffered from has been a diplomatic war, and that has been carried on by him with no credit or glory to our Country.

Legislative Record of the Democratic Party.

The chief claim, however, of the Democratic Party is in respect to what they are pleased to call their scheme of so-called constructive legislation. Great stress is laid on the laws enacted during President Wilson's administration. In view of this, I propose briefly to call your attention to the more important of these laws for which such great credit is claimed, and to show the fallacy of these claims.

Currency Legislation.

In the fall of 1907 there was a so-called bankers' monetary panic in New York City, which not only seriously affected the banks in that city, but also to a considerable extent affected banks in other parts of the country. For a time the banks in New York suspended cash payments and this led to the suspension of cash payments in many of the banks in our large cities. The panic finally subsided and spent its force by the end of the year without leaving the havoc and destruction in its wake that the panic of 1873 did. This panic led to the passage of the so-called Aldrich-Vreeland Act of May 30, 1908, which provided for the issuance of emergency currency through voluntary currency associations of national banks and also permitted national banks in certain cases to obtain additional circulation, on other security than United States Bonds. The act also provided for the appointment of a National Monetary Commission, "to inquire into and report to Congress what changes are necessary or desirable in the monetary system of the United States," and so forth. The commission made an exhaustive and thorough investigation, both at home and abroad, and gathered a large quantity of most valuable data and material, consisting of many volumes, and finally made its report to Congress on the 8th day of January, 1912, recommending, among other things, the establishment of a national reserve association, with a capital of $200,000,000; and with subsidiary local, or branch, associations throughout the country. Stock subscriptions were to be limited to National and State banks and to trust companies, but was not compulsory. A bill to carry out the recommendations of the commission was introduced, but no action was taken on the same. I shall not at this time enter into further details in regard to the report of the commission. It is a part of the monetary history of this country, and much of the commission's work was utilized and made use of in formulating the Federal Reserve Act, to which I shall later on call your attention. While emergency currency associations were formed under the Aldrich-Vreeland Act, no currency was taken out under it until the threatened panic of 1914, for the reason that after the subsidence of the panic of 1907 normal monetary and business conditions prevailed, business was good, and money abundant at reasonable rates. By its terms the Aldrich-Vreeland Act expired by limitation June 30, 1914. In the Federal Reserve Act the life of the Aldrich-Vreeland law was extended for another year and a reduction of the tax on the emergency currency was also made.

No Change in Tax Rate.

The act of August 4, 1914, made no change in the tax rate, but removed some other restrictions which were not germane after the passage of the Federal Reserve law. The war in Europe, which was impending in July and broke out in the early days of August, 1914, threatened our country with another monetary panic. The great, belligerent countries of Europe proceeded to dump upon our market, wellnigh by the wholesale, a large portion of the great mass of American securities held abroad, and this dumping led to the outflow of gold in great volume, and to a money stringency. Our great sheet anchor in this emergency, and which served to stay the panic, was not the Federal Reserve System, but the Aldrich-Vreeland law and the currency issued under it. Although the tax on this currency had been reduced and restrictions, rendered obsolete by the Federal Reserve Act, removed, yet fundamentally, and in its essence, it was the structure of the Aldrich-Vreeland Act that gave us the needed relief; under the circumstances the emergency currency would have been taken as readily under the original law, for the tax merely related to the period of circulation. The Secretary of the Treasury, in his report of December 7, 1914, after calling attention to what the Treasury Department had done to allay the panic and congratulating the country on its recovery, added:

CHARLES E. HUGHES.

There is every reason why the country should look to the future with confidence so far as its trade, commerce, and industry are concerned. This has been accomplished, notwithstanding the fact that the Federal Reserve System authorized by the act of December 23, 1913, was at that time only in process of formation and was therefore unable to render any service in the situation.

* * * * * *

Fortunately, the Federal Reserve Act of December 23, 1913, materially modified in several important particulars and extended until June 30, 1915, the Aldrich-Vreeland Act, under and by virtue of which the Secretary of the Treasury is given discretion to issue emergency currency to national banks upon their application and upon their compliance with the provisions of the act. In anticipation of the necessity, large amounts of this emergency currency were sent beforehand to the subtreasury in New York and to the other subtreasuries throughout the country, so that upon the opening of the banks for business on August 3, 1914, the department was able to issue to them sufficient currency to enable them to cope with the situation as it developed.

Federal Reserve Act.

In his letter of January 16, 1911, addressed to his colleagues on the Monetary Commission, calling their attention to the outline of a tentative plan, and so forth, Senator Aldrich said, among other things:

If we can so amend the present national banking act as to permit the formation of an association of all the banks of the country to meet these needs, we shall have gone a long way toward solving the problem which is before us. If, then, in addition, we provide a more scientific basis for bank-note circulation, so that the volume of circulation will be responsive to the needs of business, we shall, I believe, have met the two main requirements of a satisfactory solution. In addition to that, if we can aid in creating a discount market in this country similar to the discount markets in Europe, so that the most liquid portion of our bank funds will not of necessity be forced to such a large degree as at present into the making of call loans upon stock-exchange collateral, but will, instead, be available for the needs of commercial business, we shall have so broadened our banking methods as to bring incalculable benefit to the commercial life of the country.

Shows Weakness of System.

This statement contains the germ of all that is best in the Federal Reserve act. And in the one particular, that of forming a single association of all the banks of the country, State and National, wherein the Federal reserve act departs from it, and in its place substitutes 12 associations, of national banks only, lies the weakness and expensiveness of the new system. The one system provided a common reservoir for all the banks, State and Federal. The other system provided 12 reservoirs for Federal banks only. It is true that State banks can join the new system, but its restrictions and disadvantages are such that very few State banks have joined or care to join it.

There were on June 30, last, 7,579 national banks, with a capital and surplus of $1,797,438,000, which were members of the new system, and about 22,460 State banks, with a capital and surplus of $2,530,700,000, which were not members of the system, besides a large number of trust companies. In all the commercial and industrial countries of the world, great and small, but ours, a single great bank of issue stands at the head of their banks and monetary systems, while we have 12 heads for a part only of our banks. The reserve banks have added no new banking capital. Their capital and reserves have all come from the member-banks. And so far, after being in operation since November 16, 1914—a period of one year and nine months—only 5 of the 12 banks have paid any dividends, and these 5 only a total dividend of 6 per cent.

The new system had nothing to do with staying the threatened panic of 1914. That panic was stayed partly by closing the stock exchange, partly by clearing-house certificates, and largely by the currency taken out under the Aldrich-Vreeland law. So far the new system has been mostly a burden to the member banks. Except in the five cases mentioned, they have received no dividends and have lost the 2 per cent interest on their reserves which they formerly secured. The system has added no new capital or new wealth to our country. Our prosperity and our abundance of money has come from our immense exports and the high prices resulting from the European war. Part of the proceeds of our exports have been invested in foreign bonds, but the great bulk of it has found its way into the coffers of the banks and the circulation of the country.

Costs and Expenses of the New System.

The new system has so far proved itself to be a most expensive luxury. The aggregate cost of the system up to August 31, 1916, has been upwards of $3,531,911. If we deduct from this sum the organization expenses and the cost of furniture and equipment, amounting in all to $778,580, it leaves the operating and overhead charges of the new system for a period of one year and nine months $2,753,331, or a monthly average of $131,111. This indicates what an expensive system the 12-bank scheme is. So far as the currency is concerned, it is an improvement on the former system in this, that it provides for greater elasticity. But the system is weak in keeping the reserves scattered in 12 reservoirs instead of one great central reservoir that could, in case of a great emergency, immediately reach out a strong helping hand to any threatened point and give instantaneous and effective relief. It will not be an easy or speedy matter to pipe the reserves of the 12 scattered banks to any threatened point in case of a great emergency. Each of the 12 banks may conceive itself to be the sole seat of danger, and may decline to reach out a helping hand to its brother banks. One large, strong, central reservoir could, in the case of a great emergency, render far more effective aid than 12 small scattered reservoirs. Another important defect of the system is that it is so constructed that it practically leaves our great body of State banks outside of the pale of the system. The plan of the Monetary Commission included all banks, State and Federal, as well as trust companies. On the whole, the new system may be regarded as a partial improvement, but far from affording that perfect remedy and system that a great country like ours is entitled to. But what else could we expect? It was the product of a partisan spirit, rather than a broad national spirit, receiving its inspiration from a party platform and nourished by its hostility to New York as the commercial and financial center of the country and the Jacksonian hatred of a single central bank. Personal politics, too, had a hand in the work, as appears from the fact that the two great commercial cities of the South—Baltimore and New Orleans—were ignored, and their places given to far inferior cities, and two reserve banks were located in the same State. Moreover, how many important localities were wrenched from their natural and accustomed business connection in order to piece out the scheme for favored places?

Not Tested in Threatened Panic.

The system has not so far been tested in a monetary panic or a threatened panic. It is, to say the least, doubtful, on account of its 12 scattered reservoirs, whether it will prove as swift and effective as the Aldrich-Vreeland Act proved to be in the panic of 1914. Then the relief came from a single central source supplying the currency. Under the new system it would have come from 12 widely scattered sources, each nervous for its own wellbeing. The sub-treasury system of old Democratic days still survives, and the Secretary of the Treasury has the option of depositing the Government funds in any of the sub-treasuries, or in any of the reserve banks.

The Democracy should not be too boastful of their currency and financial legislative record. When Jackson, in 1833, brought about the downfall of the last United States bank by removing the Federal deposits, our country was left without any Federal or quasi Federal paper currency and was remitted to a vicious system of State banks and a so-called Sub-treasury system. None but those whose memory and experience reaches back to the years before the Civil War can fully realize how embarrassing and how vicious that system was and how many losses it entailed upon the American people. This legacy of the Democracy we suffered from for nearly 80 years, until the Republican Party, in 1863-4, established our system of national banks. This system was instrumental in funding our great war debt, and gave us for the first time a national paper currency of Treasury notes and national-bank notes, still in use, and perfectly safe and sound, and only deficient in elasticity. These national banks still survive and are the supporting pillars of the new system. The plan of building on them came from the Monetary Commission. The only survivor of Jacksonian Democracy is the Sub-treasury system, and its survival is an incident, if not a necessity, of the 12-bank scheme. It is the only monument remaining of Democratic ante bellum financial legislation. In this connection, too, let it never be forgotten that it was the Republican Party, under the leadership of McKinley, that, in 1896, prevented the Democratic Party, under the leadership of Bryan, from Mexicanizing our currency and from reducing it to a state of silver monometalism.

Other Democratic Legislation.

In the spring of 1914 the administration gave out, through the public press and otherwise, that a trilogy of bills would be introduced and passed to remedy most of the ills and wants of our industrial and economic system. The general purpose, it was declared, was to repress, regulate, and control all trusts and monopolies and all the great business interests of the country. These promised bills were afterwards introduced, and turned out to be as follows:

CONGRESS IS DRIVEN TO PASS RAIL LAW

First. A bill "to create an Interstate Trade Commission, to define its powers and duties, and for other purposes," introduced in the House April 18, 1914.

Second. A bill "to supplement existing laws against unlawful restraints and monopolies, and for other purposes," introduced in the House April 14, 1914. This bill was commonly called in its transit through the two Houses the Clayton anti-injunction bill.

Third. A bill "to amend section 20 of an act to regulate commerce, to prevent over-issues of securities by carriers, and for other purposes," introduced in the House May 15, 1914. The purpose of this bill was to regulate the issuance of stock and securities by railroad corporations, and was really the most important and most valuable of the three bills. It passed the House, came to the Senate, and was referred to the Committee on Interstate Commerce. This committee on July 23, 1914, reported it back to the Senate favorably, with certain amendments. But by this time a change had come over the spirit of the dream of the Democracy, and this, the best of the three bills, was left to languish and finally die an ignominious death.

Trade Commission Created.

The Trade Commission bill became a law on September 26, 1914. It created a commission of five members, with a yearly salary of $10,000 each, and with a secretary at a salary of $5,000 a year. The jurisdiction and work of the commission is defined in the following paragraph of section 5 of the act:

"That unfair methods of competition in commerce are hereby declared unlawful. The commission is hereby empowered and directed to prevent persons, partnerships, or corporations, except banks and common carriers subject to the acts to regulate commerce, from using unfair methods of competition in commerce."

Practically all the rest of the act, aside from this, relates to procedure and to the enforcement of the decrees of the commission.

For a number of years there had been under Republican administrations a pretty vigorous prosecution of various big trusts and monopolies. This was not relished by them, and a hue and cry went up from them and their friends throughout the country that it was difficult for business interests to know just what they could and could not do under the anti-trust law of 1890, and they vigorously, through the public press and otherwise, clamored for relief. Attempts had been made during the last administration of President Roosevelt to pass a law to relieve them against what they conceived to be the harshness of the enforcement of the anti-trust law. This attempt failed, but they renewed their efforts, and the general impression among the public is that the Trade Commission act was passed as a partial antidote against the harshness of the anti-trust law. We know this, that since the Trade Commission act was passed there have been no new prosecutions under the anti-trust law and the old cases which were pending have moved along at a very gentle gait. Where a great corporation has, in one way or another, absorbed all its competitors so it has all the field to itself, it is difficult to see what the Trade Commission can do to prevent unfair competition where all competition has ceased. It is true that the Trade Commission law does not repeal the anti-trust law, but the effect of the commission law is that big interests expect to go through its hopper before they are pushed into the hopper of the anti-trust law. The best definition I have heard of the Trade Commission law was that expressed to me by a representative of one of the great interests, who said "it could at least be regarded as a purgatory to the hell of the anti-trust law."

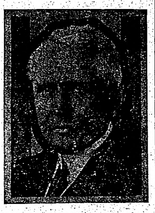
No Record of Relief Granted.

I cannot find that the Trade Commission has so far judicially passed upon any case involving unfair methods of competition in commerce, or that it has, by its action in any case, put a stop to unfair methods of competition or granted substantial relief. I can find no information bearing directly on this matter in the first annual report of the commisison of June 30, 1915. On the 29th day of August, last, I addressed and mailed to the commission a letter asking for further information as to its work. This information has not yet been furnished.

Referring to the second of said acts —in common parlance called the Clayton law—"To supplement existing laws against unlawful restraints and monopolies, and for other purposes," its provisions may be grouped under two heads:

First. It lays out some work for the Trade Commission. It forbids in general terms discrimination in prices and gives a remedy by judicial procedure for such discrimination. It contains the superfluous definition, "That the labor of a human being is not a commodity or article of commerce." It forbids one corporation from holding stock in another corporation if the effect of it is to substantially lessen competition or create a monopoly. It forbids interlocking directors among banks, which has already been modified by legislation passed at the last session. It prohibits interlocking directors in cases of corporations other than banks where such corporations are competitors. It prohibits railroad corporations from having any dealings in excess of $50,000 with any corporation that has as its manager or on its board of directors any person who is a director, manager, or officer of a railroad company. A stay of proceedings, however, has been granted as to this paragraph by legislation passed at the last session. The balance of this part of the act refers to the procedure involved in the enforcement of the provisions of the act and prescribes penalties, and so forth.

FRANK B. KELLOGG



Republican Candidate for United States Senate.

Fails to Benefit Labor.

Second. This portion of the act was intended for the benefit of the labor organizations by modifying the law in relation to injunctions in labor disputes and to the enforcement and punishment of contempt in such cases. The purpose of this provision of the bill was to make it easier for labor organizations to inaugurate and maintain a strike. This part of the act, however, fails to give the labor organizations what they wanted and expected. It prescribes that no injunction shall be granted in labor disputes except "to prevent irreparable injury to property or to a property right." It is the contention of labor organizations that the right to labor is not property that is entiled to relief by injunction, but in this they are entirely mistaken. The Supreme Court of Massachusetts has recently, in a well-considered case, unanimously decided that the right to labor is property and is as much entitled to protection under the Constitution of the United States as any other species of property. If the contention of the labor organization should prevail it would put a laboring man, who wanted to work and had nothing to sell but his work, outside of the pale of the protection of the law. While this particular act to some extent modified the law in reference to injunction procedure, it utterly failed to give the labor organizations the relief they looked for and wanted—that is, ample freedom to inaugurate and carry on strikes.

Child Labor Law.

Another matter of legislation for which the Democracy will claim great credit is the so-called child-labor act. In reference to this, it can be said that there are only some three or four States in the Union that did not have on their statute books suitable and adequate child-labor laws, and in these few States, where the laws were imperfect and deficient, I have no doubt but what they would in due time have enacted the necessary laws. It is a very serious question, to my mind, whether this law is constitutional, or if constitutional, whether it will afford the remedy sought. I voted for it with the utmost reluctance, and to some extent because I was anxious to have the Supreme Court pass upon this important question, for if such legislation is valid, the limits to which the interstate-commerce clause of the Constitution can be applied are well nigh boundless.

The Shipping Law.

The next matter of Democratic legislation, to which I will call your attention, is the so-called shipping law passed at the last session of Congress. It provides for the purchase, leasing, and operation of ships by the Federal Government at an expense of $50,000,000, exclusive of salaries, to be obtained from the sale of so-called Panama bonds. This legislation, the Administration claims, was urgently needed because of the scarcity of ocean shipping and the high rates prevailing in consequence of the war. It is a novel scheme, and puts the Government in direct competition with private enterprise and private effort, and will tend to embarrass and retard the growth of our ocean shipping, now on the high road to healthy expansion and growth. But waiving all this, I pointed out in the debate in the Senate on this bill that it was utterly impossible for the Government to procure any ships within the next two or three years for the following reasons:

First. Because by the terms of the bill no ships could be purchased from any of the belligerent nations.

Second. Because all neutral and belligerent nations have prohibited the sale of any of their shipping to any other than their own citizens, or subjects; and Third. Because our own shipyards have contracts from private parties which will occupy all their time and resources for the next two or three years, and, therefore, can not build any ships for the Government in the meantime. No Democratic Senator was found to deny this contention, and, in fact, one Democratic Senator openly admitted the validity of the contention. The Democratic Party can not plume itself on being able, by this legislation, to increase our shipping within the next two or three years. The law, as a purchasing, leasing, and operating factor, expires at the end of five years after the conclusion of the present European war, when the ships acquired by the Government must be sold and disposed of for what they will bring. At the close of the war, the demand for shipping will be great and the cost of tonnage high. Our Government will be fortunate if, at the end of five years, its loss on ships purchased does not exceed fifty per cent, of their cost. It will be a costly and money-losing experiment on the part of the Government, yielding no adequate return in any direction, but proving itself a burden and a drawback to private enterprise and private effort. The scheme is the worst possible form of State socialism.

Nitrate Plant.

The army reorganization law contained provisions for the establishment of a waterpower, nitrate plant at a cost of $20,000,000, to be obtained from the sale of Panama bonds. The ostensible purpose of these provisions is to secure by means of electrical energy, somewhere in the country, nitrate from the atmosphere for the manufacture of munitions of war and the "manufacture of fertilizers." The real purpose, though disguised in the law, is for the Federal Government to develop the water power at Muscle Shoals, on the Tennessee River in northern Alabama, for the manufacture of fertilizers for the cotton planters of the South. This is another development of State socialism, sectional in scope. After this law was passed, prominent men of the Twin Cities appealed to me to try and secure the nitrate plant at Fort Snelling and the so-called high dam. I replied to some of these men that I though any such effort would be useless, and that Muscle Shoals was foreordained for the enterprise under this administration.

Panama Canal Bonds.

In providing for the building of the Panama Canal, authority was granted for the issuance of bonds to secure funds for that purpose. The cost of the canal to date has been approximately $375,000,000. The administration of the Republican Party was so businesslike, prudent, and economical, that all but $130,000,000 of the cost of the canal was paid out of the current revenues of the Government. Only $130,000,000 in bonds were issued. And now the Democratic Party, in their skirmishing around for revenue to meet their extravagant appropriations, has resorted to the Panama bonds for the purpose of buying and operating ships, and for the purpose of constructing a nitrate plant for the manufacture of some powder, and a lot of fertilizers. The Panama bonds were in their origin devoted to a specific and a sacred purpose, and now $70,000,000 of these bonds are to be devoted to two schemes of State socialism, the like of which could only spring from the womb of a Democracy intoxicated by the power temporarily placed in their hands.

Philippine Islands.

As an incident of the War with Spain, we acquired the Philippine Islands. The people of these islands had for more than three hundred years languished under the despotic tyranny of Spain. Spain had during all those years failed to develop the people or the resources of the islands. She had failed to provide for their education and had utterly failed to give them a decent government. Such a government as they had, was not a government of law, but a government of the army and of the Monks. We found those poor people in a most wretched and deplorable condition, utterly inexperienced in self-government, or in any form of government regulated by law. It would have been cruel on our part to have returned them to Spain. It would have been still more cruel, in their then condition, to have cast them adrift to shift for themselves. That would have led to chaos and destruction, or to their seizure by some foreign power that might fail to treat them any better than Spain had. There was only one manly, honest, thing for us to do. That was to do what we did do, give them a helping hand, establish a good government for them, provide for their education, give them title to the lands they occupied, and provide for the development of the resources of the country. All this, and more, was wrought and acomplished under the auspices of the Republican party. We have sent, from first to last, over twelve hundred American school-teachers to those islands who have established a system of schools in which the English language is taught. What a great advantage it must be to them to have a single language, common to all, instead of the many and peculiar dialects they have among them. We have developed them in self-government and given them as full and fair a degree of self-government as they are, in their present condition, capable of exercising. It seems to me that no good American citizen can fail to rejoice over, and have a pride in, the great work and the great record we have wrought in the Philippine Islands. The record of England in India, of France in Cochin China, or of Holland in Sumatra and Borneo, can bear no comparison with the great work we have wrought in the Philipipne Islands. Those islands, by reason of their location in the heart of the Orient, are a great asset to us in extending our commerce in the Oriental countries, and our flag, representing our guardianship and our Government, is a still greater asset to them. They are still only partially developed and still only partially fit for self-government. Under our flag and under our supervision, they will, in the years to come, gradually coalesce and grow in strength and manhood and become a homogeneous nation. The great mass of the people are more than satisfied with our government and our supervision. They prefer that to an oligarchy of scheming native politicians who, in exploitation of themselves, are shouting "Independence."

President Wilson and the Democratic Party have taken up this shout and have advocated the scuttling of the islands. Shall what Admiral Dewey and President McKinley, the American soldiers, and the American school-teachers have wrought for these people and those islands go for naught? The odor of the Republican party is upon it, and, therefore, it is a stench in the nostrils of the Democracy, and therefore the islands should be scuttled. The Philippine bill, with the scuttling Clarke amendment, passed the Senate by the narrowest kind of a majority, the vote of the Vice President deciding it. When the bill reached the House, we hoped that Wilson would at least be neutral, but such was not the case. He proved to be as much of a scuttler as Senator Clarke. But fortunately there were about thirty Northern Democrats who united with the Republicans in defeating the nefarious and unpatriotic scheme.

Rural Credit Legislation.

The so-called rural credit law, for which much credit is claimed by the Democrats, will be found to be of little help or use for Northern farmers. It is based on foreign models, poorly suited to conditions in our country. It creates a federal farm loan board of five members, four of whom are to receive a salary of $10,000 per annum each. The law provides for the establishment of twelve farm loan districts, with a farm loan bank in each. Before farmers can borrow, they must form farm loan associations, in which they must take and pay for stock to the amount of $5 for every $100 they want to borrow. The scheme will be found to be so complicated and involved that few farmers will care to make use of it, unless money can be borrowed through it at materially lower rates than from other sources, which seems highly improbable; at least, in the North. If a farmer can borrow money from his local banker, on his farm, at say six per cent interest, he is not likely to join a farm loan association and take stock at the rate of $5 for every $100 he borrows. In the Northern states, where money as a general rule can be obtained on first class farm mortgages at from five to six per cent interest, it is not likely that much use will be made of the law. It may be that in the South, where money is less plentiful and interest higher, some help may be obtained through the law. Tenants, who are oftentimes needy and worthy of help, can not secure money under the provisions of the law. Only land owners, who occupy and till their farms, can borrow money under it. The system will prove to be very expensive and, inasmuch as it is to some extent of foreign importation, it is, to say the least, questionable whether it will prove to be a success in this country. It is, in short, a new experiment of doubtful value which remains to be tried and tested.

The Law Increasing the Wages, But Not Shortening the Hours of Labor, of Railway Trainmen.

This law, hurriedly rushed through during the last hours of the last session of Congress, is the culmination of Democratic legislative w dom. It is at the very apex of their so-called scheme of constructive legislation. What are the facts in the case? Four orders of railway trainmen had by vote, of which we have no reliable data, determined upon a strike to hold up the railway freight traffic of the entire country if their demands were not complied with prior to September 4th, this year. These demands were chiefly of a two-fold character:

First: The trainmen insisted upon the same pay for an eight-hour day's work as they were receiving for a ten-hour day's work. This involved a flat increase in their wages of twenty-five per cent.

Second. The trainmen insisted upon time and a half pay for all overtime.

There was nothing in their demands, as some suppose, for shortening the hours of work. They were opposed to that. It was nothing more or less than a bald demand for a great increase in their wages. And be it noted in this connection that, aside from a few of the higher officials, no men employed in the railway service receive such good and liberal wages as these particular trainmen. Their wages, compared with the depot agents, the train dispatchers, the telegraph operators, the switchmen, the flagmen, and the army of section or track men, all of whom constitute upwards of four-fifths of all railway employees, seem high and very liberal. This unrepresented army of railway employees had far greater grounds for demanding an increase in wages than those who belong to these four unions. In view of the low wages these four-fifths of the railway employees receive and the fact that they have not tried to secure better compensation through threats of a strike, they deserve our sympathy and help.

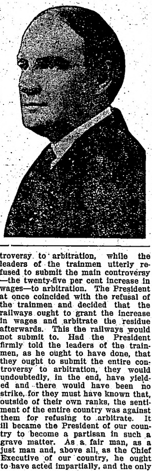
President's Help Not Sought.

A considerable time before the day set for the threatened strike, the leaders of these strike threatening trainmen came into communication with President Wilson. There is some question as to how this communication was brought about. The leaders of the trainmen claim that they were not seeking the help of the President. It has been suggested that Mr. Gompers was the intermediary who brought them to the Presidential altar. At all events, they came, saw and conquered the President, and, through his active intervention, conquered Congress. It was manifest to every intelligent and unbiased person that the controversy was one for just and fair arbitration. During the first year of President Wilson's term, Congress passed the act of July 15, 1913, which met with his approval. This law is sometimes called the Newlands' Law, and took the place of the so-called Erdman law of 1898. The Newlands Law was framed for just such controversies as this. It provides that such controversies may first be submitted to a board of mediation and concilation, created by the act, and this failing, then to a board of three or six arbitrators. In case of three, then each side selects one and the two so selected, pick out the third. In case of six, then each side selects two and the four so selected, choose the other two. Here was a law intended and framed for just such a case as this. I well remember how exultant Senator Newlands and his Democratic colleagues were when this law was passed. Here, they said, we have a good remedy for all railway strikes of the future; it will prove a valuable and most effective antidote.

Law Overlooked and Ignored.

This law President Wilson utterly overlooked and ignored. From the start, after the leaders of the trainmen had gotten in communication with him, and the managers of the railroads had also appeared, before him, he assumed the role of sole arbitrator. The managers of the railroads were willing to submit the entire controversy to arbitration, while the leaders of the trainmen utterly refused to submit the main controversy —the twenty-five per cent increase in wages—to arbitration. The President at once coincided with the refusal of the trainmen and decided that the railways ought to grant the increase in wages and arbitrate the residue afterwards. This the railways would not submit to. Had the President firmly told the leaders of the trainmen, as he ought to have done, that they ought to submit the entire controversy to arbitration, they would undoubtedly, in the end, have yielded and there would have been no strike, for they must have known that, outside of their own ranks, the sentiment of the entire country was against them for refusing to arbitrate. It ill became the President of our country to become a partisan in such a grave matter. As a fair man, as a just man and, above all, as the Chief Executive of our country, he ought to have acted impartially, and the only impartial course to pursue was to insist on arbitrating all the issues. Failing, however, to coerce the railroads, he turned to Congress for aid, and, according to his custom, addressed, in person, the two Houses of Congress in joint session. He began his address as follows:

GOVERNOR J. A. A. BURNQUIST



"Mr. Speaker, Mr. President, and gentlemen of the Congress, I have come to you to seek your assistance in dealing with a very grave situation which has arisen out of the demand of the employees of the railroads engaged in freight train service that they be granted an eight-hour working day, safeguarded by payment for an hour and a half of service for every hour of work beyond the eight."

Guilty of Gross Misstatement.

In these initial remarks he was guilty of a gross misstatement. It was not true that they demanded "that they be granted an eight-hour working day." They demanded nothing of the kind. What they demanded was the same pay for an eight-hour day as they were receiving for a ten-hour day. They had no desire to be limited to an eight-hour day; in fact, they were opposed to such limitation. He further states in his message that:

"Just so soon as it became evident that mediation under existing law had failed and that arbitration had been rendered impossible by the attitude of the men, I considered it my duty to confer with the representatives of both the railways and the brotherhoods, and myself offer mediation, not as an arbitrator, but merely as spokesman of the nation, in the interest of justice."

It is not true that he merely acted "as spokesman of the nation." He was merely the spokesman of the strike-threatening trainmen, and entirely overlooked and disregarded the welfare of the American public, the great mass of the people who furnish the traffic and the revenue for our railroads. Their burdens were a negligible matter in the Presidential bosom. He again befogged the issue by the following statement:

"It seemed to me, in considering the subject-matter of the controversy, that the whole spirit of the time and the preponderant evidence of recent economic experience spoke for the eight-hour day. It has been adjudged by the thought and experience of recent years a thing upon which society is justified in insisting as in the interest of health, efficiency, contentment, and a general increase of economic vigor."

From this it would appear that it was a matter of "health, efficiency, contentment, and a general increase of economic vigor," that an eight hour day be granted, still carrying the idea that it involved limiting the time of work to only eight hours a day. After this prelude, he finally comes out with the following statement as to what he recommends:

"I, therefore, proposed that the eight-hour day be adopted by the railway managements and put into practice for the present as a substitute for the existing ten-hour basis of pay and service."

Here, rather indirectly, he practically recommends the same pay for an eight-hour day that the men were receiving for the ten hour day. Then he adds the following comforting assurance to the railroad managers:

"I unhesitatingly offered the friendly services of the administration to the railway managers to see to it that justice was done the railroads in the outcome. I felt warranted in assuring them that no obstacle of law would be suffered to stand in the way of their increasing their revenues to meet the expenses resulting from the change so far as the development of their business and of their administrative efficiency did not prove adequate to meet them."

Increased Burden on Public.

And what does all this glittering language import? Simply this:

I want the trainmen to have their wages increased twenty-five per cent, and if this increase is given them, I will see to it that the railroads suffer no loss, but that the increased burden will be passed along to the public in the shape of increased transportation rates.

In other words he was willing to have the trainmen pluck the railroads, and to have the railroads recoup their losses from the farmers, the merchants, and the manufacturers; in other words, from the masses of the people who furnish the traffic. How easy it is to be generous, if you can pass the burden along to some one else, especially upon the great mass of the public. It seems to me that President Wilson, in this matter, utterly ignored the sentiment expressed in the first sentence of his tariff message to Congress wherein he states:

"I have called the Congress together in extraordinary session because a duty was laid upon the party now in power at the recent elections which it ought to perform promptly, in order that the burden caried by the people under existing law may be lightened as soon as possible."

"The burden carried by the people under existing law," can not be lightened by such propaganda as the President stands for in this case.

The President finally concludes his message as follows:

"Having failed to bring the parties to this critical controversy to an accommodation, therefore, I turn to you, deeming it clearly our duty as public servants to leave nothing undone that we can do to safeguard the life and interests of the nation. In the spirit of such a purpose, I earnestly recommend the following legislation:

* * * * * * *

Second, the establishment of an eight-hour day as the legal basis alike of work and of wages in the employment of all railway employees who are actually engaged in the work of operating trains in interstate transportation."

Congress Driven to Pass Law.

Here, in glittering but rather ambiguous language, he practically urges Congress to pass a law giving the same wages for an eight-hour day as has heretofore been paid for a ten-hour day, or in other words, an increase of twenty-five per cent in wages. And so it came to pass that, under the threat of the trainmen, backed by our Chief Magistrate, Congress was driven to pass the law the President recommended increasing the wages of the trainmen twenty-five per cent by legislative fiat. The title of the law is: "An Act to establish an eight-hour day for employees of carriers engaged in interstate and foreign commerce, and for other purposes." Its very title is a falsehood and a fraud. It does not establish an eight-hour day of work, and only a limited number of railroad employees are affected. The great mass of worthy and poorly paid railroad employees are utterly ignored; and the rights of the great American public are utterly disregarded. In all my legislative experience, extending, with intervals, over a period of forty-eight years, I have witnessed nothing so humiliating as this legislation and the circumstances under which it was passed. And never before in the history of this great country has its chief legislative body been seized by the throat and compelled to legislate, as in this case.

The conduct of the President and of the Democratic Party in this case demonstrates, beyond peradventure, how utterly unfit he and his Party are to be entrusted with the government of our noble and magnificent country.

Let all good citizens, who have the welfare of our country uppermost in their hearts and who believe in maintaining our institutions and government in the purity and vigor that the fathers of the Republic planned and designed, rally at the ballot box next November and see to it that so unworthy a party as the Democratic Party be expelled from power, and that our Government be again placed in charge of the Republican Party, which has never failed our Country in peace or in war.

BURNQUIST'S LABOR RECORD

Shows His Interest in Many Measures Affecting Working Man.

As lieutenant-governor and president of the Senate, Governor Burnquist appointed the committees of that body in 1913 and 1915. His appointments on the labor committee were entirely satisfactory to the labor people in both sessions and included all the members who were known as champions of the labor cause, or who represented districts with a large labor vote.

In 1911 Mr. Burnquist was the author, with Representatives Lennon and Moriarity, of H. F. 536, defining dangerous occupations and providing workmen's compensation for injuries received in these occupations.

A bill increasing the amount of damages which could be collected for "wrongful death" from $5,000 to $7,500 was passed by the 1911 session, after a hard battle in both houses.

In the 1911 session the House committee on Labor introduced a series of five bills intended to promote safety of employes. Representative Burnquist supported all of these measures.

In the 1911 session a bill, H. F. 45 was introduced, purporting to comp the submission of industrial dispute to a board of arbitration before strike could be declared. Organized labor opposed the measure and Representative Burnquist was among those who helped defeat the bill, because felt that the measure was unfa labor.

H. F. 558, by W. A. Campbell, a measure intended to protect th rals and the health of the young. Burnquist worked for the passa this bill in the House in 1911, and becoming Governor has appoin commission to codify and revis laws pertaining to children.

Semi-Monthly Pay Bill.

A bill requiring public servic porations to pay their employes t a month was passed by the House i both the 1909 and 1911 sessions. Governor Burnquist voted for the bill bot years. The bill was defeated in th senate both years but became a la in 1915.

Woman Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Columbus, Ohio.—"I had almost given up. I had been sick for six years with female troubles and nervousness. I had a pain in my right side and could not eat anything without hurting my stomach. I could not drink cold water at all nor eat any kind of raw fruit, nor fresh meat nor chicken. From 178 pounds I went to 118 and would get so weak at times that I fell over. I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and ten days later I could eat and it did not hurt my stomach. I have taken the medicine ever since and I feel like a new woman. I now weigh 127 pounds so you can see what it has done for me already. My husband says he knows your medicine has saved my life."—Mrs. J. S. Barlow, 1624 South 4th St., Columbus, Ohio.

St. Paul. — The yield of potatoes in Minnesota this year will be about half a normal crop, according to a statement given out by the state immigration department and based on reports from the principal tuber-growing districts.

Winona.—Thwarted in attempts to take her life, one by poisoning and a second by shooting, Mrs. Godfrey Schultze succeeded in drowning herself in the waters of Crooken Slough, two miles north of Minnesota City, where her body was found.

Le Sueur Center. — Following indictments by the grand jury, Sam Campbell, farm hand, charged with having attacked a 7-year-old girl near New Prague, June 17 last, pleaded guilty before Judge Morrison in district court here and was sentenced to the state prison in Stillwater for life.

St. Paul.—Governor Burnquist has just signed orders suspending Commissioners John Bursack and M. A. Ulvedahl of Koochiching county pending investigation of charges of nonfeasance against them and appointed to the respective vacancies so caused C. P. Ellingson of Northome and Gust Holm of Ericksburg.

Duluth.—Completion of the official count showed that the proposal for an additional 3-mill tax assessment for street improvements was defeated nearly two to one in the special referendum here. The tax increase proposal was the outgrowth of June elections resulting in the voting out of saloons and $170,000 annual revenue.

St. Cloud. — Glenn S. Rogers of St. Cloud spent twelve days in the United States army. An effort is being made to procure a pension for him. Rogers enlisted in the regulars at Chicago and was sent to Jefferson barracks in Missouri. He remained there only twelve days when he was released because he had contracted bronchial pneumonia.

St. Paul.—Joseph T. Mannix, state printer, is out to save the state money. He has written to heads of state departments requesting them to "boil it down" as much as possible in preparing annual or biennial reports this fall. He hints that "expenditure for reports can be reduced if unnecessary verbiate and useless detail are eliminated."

Fergus Falls.—The potato crop is this county is about half as large as it was last year, but will bring in a third more money. Last year the average yield was 200 bushels per acre, and the potatoes sold at from 18 cents to 35 cents during the marketing season. This year the average probably is 100 bushels per acre, but marketing began at $1 per bushel.

Blackduck. — Travel-stained, and showing signs of long exposure, a man who refused to give his name arrived in this place with a rural mail driver and, according to Deputy Sheriff Frank Carson, who placed him under arrest, he answers the description of the assailant of Miss Olga Dahl, the Round Lake school teacher, in every particular. The man has refused to give his name and will give no information regarding himself except to say that he walked nearly all the way from Cass Lake.

Crystal Bay, Minn., Sept. 28.—Sixty days in the county jail is to be the punishment of Harold Chapman, Spring Park, Lake Minnetonka, who confessed that he threw the dead body of his infant child into Lake Minnetonka and did not notify the authorities of the child's death. Chapman was arraigned before Justice Fred White at Crystal Bay late Tuesday. He pleaded guilty to unlawfully burying the child's body and was sentenced. The child's body has not been recovered.

Minneapolis. — Writing from "somewhere in France" to his brother, the Rev. T. W. Graham, pastor of Andrew Presbyterian church, Lieutenant John R. Graham of the Ninety-sixth brigade, British field artillery, sent news that his command, which had been in action on the Somme front during July and had later been put to rest, had been ordered into action at Arras, "which is ever so much quieter than where we were. It will not seem like war at all." That was in August. Mr. Graham has just received news that his brother had died Friday from wounds suffered September 16 at Arras.

St. Paul.—In practically every city and village in the state having a firemen's relief association, the 1909 law relating to investment of funds of such organizations as interpreted by Attorney General Lyndon A. Smith is being violated, State Public Examiner Andrew E. Fritz asserts.

Grand Rapids.—Three suspects held at the Itasca county jail here in connection with the search for the assailant of Miss Olga Dahl, Goodhope township school teacher, were released after Round Lake farmers, who had seen the assailant, had declared none of the trio was the man wanted.

CHAIRMAN OF BOARD OF CONTROL TELLS WHAT STATE DOES FOR PRISONERS.

GOVERNOR OFFERS A REWARD

Seeks Information That Will Lead to Arrest and Conviction of Man Who Attacked Itasca County School Teacher.

St. Paul.

"The prison should be a place of social change. The offender must feel not that the mighty structure of society is against him, but its forces are directed toward helping and restoring him." This was the declaration of Charles E. Vasaly of St. Paul, chairman of the State Board of Control, in an address before the state conference of charities and corrections, in session here.

He outlined some of the things Minnesota is doing for its prisoners as follows:

Factories which have produced 250,000,000 pounds of grain binding twine since their establishment in 1891, at a saving to farmers of $7,500,000 and earnings to prisoners varying from 15 cents a day to $1.50.

Machinery plants which last year manufactured 16,000 machines, including 3,700 binders and 5,000 mowers, and which provide means of learning the trades of molder, blacksmith, painter, machinist and woodworker.

A school with tri-weekly sessions.

A library of 7,000 volumes, with a Chautauqua circle of entertainment.

Reward For Assailant's Capture.

Governor Burnquist has offered a reward of $250 for information that will lead to the arrest and conviction of the man who attacked and twice shot Miss Olga Dahl, rural school teacher, near her school in Goodhue township, Itasca county, last Wednesday. This money is available from a special "reward" fund of $2,000, appropriated by the last Legislature. The issuance of the proclamation was the first business to receive the attention of the executive on his return from trip to Little Rock and Memphis.

While the Governor was having the proclamation prepared the following telegram signed by Cyrus M. King, was received from Deer River.

"All Northern Minnesota rural folk in dread while murderous ravisher of Olga Dahl is at large. We beg you to offer $1,000 reward for his apprehension. Expert sleuths necessary."

Because of the limited fund at his disposal, Governor Burnquist decided to let the reward stand at $250, at least for the present. He did not indicate whether he had any intention of increasing it if renewed efforts failed to cause the capture of Miss Dahl's assailant.

Pouring Rain Halts Guards.

After a week of test drills, maneuvers and Federal inspections, the Minnesota brigade at Llano Grande led by Gen. Resche and his staff, started on a fourteen-mile test hike in the pouring rain. Saturday afternoon, usually a rest period for soldiers, was taken as the most practicable time, and shortly after noon the entire three regiments and the field artillery, equipped completely for a field campaign and carrying sixty rounds of ammunition, left camp. Bad roads, made almost impassable by heavy rains, caused the supply wagons so much trouble that the maneuver was abandoned after the long column had moved about three miles.

Educators to Discuss Laws.

Possible changes in school laws by the next state Legislature will be the principal topic of discussion at the annual state conference of county superintendents of schools November in the senate chamber of the Capitol. The conference is called by C. G. Schulz state superintendent of education, under the law providing for the payment of the expenses of superintendents attending the conference.

It is claimed that the treaty granted the Indians perpetual hunting and fishing rights in certain territory in Northern Minnesota.

How Nuxated Iron helped me to whip Frank Moran

JESS WILLARD TELLS SECRET OF HIS EASY VICTORY. ALSO REVEALS HITHERTO UNTOLD SECRET OF HIS GREAT TRIUMPH OVER JACK JOHNSON; SAYS IRON IS GREATEST OF ALL STRENGTH BUILDERS

CHAMPION
JESS WILLARD AT HOME

Ordinary Nuxated Iron will often increase the strength and endurance of delicate, nervous folks 200 per cent in two weeks' time.

SPECIAL NOTE.—Dr. E. Sauer, a well-known physician who has studied widely in both this country and Europe, has been specially employed to make a thorough investigation into the real secret of the great strength, power and endurance of Jess Willard, and the marvelous value of nuxated iron as a strength builder.

NEW YORK.—Upon being interviewed at his apartment in the Colonial Hotel, Mr. Willard said: "Yes, I have a chemist with me to study the value of different foods and products as to their power to produce great strength and endurance, both of which are so necessary in the prize ring. On his recommendation I have often taken nuxated iron and I have particularly advocated the free use of iron by all those who wish to obtain great physical and mental power. Without it I am sure that I should never have been able to whip Jack Johnson so completely and easily as I did, and while training for my fight with Frank Moran I regularly took nuxated iron, and I am certain that it was a most important factor in my winning the fight so easily." Continuing, Dr. Sauer said: "Mr. Willard's case is only one of hundreds which I could cite from my own personal experience which proves conclusively the astonishing power of nuxated iron to restore strength and vitality even in most complicated chronic conditions."

Not long ago a man came to me who was nearly half a century old, and asked me to give him a preliminary examination for life insurance. I was astonished to find him with the blood pressure of a boy of 20 and as full of vigor, vim and vitality as a young man—in fact, a young man he really was, notwithstanding his age. The secret he said was taking iron—nuxated iron had filled him with renewed life. At 30 he was in bad health; at 46 careworn and nearly all in. Now at 50 a miracle of vitality and his face beaming with the buoyancy of youth. As I have said a hundred times over iron is the greatest of all strength builders. If people would only throw away patent medicines and nauseous concoctions and take simple nuxated iron, I am convinced that the lives of thousands of persons might be saved who now die every year from pneumonia, grippe, consumption, kidney, liver and heart trouble, etc. The real and true cause which started their diseases was nothing more or less than a weakened condition brought on by lack of iron in the blood. Iron is absolutely necessary to enable your blood to change food into living tissue. Without it, no matter how much or what you eat, your food merely passes through you without doing you any good. You don't get the strength out of it, and as a consequence you become weak, pale and sickly looking, just like a plant trying to grow in soil deficient in iron. If you are not strong or well, you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work, or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of ordinary nuxated iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see for yourself how much you have gained. I have seen dozens of nervous, run-down people who were ailing all the while, double their strength and endurance and entirely get rid of all symptoms of dyspepsia, liver and other troubles in from ten to fourteen days' time simply by taking iron in the proper form. And this after they had in some cases been doctoring for months without obtaining any benefit. But don't take the old forms of reduced iron, iron acetate or tincture of iron simply to save a few cents. You must take iron in a form that can be easily absorbed and assimilated like nuxated iron if you want it to do you any good, otherwise it may prove worse than useless.

Among all the prominent figures of the prize ring, probably none is so devoted to family life as Jess Willard. After each engagement the champion hurries to his wife and children and remains at their side until public demand forces him to leave for new encounters. Everything is done to bring up the "little Willards" with strong healthy bodies. Mr. Willard accounts for his own success by saying:—

"I consider that plenty of iron in my blood is the secret of my great strength, power and endurance."

Jess Willard

Many an athlete or prize fighter has won the day simply because he knew the secret of great strength and endurance and filled his blood with iron before he went into the affray, while many another has gone to inglorious defeat simply for the lack of iron.—E. Sauer, M. D.

NOTE.—Nuxated Iron, recommended above by Dr. Sauer, is not a patent medicine nor secret remedy, but one which is well known to druggists and whose iron constituents are widely prescribed by eminent physicians everywhere. Unlike the older inorganic iron products, it is easily assimilated, does not injure the teeth, make them black, nor upset the stomach; on the contrary, it is a most potent remedy in nearly all forms of indigestion as well as for nervous, rundown conditions. The manufacturers have such great confidence in Nuxated Iron that they offer to forfeit $100.00 to any charitable institution if they cannot take any man or woman under 60 who lacks iron and increase their strength 200 per cent or over in four weeks' time, provided they have no serious organic trouble. They also offer to refund your money if it does not at least double your strength and endurance in ten days' time. It is dispensed by most druggists. If your druggist or general store is without a supply ask them to get it for you.—Adv.

M. G. HUNT, PUBLISHER

Published every Friday, at Sunbeam, Pennington County, Minnesota.

Entered as Second-class matter August 3d 1905, at the post office at Sunbeam Minn. under the Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

Judging from the position that the St. Hilaire Spectator is taking in the present campaign, its editor must be looking for an appointment under the Lynch administration, but he will find that they are "Lynched" November 7th.

The honorable Democrats of Pennington County have organized for a fight against the political control of the Lynch management in this state. We note among the number such leading democrats, as W. B. Fuller, N. W Tarrant, Math Barzen and G. H. Penny.

Thanks gentlemen, but we don't think that there will be any assistanc required to make a house cleaing, from cellar to garret, on November 7th, and next year we will have a mail service in eastern Pennington county so you can get a letter from Thief River Falls sixteen miles east, without having it lay over three or four days on the, way, so democratic politicians of the Lynch stripe can feed at the public crib. Just remain nutral and watch the G. O. P. clean up "de gang" on November 7th.

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Flexner on Infantile Paralysis.

Dr. Simon Flexner of the Rockefeller institute, speaking on infantile paralysis, says:

"The virus of infantile paralysis, as the micro-organism causing it is termed, exists constantly in the central nervous organs and upon the mucous membrane of the nose and throat and of the intestines in persons suffering from the disease. The virus enters the body as a rule, if not exclusively, by way of the mucous membrane of the nose and throat.

"The survival of the virus in the secretions is favored by weak daylight and darkness and hindered by bright daylight and sunshine. It is readily destroyed by exposure to sunlight.

"There exists at present no safe method of preventive inoculation or vaccination and no practical method of specific treatment. The prevention of the disease must be accomplished through general sanitary means. Recovery from the disease is a spontaneous process, which can be greatly assisted by proper medical and surgical care."

Dr. Flexner recommends great care in keeping persons and foods absolutely clean and free from flies and other insects and the utmost care in kissing, coughing and sneezing, as those acts are potent factors in distributing the germs of the disease.

First Shakespeare Festival.

The vandal act of Parson Gastrell in cutting down a mulberry tree believed to have been planted in Shakespeare's garden by Shakespeare's own hand led directly to the first of Shakespeare festivals. The mulberry tree, felled by an "act of Gothic barbarity," as Boswell termed it, was bought by a carpenter, who cut it up into "Shakespeare relics" in the form of caskets and tea caddies, snuff boxes and standishes. One of these mulberry tree boxes, inclosing the freedom of the borough, was sent by the corporation of Stratford on Avon to David Garrick with the request that he should in turn forward his own portrait to be "placed near that of his favorite author, in perpetual remembrance of both."

Garrick was immensely flattered by this homage from Shakespeare's town and acknowledged the compliment by undertaking the arrangement of a grand jubilee in honor of the poet. This, the first Stratford commemoration, was held on three September days in 1769. To prepare for it at least 100 fine old trees were cut down "in order to enlarge the prospect."—London Times.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

MR WILSON
DICTATION

—CARTOON BY BRADLEY IN CHICAGO DAILY NEWS.

PREPARE FOR THIS.

When we contemplate industrial and commercial conditions we see that we are living in a fool's paradise. The temporary prosperity to which our opponents point has been created by the abnormal conditions incident to the war. With the end of the war there will be the new conditions determined by a new Europe. Millions of men in the trenches will then return to work. The energies of each of the now belligerent nations highly trained, will then be turned to production."—Charles E. Hughes.

"WORDS, OR DEEDS?"

"If anything in this campaign is real it is that we are now facing the question whether we want words or whether we want deeds; whether we want that which is written and spoken, or whether we want American action in the interests of the American people, worthy of the American name, maintaining the American honor, and buttressing the prosperity of the United States."—From Mr. Hughes' speech at Chicago.

Political Jottings

If plans "to get Villa" are abandoned Villa should reciprocate and refrain from organizing expeditions "to get" American citizens.

The fact that Mr. Wilson could endorse this Pork Congress shows that he isn't seasick, anyway.

Mr. Pinchot also seems of the opinion that God Hates a Quitter.

The man who quotes the Baltimore platform is regarded as a political archeologist.

"He kept the country out of war," but he robbed it of its peace.

Up in Maine they are now rhyming Hughes with Moose. And there is reason as well as rhyme connecting the two words.

"Victory," Mr. Fairbanks told Oklahoma Republicans, "surely will perch on our banner." But Champ Clark tied it up in a neater and more compact bundle when he said: "They licked hell out of us."

Members of President Wilson's cabinet are ready to do anything to reelect their chief, except resign.

DECLINED TO PERMIT A SQUADRON TO DEFEND AMERICANS.

At Tampico there was a general movement of attack by the Mexicans on Americans and other foreigners. We had a squadron of American warships in the neighborhood. The Wilson Administration declined to permit this squadron to be used to defend the lives of American men and the honor of American women, and the commanders of the German and English ships at Tampico had to step in and perform the task our representative had so basely abandoned. At the very time that the Mexican mob had surrounded the building in which the Americans had taken refuge, and was howling for their blood, the American fleet, in spite of the protests of the American naval commander, and in accordance with wireless orders from Washington, was forced to steam out of the harbor and leave the Americans to be massacred by the Mexicans, or rescued by the Germans and English.—From the speech of Col. Theodore Roosevelt, delivered at Lewiston, Maine, in behalf of Charles E. Hughes.

THE LOCAL NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Hant visited with Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Quirk Sunday afternoon.

The farmers up near Erie, are all busy haying. While it is rather late in the season for haying, it is better late than never.

Red Lake River is slowly going down, and another week of fair weather will again see it within its banks, something that we have not seen before this season.

The weather has been very fair the past week, and if we can only get three or four weeks more of the same kind, the farmers will be able to get most of their fall plowing done

The Eleven Towns is complaining about local candidates for office not getting into the Campaign, but we rather enjoy their silence, as we have plenty to do in other lines, besides local politics.

Editor Cutter of the The News Press came up to Highlanding on Saturday evening to attend the Drainage meeting but as the government engineer, who was coming down the river in a boat did not reach Highlrnding that night no meeting was held.

The wedding reception given by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hyland, at the Erie Hall, on last Saturday evening, was largely attended, and many appropriate and useful presents were given to the bride and groom. The Ben Symanski band furnished the music for the occasion, and a very enjoyable time was had by all, with many best wishes to the newly weds.

The Gully Advance and St. Hilaire Spectator are terribly out of date in their efforts to crawl onto the Donkey band wagon, to get a feed at the public crib. They should take lessons from the slick Stephen. postmaster at Kratka, who promptly mounted the Donkey wagon, as soon as they won, and has now got his coat so near ready to turn, that he may have had an expert change the collar already.

The big drainage meeting held at Crookston on last Monday evening was largely attended by representative men from North and South Dakota, and the methods of taking care of the tremendous amount of water that has been dumped into Red River, Red Lake River and Clearwater River, by the state ditches, was discussed by men, representing all the different interests that have been affected by the flood conditions of this season. Our troubles up this way were fully explained by our Senator D. P. O'Neill, who has been up and down the rivers enough, so that he fully understands the situation.

The Post office at Mallory, in Polk County, has been discontinued, by the resignation of the postmaster. Another show up for the methods of conducting mail service under the present management of affairs. To make it plain, so people can understand it, the whole method is worked so as to starve out Republican postmasters by arranging mail routes, so they have no income from their office. For instance this office, where the compensation of the post master would be about sixty cents a month outside of the business done by THE SUNBEAM. But the "outs" will soon have an opportunity to vote, and we will again have a fair mail service run in the interest of the people.

BIG MEETING

The government engineer, who is making a preliminary survey of Red Lake River stopped over at Highlanding last Sunday and had a talk with the farmers who have resided on the banks of the River since the settlement of the eleven townships, about the terrible flood conditions that have prevailed here the past summer. He must have certainly been convinced, that the main reason for the drowning out of the fertile farms along the banks of Red Lake River, was caused by the tremendous amount of water that has been dumped onto us by the draining of the Indian and state lands above Red Lake which has raised the level of the lake sufficient to keep the water in the Red Lake River at a continual flood stage, on the low fertile farming lands lying along its banks in Eastern Pennington county. It also must have been made apparent to the engineer, from the statements made by the old settlers, that the flood conditions of the past season, should be remedied and that the expense of making an outlet for this big surplus of water should not be born by the farmer settlers living here, but that it was the duty of the government and state to provide a sufficient outlet for the water that they have caused to be dumped onto this territory.

IT IS ORDERED, that the time within which all creditors of the above named decedent may present claims against his estate in this court, be, and the same hereby is, limited to six (6) months from and after the date hereof; and that Saturday the 14th day of April 1917, at 10 o'clock A. Let notice hereof be given by the publication of this order in "The Sunbeam," a weekly newspaper as provided by law.

THE SAFETY HABIT

You know the Railroads are talking a good deal these days about the "Safety Habit." It is not a safety razor or a safety bicycle. It's safety for the lives intrusted to their care.

The principle applies to the banking business. Our bank employed the Safety Habit at the outset-safety to the depositors money intrusted to our care Every dollar left with us will be taken care of. Safty is our watch word. We would like to have your account on this basis.

IN youth is the time to start a bank account. Read the lives of the successful men in every line of endeavor. In the recital of their life stories they proudly relate how they earned their first dollar and how they opened their first bank account.

Youth for many is a prodigal time. But it is the time when the young man who wants to be a success in life should lay the cornerstone by opening a bank account and adding to it. The ambitious young man needs no urging to open an account. It is to the young man who is scattering his money foolishly that this appeal is made.

U-BOAT RAVAGES SHIPPING ALONG AMERICAN COAST

GERMAN SUBMARINE DESTROYS FOUR BRITISH, ONE DUTCH AND ONE NORWEGIAN SHIP OFF NANTUCKET SHOALS.

U. S. DESTROYERS SAVE PASSENGERS AND CREWS

Sailors of British Steamer Kingston Still Missing—Raider Holds Up American Vessel by Mistake—Hostile Diver Is Believed to Be the U-53.

Newport, R. I., Oct. 10.—It was reported without confirmation here today that three submarines were operating off the coast and that a total of nine vessels had been sunk by them.

Boston, Oct. 10—The submarine arm of the Imperial German navy ravaged shipping off the Eastern coast of the United States Sunday.

Four British, one Dutch, and one Norwegian steamer were sent to the bottom or left crippled derelicts off Nantucket shoals.

At night under the light of the Hunter's moon, the destroyer flotilla of the United States Atlantic fleet was picking up passengers and crews of the destroyed vessels and bringing them into Newport, R. I.

So far as known there was no loss of life though at a late hour the crew of the British steamer Kingston had not been accounted for.

American Ship Held Up.

A submarine held up the American steamer Kansan bound from New York for Genoa with steel for the Italian government but later on establishing her identity, allowed the American to proceed. The Kansan came into Boston harbor at night for her usual call here.

The hostile submarine is believed to be the U-53 which paid a call to Newport Saturday and disappeared at sunset. Some naval men, however, declared that at least two submarines are operating close to the American shore though outside the three-mile limit.

Wireless Tells of Ships Sunk.

The record of submarine warfare as brought to land wireless dispatches follows:

"The Strathdene, British freighter, torpedoed and sunk off Nantucket. Crew taken aboard Nantucket shoals lightship and later removed to Newport by torpedo boat destroyers. The Strathdene left New York Saturday for Bordeaux and was attacked at 6 a. m.

Crew Abandons Freighter.

The West Point, British freighter, torpedoed and sunk off Nantucket. Crew abandoned the ship in small boats after a warning shot from the submarine's guns. Officers and men were taken aboard a destroyer. The vessel was attacked at 10:45 a. m. She was bound for London from Newport News.

"The Stephano, British passenger liner, plying regularly between New York, Halifax and St. John's, New Foundland torpedoed southeast of Nantucket while bound for New York. Reported still afloat. Passengers and crew numbering about 140 were picked up by the destroyer Drayton and brought to Newport. The attack was made at 4:30 p. m.

Search for Missing Crew.

"The Kingston, British freighter, torpedoed and sun southeast of Nantucket. Crew missing and destroyer searching for them. The vessel is not accounted for in maritime registers and may be the Kingstonian. The attack occurred at 6 p. m.

"Bloomersdijk, Dutch freighter torpedoed and sunk south of Nantucket. Crew taken aboard a destroyer. The steamer was bound from New York for Rotterdam, having sailed Saturday night.

U-Boat Creates Sensation.

"The Christian Knudsen, Norwegian freighter, torpedoed and sunk near where the Bloomersdijk went down. Crew picked up by destroyers.

The sensation created Saturday when the U-53 quietly slipped into Newport harbor and as quietly slipped away three hours later was less than the shock in shipping circles when wireless reports of submarine attacks began to come into the naval radio stations just before noon. Within a few minutes the air was literally charged with electricity as wireless messages of warning were broadcasted along the coast.

NO RESTRICTIONS TO WAR ZONE IN U. S.-GERMAN NOTE

Washington, Oct. 9.—The agreement between the United States and Germany with reference to submarine warfare, as reached in the notes of April 19, May 4 and May 9, provided for right of visit and search, within or without the naval war zone, warning of vessels and proper safeguards for permitting passengers to be removed to lifeboats.

FARM BANK POSITIONS SOUGHT

FEDERAL BOARD IS DELUGED WITH REQUESTS.

To Resume Hearings to Gather Information For Guidance in Designating Districts, October 16.

Washington, Oct. 7.—Hearings by the federal farm loan board to gather information for its guidance in dividing the country into districts and locating the 12 farm loan banks created by the rural credits act, will be resumed Oct. 16.

It is expected that the proposed banks will be established and ready for business about Feb. 1.

The board is being deluged with requests from farmers for organization of local farm loan associations.

There are approximately 6,000 applications on file with the board for positions, with few opportunities of appointment. Each federal bank in the 12 districts will have an attorney, a farm loan register to supervise the issue of bonds and several land appraisers to inspect securities. These appointments will be made from among candidates in the respective districts as far as possible.

Indication that an effort will be made at the next session of congress to extend the federal farm loan act to the island posessions of the United States and to Alaska, was given in a petition filed with the federal farm loan board by Edwin C. Moore of Hawaii. The petition declares that the need for the law is greater in Hawaii than in the United States.

CONDUCT HOUSE TO HOUSE CANVASS TO GET RECRUITS

War Department Officials Plan to Obtain 100,000 Men For Army Each Year.

Washington, Oct. 9. — Virtually a house to house campaign throughout the nation is to be conducted by the War department to obtain the 100,000 regular army recruits it will be necessary to enlist annually hereafter in order to keep the army up to the strength authorized by Congress in the reorganization and appropriation bills according to a new recruiting order made public.

The new plan contemplates establishing agencies in every county seat. From these bases recruiting parties will be sent to comb the rural districts.

Fifth German War Loan Higher.

Berlin, Oct. 9.—Although no general summary of the subscriptions to the fifth war loan is yet available the totals compiled in various cities and the amounts subscribed through various banks generally are somewhat higher than the corresponding amounts of the fourth war loan. If the subscriptions in the agricultural districts maintain the same ratio as those in the cities the indications are that the fifth loan will exceed the fourth, although not reaching the high water mark of the third.

WILSON APPEALS TO VOTERS

SAYS "OLD GUARD" STILL CONTROLS REPUBLICAN PARTY.

Predicts Clash Between Capital and Labor If Hughes Is Elected in November.

Long Branch, N. J., Oct. 10.—Returning from his first invasion of the Middle West since the campaign opened, President Wilson appealed to independent voters to support the Democratic party in November on the ground that it presents a united front for the passage of progressive legislation, while the Republican party is made up of discordant elements which can accomplish nothing.

Attacks Hughes and Roosevelt.

Criticizing the "old guard" of the Republican party, the President, by inference, attacked both Charles E. Hughes and Theodore Roosevelt, and declared that while every line of his national policy has been assailed, "no diagrams have been drawn of any other."

Mr. Wilson charged that the "old guard" was in control of the last Republican convention and "made all the choices that were made by that convention."

Warns of Labor Troubles.

"One of the things that threatens us in the future if the Republican party is successful is a conflict between capital and labor," Mr. Wilson said, "not because of any new lines that will be drawn, but because so far, many representatives of capital have refused to regard the laborer as a fellow human being, just as much interested in the welfare of business and the progress of society as those who organize business and conduct it.

Doors to United States Open.

Omaha, Oct. 7.— President Wilson came into the Middle West for the first time since the campaign began and received what his political lieutenants characterized the greatest reception of his career. He declared for the "unshackeling" of American business in order that it may meet the competition of the world after the European war and cited legislation of his administration as going far in this direction.

He spoke of the importance of the West and praised the people who came from Europe to seek freedom. The doors to the United States, he said, were built to be kept open, not to be closed.

"In order to carry out a program you must have unification of spirit in America," he continued. "There can be no program without a unified course behind it. It is very important that the statesmen of other nations should understand America. We have held off from the conflagration in Europe because we wanted to play a different part."

FUNERAL OF GEO. A. JOSLYN

Omaha, Neb., Oct. 9.—Funeral services for George A. Joslyn, president of the Western Newspaper Union, who died at his home here Wednesday at the age of sixty-eight years, were held on Friday afternoon. A large number of publishers from various towns in the Middle West, who had known him personally for a number of years, attended the last sad rites.

Higher Price for Church Books.

Chicago, Oct. 9.—Increased cost of print paper is a problem which the Methodist Book Concern, as well as newspapers and other publications, is finding vexatious, according to Dr. H. C. Jennings, general agent of the concern. He told delegates to the laymen's section of the Rock river conference that their support of the book concern was needed as never before on account of the print paper problem, and he advocated the increase in price of the concern's publications as the only way out of the difficulty.

ROUMANIANS FALL BACK; KRONSTADT HELD BY TEUTONS

LEADING COMMERCIAL AND INDUSTRIAL CENTER OF TRANSYLVANIA RECAPTURED BY AUSTRO-GERMANS.

BRITISH LINES ALONG SOMME ARE ADVANCED

Allies Make Considerable Gains North of Courcelette—French Curtain of Fire Breaks Down Successive Waves of Attack by Germans Near Sailly-Sailles.

Berlin, Oct. 10.—The city of Kronstadt, in the southeastern part of Transylvania and its leading industrial and commercial center which was occupied by the Roumanians shortly after their entry into the war, has been recaptured by the Austro-German forces.

Roumanians Withdrawing.

All along the eastern line in Transylvania, the official statement reports, the Roumanians are falling back. From the Geister forest the Teutonic forces have pressed into the Alt valley and fought their way forward.

British Advance on Somme.

London, Oct. 9.—The British lines on the Somme front north and northeast of Courcelette have been considerably advanced, it was officially announced. A small part of the ground lost by the Germans in the recent fighting north of Lesboeufs was regained by them in a counter-attack. Otherwise, says the official statement the British held their gains. They have taken more than 500 German prisoners.

French Check German Attack.

Paris, Oct. 9.—The official communication issued by the war office reads: On the Somme there were intermittent reciprocal bombardments. After violent artillery preparations the Germans launched an attack on our new positions west of Sailly-Sailles, our curtain of fire broke down the successive waves of the attack, none of which succeeded in reaching the trenches.

"In the Woevre our heavy artillery bombarded German convoys and camps, as well as the Thiaumont station."

STATE-WIDE NON-PARTISAN HUGHES' LEAGUE IS FORMED

Jens K. Grondahl, Publisher of the Red Wing Republican, Is Elected President.

St. Paul, Oct. 9.—The Minnesota Hughes' Alliance, a branch of the National Hughes Alliance, has been organized, following a number of informal conferences of men anxious to put forth special efforts to help roll up a big majority for Mr. Hughes. A representative of the National Hughes Alliance has visited a number of the cities in the state to give encouragement and co-operation in starting the work in Minnesota. The Hughes Alliance has but one single purpose and that is the election of Hughes. It is non-partisan in its character and welcomes the co-operation of men in all parties who are for Hughes for president.

Headquarters for the Minnesota Hughes' Alliance have been opened on the fifth floor of the Capital National Bank building in St. Paul, where officers of the Alliance will be glad to meet men anxious to enlist in the work. Requests for literature and reports on the presidential sentiment throughout the state, together with suggestions for carrying on the campaign in the various localities, are invited.

The officers who have consented to give their time to the work are, Jens K. Grondahl, president; Herbert P. Keller, vice president, and E. L. Calihan, secretary. The executive committee, which will soon be completed, will consist of members from the various congressional districts. This, and other committees, will be announced later.

REPORT THAT GERARD HAS MISSION IS UNCONFIRMED

Washington, Oct. 9. — Ranking officials of the state department said they had no information to indicate that Ambassador Gerard is bringing home a request from Germany that the United States intercede to end the European war and were inclined to disbelieve the story. Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, declared he knew positively that it was untrue.

MOB RUNS POLICE OUT OF KANSAS OIL TOWN

Wichita, Kan., Oct. 9.—A mob of 1,000 men ran Marshal Crowe and his deputies out of the city of Augusta, an oil town 20 miles of here, wrecked the city jail and liberated six prisoners held on petty charges. The mob resented the arrest of several leading citizens on charges of violating traffic ordinances.

U-BOAT WARFARE AT VERY DOORS OF U. S.

Presence of German Flotilla Near American Waters May Raise Perplexing Questions.

Washington, Oct. 10. — Submarine warfare at the very doors of the United States with all its spectacular features does not necessarily portend further complications with Germany so long as it is carried on within the limitations of international law.

That was the view of official Washington on the record of one day's operations in which none of the ships destroyed appears to have been attacked without warning or without proper measures having been taken for the safety of those aboard.

Serious Issue Is Possible.

Academically at least in international law an Allied ship destroyed by a German cruiser just outside the three-mile limit and in sight of American shores, is no different than a ship destroyed in the Arctic ocean provided its destruction is accomplished in accordance with the laws of nations and humanity.

However, the presence of a German submarine flotilla near American territorial waters, officials fear may raise perplexing questions of neutrality and, in fact, a most serious issue would be raised if the operation of the submersibles were carried on so near American ports as practically to constitute a blockade.

German Bases Suspected.

Half a dozen ships destroyed practically within sight of the shores of the United States while American warships hovered near to take off the victims aroused reports of German bases and convoys.

Many officials leaned to that view and pointed out that one lone submarine 3,000 miles from a base would scarcely have spent torpedoes so prodigally as did Commander Rose, unless there was a supply close at hand.

GOETHALS HEADS BOARD TO STUDY RAILROAD LAW

Clarke and Rublee Also Chosen by President to Investigate the Eight-Hour Law.

Omaha, Neb., Oct. 7.—A formal announcement was made here that President Wilson has selected Major General Goethals, Commissioner Clarke of the Interstate Commerce commission and George Rublee of the Trade commission as members of the board created by Congress to investigate the railroad eight-hour law.

While the law does not go into effect until January 1, the President desired the members of the board to give a close study to the entire situation. General Goethals will act as chairman.

New York, Oct. 9.—New York City received only half of its normal milk supply Sunday, according to information received at the office of John J. Dillon, state commissioner of foods and markets, from agents of the Dairymen's league.

Vance McCormick Sued by O'Leary.

New York, Oct. 7.—Vance C. McCormick, chairman of the democratic national committee, has announced that he has been served with a summons in a suit for $50,000 brought against him by Jeremiah A. O'Leary. Mr. O'Leary declared the action was to find out, "first, whether hyphenism, socalled, is libelous, and, second, whether it is inconsistent with Americanism." Mr. O'Leary said he resented a statement attributed to Mr. McCormick, criticizing him for sending an "insulting message" to President Wilson.

CHINA WANTS OUR GOODS

American Manufacturers Are Meeting Favorable Reception at Hands of Orientals.

The Chinese are beginning distinctly to favor American goods and regard America as a model from a manufacturing as well as governmental viewpoint, according to Maurice Benjamin, general manager of the Oliver Import and Export company, Shanghai, China. In spite of the famine in freight, he says, American manufacturers are not only gradually finding their way into China, but are being sought by the Orientals.

"The tremendous disturbances in Europe have not failed to leave traces in China," he said. "In this the high freight rates have played no small part. China wonders why so large a nation as America should have no mercantile marine. In some lines where only $10 per ton was paid before the war for transportation from the United States west coast to China, as much as $40 per ton has recently been paid.

"I believe the day is not far distant when we will see a new China. When the 400,000,000 people there begin to want machinery, railways and other requirements of civilization, America will benefit. It is a common error to think that the Chinese are too inveterately conservative to adopt Western civilization. The cost of living of Chinese in towns where there are Europeans has probably doubled in the last few years."

HAPPENINGS in the METROPOLIS

New Yorkers Want to Build an Artificial Island

NEW YORK.—There will soon come before the war department at Washington for approval a plan to build a new artificial island in New York harbor which with the buildings on it will cost $40,000,000. The proposal to make this alteration of the face of nature was made by a group of wealthy men, and the New York harbor line board has held a hearing here on the question. The board's recommendations will be forwarded to Secretary Baker.

EH?
KIN I BUILD AN ISLAND FER PIERS AN' OTHER THINGS—?

The new island would have an area of 440 acres and cover the Red Hook shoals. On the made land, one mile long and a quarter of a mile wide, would be built transshipping sheds and warehouses, railroad tracks, huge slips for barges carrying freight trains, and on the Brooklyn side 18 piers. The plant would be run along the lines of the great Bush terminal.

At the hearing opposition developed from representatives of the Bush terminal and of a proposed new terminal at Bayonne, N. J., while prominent shipping men appeared both for and against the project.

If the war department's decision is favorable, the men behind the project must get the consent of the state legislature to lease the right to the shoals and then put in a successful bid for the lease. There is some sentiment for having the city of New York itself build the new terminal, and in any event the group pushing the idea expect to incorporate in their lease a clause providing that the state or city shall get the terminal after a period of years.

Mixed Babies Unmixed by Sharp-Eyed Neighbor

MRS. DORA DEL PIANA has her Richard and Mrs. Anna Constantina has her Samuel, and a danger of ferment of social unrest in North Bergen has passed. Richard and Samuel are two years old, and for a time it appeared each would be reared in a home in which he had not originated, but now each is in the environment nature intended.

I DON'T BELIEVE HE'S MINE

Richard and Samuel were stricken by infantile paralysis and were taken to the Laurel Hills hospital. In about six weeks they recovered and the mothers were notified to take them home. When they called at the hospital the nurses, overwrought and confused by the handling of so many Richards and Samuels and Lisbeths and Dorothys gave Richard to Mrs. Constantina and Samuel to Mrs. Del Piana and insisted the proper apportionment had been made.

Now, if it hadn't been for Mrs. Schwartz, Richard might have grown up a Constantina and Samuel a Del Piana.

"It's a wise mother that knows her own child," said Mrs. Schwartz when she called at the Del Piana home to inspect the baby returned as good as new from the hospital, "and that isn't your Richard. Looks to me like Mrs. Constantina's Samuel."

Mrs. Del Piana protested that she had a certificate, inviolable, but Mrs. Schwartz was filled with the enthusiasm of social readjustment, and went to Mrs. Constantina's home.

"This isn't your Samuel," she decided, gazing upon the expressive and dignified features of the baby in Mrs. Constantina's lap. "It's Mrs. Del Piana's Richard."

And it was so, as the mother agreed when they conferred and made comparisons, and Richard and Samuel are where they belong.

Great Bird's-Eye View of Gotham and Vicinity

ONE of the sights visitors to this city should not miss is a bird's-eye view of the city and the country surrounding it from the tower of New York's tallest building at Broadway and Park place. This is a view some 600 feet above the street. The first impulse of the visitor is to look far off to the horizon. The wonderful breadth and freedom of things up there impels one to ignore entirely the great city near at hand and to let the gaze rest, first of all, on the far-away hills and mountains, the shimmering ocean and the majestic river.

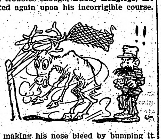
Three states fall within the range of vision, for not only does all the northern New Jersey, Staten Island, western Long Island and a great part of Westchester county spread out before one like a map, but on a clear day the eye can follow the gray line of Long Island sound up past Rye beach and Larchmont to the Connecticut line beyond. To the northward the Hudson river can be seen far up above Yonkers,

Far away to the northwest the Ramapo mountains are clearly discernible, while farther to the south the Watchung and Orange ranges rise before the eye. Newark bay and the Kill van Kull appear so near at hand that it almost seems as though a stone might be tossed into them. Looking out through the Narrows, Atlantic Highlands can be clearly made out, while farther seaward Sandy Hook can readily be distinguished.

All Kinds of Trouble in the Zoological Park

THERE is mutiny in the monkey house in the Zoological park in the Bronx and then, as though there were not troubles enough, Daddy Longlegs, the bad boy of the giraffe house, has started again upon his incorrigible course.

Koko and Bomba, the two discontented chimpanzees, are so surly that they are providing a none too good example for the other inhabitants of the cages in the monkey house. Koko up almost to the present time has been content to sulk in a corner of the cage and make hostile demonstration at every friendly advance. Now Koko is becoming dangerous, and along with other bad traits the animal has developed a disposition to attack those who come near.



Daddy Longlegs got the notion of making his nose bleed by bumping it against the door ledge. This was counteracted by substituting a rounded molding. Then he started to rub the hair of his back on an iron brace about 12 feet from the floor. This was duly prevented and then Daddy started to gnaw the door frame. With the wood protected with sheet metal, the giraffe concentrated his attention upon the plaster top of a column from which he playfully bit off fragments. The top was covered with wire mesh.

Next morning the keepers were horrified to find that Daddy had so destroyed the mesh with his teeth that the wire stuck out like porcupine quills, and precisely upon a level with his eyes. Fortunately, his eyes were uninjured. The top of the column is now covered with sheet metal.

As a self-trouble maker Daddy has a rival in one of the Hangul deer. During the last three years scarcely a month has passed that it hasn't been necessary to extricate him from some awkward situation of his own creating. Twice has he been noosed in order that portions of tree boxes which he viciously charged could be removed from his antlers. Once after a storm, during which telephone wires were blown down, he managed by diligent worrying of a wire to wrap about 25 feet tightly about his head and antlers. It was necessary to tie him to a fence in order to cut away the tangle. Recently, by thrusting his muzzle between two gate posts, he managed to run a gate hook through his upper lip. The hook was attached to a chain, but, fortunately, the latter came loose without tearing the animal's face. A squad of keepers drove the maddened deer to a corner of the corral, where a lasso over his horns brought him to the fence. The hook was removed with difficulty, and the injury quickly healed.

JOHN D.'S LITTLE JOKE

Copyright, Underwood & Underwood

"No one but John D. Rockefeller could have gotten away with a joke like that," seriously declares the German barber at Tarrytown who shaves the oil man. While he is not expressing his feelings out loud, at the same time when anyone asks him how he likes to take a drink with Mr. Rockefeller his actions are more eloquent than words.

After the barber had shaved him one warm afternoon, Mr. Rockefeller invited him to take an automobile ride. They went to Mamaroneck and Mr. Rockefeller asked the barber if he would like a drink. The barber assured Mr. Rockefeller that he would be delighted.

"Well, you wait till we get back to the house," the barber was told. "I've got a fine cold drink back there for you."

All the way home the barber had visions of a cold bottle, and Mr. Rockefeller encouraged his imagination by remarking that he would be glad when he got back home so he could treat. When the automobile stopped in front of the Rockefeller home, Mr. Rockefeller called one of his servants, saying: "John, get a pitcher and go up to the spring and get us a glass of that pure, cold water."

The barber nearly collapsed. Of course, he drank the water, but no one enjoyed the joke more than Mr. Rockefeller. It was one of his pet stories on the golf links after that.

MRS. REED SMOOT

Mrs. Reed Smoot, wife of Senator Smoot of Utah, is pre-eminently a home-loving woman. "The woman, as executive head of the home," Mrs. Smoot says, "has it in her power to exert a more tremendous influence on the future in this country through this one medium than ever before in history.

"The woman who builds up a happy home, brings her children into the world, rears them with love and tenderness and gives to the world noble women and courageous men to carry on its work has done the greatest work a human being could do. Growing with one's children—making companions and friends of them—instilling in them a love of the wholesomeness of home—these are requirements that a mother must live up to."

Mrs. Smoot is proud of her children, and says she wishes that every other woman was just as happy as she is. She is very bright and an able lieutenant for her distinguished husband, but paramount to everything else are her home and children.

OAKEY AND THE BALD HEADS

© HARRIS & EWING

When is a man really bald?

Why, when he has a bald spot, of course, but then comes the question that the Bald Head Club of America tried to solve. How large must the diameter of that spot be before the man is bald? The answer of the club is four inches.

The head of this organization which has declared a relentless war on all hair restorers is Congressman P. Davis Oakey of Hartford, Conn. Mr. Oakey is proud of his eligibility to the club, and has made many boasts of it. He was moved to utterance recently in the house cloakroom when he saw a grave menace staring him in the face—or on the bald spot.

It was a group of Republican bald heads who listened to the impassioned defense of the liberties of the balds, which the president of the Bald Head Club of America gave.

"Gentlemen," he began, "I have listened during the weary days of this long session to many demagogic speeches and wearisome orations. The closing days of this session have been prolific of that kind of statesmanship.

"This afternoon, while meditating upon the issues of this important campaign, it occurred to me that in at least one great issue the Republican party is badly handicapped. The party has not taken the Bald Head Club of America into its confidence, and a formidable rival threatens the organization.

"Bald heads, look out! For your reputation for brains, humor, and statecraft will be obliterated from the national scene unless you bestir yourselves in the campaign of the future. It is not for you to waste your time in idle recriminations at this slight upon the club, but to strive in noble emulation."

ROUMANIA'S STRONG MAN

The strong man of Roumania is its minister of war, Take Jonescu. Among his people he holds a place similar to that of Venizelos among the Greeks; he is one of them and they trust him.

He has been the most courted statesman in Europe lately. He was the hope of the allies and the fear of the Germans.

The most prominent characteristics of this interesting man are his magnetism and personal charm. He has loyalty, principle, energy, as well as the opportunism and "realism" of Venizelos. He knows national character. He can conform to its idiosyncrasies.

The great Roumanian lawyer, although in receipt of huge fees, takes up the cases of the impoverished without a retainer. At the opening of his career he refused a government post that he might practice in the courts. He has figured in the most important as well as in the most sensational cases without adding to his wealth. His income from his profession is astonishingly small for one who ranks among the great lawyers of Europe. It is true that he has private means that render him independent.

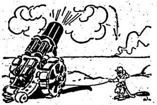
WASHINGTON GOSSIP

Designing Great Field Howitzers for Our Army

WASHINGTON.—Army ordnance experts are at work on designs for huge field howitzers as large as or larger than the German 42-centimeter guns which wrecked Belgium and French forts early in the war. They will be at least 16-inch caliber, with a range of 12 to 15 miles, hurling a projectile weighing more than a ton and carrying a large amount of high explosive.



In addition to placing several of these mammoth weapons along the coast line for mobile defense against naval attack, army officials are now considering the creation of a special regiment, equipped with six howitzers, to work as a unit of the mobile army. The problem confronting the designers in that regard is to distribute the enormous weight of the gun and carriage in such a way that it can be moved over any good road.

That difficulty is a determining factor in heavy artillery designs. Around a few of the largest cities well-ballasted roads which would support the weight of the huge guns can be found, but even such a highway as the post road from Boston to New York, it is said, has many sections so lightly built that the great weight would crush through.

How Four Girls From Ohio Got Coveted Tickets

OUT in Cleveland, O., there are four young women who are telling how they saw the president deliver his railroad strike message to the joint session of congress. The day the senate and house met together there was the usual scramble for seats in the galleries. This privilege is as valuable as a gold-bearing claim in the Rocky mountains. Each senator gets one ticket for the galleries; each representative gets one, and there are a few favored officials of congress who get from five to ten apiece. Upon this occasion there were the usual number of visitors in town, each one of whom believed fervently that all he had to do was to descend upon his representative or senator and ask for the gallery privilege and receive it. This might be true if the galleries held 10,000 people instead of 900.

The four young women from Cleveland, luckier than most visitors, received one ticket, to be parceled among the quartet. They were seated in the restaurant of the house of representatives at lunch planning to draw lots to see which one should take the prized ticket, and just as they had settled this point one of them shrieked aloud and jumped from her chair with a brand-new silk dress soaking with coffee.

At the same moment, Theodore Tiller, president of the National Press and veteran of the press gallery of the house, arose with confusion covering him from head to foot. He felt, he said, as if he was about to be hanged. Apologies dripped from him, and he resembled the last rose of summer and other sad spectacles.

There was no question about the dress being spoiled. Tiller had upset a large cup of coffee, and every bit of it had fallen into the young woman's lap.

Suddenly she said:

"Are you a member of congress?"

Mr. Tiller resented the accusation.

"Because if you are," continued the coffee-stained one, "if you would get us a ticket to the gallery today I would forgive you."

She said that Representative Gordon of Ohio had promised to get one for her, but that he had not shown up.

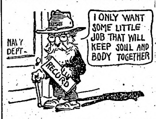
"Tickets are hard to get," said Tiller, "but I will see what I can do."

He then left the restaurant. In ten minutes Mr. Tiller appeared again with three gallery tickets. Where he got them no one knows, but the lady with the coffee in her lap is understood to have said, just before leaving the capitol:

"Oh, Mr. Tiller, if you get us tickets every time the president speaks, you can pour coffee on me all you want."

Old Civil War Veteran Seeks Small Navy Berth

AN OLD man in his eightieth year, who ran ammunition down the Potomac river during the Civil war and piloted transports that brought the dead and wounded of the battle of the Wilderness to Washington, came to the navy department the other day looking for a job.



NAVY DEPT.
I ONLY WANT SOME LITTLE JOB THAT WILL KEEP SOUL AND BODY TOGETHER RECORD

"I've done too much for my country to be left to starve," he told naval officers to whom he made his application. "My $24 a month pension is just enough to starve on."

The old man was William Key, who has lived alone in Southwest Washington since his wife died a year ago.

He was unable to see Secretary Daniels, but other officers at the department told him all the civilian navy positions were under the civil service.

"Why don't you go to the Soldiers' home?" one of the naval officers asked him.

"I'm a sailor man from tip to toe," the patriarchal Key replied, "and soldiers and sailors don't agree."

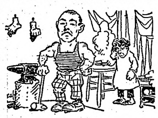
The veteran brought with him to the navy department his record, as published by the United States Army and Navy Historical association, and which showed he had been active in the Union side all during the war after he escaped from the Confederate navy, into which he had been conscripted for three months.

"I've never asked the government for anything before," the veteran said when he came to the navy department. "And now I only want some little job that will enable me to keep soul and body together."

The veteran left the navy department disappointed, but not yet ready to give up his quest for a job.

Capitol Employee Posed for Pediment Statuary

JOHN A. MARTIN, electrician employed at the capitol, is the original of the ironworker in the group of statuary recently placed on the pediment of the house wing of the capitol. This fact became known when a letter of the sculptor, Paul Bartlett, and one of Superintendent Elliott Woods of the capitol were shown to friends by Mr. Martin.



The ironworker in the group of statuary is an important part of the whole figure, which represents Peace protecting Genius. He is a companion piece to the character in the group which represents agriculture, the sculptor explaining in his address at the unveiling that agriculture and the iron industry form the fundamentals of the country's prosperity. Mr. Martin, who became acquainted with Paul Bartlett some time ago, was asked by the sculptor to pose for this part of the group. Later Elliott Woods, superintendent of the capitol, wrote the following letter to Martin:

"I am requested to extend the thanks of Paul Bartlett, sculptor, for your kindness in posing for some portions of the modeling for the statuary to be installed in the pediment of the house wing of the capitol. It is a compliment to you that a great artist like Mr. Bartlett should so approve of your physical development as to want you to pose for one of these figures. It ought to be a source of some further gratification that you have contributed in this manner to one of the great pieces of art for the nation's capitol."

THE EIGHT
Proposed Amendments to the Constitution of the STATE OF MINNESOTA

Submitted by the Legislature at Its General Session, 1915, Together With a Statement of the

PURPOSES AND EFFECTS,

Prepared by Hon. Lyndon A. Smith, Attorney General of Minnesota.

Addressed to Julius A. Schmahl Secretary of State

OFFICE OF THE ATTORNEY GENERAL, ST. PAUL.

April 7, 1916.

Honorable Julius A. Schmahl,
Secretary of State,
Capitol.

DEAR SIR: Pursuant to your request and in accordance with the provisions of Section 46, Statutes 1913, I herewith hand you statement of the purposes and effect of all amendments to the Constitution proposed by the legislature of 1915 and to be submitted to the electors at the next general election; such statement also shows the reading of the existing sections and the way the same will read if the amendments are adopted.

Yours truly,
LYNDON A. SMITH,
Attorney General.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NO. 1.

By Chapter 379, Laws 1915, the legislature proposed for adoption by the electors, an amendment of Section Two (2) of Article Eight of the Constitution, by adding to said Section Two a new paragraph.

Section Two as it now stands reads as follows:

Section 2. "SCHOOL AND SWAMP LANDS—SCHOOL FUNDS FROM SALE OF—The proceeds of such lands as are or hereafter may be granted by the United States for the use of schools within each township in this state shall remain a perpetual school fund to the state; and not more than one-third of said lands may be sold in two years, one-third in five years, and one-third in ten years; but the lands of the greatest valuation shall be sold first: Provided, that no portion of said lands shall be sold otherwise than at public sale. The principal of all funds arising from sales or other disposition of lands or other property, granted or intrusted to this state in each township for educational purposes, shall forever be preserved inviolate and undiminished; and the income arising from the lease or sale of said school land shall be distributed to the different townships throughout the state, in proportion to the number of scholars in each township, between the ages of five and twenty-one years; and shall be faithfully applied to the specific objects of the original grants or appropriations. Suitable laws shall be enacted by the legislature for the safe investment of the principal of all funds which have heretofore arisen or which may hereafter arise from the sale or other disposition of such lands, or the income from such lands accruing in any way before the sale or disposition thereof in interest-bearing bonds of the United States, or of the State of Minnesota issued after the year 1860, or of such other state as the legislature may by law from time to time direct. All swamp lands now held by the state, or that may hereafter accrue to the state, shall be appraised and sold in the same manner and by the same officers, and the minimum price shall be the same less one-third, as is provided by law for the appraisement and sale of the school lands under the provisions of title one of chapter thirty-eight of the General Statutes. The principal of all funds derived from sales of swamp lands as aforesaid shall forever be preserved inviolate and undiminished. One-half of the proceeds of said principal shall be appropriated to the common school fund of the state; the remaining one-half shall be appropriated to the educational and charitable institutions of the state in the relative ratio of cost to support said institutions.".

The paragraph which it is proposed to add to said Section Two reads as follows:

> "A revolving fund of not over two hundred fifty thousand dollars ($250,000) may be set apart from the fund derived from the sale of school and swamp lands, to be used in constructing roads, ditches and fire breaks in, through and around unsold school and swamp lands and in clearing such lands, such fund to be replenished as long as needed from the enhanced value realized from the sale of such lands so benefited."

Under Section Two as it now stands the proceeds of the sale of school and swamp lands constitute the principal of a trust fund, the income of which is used for the support of the schools, educational and charitable institutions of the state. Section Two as it now stands provides that the principal of such fund "shall forever be preserved inviolate and undiminished."

THE EFFECT of the proposed amendment, if adopted, will be to modify the provision last quoted to the extent of permitting the legislature to set aside not to exceed $250,000 of the principal of the trust fund as a revolving fund to be used for the purposes stated in the amendment proposed.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NO. 2.

By Chapter 380, Laws 1915, the legislature proposed for adoption by the electors, an amendment of Section Six (6), of Article Eight (8) of the Constitution.

Section Six as it now stands reads as follows:

"Section 6. INVESTMENT OF SCHOOL FUNDS — The permanent school and university fund of this state may be invested in the bonds of any county, school district, city, town or village of this state, but no such investment shall be made until approved by the board of commissioners designated by law to regulate the investment of the permanent school fund and the permanent university fund of this state; nor shall such loan or investment be made when the bonds to be issued or purchased would make the entire bonded indebtedness exceed fifteen per cent of the assessed valuation of the taxable real property of the county, school district, city, town or village issuing such bonds; nor shall such loans or indebtedness be made at a lower rate of interest than three per cent per annum, nor for a shorter period than five years, nor for a longer period than twenty years, and no change of the town, school district, city, village or of county lines shall relieve the real property in such town, school district, county, village or city in this state at the time of the issuing of such bonds from any liability for taxation to pay such bonds."

If the proposed amendment is adopted it will then read as follows:

> "The permanent school and university fund of this state may be invested in the bonds of any county, school district, city, town or village of this state, and in first mortgage loans secured upon improved and cultivated farm lands of this state. But no such investment or loan shall be made until approved by the board of commissioners designated by law to regulate the investment of the permanent school fund and the permanent university fund of this state; nor shall such loan or investment be made when the bonds to be issued or purchased would make the entire bonded indebtedness exceed 15 per cent of the assessed valuation of the taxable property of the county, school district, city, town or village issuing such bonds; nor shall any farm loan, or investment be made when such investment or loan would exceed 30 per cent of the actual cash value of the farm land mortgage to secure said investment; nor shall such investments or loans be made at a lower rate of interest than 3 per cent per annum, nor for a shorter period than five years, nor for a longer period than thirty years, and no change of the town, school district, city, village or of county lines shall relieve the real property in such town, school district, county, village or city in this state at the time of issuing of such bonds from any liability for taxation to pay such bonds."

THE PURPOSE of the amendment is to authorize the investment of the permanent school and university funds in "first mortgage loans secured upon improved and cultivated farm lands where the amount of the loans so secured does not exceed 30 per cent of the value of the land mortgaged.

THE EFFECT of the adoption of the proposed amendment will be to permit the legislature to authorize the investment of the permanent school and university funds in farm mortgages as above stated, as well as in the bonds of any county, school district, city, town or village of this state. Under Section Six as it now reads bonds cannot be purchased unless they mature at least five and not more than twenty years after purchase. If the amendment is adopted, bonds and mortgages may be purchased if they mature not less than five nor more than thirty years after purchase.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NO. 3.

By Chapter 381, Laws 1915, the legislature proposed for adoption by the electors, an amendment of Article Nine (9) of the Constitution by adding thereto a new section, which reads as follows:

> "Section 17. The legislature is hereby authorized to provide by law for the mining and sale of any iron ore or other minerals which the state owns, in its sovereign capacity, and as trustee for the people of the state, which are situate under the waters or bed of any meandered public lake or river, and for that purpose may provide for the drainage of any such lake or river, or the diversion of the waters thereof to a new bed or channel, provided, however, that the vested riparian rights of private persons or corporations owning land adjoining such lakes shall not be destroyed or damaged without their consent, unless compensation therefor shall be first paid or secured. The principal of all funds arising from the sale of such iron ore, or other minerals, shall forever be preserved inviolate and undiminished, but the income therefrom shall be used for the construction, improvement and maintenance of the public roads of the state. The principal of such funds shall be loaned or invested in the same manner, by the same officers and upon the same terms as is, or from time to time hereafter may be authorized by the constitution and laws, for the loaning or investment of the permanent school and university funds of the state."

THE PURPOSE of the proposed amendment cannot be more clearly stated than is expressed therein.

THE EFFECT of the amendment, if adopted, would be to confer power on the legislature to provide by law for the mining of iron ore and other minerals, which the state owns in its sovereign capacity and situate under the bed of any meandered public lake or river, subject to the restriction that the rights of riparian owners on any such lake or river, shall not be destroyed or injured without compensation. If the legislature exercises the power, in case it is conferred, it could also provide for the drainage or diversion of the waters of the lake or river with reference to which it so legislates; it could also prescribe by whom such minerals could be mined and the compensation to be paid to the state therefor. The proceeds of the sale of any such minerals would constitute a fund to be loaned and invested the same as the permanent school and university funds, the income of such fund to be used in the construction, improvement and maintenance of public roads.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NO. 4.

By Chapter 382, Laws 1915, the legislature proposed an amendment to Section Two (2) of Article Six of the Constitution.

Said Section 2 now reads as follows:

"Section 2. SUPREME COURT—The supreme court shall consist of one chief justice and two associate justices, but the number of associate justices may be increased to a number not exceeding four, by the legislature, by a two-thirds vote, when it shall be deemed necessary. It shall have original jurisdiction in such remedial cases as may be prescribed by law and appellate jurisdiction in all cases, both in law and equity, but there shall be no trial by jury in said court. It shall hold one or more terms in each year, as the legislature may direct, at the seat of government, and the legislature may provide, by a two-thirds vote, that one term in each year shall be held in each or any judicial district. It shall be the duty of such court to appoint a reporter of its decisions. There shall be chosen, by the qualified electors of the state, one clerk of the supreme court, who shall hold his office for the term of four years, and until his successor is duly elected and qualified; and the judges of the supreme court, or a majority of them, shall have the power to fill any vacancy in the office of clerk of the supreme court until an election can be regularly had."

If the proposed amendment is adopted the section will then read as follows:

> "Section 2. The supreme court shall consist of one chief justice and six associate justices. Five shall constitute a quorum, and the concurrence of at least four shall be necessary to a decision. It shall have original jurisdiction in such remedial cases as may be prescribed by law, and appellate jurisdiction in all cases, both in law and equity, but there shall be no trial by jury in said court. It shall hold one or more terms in each year, as the legislature may direct, at the seat of government, and the legislature may provide, by a two-thirds vote, that one term in each year shall be held in each or any judicial district. It shall be the duty of such court to appoint a reporter of its decisions and a clerk of the supreme court."

PURPOSE AND EFFECT: The Supreme Court as now constituted consists of a chief justice and four associate justices. The clerk of said court is now elected. If the amendment is adopted, two associate justices will be added to the court and the clerk will be appointed by the court instead of being elected by the voters.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NO. 5.

By Chapter 383, Laws 1915, the legislature proposed for adoption by the electors, an amendment of Section Eleven (11) of Article Four (4) of the Constitution.

Said section now reads as follows:

"Section 11. APPROVAL OF BILLS BY GOVERNOR — VETO POWER—Every bill which shall have passed the senate and house of representatives, in conformity to the rules of each house and the joint rules of the two houses, shall, before it becomes a law, be presented to the governor of the state. If he approves he shall sign and deposit it in the office of the secretary of state for preservation, and notify the house where it originated of the fact. But if not, he shall return it with his objections, to the house in which it shall have originated; when such objections shall be entered at large on the journal of the same, and the house shall proceed to reconsider the bill. If, after such reconsideration, two-thirds of that house shall agree to pass the bill, it shall be sent, together with the objections, to the other house, by which it shall likewise be reconsidered; and if it be approved by two-thirds of that house it shall become a law. But in all such cases the votes of both houses shall be determined by yeas and nays, and the names of the persons voting for or against the bill shall be entered on the journal of each house respectively. If any bill shall not be returned by the governor within three days (Sundays excepted) after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a law in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the legislature, by adjournment within that time, prevents its return; in which case it shall not be a law. The governor may approve, sign and file in the office of the secretary of state, within three days after the adjournment of the legislature, any act passed during the last three days of the session, and the same shall become a law. If any bill presented to the governor contains several items of appropriation of money he may object to one or more of such items, while approving of the other portion of the bill. In such case, he shall append to the bill, at the time of signing it, a statement of the items to which he objects, and the appropriation so objected to shall not take effect. If the legislature be in session, he shall transmit to the house in which the bill originated a copy of such statement, and the items objected to shall be separately reconsidered. If, on reconsideration, one or more of such items be approved by two-thirds of the members elected to each house, the same shall be a part of the law, notwithstanding the objections of the governor. All the provisions of this section, in relation to bills not approved by the governor, shall apply in cases in which he shall withhold his approval from any item or items contained in a bill appropriating money."

It is proposed to amend that section so that it shall read as follows:

> "Section 11. Every bill which shall have passed the senate and house of representatives, in conformity to the rules of each house and the joint rules of the two houses, shall, before it becomes a law, be presented to the governor of the state. If he approves he shall sign and deposit it in the office of the secretary of state for preservation, and notify the house where it originated of the fact. But if not, he shall return it, with his objections, to the house in which it shall have originated; when such objections shall be entered at large on the journal of the same, and the house shall proceed to reconsider the bill. If, after such reconsideration, two-thirds of that house shall agree to pass the bill, it shall be sent, together with the objections, to the other house, by which it shall likewise be reconsidered; and if it be approved by two-thirds of that house it shall become a law. But in all such cases the votes of both houses shall be determined by yeas and nays, and the names of the persons voting for or against the bill shall be entered on the journal of each house respectively. If any bill shall not be returned by the governor within three days (Sundays excepted) after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a law in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the legislature by adjournment within that time, prevent its return; in which case it shall not be a law. The governor may approve, sign and file in the office of the secretary of state, within three days after the adjournment of the legislature, any act passed during the last three days of the session, and the same shall become a law. If any bill presented to the governor contains several items of appropriation of money, he may object to one or more of such items in whole or in part, while approving of the other portion of the bill. In such case he shall append to the bill, at the time of signing it, a statement of the items and parts of items to which he objects, and the part of any appropriation so objected to shall not take effect. If the legislature be in session, he shall transmit to the house in which the bill originated a copy of such statement, and the items objected to in whole or in part shall be separately reconsidered. If, on reconsideration, one or more of such items be approved by two-thirds of the members elected to each house, the same shall be a part of the law, notwithstanding the objections of the governor. All the provisions of this section, in relation to bills not approved by the governor, shall apply in cases in which he shall withhold his approval in whole or in part from any item or items contained in a bill appropriating money."

PURPOSE AND EFFECT: Under the Constitution as it now is, the governor may veto any item in an appropriation bill, but he cannot cut down the amount appropriated for any specific purpose. The amendment, if adopted, will give the governor power to reduce the amount of an appropriation for any given purpose, unless upon transmittal to the legislature of a statement of the part of an item of an appropriation bill to which he objects, the two houses, each by a two-thirds vote, approve the item as it was originally passed.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NO. 6.

By Chapter 384, Laws 1915, the legislature proposed an amendment of Section Thirteen (13) of Article One (1) of the Constitution.

The section as it now stands reads as follows:

"Section 13. PRIVATE PROPERTY FOR PUBLIC USE — Private property shall not be taken, destroyed or damaged for public use, without just compensation therefor first paid or secured."

If the amendment is adopted the section will read as follows:

> "Section 13. Private property shall not be taken, destroyed or damaged for public use, without just compensation therefor first paid or secured, and such private property may be taken, destroyed or damaged for the purpose of private as well as public, drainage upon just compensation therefor being first paid or secured."

THE PURPOSE of the proposed amendment is to permit the taking of private lands for the purpose of drainage purposes where the drain or ditch will be of no public benefit, but on the contrary will only benefit the land or lands of the person or persons constructing the drainage ditch.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NO. 7.

By Chapter 385, Laws 1915, the legislature proposed for adoption by the electors, an amendment of Section One (1) of Article Four (4) of the Constitution.

Section One as it now stands, reads as follows:

"Section 1. TWO HOUSES — SESSIONS — The legislature shall consist of the senate and house of representatives, which shall meet biennially at the seat of government of the state, at such time as shall be prescribed by law, but no session shall exceed the term of ninety legislative days, and no new bill shall be introduced in either branch except on the written request of the governor, during the last twenty days of such session, except the attention of the legislature shall be called to some important matter of general interest by a special message from the governor."

If the amendment is adopted, the section will then read as follows:

> Sec. 1. TWO HOUSES—SESSIONS. — The legislature shall consist of the senate and house of representatives, which shall meet biennially at the seat of government of the state, at such time as shall be prescribed by law, but no session shall exceed the term of ninety (90) legislative days, and no bill shall be introduced in either branch, except on the written request of the governor, during the last twenty days of such session, except the attention of the legislature shall be called to some important matter of general interest by a special message from the governor; but the people reserve to themselves direct power as follows:
>
> (a) CONSTITUTIONAL INITIATIVE.—When at any time prior to the commencement of any session of the legislature, there shall have been filed with the secretary of state a petition proposing an amendment to the constitution, signed by two per centum of the electors of the state, the secretary of state shall transmit the same to the legislature not later than ten (10) days after the commencement of the session. If the amendment so proposed be not submitted to the electors by the legislature at such session, or if it be submitted in an amended form, then, upon a further petition or petitions, each signed by eight per centum of the electors of the state, filed with the secretary of state within six months after the adjournment of the legislature, the amendment proposed in the first petition, or one or more amended forms thereof, shall be submitted to the electors for their approval or rejection at the next general or special state-wide election occurring not less than ninety days after the filing of any such further petition. Any amendment proposed by initiative petition and, in its original or in an amended form, submitted to the electors by the legislature or by a further petition, shall become a part of the constitution, if approved by a majority of the electors voting at such election, or by four-sevenths of the electors voting on the proposed amendment; provided, not less than three-sevenths of the electors voting at said election voted for the proposed amendment. This section shall be construed as a means in addition to Section 1, Article 14, of the state constitution, for amending the same.
>
> (b) STATUTORY INITIATIVE.—When at any time prior to the commencement of any session of the legislature there shall have been filed with the secretary of state, a petition proposing a law, signed by two per centum of the electors of the state, the secretary of state shall transmit the same to the legislature not later than ten (10) days after the commencement of the session. If the law so proposed be not passed by the legislature at such session, or if it be passed in an amended form, then upon a further petition or petitions, each signed by six per centum of the electors of the state, filed with the secretary of state within six months after the adjournment of the legislature, the law proposed in the first petition or one or more amended forms thereof, shall be submitted to the electors at the next general or special state-wide election, occurring not less than ninety days after the filing of any such further petition or petitions, and if approved by a majority of the electors voting thereon, provided the vote in favor of the proposed law be not less than thirty-three per centum of the total number of votes cast at such election, the same shall become a law and go into effect thirty days after such election, and shall supersede any amended form of such law which may have been passed by the legislature. No law passed by the initiative petition and approved by the electors shall be subject to the veto of the governor. The authority of the people to enact laws, as provided in this subdivision, shall extend only to laws authorized by the provisions of the constitution.
>
> (c) THE REFERENDUM. — If within ninety days after the final adjournment of any session of the legislature, a referendum petition, signed by six per centum of the electors of the state, shall be filed with the secretary of state against any law or any part of a law, passed by the legislature at such session, such law, or such part of a law shall be submitted to the electors at the next general or special state-wide election, occurring not less than ninety days after the filing of said petition. If a majority of the votes cast thereon be in the negative, provided such negative vote be not less than thirty-three per centum of the total number of votes cast at such election, such law or such part of a law shall thereby be repealed. Provided, that if a referendum petition is signed by fifteen per centum of the electors of the state, the law, or part of a law, against which such petition is filed shall be suspended pending the referendum vote thereon. Provided the same shall equal 33 per cent of the votes at such election.
>
> Any law providing for a tax levy or appropriating money for the current expenses of the state government or state institutions, any act of the legislature submitting a constitutional amendment or other question to the electors of the state, or any emergency law necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health, or safety, shall go into effect immediately upon its passage and approval by the governor, and such laws, except emergency laws, shall not be subject to a referendum vote. All other laws shall go into effect ninety days after the adjournment of the legislature. A bill proposing an emergency law shall contain a preamble briefly setting forth the facts constituting the emergency. A separate vote shall be taken upon the preamble of such bill by a call of the yeas and nays, and if the preamble be adopted by a two-thirds vote of all the members of each house, it shall be an emergency law.
>
> (d) GENERAL PROVISIONS.—All petitions provided for in this section shall contain a title indicating the subject and purpose of the proposed law or constitutional amendment, or the law, or part of a law to be referred, and if a change is proposed in an existing constitutional provision or statute, in addition to referring to the same, it shall state the general effect of the proposed change and also the full text of the proposed law or amendment to the constitution, or of the law or part of a law, to be referred. Any initiative or referendum petition may be signed in separate parts but each part shall conform to the provisions herein contained. All petitions shall be signed and verified before a person authorized to administer an oath, and shall be in such form that a person signing a petition thereby states under oath, the date of his signature, his residence, that he is a qualified elector, that he has not previously signed any part of such petition, and that he has signed the petition with knowledge of the contents thereof. To each part of such petition shall be attached the affidavit of the person before whom the same was signed, which affidavit shall contain a statement of the number of signers thereon, that each of the signatures attached to such part was made in the presence of the affiant, that to the best of his knowledge and belief each signature is the genuine signature of the person whose name it purports to be, that he believes the persons who have signed such petition to be electors, that they signed such petition with knowledge of the contents thereof, and that each person signed the same on the date stated opposite his name. The circulation of the petition provided for herein, or the prohibition of the circulation thereof, may be regulated by law, and in case the circulation of any petition is prohibited by law, the percentage of signers required on any petition provided for in this section shall be one-half of the percentage specified in subdivisions a, b and c of this section.
>
> The percentage in any case shall be based upon the total number of votes cast for governor at the next preceding election. All petitions provided for in this section shall contain the signature of not less than one-half of the designated percentage of the electors in not less than one-fourth of the counties of the state. In initiating a law or constitutional amendment, electors who have signed the first shall be qualified to sign the second petition.
>
> The sufficiency of all petitions shall be decided by the secretary of state subject to review by the court. If the secretary of state decides that any petition is insufficient, he shall permit a reasonable time for making corrections or for filing additional signatures. In the event of legal proceedings in court to prevent giving effect to any such petition on account of insufficiency, or any other ground, the burden of proof shall be upon the person attacking the petition. No law or amendment to the constitution initiated and approved by the electors as herein provided, shall be held unconstitutional or void on account of the insufficiency of any initiative petition; nor shall the repeal of any law submitted by referendum petition be held invalid for such insufficiency.
>
> All initiative laws and constitutional amendments shall be so submitted to the electors as to permit an affirmative or negative vote upon each measure submitted. If conflicting proposed laws or conflicting proposed amendments to the constitution be approved at the same election, the one receiving the highest number of affirmative votes shall prevail as to conflicting provisions.
>
> The style of all legislative measures and amendments to the constitution initiated by the people under this section shall be: "Be it enacted by the People of the State of Minnesota."
>
> The provisions of this section may be enforced by appropriate legislation, but until such legislation has been enacted, this section shall be self executing.

THE PURPOSE AND EFFECT of this amendment, if adopted, will be three-fold.

(a) It will permit the voters to propose amendments to the state constitution, for adoption, without action by the legislature. Under the constitution as it now stands constitutional amendments can be proposed only by the legislature.

(b) So, too, if adopted, the amendment will permit electors to propose laws for enactment and if not enacted by the legislatures, the voters may by sufficient petition, require the question of the enactment of the proposed law to be submitted to the voters. If approved by a majority of the electors voting, thereon, provided the vote in favor of the proposed law is not less than thirty-three per cent of the total number of votes cast at such election, the same becomes a law with the same force and effect as though passed by the legislature. The governor will have no power to veto a law so passed, but the people cannot so pass any law which is prohibited by the constitution.

(c) So too, if adopted, the amendment will permit the voters by proper petition to require a vote on the question of whether or not any law or part thereof, of certain classes of laws, passed by the legislature shall be repealed. If the petition asking for the referendum is signed by fifteen per cent of the voters of the state, the number of whom is to be determined by the number of votes cast for Governor at the preceding election, the law so referred to the voters will not take effect pending the referendum vote thereon. The vote required to repeal a law passed by the legislature and the classes of laws which cannot be so repealed are specified in Subdivision "C" of the proposed amendment as above printed.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NO. 8.

By Chapter 386, Laws 1915, the legislature proposed for adoption by the electors an amendment of Section 7, Article 6, of the constitution.

The section now reads as follows:

"Section 7. PROBATE COURTS—There shall be established in each organized county in the state a probate court, which shall be a court of record, and be held at such times and places as may be prescribed by law. It shall be held by one judge, who shall be elected by the voters of the county for the term of two years. He shall be a resident of such county at the time of his election, and reside therein during his continuance in office; and his compensation shall be provided by law. He may appoint his own clerk where none has been elected; but the legislature may authorize the election, by the electors of any county, of one clerk of register of probate for such county, whose powers, duties, term of office and compensation shall be prescribed by law. A probate court shall have jurisdiction over the estates of deceased persons and persons under guardianship, but no other jurisdiction, except as prescribed by this constitution."

The amendment simply proposes to substitute the word "four" for the word "two" so that the sentence prescribing the duration of the term of office will, if the amendment is adopted, read as follows:

> "It shall be held by one judge, who shall be elected by the voters of the county for the term of four years."

PURPOSE AND EFFECT: The amendment, if adopted will make the term of office of the Judge of Probate four years instead of two.

Visited by the Catacombs.

"Did I understand you to say you were in Europe?" he asked of the man who was talking to a drummer across the aisle.

"Yes, sir."

"Were you in Rome?"

"I was there for a month, sir."

"Ah, I am glad to have met you. I wanted to ask about Rome. You visited the catacombs, of course?"

"Didn't have to. They visited me."

"How do you mean?"

"Why, I never stirred out of the hotel that they weren't striking me for alms. Never saw such an infernal set in all my born days."

"Don't you mean the lazzaroni?"

"Of course. The catacombs and the lazzaroni are the same thing, only 'catacombs' is the Italian of it and the other is the English. If you haven't been over I'd advise you to go—if you can raise the dudads. You don't know how much a trip abroad will broaden and liberalize your mind."

And the other sank back and hid himself in a corner, and he did not get over looking pale for the next 30 miles.

Real Academic Dignity.

Max Muller tells a story of one of Dr. Strachan Davidson's predecessors as master of Balliol. "Once, when returning from a solitary walk, Doctor Jenkins, whose regard for his own dignity was very great, slipped and fell. Two undergraduates, seeing the accident, ran to assist him, and were just laying hands on him to lift him up when he descried a master of arts coming. 'Stop!' he cried. 'I see a master of arts coming down the street,' and he dismissed the undergraduates with many thanks, and was helped on his legs by the M. A."—London Chronicle.

The Clever Wasp.

Wasps appear to be well-nigh as industrious as ants or bees. One authority has declared that the cardinal doctrine of the wasp is: "If any wasp will not work, neither shall he eat."

Division of labor is clearly seen in the wasp's nest. Some of the workers seem to be specially employed as foragers and soldiers, others appear to be told off as nurses and guardians, while yet others are engaged as paper makers and masons.

Uncle Sam: Detective

It is here set down for the first time that Special Agent Billy Gard of the United States department of justice trod the deck of the good German ship Esmiranga and smoked many Mexican cigarettes on that historic morning in April, 1914, when she approached the port of Vera Cruz, loaded to the gunwales with ammunition for the Huertistas, and precipitated the landing of American marines.

Also it is here first told that it was the hand of Billy Gard that lighted the match that ignited the powder that caused the explosion that kept Yankee fighting men in Mexico for many months and the big American sister republics on the verge of war. For the action of the head of the government of a hundred million people, the orders extended to the military, the scuttling of battleships and transports, were based upon mysteriously received messages from this young representative of the United States, who through a combination of chance and design found himself strangely placed in the center of a web of circumstance.

It had all started in a New York hotel six months before. It was not entirely out of keeping with what was to follow that a huge and bewhiskered Russian should have staged the prologue of what was later to assume something of the nature of an international farce. But it was such a man, registering himself as G. Egeloff, pronouncing some of his indifferent English with the explosiveness of Russia and some of it with the lilting softnes of Latin America, who created a scene in a Manhattan hotel and thus first introduced the whole matter. He had arrived but a moment before, dusty, disheveled, empty handed. The room clerk had suggested that it was the custom of the hotel that guests without baggage should pay in advance. Then had come the explosion accompanied by oaths in four languages.

The man with the whiskers called upon all to witness that this indignity had been placed upon him, G. Egeloff, the representative of rulers of nations, the bearer of credentials, the possessor of enough money in his one vest pocket to buy the hotel in question and turn it into a barracks for his peons.

Whereupon he produced from the vest pocket in question a draft on the Mexican treasury for the neat sum of three million dollars in gold, signed by none other than Victoriano Huerta himself. At which signal the entire hotel staff salaamed profoundly and the man who swore was escorted to the best suite and the house detective telephoned to the special agents of the department of justice.

Billy Gard was forthwith sent out to determine the legitimacy of the mission of this strange representative of turbulent Mexico.

In three days he knew that Egeloff was in touch with those representatives of the Huerta regime with whom the department of justice was already acquainted and whose activities centered about a certain Mexican boarding house just off Union square. He also knew that the Russian had called up from his hotel room certain manufacturers of munitions whose factories were in Hartford and that representatives of those firms had visited him.

Gard had drawn the conclusion that the Russian was buying ammunition for the Mexican government. Since the United States was denying clearance to ships with such cargoes destined to either faction to the controversy to the south, it was necessary that all the facts be ascertained.

But it developed that the strong current of the plans of the man from Mexico ran through Valentines, that outfitter of revolutionists and dealer in second-hand and out-of-date war material. Valentines based his operations upon the principle that the discarded munitions of progressive nations are plenty good enough for use in Latin-America and that the purchase of all such, no matter how antiquated, offers a good opportunity for profit. Hardly a warlike venture in the tumultuous lands to the south has run its course within recent years without leaning heavily upon Valentines.

Knowing this Gard was particularly anxious to find out what was transpiring within when, on a murky Saturday night, he followed the Russian and three of his Mexican associates through the narrow lanes of the lower East side, beneath its clanging elevated, and to the side door of Valentines within which they disappeared.

He had previously reconnoitered the surroundings. He knew that Valentines had taken great care in guarding the privacy of his establishment. The dark back room in which his conferences were held had but one entrance which was from the main establishment. The areaway from which its single window looked faced the wall of a printing house, broken by but three or four small windows as is so often the case with these blank surfaces. Gard had made note of the fact that one of these windows was opposite and above that in the back room of Valentines. He had gained admission to the printing house and had viewed the adjoining premises from this high window.

A single possibility presented itself. This was that Valentines might leave his curtain up and that Jane Gates might help with the case.

Jane Gates occupied a warm spot in the hearts of the special agents and they were always particular that when they called upon her there was no possibility of unpleasant experiences, and the way seemed clear here. She was a deaf girl, known among them as the Lily Maid, born without the sense of hearing but mistress of the inestimable difficulties of lip reading and the possessor of the nimblest set of fingers in the world, these latter earning her a place as copyist for the service. Her face was of a cameo beauty, with a touch of pathos because of her isolation. She was the warm spot in the heart of the office but, as its very spirit was the untangling of riddles, she had found opportunity to help in a novel way in several difficult cases through her ability at lip reading.

By prearrangement Jane Gates, on this Saturday night, was awaiting at the office not half a dozen blocks away a possible call from Billy Gard. Barrett had a taxi at the front door and the expected summons brought him to the publishing house in five minutes. Beneath a light in the hall Gard told the deaf girl of the situation, for lip reading needs light. Soon they were in the gloom by the little window and the eager eyes of the Lily Maid were looking into the office opposite where the conference on munitions was going forward. Fortunately Valentines did not speak Spanish and an interpreter was necessary. The face of this man was in plain view not thirty feet away.

Soon Jane Gates was repeating in the peculiar, hollow voice of those who do not hear but have learned to form words with the lips:

"Mauser, ammunition—old Krupp rapid fire guns—Seventy five—"

Gard stepped beyond the range of view from the opposite window. He turned a pocket flashlight on his own lips.

"Try to find out how they are to be shipped," he instructed.

"Could supply a total amounting to $750,000 in value," the girl repeated after the interpreter.

"Delivered in thirty days—Brooklyn—how can you get clearance papers?"

"We clear for Odessa," the interpreter's lips said. "The United States must accept our claim of that destination. We know how to evade embargo regulations."

Valentines had been walking nervously about the room. At this moment he approached the window and pulled down the curtain that looked into the courtyard. The work of the lip reader was at an end.

It was a month later when Gard had traced a consignment of ammunition from the factory at Hartford to its place on a Brooklyn pier where it lay ready for shipment. It seemed the last of the American goods that were needed to complete the cargo of the Italian bark, City of Naples, that was ready to sail. It appeared that papers had already been taken out, that the manifests acknowledged the presence of great quantities of war munitions, but that the claim was made that the cargo was bought for South Russian dealers and bound for Odessa.

Gard hurriedly ascertained that the United States would not refuse permission for the ship to sail. It was, however, anxious to keep in touch with its movements. Could the special agent find a way to accompany her? Gard would try.

Half an hour later a young Italian strolled down the pier just as the last of the cargo was being taken aboard the City of Naples. He was dressed in a well-worn, light-checked, somewhat flashy suit, a scarlet vest, a flowing tie. His dark locks breathed forth odors of the lotions of cheap barber shops. He walked nonchalantly aboard the Italian bark and went below.

The vessel was just breaking loose from her moorings when the stowaway was discovered. There had been great haste in her sailing and she was making for the seas two hours ahead of her appointed time. The stowaway surmised that there was every reason why her officers would fear delay and that, if he could remain below decks until she was under way, the vessel would not be stopped to put him ashore.

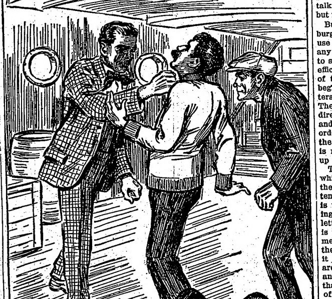
This was the reason why an unequal fight ensued in which three sailormen sought to drag an unwilling youngster in a plaid suit from the hold to the deck that he might be put off the ship. But the first of the attacking force proved himself unfamiliar with the strategy of a lead with the left to make an opening for a swing with the right, and so this latter blow caught him on the chin and he went down and out. The second sailor was a squarehead and rushed his antagonist. The stowaway ducked and the force of the Swede increased the severity of a mighty jab with the right in the pit of the stomach, which happened at the time to be unusually full, and the attacker crumbled with an agony in his inwards. The stowaway grappled with the third man and showed an additional knowledge of the science of the rough and tumble. He twisted one of that individual's hands behind him and pushed it up, using the favorite jiu jitsu trick that American policemen have borrowed from the Japanese. In this way he had his man at his mercy.

"Shades of Carlos!" came a roar from the doorway in most indifferent Spanish. "Where did you learn it all?"

The stowaway looked up and saw the huge form of the bearded Russian who represented the government of Mexico standing there.

"In the United States," he answered in Spanish. "Ah, they are wonderful, those Americans!"

It should be remembered that Billy Gard had lived abroad when a boy with his father who was in the consular service. He had learned the languages of the Mediterranean almost before he spoke English and was therefore much at home among its people. And because of this he had been able to become an Italian stowaway in half an hour at a second-hand store in Brooklyn.



THE SECOND SAILOR WAS A SQUAREHEAD AND RUSHED HIS ANTAGONIST.

"But why all this fighting?" asked the Russian.

"I would go back to Italy, bon Italy," said the stowaway. "These pigs of sailormen know not how homesick I am. They would put me ashore. I not go. You see the result."

"Well, you will not be put ashore now," said the Russian. "I happen to be interested in this cargo, and I want no delay. You may come on deck with me."

It happened in this way that Billy Gard went to sea with a large cargo of Mexican ammunition, little believing that it would ever cross to Europe. Since he was aboard and might not be otherwise disposed of, the Italian captain set him to work as a clerk, and got much good service out of him on the ship's books before land was again sighted. It happened in this way, also, that he was given an opportunity to study and cultivate G. Egeloff, but little came of it because of the all-sufficiency of that gentleman within himself.

Gard was greatly surprised when the city of Naples maintained her course straight across the Atlantic. Even more surprised was he when she passed in at Gibraltar, ignored the ports of Spain, sailed past the towns of her nativity in Italy and on to the east. Not until the Dardanelles and the Bosporus were passed was he convinced that she was bound for the port for which she had cleared. But after six weeks at sea she reached Odessa, on the Black sea, and there put into port.

But at Odessa the unexpected happened. The authorities, being by temperment suspicious and ever-vigilant of anarchistic plots, refused to let the ship unload her cargo of ammunition. Egeloff stormed and swore and bribed, but all to no avail. The ammunition might not be landed.

Billy Gard managed to get ashore and find his way to the American consulate. From there he was able to make his report to the home office and receive instructions that he was to remain with the ammunition cargo.

The special agent found his task comparatively easy here, and merely had to wait for events to take their normal course. His chief interest was G. Egeloff, who had remained a mystery to him despite a semifriendship that had slowly grown up between them. He had attempted in vain to lead the Russian into a discussion of his future plans in Mexico, and had grown to suspect that the gentleman had no such plans. At Odessa the big man seemed impatient of delay, and, Gard thought, rather reckless of the disposition of his charge.

The representative of the United States had been contemplating the value of the guns bought at Valentines and the figure of $750,000 which the Lily Maid had caught from the lips of the interpreter. He knew that the purchases at Hartford had not exceeded $100,000. He drew the conclusion that this strange representative of the Indian head of a Latin-American nation would probably give less than value for the $3,000,000 that had been placed in his hands for the purchase of American munitions of war.

The special agent was still attached to the City of Naples as clerk when, after ten days of futile attempts at landing her cargo, she again turned her nose to the sea. She was two days out when he became assured of a fact which he had suspected. The Russian was not aboard. The ship picked her course through the Mediterranean, out again past Gibraltar, but, instead of striking out toward Mexico as Gard had suspected she would, she steered to the north and eventually came to anchor in the port of Hamburg on a windy morning in March.

At Hamburg there was assurance of ability to discharge cargo. No sooner had the ship tied up than its long-restrained personnel of officers and crew availed themselves of the freedom of shore leave. As the afternoon wore on, the vessel was deserted with the exception of the Italian second mate and a few members of the crew. Gard stuck to his desk in the purser's cabin. It was from this point of vantage that he became aware of an altercation on deck. An American voice was saying in English:

"Mr. Egeloff; I want to see Mr. Egeloff."

The second mate protested his inability to speak English, whereupon a second voice repeated the request in Spanish, with no better result. Then of a sudden a great light seemed to break on the second mate.

"Ah! Si, senor. If you will be so good as to step this way."

Whereupon he led the strangers to the cabin, where he knew Gard to be at work, and, remembering that the supposed clerk spoke many languages, he turned the visitors over to him.

"Mr. Egeloff?" asked the American, evidently misinterpreting the action of the mate.

The special agent was taken entirely by surprise. The possibilities of such a situation had never presented themselves to him.

"What if I am?" he asked cautiously.

"I am McKay," said the American.

"You have credentials, I suppose," said Gard.

"Yes," answered that individual. "I am authorized to provide for the reshipment of the cargo."

Whereupon he presented letters from the Mexican government showing him to be its agent in London. His companion he introduced as Mr. Sanchez, Mexican consul at Hamburg, whereupon the three dropped into Spanish and continued the conversation. Gard presented letters he had found in the ship's office and addressed to these gentlemen. He took it that these letters were from the Mexican consul at Odessa. They evidently asked the men to whom they were addressed to do what they could toward expediting the transshipment of the cargo.

"We have all arrangements made," McKay volunteered. "The Esmiranga will take our stuff aboard immediately and is sailing for Vera Cruz in six days."

"I have had the very devil of a time," said the special agent, introducing the rasp of an occasional Russian consonant into his Spanish as he had heard it done for two months by the man whose role was being thrust upon him. "I want to run over to Warsaw for a few days. Do you not think, gentlemen, that I have earned this brief vacation?"

Whereupon McKay and Sanchez agreed to attend to all details, making it necessary only that the supposed Egeloff should be in Hamburg on the day of sailing. So was Gard relieved of the difficulty and danger of a sustained masquerade and so was he able again to get in touch with America. As a matter of fact he hurried to Paris. There he found Coleman, whom he had known before, in charge of the Paris branch of his own service.

"Dress me up like a white man," he told Coleman. "Lead me up to something that human beings eat. Take me out where I may try the experiment of attempting to be a gentleman again. I am by no means sure I can do it. Four days from now talk to me about cipher messages, but not until then."

But when Gard returned to Hamburg it was understood that he should use the old confederate cipher for any messages that he might be able to send. This is a simple and always efficient cipher made up of a square of the letters of the alphabet. One begins by writing the twenty-six letters in a row, commencing with A. The second line begins with B, placed directly under the A of the first line, and followed by all the letters in order. The third line begins with C, the fourth with D, and so on until Z is reached. Any amateur may build up his square of letters in this way.

There must be a secret key word which is known to the senders and the receivers. The keyword is written out repeatedly and the message is written beneath it. Instead of using the letters of the message, the letters of the keyword are used. This is the first puzzling translation. The message as it then appears is taken to the square of letters. In writing it as it is ultimately to be sent, its letters are found in the top line of the square and also in the perpendicular line that runs down its side. The lines of letters that radiate from these margins, one horizontally and one perpendicularly, meet at some point within the square. The letter upon which they meet is used in the message. No one in the world without his square of letters and without the keyword can read this message.

So the home government was informed that Special Agent William H. Gard might communicate with its ships by means of the confederate cipher and that the keyword, rather strangely, was "Russian whiskers." The home government transmitted this information to its battleships lying off Mexico and their operators were instructed to pick up any wireless that might come to them out of the Atlantic.

Gard hurried back to Hamburg just in time to sail on the Esmiranga. He was not sure but that the big Russian would communicate with the Mexican representatives and approached the situation he had developed with no little misgiving. It appeared that his conclusion that the Russian had made a getaway with much swag was correct. He was warmly received by both McKay and Sanchez and the ship got away with but one difficulty facing them. The Mexican consul was returning to his native land aboard it.

Gard realized that, as the confidential representative of Huerta, he could not with impunity have anything to do with Sanchez, as that volatile Latin would immediately lead him into much talk of Mexican men and conditions. Gard knew almost nothing about Mexico City and could not even sustain a casual conversation on that subject.

It was because of these considerations that the apparently genial disposition of the supposed purchaser of munitions of war proved a disappointment to Senor Sanchez. This Russian was evidently no sailor. He took to his cabin as soon as the Esmiranga took to sea. His sea manners were also far from Latin for he answered with guttural oaths any inquiries that were made as to the condition of his health. He seemed to have gone on a mad debauch and insisted that a constant procession of highballs be sent to his stateroom. He cut Senor Sanchez dead when he met him on the deck. Caramba! A beast of a man was this, to be shunned as the plague.

The captain and the wireless operator were the only individuals with whom this disagreeable shipmate had anything to do. To the captain it was made plain that a situation existed off Mexico. The ships of those pigs of Americans were blockading Vera Cruz. They might blockade but they had no right to stop a German ship bound for that port. But he must talk to his principals in Mexico. There was the wireless of the Esmiranga, and there was his secret cipher which no Yankee could read. Might the operator handle his messages?

To be sure. The representative of the Mexican government which was to pay handsomely for the transportation of the cargo aboard the Esmiranga might do entirely as he wished.

So it transpired that Special Agent Billy Gard began talking to the American battleships in southern seas when the Esmiranga was not much more than half-way across the Atlantic. He amused himself writing messages much as a man passes the time of a voyage in playing solitaire. So it happened that the United States government had all the details of the approach of a shipload of ammunition of American origin destined to Huerta, upon whom the screws were just then being put for insulting the Stars and Stripes. So it was evident that if this ammunition were allowed to land, it might be used against American troops, who were at any moment to be thrown into Mexico.

Yet the United States might not prevent a German ship from entering the harbor at Vera Cruz. The only method of stopping that ammunition was to seize the port and custom house and thereby come into possession of the cargo if it were disembarked.

The wireless of the Esmiranga sputtered out a message which, when interpreted in accordance with the confederate cipher and the keyword of "Russian whiskers," conveyed the information that the vessel was approaching the Mexican coast and that her intention was to steam under the very noses of the American dreadnaughts into port. The facts were reported to Washington, where the alternative of seizing the port was sternly faced. Orders were given to act.

The next day American marines went, some to glory and some to death, past that most tragic spot in all America, the fortress prison of San Juan de Ullao; into those streets frequented by the sacred scavenger buzzard of the Aztecs; beneath the walls of the ancient parochial church beside the Plaza de la Constitucion where the first American boy was destined to die at the hands of a sniping greaser; into the gate city that had known Cortez and Maximilian, and had loaded the galleons of Spain with more silver and gold than had ever before been amassed anywhere in the history of the world.

But the Esmiranga did not come in to discharge her ammunition that it might fall into the hands of the Americans. Instead, it haunted Mexican waters for a while as a creature of unrest, uncertain where to land. Finally it put into Mobile, where its captain was left at a still greater loss, for the supposed Mexican gun-runner went ashore and was seen no more. Sanchez, the Mexican consul, left by train for his native land. Huerta, in the madness of his career, extended no instructions.

The ultimate disposition of the Esmiranga's cargo completes the record of another of those fiascos in the game of pandering to revolutionists in Latin America. The outcast cargo knocked about the Caribbean for awhile like a party dressed up and no place to go. The constitutionalists came into possession of Tampico and sought a way to deal with the captain of the Esmiranga, who was still unpaid for transporting his cargo and willing to listen to almost any proposition. But the constitutionalists bought no pigs in pokes and insisted on an examination of the cargo. Probably they had themselves bought of Valentines and knew the nature of his stock in trade. They found a way to open some of the boxes and there discovered such an array of antique armament that even they scorned its use. Valentines and the Russian who came to New York to buy for Huerta had taken no pains to give that warlike gentleman even the value of a portion of his money.

Two Classes of People.

Probably the recording angel never quite loses patience with a man who is kind to animals. One may swear, steal, lie, cheat, get drunk or run over strangers in one's motor car; one may be shiftless, crabbed, haughty, narrow-minded, thick-skulled and insubordinate, and yet have a spark of nobility which expresses itself in kindness to horses and to stray cats and dogs. A man who isn't needlessly cruel can get along even if he lacks some of the pretentious virtues.

The reason that kindness to animals is a sure test of a person's character is that animals are generally helpless, as compared with human beings, and don't do anything to arouse jealousy. Men who are naturally kind may take merciless advantages with the happiness of others who stand in their way. But men who are naturally kind don't kick stray dogs.

In fact, there are just two classes of people in the world, one with imagination enough to know how a dog feels when it shrinks along beside you, and wags its forlorn tail and hopes against hope that it has found a friend at last, and one which hasn't that faculty.—San Francisco Bulletin.

Couldn't Guess.

"What do you suppose will happen to the map of Europe when the war is over?"

"Don't ask me. I never was any good at those jig-saw puzzles."

Up Against It.

"After all, it's no crime to be poor."

"Maybe not, but no poor man can afford to hire a lawyer to prove that it isn't."

The LOOTERS

By
GENEVIEVE ULMAR

(Copyright, 1916, by W. G. Chapman.)

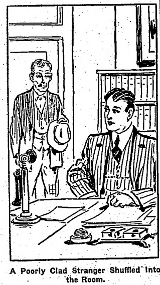
Sidney Ward was on the road to success and was both grateful and modest. He had only one care in life—Myra. He did not know if Myra Dalworth knew her mind. He loved her, however. She was kindly and gracious, but he had a rival, Gene Partin.

Sidney was a lawyer, but had gradually drifted from his professional capacity into politics. A reform movement had come along and he had been induced to allow his name to be placed on that ticket. The result was that he was elected prosecuting attorney.

At the end of two years the spoilsmen of the party put up a strong local fight. The city needed the right man in the right place. Sidney was elected mayor by a flattering majority. Partin was ousted from a position as assessor, but on the county ticket was made a justice of the peace.

This was quite a come-down for that free-and-easy spendthrift, but he managed to maintain an automobile and wear good clothes, boasting of a rich uncle in another state and a prospective heirship. He had a pleasing way and was popular and Myra's family rather favored him in preference to Sidney, but the latter had heard of some wild doings of his in the city, and, leaving all personal hopes aside, would have grieved to see him the husband of a bright, innocent girl like Myra.

Sidney was delighted when Myra and a girl friend, both considerably interested in charitable and humanitarian work about the city, came to his office one day. Myra had a slip of paper in her hand on which a name and number were written. She handed it to Sidney.



A Poorly Clad Stranger Shuffled Into the Room.

"Mr. Mayor," she said, "we have come to ask a favor of you in line with the uplift work of our society."

"'Jerome Boyce, 971,' read Sidney, "wants a position, I suppose—most of my applicants do."

"No, no, Mr. Mayor," explained Myra, quite on her maidenly dignity in treating of official business—"we want a pardon."

"For this man?" inquired Sidney.

"Yes, Mr. Mayor. He has been set at breaking stone. He is old, ill, has friends he can go to. His offense was drinking to excess and Mr. Partin—"

"You mean Mr. Justice of the Peace," reminded Sidney with a smile. "If not, why distinguish in your selection of stiff official names?"

"But a justice is not a mayor," observed Myra, with an expression on her face that emphasized the estimation in which she held his lofty dignity. "Besides, it is a good deal to ask you to turn loose a man on the community who was in the past at least a confessed criminal."

"And you have assured yourself that this Jerome Boyce is worthy of leniency?" interrogated Sidney with businesslike gravity.

"Oh, indeed, yes," replied Myra promptly. "I—I vouch for him."

"That is a full guarantee for this deportment at all times," declared Sidney, and he felt rewarded by the most grateful glow in Myra's eyes as he filled in a pardon blank.

"How good you are," said Myra, "both to us and to this poor man."

Sidney forgot all about the incident until late in the afternoon. He was about to leave his office for the day when a poorly clad stranger shuffled into the room.

"I'm Jerome Boyce," he announced, "and the young lady said you would help me a bit on my way."

"Oh, yes, I remember," answered Sidney. "What are your needs, my man?"

"Just car fare to Hampden. I'm through with the road, and, what's worse, the jimmy. I've a sister living at Hampden and I can bunk in if I'll be respectable."

"Is that sufficient to carry you through?" asked Sidney, extending a ten-dollar bill.

"Oh, it's only a dollar and a half, the railroad fare."

"Just keep the rest for being honest enough to say so," spoke Sidney. He placed his hand on the shoulder of the man and fixed his glance. "My friend," he said, "if hard lines strike you, and you don't waver from the straight road, let me know and I'll give you a helping hand."

"Bless you!" choked out his pensioner, the tears springing to his eyes—"and the young lady!"

He paused, about to cross the threshold, and regarded Sidney thoughtfully and hesitatingly. Then he looked all around the room as if to assure himself that they were alone. He came nearer to the mayor.

"I've something to say that my old pals might call 'double crossing,'" he spoke in a low tone, "but you've made me feel like a man and I want to give you a warning. In the jail I met some old pals. They put me wise to a job you're interested in."

"Why, how is that?" inquired the puzzled Sidney.

"You generally carry a big sum in city funds in that safe yonder, don't you?"

"On occasions," admitted Sidney. "What of it?"

"Someone's after it. See here, there's a part of a city gang hired to tap that strong box some dark night."

"Hired? you mean—"

"The man who sentenced me, your justice of the peace here, is behind the scheme."

"Mr. Partin? Oh, incredible, man! Don't tell me that nonsense!"

"It's true," persisted the man, "and you'll be wise if you heed my warning."

Sidney Ward sat ruminating over the startling disclosure long after his pensioner had departed. He could not but disbelieve any connection of Partin with a scheme of robbery. He had heard that Partin was in narrow ready money straits, but he decided that, out of hatred toward Partin for sentencing him, Boyce had attempted to cast suspicion upon him. Besides that, Partin had gone to the city for a week a few days previous and this did not look as though he was linked up with any local misdoings.

Still, it was best to be on guard, for Boyce had been very earnest in what he had said. Sidney unlocked the safe. From an inner compartment he removed a large box envelope containing the entire local tax collection in large denomination bills to be shipped to the county seat the last day of the month. Then, about to close the safe, a queer smile crossed the face of Sidney. He went over to his desk and fished out a package done up in a newspaper. Opening it, he revealed what looked like thousands and thousands of dollars in government bank bills. This he placed in the safe, relocked it, went to the bank, found some of the clerks there and placed the money envelope in their charge on a trust receipt.

Two nights later the mayor's office was burglarized, the safe blown open. Two days later three men were arrested in a neighboring city for passing counterfeit money. One of them was Gene Partin, and he never returned.

Somehow the wisdom and prudence of the mayor leaked out and he received an ovation. He told Myra confidentially of how her part in bringing Boyce to his notice had defeated the looters.

"You deserve to be mayor," he declared. "You may be mayoress, if you will say the word, Myra. Do I deserve the happiness I crave?"

"You could have asked me that question long since," said Myra.

"And you would have said—"

"Yes, of course," answered Myra, and the official lips greeted her loyal ones with the first love kiss.

Young but Wise.

The old baby crawled along the floor until he came to the side of the crib. Then he pulled himself up until he stood on his feet and looked over and down on the new baby.

"Just arrived?" he said.

"Yes."

"Well, let me give you a piece of advice. I've been hear a couple of months and know the whole game. Don't believe anything you hear, kick off the clothes as much as you can, scream loudly at all hours of the night and make trouble galore for everybody. You are surrounded by criminals. It's the only way you can get even. My boy, you're up against it—hard."

The new baby wriggled a toe and looked bored.

"Keep your advice to yourself," he replied. "You're dotty. By the latest dictum of psychology, the doctrine of nonresistance is the only thing to practice. Go off and mubble to yourself. You belong to a past generation. You're a back number."

Twisting over calmly, he murmured to himself:

"What airs these ancient totterers give themselves!"—Life.

Got the Wholesale Price.

It took a bartender with a pretty good sense of humor to pull this one.

One day a nondescript individual sauntered into the barroom where this particular bartender was working and ordered a drink of whisky. The bartender set out the whisky glass and the large glass for the chaser.

The customer disregarded the small whisky glass and poured the larger glass almost to the top and drank the fiery liquid like so much milk. He then laid a dime down on the bar. The bartender took the coin, rang up a nickel on the cash register and gave him back the change.

"Gee, I thought a drink of whisky was a dime here," the stranger said.

"Oh, no," returned the bartender. "You see when we sell it like that we give wholesale prices."—Exchange.

SELECTING GOOD SEED

Best Grade Is Produced Under Favorable Conditions.

Look Over Various Parts of Field and Mark Parts Wanted for Seed—Should Be Stored Separate From Other Grains.

(By C. P. BULL, University Farm, St. Paul.)

The very best time to get good seed is when it is in the making. Good seed is like good live stock—best when it comes of good ancestry and is produced under favorable conditions. So it is that some parts of the fields are better than others for the production of mature, well-filled, sound seed; while other parts will produce a less valuable product. Looking over the various parts of the field before cutting, one may select the parts of the crop to be handled separately for the next year's seed supply. No extra work or "fussing" will be necessary before cutting. The field may be cut as a whole and shocked, but extra care is necessary in setting up shocks in the "seed" part of the field. A 12-bundle shock with two cap sheaves will withstand unfavorable weather and protect the grain.

As soon as the grain is field-dry it should be stacked or threshed. The seed grain should be put in a separate stack and the cap sheaves should not be allowed in with the other parts of the shocks. They may go in with the feed or sale grain. When threshed the seed grain should be stored separate from other grain, thus keeping it unmixed. When thus kept separate from field to bin it will be ready at any time for the last analysis—the fanning mill—before sowing.

It is not an easy matter always to judge the increased profit that comes from saving seed grain in this manner. Climate, soil and diseases have much to do with the apparent physical condition of the crop, but in the long run, such saving of seed will give much stamina to the variety and increase its yielding capacity.

CLIP YOUNG ALFALFA PLANTS

Practice Keeps Down Weeds, Encourages Greater Growth and Development of the Roots.

Clipping the young alfalfa crop is considered a good practice. It keeps down weeds which, if allowed to get their full growth, might smother out the young plants. It encourages the growth of a more stocky plant and greater root development. Set the sickle bar of the mowing machine high and go over the field several times during the summer.

No hay crop should be removed the first year unless very early seeding has been done on unusually rich soil. It is safest to leave a good growth on the ground as a cover during the winter. Late summer seeding needs no attention. The entire growth should be left as a winter cover and should not be grazed.

EXCELLENT WAGON FOR FEED

Rack Arranged So That It May Be Pulled Back Over Hind Wheels—Much Time Is Saved.

Here is an excellent wagon for feed hauling. The feed rack is arranged so that it may be pulled back over the rear wheels, the hind part of the rack resting on the ground. Feed may be unloaded from it in a fraction of the time needed to unload an ordinary wagon. It keeps the hay and the fodder in good shape. The ropes seen on the front of the rack are extended back over the fodder and when the rack is dropped a team is hitched to these ropes. A single pull and the ropes roll the load off on the ground.

CONTROL OF APPLE DISEASES

Extensive Work Done by Bureau of Plant Industry in Spraying—Special Feature of Work.

The bureau of plant industry has been doing some extensive work in the way of spraying for the control of apple blotch and apple bitter-rot. The special feature of this work has been the discovery of the over-wintering of the bitter-rot fungus on various small and minor cankers and on cankers and injuries produced by other causes, and the demonstration that when these are removed full control of bitter-rot can be obtained.

DRY CLIMATE FOR DEWBERRY

Does Best When Mulched With Old Hay or Straw—Many Prefer It to the Blackberry.

The dewberry does best in a dry climate when mulched with old hay or straw. This berry spreads like the strawberry by rooting down at the joint and the mulching prevents too many plants starting.

Many persons prefer the dewberry to the blackberry.

KEEPING RECORDS OF FEEDS

Where Scales Are Not Handy, Estimates of Feeding Stuffs Will Be Found Quite Convenient.

In keeping records of feeding cows or other animals scales should be handy. But it may not be necessary to weigh every feed as this might require considerable time and perhaps not be convenient owing to early and late hours being used when a light might be required.

A good way to do this is to weigh a measure full of feed and estimate the weight by this measure. One can estimate the weight within close limits in this way.

Frequently no scales are at hand when the feeder is trying to feed a balanced ration. The following estimates of the common feeding stuffs will be handy:

A quart measure of cottonseed meal weighs 1.5 pounds; wheat bran (coarse), .5 pound; wheat middlings (coarse), .8 pound; wheat middlings (fine), 1.1 pounds; mixed wheat feed, .6 pound; cornmeal, 1.5 pounds; oats, 1.2 pounds; rye bran, .6 pound; linseed meal, 1.1 pounds; gluten, 1.2 pounds.

SOLID FOUNDATION FOR SILO

There Should Be No Shoulder Left by Wall as This Will Cause Injury to the Silage.

The first silo shown has a badly constructed foundation. The second is approximately correct. There should be no shoulder left by the wall, as this causes spoiled silage. The foundation wall, and, in fact, the walls of the entire silo, should be as smooth as possible. If due care is used in tramping the silage during the filling, doors which extend into the silo are not a serious objection, though perfectly flush doors are certainly an advantage. A vertical wall is the only satisfactory wall to use, as a wall inclined outward will support the silage to a certain extent and prevent it settling satisfactorily, thus creating air pockets. When the wall is inclined inward the silage will settle away from it. In the case of concrete silos with tapered walls, these should be vertical on the inside.

LATE BLIGHT IS INJURIOUS

Disease of Potatoes Is Especially Serious During Wet Seasons—Caused by Fungus.

One of the serious potato diseases is the late blight. This disease is especially injurious during wet seasons. Blight is caused by a fungus which lives over winter in the tubers. When the diseased tubers are planted the mycelium of the fungus grows up through the sprouts to the surface of the ground where spores are produced on the surface of the stems and leaves. These spores are blown to other plants where, with sufficient moisture, they grow and enter the tissues of the plant, branching out in all directions. Many of the spores fall to the ground, where they may infect the young tubers. If the tubers are dug while the disease is active on the vines, large numbers of spores come in contact with the tubers and may produce infection.

LIVE STOCK FAVOR ALFALFA

Not Generally Pastured for Reason Plant Does Not Thrive—No Serious Danger of Bloat.

Alfalfa makes excellent pasture for all kinds of live stock, but it is not generally pastured for the reason that it does not stand pasturing well if heavily pastured with cattle. Light pasturing, however, is not objectionable. There is no serious danger of bloat if the cattle are turned on gradually and in the middle of the day and after they are pretty well filled up on other pasture. A sudden change of feed is not well for hungry stock of any kind. You can pasture your alfalfa safely and get good results from it, but if we were anxious to keep the field in alfalfa continuously and get the greatest yields possible we would not pasture it.

COTTONSEED AS DAIRY FEED

One of Cheapest Sources of Protein Supply—Amount Fed Daily Should Not Be Large.

(By R. S. HULCE, Illinois Experiment Station.)

Cottonseed meal is one of the cheapest sources of protein supply for dairy cows. Only meal that is in good condition should be used in a grain mixture. Since the meal itself is very rich concentrate, the amount of cottonseed meal fed daily should ordinarily not exceed three pounds and should be used as one of several feeds in a grain mixture. The character of the grain mixture that should be fed will depend somewhat on the nature of the roughages being used.

Meudon in Wartime.

Meudon, the gay Meudon of trysts and moonlight promenades, has been transformed into a military camp. The station platform is crowded with uniformed soldiers of all branches; men on furlough in their suits of faded blue like dirty water, showing with pride holes torn in their coats by rifle balls, convalescents wearing the old red pantaloons, used only by those behind the fighting line, often with one leg folded up; Zouaves, whose baggy trousers, formerly blood-red, have now changed to an earthy color; Belgians in long brown coats, who never smile, and British Tommies spick and span as if they had just stepped from a bandbox.

When Work Is Hard

That kidney troubles are so common is due to the strain put upon the kidneys in so many occupations, such as:

Jarring and jolting on railroads, etc.
Cramp and strain as in barbering, moulding, heavy lifting, etc.
Exposure to changes of temperature in iron furnaces, refrigerators, etc.
Dampness as in tanneries, quarries, mines, etc.
Inhaling poisonous fumes in painting, printing and chemical shops.
Doan's Kidney Pills are fine for strengthening weak kidneys.

A Minnesota Case

Anthony P. Kern, R. R. No. 7, Faribault, Minn., says: "From childhood I suffered from kidney trouble and my life was a burden. My back was awfully lame, I frequently had dizzy spells and was tired and worn out. I became a physical wreck, unfit for any kind of work. Doan's Kidney Pills gave me a new lease on life and rid me of every symptom of kidney trouble."

All women ought to know the wonderful effects of taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound even on those who seem hopelessly ill. Here are three actual cases:

Harrisburg, Penn.—"When I was single I suffered a great deal from female weakness because my work compelled me to stand all day. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for that and was made stronger by its use. After I was married I took the Compound again for a female trouble and after three months I passed what the doctor called a growth. He said it was a miracle that it came away as one generally goes under the knife to have them removed. I never want to be without your Compound in the house."—Mrs. FRANK KNOBL, 1642 Fulton St., Harrisburg, Penn.

Hardly Able to Move.

Albert Lea, Minn.—"For about a year I had sharp pains across my back and hips and was hardly able to move around the house. My head would ache and I was dizzy and had no appetite. After taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills, I am feeling stronger than for years. I have a little boy eight months old and am doing my work all alone. I would not be without your remedies in the house as there are none like them."—Mrs. F. E. YOST, 611 Water St., Albert Lea, Minn.

Three Doctors Gave Her Up.

Pittsburg, Penn.—"Your medicine has helped me wonderfully. When I was a girl 18 years old I was always sickly and delicate and suffered from irregularities. Three doctors gave me up and said I would go into consumption. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and with the third bottle began to feel better. I soon became regular and I got strong and shortly after I was married. Now I have two nice stout healthy children and am able to work hard every day."—Mrs. CLEMENTINA DUERRING, 34 Gardner St., Troy Hill, Pittsburg, Penn.

Doctor Says Nuxated Iron Will Increase Strength of Delicate People 200% in Ten Days

In Many Instances—Persons Have Suffered Untold Agony for Years Doctoring for Nervous Weakness, Stomach, Liver or Kidney Disease or Some Other Ailment When Their Real Trouble Was Lack of Iron in the Blood—How to Tell.

NEW YORK, N. Y.—In a recent discourse Dr. E. Sauer, Specialist, of this city said: If you were to make an actual blood test on all people who are ill you would probably be greatly astonished at the exceedingly large number who lack iron and who are ill for no other reason than the lack of iron. The moment iron is supplied all their multitude of dangerous symptoms disappear. Without iron the blood at once loses the power to change food into living tissue and therefore nothing you eat does you any good; you don't get the strength out of it. Your food merely passes through your system like corn through a mill with the rollers so wide apart that the mill can't grind. As a result of this continuous blood and nerve starvation, people become generally weakened, nervous and all run down and frequently develop all sorts of conditions. One is too thin; another is burdened with unhealthy fat; some are so weak they can hardly walk; some think they have dyspepsia, kidney or liver trouble; some can't sleep at night, others are sleepy and tired all day; some fussy and irritable; some skinny and bloodless, but all lack physical power and endurance. In such cases, it is worse than foolishness to take stimulating medicines or narcotic drugs, which only whip up your fagging vital powers for the moment, maybe at the expense of your life later on. No matter what anyone tells you, if you are not strong and well you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of ordinary nuxated iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see for yourself how much you have gained. I have seen dozens of nervous, run-down people who were ailing all the time double, and even triple their strength and endurance and entirely get rid of their symptoms of dyspepsia, liver and other troubles in from ten to fourteen days' time simply by taking iron in the proper form, and this, after they had in some cases been doctoring for months without obtaining any benefit. You can talk as you please about all the wonders wrought by new remedies, but when you come down to hard facts there is nothing like good old iron to put color in your cheeks and good sound, healthy flesh on your bones. It is also a great nerve and stomach strengthener and the best blood builder in the world. The only trouble was that the old forms of inorganic iron like tincture of iron, iron acetate, etc., often ruined people's teeth, upset their stomachs and were not assimilated and for these reasons they frequently did more harm than good. But with the discovery of the newer forms of organic iron all this has been overcome. Nuxated Iron, for example, is pleasant to take, does not injure the teeth and is almost immediately beneficial.

NOTE—The manufacturers of Nuxated Iron have such unbounded confidence in its potency that they authorize the announcement that they will forfeit $100.00 to any Charitable Institution if they cannot take any man or woman under sixty who lacks iron and increase their strength 200 per cent or over in four weeks' time, provided they have no serious organic trouble. Also they will refund your money in any case in which Nuxated Iron does not at least double your strength in ten days' time. It is dispensed by most druggists. If your druggist or general store is without a supply, ask them to get it for you.—Adv.

It is reported that the king's grapevine at Windsor, in the gardens near Cumberland Lodge, is doing well this year and is likely to yield more than 500 bunches. Faribault. — "Faribault is far from bankrupt," O. H. Schroeder, president of the Chase State bank, said in discussing reports that the city is in poor financial condition.

Grand Rapids. — Action growing out of the assault on Miss Olga Dahl, Round Lake school teacher, crystalized when the board of county commissioners offered $500 reward for the capture of her assailant with a "dead or alive" clause in the offer.

Duluth. — The shipments of iron ore from the docks at the American Head of the Lakes for the season ending September 30, 1916, shows an increase of 9,535,710 tons over the same period last year, according to reports of the several shipping companies.

St. Paul. — Chisago and Pine counties will receive $45,000 or $50,000 each from the state for the improvement of the Twin Cities-Duluth highway, if the state highway commission acts favorably on the resolution adopted by the Ramsey county board of commissioners.

Hibbing. — State Public Examiner Andrew E. Fritz, Deputy Examiner John Davis and Assistant Attorney General C. Louis Weeks, were in St. Louis county to resume the investigation of alleged irregularities in the municipal affairs of Hibbing, "world's richest village."

St. Paul. — The internal revenue returns in Minnesota for September showed a decrease of $109,172.92, as compared with September of last year, and the custom house returns for the ports of Minneapolis and St. Paul showed a decrease of $1,388.69, according to official figures given out in St. Paul.

Bluffton. — A hearing has been arranged by the Minnesota Railroad and Warehouse Commission to be held October 17th, at Bluffton, Ottertail county, on the application of the New York Mills Telephone company for a permit to construct a telephone pole line to that village for local telephone service.

Bemidji. — Asserting approximately 1,000,000 acres of land along Red lake and tributary rivers have been flooded by high water, members of the Bemidji Commercial club have authorized President E. H. Denu to appoint a committee to investigate the situation, with a view to having the lake lowered.

Madelia, Minn.—Theft of an automobile in Minneapolis ended disastrously for two men near Madelia. The stolen car, a seven passenger Buick, skidded and tipped over on making a turn. One of the men was killed and the other, though escaping unhurt, later was arrested at St. James and is being held there for the Minneapolis police.

Washington. — Suits by North and South Dakota against Minnesota to recover $1,250,000 alleged damages and to obtain permanent relief against flooding of areas in the eastern parts of the complaining states by drainage water from the western part of Minnesota through drainage ditches may be settled in the coming term of the United States Supreme Court.

Bemidji. — This city will be granted a loan of $25,000 for the purchase for park purposes of a picturesque tract of virgin pine on the opposite side of Lake Bemidji from the town, provided the project is approved at an election and the citizens are willing to wait the regular turn with other applicants for state loans, the state board of investment has decided.

Wadena. — Speaking before the Northern Minnesota conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, the Rev. A. L. Phagkynet of Philadelphia urged the church to make provisions for extending its missionary service to immigrants as they enter this country. "It is the quickest and surest way of getting in touch with foreigners," he said, "because they will not seek the church."

St. Paul. — The state began October business with $7,165,322.51 in the treasury—the largest October 1 balance on record. Despite indications that unusually heavy disbursements this month may pull the funds down to $4,000 on November 1, treasury officials said, the state will not be compelled as in former years to go into the market and obtain a short term loan of $2,000,000 or $3,000,000.

Minneapolis. — Minnesota is expected to be the chief potato storehouse of the world before the winter is over, particularly if high prices, with a general shortage in other parts of the country should develop, potato growers and buyers assert. A federal report showing that Minnesota will have 21,300,000 bushels of potatoes caused prices to drop at various Minnesota points, and growers now are getting about 85 cents a bushel, 25 cetns lower than three weeks ago.

St. Paul. — Attorney General Smith will draft a bill calling for the creation of a state conservation department to have charge of all reclamation, drainage and relief work in Minnesota, it was announced at the state capitol, following a visit by M. G. Barnes, consulting engineer, New York.

Creation of a state conservation commission to take official charge of the state-wide reclamation, drainage and flood relief project undertaken by a committee of the All-Minnesota Development association has been suggested by M. G. Barnes, New York consulting engineer, at a committee conference with Attorney-General Lyndon A. Smith.

Mr. Barnes outlined what he thinks the state ought to do to provide a foundation for a comprehensive, systematic plan of conservation and relief, offering a suggestion for a commission to assume direction of topographical, forestry, agricultural and hydraulic phases of the general project.

Attorney-General Smith consented to sketch a bill embodying the general plan for presentation to the next Legislature. Besides Mr. Smith and Mr. Barnes, who aided in similar projects in New York State, there were present at the conference Chairman A. L. Crocker of the committee, State Representative L. S. Spooner, Dr. F. W. Sardesen of the Federal geological survey of Minnesota and E. V. Willard, acting state drainage engineer.

To Probe Seed Situation.

The state seed laboratory at the university farm is making plans to find out at once about the wheat situation in Minnesota, and to look into conditions of barley, rye, alfalfa, clover and timothy. This investigation is going to be made under the direction of W. L. Oswald, who has charge of the seed laboratory, largely through the teachers in agriculture, which have agricultural departments.

Mr. Oswald has sent to each of these high school agriculturalists a letter asking him to make it his business to send in a sample of each of the grains named from at least half a dozen farms in the vicinity of his school. When the seed is received it will be carefully examined and the results will be tabulated by counties. The tabulation will show almost at a glance the condition of the various grains in every part of the state.

It is possible that an effort will be made to make this grain survey more complete by appealing for grain samples from the officers of the 1,200 farmers' clubs of the state.

Is Trust Company a Bank?

A. H. Turrittin, state superintendent of banks, has asked Attorney General Lyndon A. Smith for an opinion on the question of whether a commercial trust company is a bank within the meaning given that term in the negotiable instruments act. Minnesota's banking system may be vitally affected by the interpretation placed on this law, Mr. Turrittin said, and the opinion will be awaited with great interest by all bankers in the state. It is expected to be the last and the decisive opinion in a recent series.

Organize Rifle Teams.

Adjutant General Fred B. Wood has organized state national guard and civilian rifle teams to participate in the national rifle matches October 20 at Black Point, Fla. He requested officers of the Minnesota brigade at Llano Grande, Tex., to select a team there and assume charge of the movement to form a civilian team among members of Minnesota rifle clubs of the National association. The First Minnesota won the regimental championship last year.

Malaria In Second.

The Second Minnesota infantry regiment, in camp at Llano Grande, Tex., has been hardest hit by the malaria epidemic in the camp, said Captain Arnt G. At one time 400 men of the Second had the disease, Dr. Andersen reported.

Battery F Still Part of Guard.

Battery F boys who believed that they were through with the army when they were mustered out recently are due to be keenly disappointed on account of a new ruling of the War department which provides that the university unit in the First Minnesota field artillery retains it identity and is still a part of the state national guard.

THE SUNBEAM.

BY W. G. HUNT, EDITOR

Published every Friday, at Sunbeam, Pennington County, Minnesota.

Entered as Second-class matter August 30 1905, at the post office at Sunbeam Minn. under the Act of Congress of March 3.1879

Every daily paper that president Wilson picks up when he is out campaigning, he is likely to see in flaimng headlines "Increase in the high cost of living."When he speaks to his audiance that night he can hold up the paper and say: "I am the man that increased the high cost of living, I deceived you four years ago, but I am telling you the truth now."

Again must the Democrats feel highly "pleased" at the outcome of an election where it was sought to return an ardent Wilson Democrat to the senate. J. W. Westcott, the man who nominated Wilson was recently defeated by James Martine, and this defeat notwithstanding the fact that the entire Wilson administration was strongly backing Westcott. Straws show which way the wind blows, and the indications are that even the Democrats have enough of Wilson.—The News Press.

Why! The nomination of Wilson is just what defeated him, for even the Democrats outside of the public crib feeders are disgusted with the present administration of the affairs of this nation, and the people are after their scalp and they are going to get it on November 7th.

Down at Verndale in this state all of the citizens of the town with the exception of two, endorsed Harry Allen for postmaster, but Ed. Lynch, brother of Democratic "Boss" Lynch refused to have him appointed and named one of the two Democrats who did not sign the petition. The Verndale Democracy must be a one or two man affair similar to the party in this city, which consists principally of "Boss" Stanton. —The News Press.

On November 7th, the postmaster, and his two indorsers will vote for Wilson, and the balance of the people will vote for Hughes. That will make a majority about equal to the majority in the town of Highlanding, at the primary election, when there was 54 Republican votes polled and 1 Democrat, and that one Democrat the Singer postmaster at Erie.

In Mr. Wilson's "History of the American People" he says: "The Chinese were more to be desired as workmen, if not as citizens, than most of the coarse crew that came crowding in every year at the Eastern ports."

The "coarse crew" the President described as "crowding in" included the millions of foreign-born persons of every nationality who are now loyal citizens of the United States.

In the same book the President said: "And now there came multitudes of men of the lowest class from the south of Italy, and men of meaner sort out of Hungary and Poland men out of the ranks where there was neither skill nor energy nor any initative of quick intelligence."

What do American citizens of German, Italian, Hungarian, Polish, Norwegian, or any European ancestory think of that?

Wilson will find out on November 7th, just what they think of it.

Our Newspaper brethren seem to be in a red hot fight over the County Auditors Official acts, you are either awfully ahead of time gentlemen, or two years behind time, as there is no Auditor to be elected this year. We were making our County Auditor fight two years ago, and hope to live to get into another one, and if there is anything wrong in that Auditors office we will place the facts before the people. In the meantime confine yourselves to live issues.

The Minneapolis Daily News has got Wilson elected, by straw votes but when they get the November 7th, returns they will discover that the people of Minnesota have been voting at the ballot box.

HUGHES PITILESS ON MEXICAN DISGRACE

In His Mind and on His Tongue More Than Any Other Single Problem With Which Mr. Wilson Has Paltered.

CRAZY CHAPTER OF BLUNDERS

No One Can Hear Him Speak Without Seeing the Reality of His Indignation Over the Heartless Policy of the Democratic Administration Toward American Men, Women and Children, American Citizens, Soldiers and Sailors Along and Across the Rio Grande.

Soon after Mr. Hughes was nominated a friend said to him: "Governor, if the American people forget the Mexican disgrace they do not deserve to have you for President." Quick as a flash he replied: "The candidate who dodges the Mexican disgrace does not deserve to be President." He did not pass around his address of acceptance for compliment or criticism in advance of its delivery but the amount of space he devoted to the Mexican disgrace—"that confused chapter of blunders"—surprised no one who had talked with him since his nomination. It has been in his mind and on his mind more than any other single problem with which Mr. Wilson has paltered. To talk with him is to see at once the reality of his indignation over the heartless manner in which American men, women and children, American citizens, soldiers and sailors have been abandoned by the Administration along and across the Rio Grande, the victims of Mexican armed forces, outfitted with American ammunition and American rifles, Mexicans whom Mr. Wilson has coddled one day as patriots only to chase the next as bandits.

It is apparently the belief of Mr. Wilson that the people of the United States are not interested in Mexico. His defenders have declared that it was an "old story and out of date." Mr. Hughes has a better opinion of his fellow countrymen. He has proved himself a better judge of their feelings. He has made "the Mexican disgrace" a foremost issue of his campaign. He has assailed the record of the Administration in that respect in almost every speech he has made. He has never failed to strike a responsive chord in the hearts of his audience, whether speaking in Carnegie Hall, New York, from the platform of his train at Grand Forks, North Dakota, to a vast audience at Portland, at the Exposition at San Diego or in the prairie states of the Middle West. He has refuted the slander, sometimes heard in the effete East, that the people of the great West do not care what happens to their fellow citizens in Mexico or to the flag beyond the border. No man born in the West has a firmer faith in the fundamental patriotism and "dominant Americanism" of the people of that section than Mr. Hughes. He holds them responsible in large measure for the encouragement and support he received while Governor of New York in his war upon political graft and political bossism. He thinks they had much to do with conscripting him as the champion of nationalism in the current campaign. He showed his confidence in their practical idealism when he made "the Mexican disgrace" an uppermost issue of his campaign. He has been vindicated by the response his arraignment of the Administration on this score has everywhere evoked. From Maine to California "the Mexican disgrace" is a sore subject with red-blooded Americans today. But nowhere between the oceans are the outrages inflicted in Mexico upon American honor, life and property more keenly resented than around the firesides of the great West. Mr. Hughes is no stranger to the West. His straightforward talk on Mexico proves it.

President Wilson's campaign managers are entitled to all the comfort they can get out of calling the roll of Progressives who are going to vote for him. It would be an endless task to call the roll of Progressives who are not going to vote for him.

For every reason that can be advanced why Progressives should vote for Wilson, ten can be advanced why they should vote for Hughes and the beauty of it is that they know the reasons without having to be told.

The Wilson administration went in to Mexico to punish Villa for his outrage on American soil. The only punishment inflicted has been on American soldiers who were shot down at Carrizal by order of First Chief Carranza.

THE LOCAL NEWS

Miss Sarah Homme visited her parents at Erie last Sunday.

Read the article published in another column, entitled "Segang out for Hughes."

Mrs. Henry Hyland has been assisting us, at her old job in the printing office to-day.

The Tuesdays storm has stopped thrashing operations, for this week, at least.

Harry Ives and family, and Miss Hamry, were calling on friends in this locality on Sunday.

Gunder Asbjernson and G.B. Tveit of Mayfield transacted business at Highlanding last Monday.

Hans Homme and family left for Canada yesterday. We wish them luck and prosperity in their new home.

Wm Causin gave Clerk of Court Harry Ives a lift with his team to get over one of the soft places in the southern part of Kratka township on Sunday last.

Read the proposed Constitutional Amendments published in another column. No. 1 and No. 8 should both be adopted. Be sure to vote "yes" on these two amendments.

Some of the farmers were caught with the potato digging by the Tuesday's snow storm, but as the ground is not frozen, they can yet dig them and save them.

We have been working under some difficulties in getting out our paper the past two weeks, as we have been doing farm work so long that we pretty near forgot how to set type.

We have devoted considerable space to the Representative issue this week, and it will soon be up to you farmers to decide, whose word you will take on this issue, actual farmers like Mr. Rydeen, or politicians, who make their living by farming the farmers.

We are sending out a large number of free sample copies of THE SUNBEAM, this week, as we are publishing some facts of vital interest to the farmer tax payers of this Legislative District, and particulary the flood suffering farmers of the Red Lake and Clearwater rivers.

In order that none of our Scandinavian friends may not be deceived by a name, we wish to state that Mr. Anderson, candidate for Supreme Judge is a Scotchman located in the city of Minneapolis, while his opponent James Quinn, is a resident of Fairmont, in the southern part of the state.

Read the notice to pay the last half of your real estate taxes published in another column to avoid the 10 per cent penalty. Hustle around and get the money to pay them, and then go to election on November 7th, and vote for a man to represent you in the next Legislature that would TRY to get a law passed to nearly double them.

On Tuesday afternoon and evening there was about four inches of snow fell, which is something unusual for this country, at this season of the year. The thrashing and fall plowing have not been completed in this locality, but we hope to see this early snow disappear, and, give us at least two weeks more of Indian summer weather.

The people of the eleven townships will not forget the many kind acts and good turns done for them by Judge Michelet, and will give him an X in return Nov. 7.

STENVICK'S TAX SCHEME

HOW HE TRIED TO GET A LAW PASSED TO NEARLY DOUBLE FARMERS TAXES TO INCREASE THE REVENUE OF PUBLIC CRIB FEEDERS.

At every session of the legislature, there is always a gang of "public Crib feeders," asking for appropriations for this and that from the state, under the present assessment of 5 mills, there was not money enough to make necessary appropriations to feed them all so our Representative, the great friend of the farmers. [When he is running for office,) introduced a bill to raise the assessment from 5 to 8. mills. Read the following letter from Edwin D. Rydeen, secretary of the farmers clubs of Clearwater County.

Clearbrook, Minn. Oct. 5, 1916,

W. G. Hunt, Esq.
Sunbeam Minn.

My dear Mr. Hunt:

In reply to your kind letter of the 3rd inst. I am obliged to inform you that I have not a copy of the Stenvick Bill you mentioned. You might get one by writing to the Secretary of State, Hon. Julius A. Schmall, or from Hon. D. P. O'Neil. The bill was to raise the lawful rate of the revenue tax from 5 to 8 mills. The number of it was H. F. 404. It was defeated largely by the earnest efforts of farmers' clubs of this county.

It is indeed pleasing to note that you always have the welfare of the farmers at heart.

With best wishes, I am, Very truly Yours,

EDWARD D. RYDEEN.

Mr. Rydeen is an actual farmer of Clearwater County, and one of the largest patrons of the farmers Cooperative Creamery at Clearbrook, and its present Secretary. He was the farmers Clubs of Clearwater Counties Candidate for Representative at the June primaries, and got their solid support. But he was defeated by the farmer voters of Pennington County, who rushed to the polls and voted for Stenvick.

The farmers Clubs of Clearwater County passed resolutions two years ago protesting against the election of Stenvick, but the farmers of Pennington County shoved him onto them.

Knowing him, they watched him, and it was only a short time before they caught him, fathering a scheme to nearly double their taxes, to feed a hungry gang of public crib feeders, to sit down in office, with an electric fan on their table and write for the farmers, something like this: "Now is the time for you farmers to get after the sow thistle, hoe them up." "Now is the time to cut the weeds, before they go to seed. Get after them you farmers. The best way to farm mossbag is to let it alone," and etc.

The above was the class of people that were Attorney Stenvicks clients, when he was supposed to be representing your interest at St. Paul.

We got the copy of the bill, as introduced by Mr. Stenvick and defeated by the farmers clubs, of Clearwater County, too late for publication this week but will publish it in full next week.

NOTICE

If said remaining one-half of said tax is not paid before November 1st of each year, then a penalty of 10 per cent is added to the one half of said tax remaining unpaid. Taxes become delinquent on the 1st day of January next, when an additional penalty of 5 per cent is added. Tax sales take place on the first Monday of May following and the amount of sale draws interest at the rate of one per cent a month until redeemed. THE SAFETY HABIT
You know the Railroads are talking a good deal these days about the "Safety Habit." It is not a safety razor or a safety bicycle, It's safety for the lives intrusted to their care.

NEW CRISIS WITH GERMANY AVERTED ONLY BY FEW FEET

UNITED STATES DESTROYER NARROWLY ESCAPED COLLISION WITH U-53 DURING RAID OFF NANTUCKET SHOALS.

INCIDENT IS DESCRIBED IN LETTER FROM LIEUTENANT

Warship Asked to Get Farther Away Just Before German Submarine Commander Ordered Steamer Blown Up—Passengers Saved In Choppy Sea.

Baltimore, Oct. 17.—The sinking of the Holland-American liner Bloomersdyjk and the Red Cross liner Stephano as seen by an officer aboard one of the United States torpedo boat destroyers sent from the Newport station to see fair play, is vividly recorded in a letter received by the father of Lieutenant Lee Cummings Carey of the destroyer Benham.

Lieutenant Carey's letter contains something more than a word picture of what happened. In it is information which the navy department has not seen fit to make public. For the first time it becomes known that only a few feet of choppy sea stood for a moment between the United States and a new and grave crisis with Germany. That was when, as Lieutenant Carey describes the incident, the Benham by just so many feet escaped collision with the German U-53.

U-Boat Asks for More Room.

Some of the American sailors, when they returned to Newport, said that an officer aboard the submarine had courteously requested that one of the destroyers change her position, giving him room to blow up the Bloomersdyjk—or, as another version had it, the Stephano. Those who heard the story regarded it as a blue-jacket whim, intended for marine consumption.

But such an incident really occurred. The Bloomersdyjk was the vessel about to be destroyed and the Benham the destroyer that was in the way. Lieutenant Carey, telling of it, quotes the submarine commander as having called: "Please get farther away. We're going to blow her up.'

Tears Gap in Liner's Side.

The further point is brought out in the lieutenant's letter that the merchant vessels were laboring in considerable of a seaway when the U-boat forced their passengers to take to the boats. Earlier assertions, sanctioned by the navy department, had been that the sea was smooth and that the passengers and crews were at no time in anything like serious danger.

In describing the submarine's overhauling of the Holland-American liner, the lieutenant tells of the Benham taking the officers and crew aboard and writes: "It was dark, the U-53 asked us to please get further away as she was going to blow the Bloomersdyjk up. This we did. In a few minutes she fired a torpedo which tore a great gap in the liner's side and she sank. The attack on the Stephano immediately followed."

"MAD KING" OF BAVARIA PASSES AWAY SUDDENLY

King Otto Was Born in 1848 and Succeeded His Brother Ludwig II, Who Also Was Insane.

London, Oct. 13.—Former King Otto of Bavaria, who has been insane for many years, has died suddenly, according to a Copenhagen dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company quoting a Berlin official announcement.

The mad king died at Fuersteinreid castle near Munich, where he has been confined since 1873.

King Otto was born on April 27, 1848, and succeeded his brother, Ludwig II, in 1886. Ludwig II also was insane and drowned himself in Starnberg lake. King Otto was deposed on Nov. 5, 1913, and was succeeded by the present monarch, Ludwig III, formerly regent.

PLEA TO WORKING PEOPLE TO COME INTO CHURCH

Episcopal Minister at St. Louis General Convention Declares the Worker Is Absent.

St. Louis, Oct. 16. — A plea to the working people of America to come into the church was made by the Rev. J. Howard Melish of Brooklyn in an address in the social service forum in connection with the Protestant Episcopal general convention. He asserted that in the American churches today can be found people of culture and social standing, but it is the worker who is absent.

Thaw Visits Matteawan Hospital.

Beacon, N. J., Oct. 14.—Harry K. Thaw was back in Matteawan state hospital for the criminal insane here, three years after his escape. He was not a prisoner, however, but dropped in for a social call on Superintendent Kieb. He remarked that he knew the prisoners were but poorly supplied with tobacco, and that he would see they had a liberal supply in the future. Thaw came here from Pittsburgh to share in Beacon's celebration over a new "white way," and acted as judge of the parade of civic organizations.

NOTE FAILS TO MEET PROTEST

ALLIES' REPLY ON MAIL CENSORSHIP MADE PUBLIC.

America Demanded Radical Change Restoring to Nation Full Rights As Neutral Power.

Washington, Oct. 17. — Examination of the Allies' note on the censorship of mails, made public here, has brought a feeling among officials that it does not satisfactorily meet the protests set forth in the American note of May 24, which said that "only a radical change restoring to the United States its full rights as a neutral power will satisfy the government.

Resentment Is Lessened.

The State department has watched with interest, however, the informal arrangements made by British authorities through their trade department and through such conferences as that of Sir Richard Crawford in New York recently and is understood to feel that resentment among American citizens over the Allied censorship has been greatly lessened.

No Reply Before Election.

It is thought unlikely that any reply will be made in the three weeks before election. In this connection diplomatic circles attach much significance to President Wilson's declaration at Long Branch that "It is almost impossible to do anything positive" in the fields of foreign affairs during the campaign.

BOSTON WINS FOURTH WORLD'S CHAMPIONSHIP

American League Team Defeats Brooklyn National Club in Final Game of Series.

Braves Field, Boston, Mass., Oct. 13. —The Boston American league club won its fourth world's baseball championship Thursday by defeating the Brooklyn National league club by a score of 4 to 1.

The Boston Red Sox won their first world's championship in 1903 when Jimmy Collins led the Beantown athletes to victory against the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Jake Stahl piloted the Red Sox to another world's championship in 1912 when they defeated the Giants. Under the leadership of Bill Carrigan, present manager, the Boston team copped another championship in 1915 when they showed the Phillies how to take a joke.

Ernie Shore and Jeff Pfeffer pitched for the Boston and Brooklyn teams, respectively, in the fifth and final game of the series.

INFANTILE PARALYSIS GERM IS DESCRIBED

Dr. Edward C. Rosenow Tells Minnesota Medical Body of His Important Discovery.

Minneapolis, Oct. 16. — Announcement of the discovery and isolation of the germ of infantile paralysis, which is said by physicians to constitute one of the most important milestones in modern medical research, was made at the closing session of the Minnesota State Medical association's convention, by Dr. Edward C. Rosenow, professor of experimental bacteriology in the University of Minnesota and the Mayo foundation, who came in contact with more than 2,000 cases of the disease last summer while working at the Rockefeller institute and in New York city.

Dr. Rosenow explained the finding of infected surfaces at the base of the tonsils in 17 cases of poliomyelitis and the subsequent observations that led to the isolation of the germ.

Republican Nominee Says Correct Policies Kill Keep America Out of War.

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 16.—Charles E. Hughes, in an address here, characterized as "preposterous" the declaration that a vote for him meant a vote for war.

"I am a man of peace," Mr. Hughes said. "Who wants war? I don't want war."

Correct policies, Mr. Hughes said, would keep America out of war.

"The sort of thing we have been having will not keep us out of war," he said. "It will embroil us in difficulty."

Ex-Premier Venizelos Heads New Provisional Government Favoring Nation's Entrance Into War.

London, Oct. 13.—Greece has accepted all the conditions imposed by the Allies, including the disarmament of all forts, the internment of virtually the entire Greek fleet and the use of the railways, mails, telegraphs and canals by the Allies, it is announced.

The new Greek provisional government, headed by ex-Premier Venizelos and favoring Greece's entrance into the war, began taking shape at about the same hour at French naval authorities took over the ships of the navy.

General Zimbraktis, a warm supporter of the Allied cause, was sworn in as war minister. The ceremony took place at Saloniki October 10, where Venizelos has established headquarters.

The Greek ships were taken over under the direction of Admiral D'Artigue Du Fournet, commanding the Anglo-French fleet.

This action was taken by the Allies, it was stated, to remove the danger to the Allied forces in Greece caused by the activity of the pro-German element.

AMERICA FACES CHOICE OF PEACE OR WAR--WILSON

President Declares Invisible Government Is Back of Republican Party —Sums Up Issues.

Long Branch, N. J., Oct. 16.—In a speech before a large delegation of Pennsylvania Democrats who came here with bands playing and banners flying, President Wilson declared that while he is for peace "America is always ready to fight for things that are American."

He summed up his idea of the issues of the present campaign in the words:

"America knows that it is faced with this choice: Peace, the continuance of the development of business along the lines which it now has established and developed, and the maintenance of well-known progressive lines of action on the one hand, or, on the other hand, a disturbance of policy all along the line, new conditions, new adjustments, undefined alterations of policy, and back of it all, invisible government."

TAKEN FROM NINTH DISTRICT

MINNEAPOLIS BANK LOSES 25 BADGER COUNTIES.

Ruling Made by Federal Reserve Board Removes Fifty-two Banks.

Minneapolis, Oct. 16.—Following the receipts of news in Minneapolis that the federal reserve board at Washington had cut the banks in 25 counties in Wisconsin from the Minneapolis Federal Reserve bank, bankers of the city immediately made plans to get in touch with their financial connections in the West with a view of obtaining a fair exchange of territory in that section for that which was annexed to the Chicago district.

The ruling is the result of a fight in which 34 counties in Wisconsin took part and was engineered from Milwaukee banks which feared the loss of country accounts through the new alignment set up by the federal reserve districts.

The counties in the Upper Michigan peninsula were brought into the fight for inclusion in the Chicago district but the bankers in that territory refused to take any active part in the hearings before the board and were left in the Minneapolis district.

It is more readily understood just what the ruling of the board means to the reserve bank here when it is stated that the loss of these counties, which will become effective next January 1, will take $230,000 from the capital stock of the bank and $1,334,000 from its reserve deposits.

FAILURE TO RECALL ARMY IS HITCH IN PEACE PLAN

Carranza's Impatience May Cause Him to Send Note Giving Conference New Aspect.

Atlantic City, Oct. 16.—Unofficial information reaching here indicates it is not improbable General Carranza's impatience at the failure of the American government to withdraw General Pershing's troops may cause him to send a communication that would give the conference of the Mexican-American joint commission a new aspect.

Border Control Comes First.

The Mexicans have been told repeatedly that until a satisfactory method of border control has been adopted, the question of the withdrawal of American troops cannot be discussed and Villa activities have bee cited as sufficient reason for the maintenance of that attitude.

Allies Gain Firm Hold of Positions South of Somme—French Make 1,100 Germans Prisoner—Serbs Advance Their Lines in Macedonia.

London, Oct. 17.—Although the Roumanians in northeast Transylvania continue to fall back before the Austro-Germans from this region all along the battle line to the vicinity of Orsova on the Danube, they not alone are giving battle to their adversaries, but at several points by violent counter-attacks have gained an advantage over them.

Repulse German Attacks.

Bucharest admits the retirement of the Roumanian forces in the Kaliman mountains on the northwest front, but says further south infantry of the Teutonic allies were put to flight by their artillery fire. Successes also were obtained by the Roumanians in the Oituz and Jiul valleys where violent attacks were repulsed with heavy casualties. On both sides of the Szurduk pass the Roumanians continue on the offensive, but Berlin says their attacks have been repelled.

Fighting in Volhynia.

On the Carpathian mountains the Austro-Germans have recaptured the height of Smotrco. In Volhynia violent fighting has again broken out. Here both the Russian and the Teutonic allies claim successes for their forces. Petrograd says that north of Korytniza the Russians captured a German trench, inflicting heavy casualties on its occupants. Along the Stokhod, says Berlin, Russian attacks were repulsed.

British Advance in West.

German trenches in the neighborhood of the Stuff and Schwaben redoubts in the Thiepval region of France have been captured by the British and with them more than 300 prisoners. To the west near Gueudecount the British also have slightly advanced their line.

Berlin admits that the British north of Thiepval gained a firm hold on the German trenches and that the French south of the Somme have won a footing in the sugar refinery at Genermont. The French in fighting in the Ablaincourt-Belloy sector made 1,100 Germans prisoner.

Serbs Gain Ground.

In Macedonia the Serbian troops have made a further advance along the left bank of the Cerna river while the French have cut the railway line south of Seres.

Still further gains for the Italians against the Austrians in the Carso region are recorded by Rome.

The convoking of the Greek chamber of deputies which was to have taken place Saturday has been postponed for a month by decree of King Constantine.

TEN KILLED, ELEVEN HURT IN NEBRASKA RAIL WRECK

Burlington Train Crashes Into Freight Caboose Near Elwood—No Warning Signals.

Elwood, Neb., Oct. 17. — Ten men were killed and eleven others seriously injured when a train on the Burlington railroad crashed into the freight caboose in which they were riding, 12 miles east of here. Five other men, standing on the rear platform of the caboose, saw the approaching train soon enough to jump to safety. One other man in the caboose cupola was thrown clear of the wreck and escaped injury. The trains in collision were sections of a regular stock train. Lack of lights and warning signals is given by survivors as the cause of the accident. All the victims are residents of Nebraska towns.

To Use Seal Sparingly.

London, Oct. 17.—Falling into line with other departments of state in the question of economy, the privy council of Great Britain have ordered that the "great seal" shall only be used very sparingly, thus saving time and money. The affixing of this great seal to a document takes nearly half an hour and requires the attendance of two officers known as "the sealer" and the "chaff wax." It was formerly affixed to royal assent appointments.

Destroyer Departs at Full Speed.

Bar Harbor, Me., Oct. 17. — The abrupt recall of a shore party from the destroyer McDougall and the ship's subsequent departure at full speed suggested important developments in connection with the warship's neutrality patrol.

Early in the afternoon she put in here and gave shore leave to a party of sailors. Four blasts of the ship's whistle soon recalled them and the last boatload had hardly reached the destroyer's side when she steamed out of the harbor.

Farmers Amazed at City Squirrels.

No other one thing so generally attracted the attention of the farmers from distant parts of the state while they were in Columbus attending the state fair as the squirrels they saw in the parks, lawns and even leaping from tree to tree in the streets. Not that they do not see squirrels at home in their native woods, but there they see them wild, darting for their holes the moment they note the approach of man. To see squirrels careless of the presence of people, and even soliciting food from them, seemed a strange condition.—Columbus (O.) Dispatch.

New Kite Balloon.

A military kite balloon, observed by thousands of persons, landed near Washington Court House, O., after a trip from Akron, O., a distance of about 120 miles. The balloon was piloted by C. H. Roth and C. A. Wollen of Akron, and made the trip in three hours and 45 minutes.

The balloon was shaped like a large cigar, but carried no motive power. It was guided by means of planes, and the trip was made for the purpose of testing the steering, elevation and lowering apparatus.

The pilots said that it was the first time that such a trip in a balloon so equipped had been attempted in this country, and that the idea is a new and undeveloped one in Europe. They said that the fast time and perfect control proved the value of the craft.

The balloon was shot at over a farm in Green county, but ballast was thrown overboard, and the machine rose out of range.

NEWS and GOSSIP of WASHINGTON

Army Ordnance Experts Find Deadliest War Bomb

WASHINGTON.—Army ordnance experts after many experiments with about a score of aerial bombs, it is reported, have found a bomb of high explosive power, combined with the use of deadly gases, the invention of an American, which is said to excel in destructiveness any similar weapon known here or in Europe.

DEADLIER BOMB THAN ANY EUROPE HAS USED HIGHLY DESTRUCTIVE

The tests proved so uniformly satisfactory, it was said, that the war department has been urged to adopt the bomb for use in the aviation service. F. E. Barlow, an employee of the Frankfort arsenal, Philadelphia, the inventor, has offered its exclusive use to the United States government.

The Barlow bomb is six feet in length and approximately five inches in diameter, shaped like a torpedo. In addition to an explosive charge of T. N. T., it contains a gas chamber in which a new and secret combination of gas is used.

It is estimated that the bomb has a fatal destructive radius of at least 100 yards.

One of the chief features of the bomb in which it differs radically from bombs which depend for bursting force on contact with the earth or other object, is that it may be exploded in the air with full power. This is said to enhance its destructive power to a much larger degree than any known form of contact bomb, as it may be exploded over the heads of troops and spread gases earthward over a larger surface.

By means of an electric timing device the operator of an aeroplane, it is asserted, will be able to regulate to a second the time of the explosion of the bomb. Another unique feature of this weapon permits of its use as an aerial torpedo when not desired to use it as a "drop" explosive. The bomb may be made with a new type of electric motor and propeller, which would enable the aviation operator to fire it horizontally, or to direct it toward a target at any angle. The bombs are arranged for attaching to the undersides of aeroplanes, to be released by foot pressure on a trigger.

Feathered Summer Residents of Capital Leaving

AS THE thousands of Washingtonians who deserted the city with the approach of the summer months for the seashore and mountain resorts of the North begin to return to their homes, thousands of visitors who annually make their summer homes here are leaving for the South.

Not everyone in Washington has noticed it, but ever since the first chilly night they have been quietly slipping away, and already many thousands of Washington's summer residents have left.

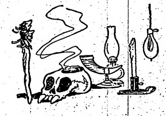
They form the army of songbirds that make their homes in the shrubs and trees that adorn the parks of the national capital. They are the robin and the wren, the modest wood thrush, known far and wide for his sweet song—the bluebird, who brings happiness; the downy woodpecker, who excavates his home in the dead limbs, and the many other members of the feathered tribe who furnish song and sunshine to city dwellers.

It is the common observation of persons who are interested in birds, and even the observation of many other persons who have no particular interest in the subject, that the bird-protection laws of the federal government and of the various states are producing the results which are the aim of these laws. A great increase is noted in the number of song birds, game birds and especially in the number of birds of gay plumage.

This comment is often heard among the Washington people who are interested in birds. Last spring they noted that bluebirds, indigo buntings, goldfinches, redstarts, orioles, scarlet tanagers, summer tanagers, cardinals and the yellow warblers were more numerous than in preceding years, and the increase in the numbers of these gay and beautiful birds is apparent to nearly everybody, and particularly to persons who live in the suburbs of Washington or on the edges of the city, and who have gardens and yards with shrubbery in them.

Lineage of the Lamp Shown in Museum Collection

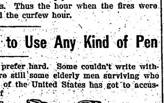
A COLLECTION of all the various illuminating devices used throughout the history of the world is now being prepared by Dr. Walter Hough of the National museum here, and will be placed on exhibition as soon as space can be found for it. Stowed away in large airtight cabinets in Doctor Hough's office is the complete record of man's development as shown by his lighting appliances from the days of the primitive campfire to the present tungsten filament. Here is the firebrand by which our aboriginal ancestor transferred fire from tribe to tribe; here is the animal's skull, which constituted the first attempt at a lamp, and the greased stick that was superseded by the candle. A part of the collection is already occupying three cases in the museum, where it attracts a great deal of attention among visitors.



Ultimately, Doctor Hough hopes to broaden the collection into a complete history of fire rather than a history of illuminating alone. Among his present specimens are many curious old stoves and bellows and foot-warmers, and one curfew which is said to be the only one in America. It is the popular opinion in this country that the curfew was a bell, but instead it is a sort of brass lid which was used to cover the fire. At one time in England a law was passed requiring every light to be out at a certain hour in the night, presumably nine o'clock, and in order to comply with the letter of this law people had to suppress their fires. Thus the hour when the fires were covered with curfew came to be called the curfew hour.

President Must Be Able to Use Any Kind of Pen

SOME men prefer soft pens. Some prefer hard. Some couldn't write without a fountain pen. And there are still some elderly men surviving who insist on using quills. The president of the United States has got to accustom himself to using all kinds of pens to gratify the vanity of those who want to keep as souvenirs the pens with which certain measures in which they are interested are signed.



Ordinarily the president uses a soft-pointed fountain pen, but lately in approving important measures of legislation he has used every variety of pen. The eight-hour railroad bill he signed with four ordinary pens with steel points and black wood holders. In affixing the name, "Woodrow Wilson" to this act, he signed one syllable with each pen, his intention being to forward one pen to each of the heads of the four brotherhoods.

In signing the Philippine bill he used a pen furnished for the occasion by Manuel Quezon, the resident delegate from the Philippines. It was gold-pointed and ornate.

In signing the bills of lading act, he used a pen made from the quill of a porcupine, which Senator Pomerene had provided.

IN THE LIMELIGHT

WONDERFUL EUGENIE

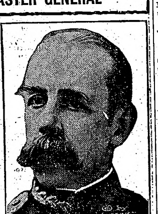
Eugenie, former empress of France, who was once the most beautiful woman in France, is today the most wonderful old lady in the world. Not long since she celebrated her ninetieth birthday. She was born in 1826, 11 years before Queen Victoria came to the throne. Quite recently she made two appearances in London, when many saw her for the first time since her arrival in England as a fugitive from France 46 years ago.

At the age of fourscore years and ten the vitality of the Empress Eugenie is extraordinary. Since the war began she has, of course, discontinued her travels, but up to her eighty-seventh year she took an annual trip in her yacht or on a steamer.

Her majesty must always be occupied. She has the royal mania for building and has wrought great changes at her lovely Hampshire home, Farnborough. If she did not assiduously watch the building works which she orders to be carried out they would not interest her. Nothing is left to chance.

She detests fuss, and overzealous people weary her. She does not want anyone to carry her cloak or her sunshade, being quite persuaded that a lady of ninety can very well do these things herself. At the age she has reached, far from seeking to use up the energies of friends or attendants, she prefers to rely on her own powers. She is the most independent lady of ninety in Europe. Her eye is keen and clear, her voice vibrates, her pen is driven by a steady hand. She astonishes everyone who approaches her. She has a determined and determinate thoroughness for all under her roof, and her servants hold the empress in affection.

NEW QUARTERMASTER GENERAL



Gen. Henry G. Sharpe, who has just been appointed quartermaster general, has had a long and distinguished career.

A native of New York, he was born in Kingston, on April 30, 1858. His family is one of the oldest in the state, having lived there for generations. His father was Gen. George H. Sharpe, a veteran of the Civil war, who was a friend and favorite of General Grant and one of the political leaders of the Empire state.

Under the army bill, which became a law early in 1901, General Sharpe reached the grade of colonel, and upon the promotion of Commissary General John F. Weston in the fall of 1915, succeeded to the chiefship of the subsistence department. Two years afterward he made an extended tour abroad to study the supply systems of the English, French and German armies, where every facility was afforded and every courtesy shown him by the officials of the various countries.

General Sharpe has devoted his life to a study and mastery of the problems of supply, and has been active both as an author and administrator. His experience in the line of the army, in actual campaign, and in charge of purchasing and supply depots, and later as commissary general, afforded him the widest administrative opportunity. He has also had the advantage of a tour of duty in every section of the country and in every field of activity in his line.

DR. JOHN R. MOTT

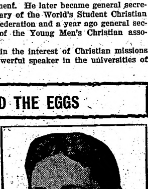
Three presidents of the United States have honored Dr. John R. Mott of New York, now serving as a member of the Mexican arbitration commission. "One of the greatest men of our generation," ex-President Taft once called him. Colonel Roosevelt, during his administration, publicly expressed his admiration for the work Doctor Mott was accomplishing.

President Wilson, at the beginning of his administration, asked him to accept the post of minister to China, and, when he declined, held the post open for a time and asked friends of Doctor Mott to urge him to accept.

Doctor Mott was born in western New York state fifty-one years ago, was graduated from Cornell in 1888 and immediately gave himself to the student volunteer (missionary) movement. He later became general secretary of the World's Student Christian federation and a year ago general secretary of the international committee of the Young Men's Christian association.

He has traveled around the world in the interest of Christian missions a score of times, and is known as a powerful speaker in the universities of a dozen countries.

VROOMAN AND THE EGGS



Carl Vrooman, assistant secretary of agriculture, was one of the prize Democrats who went to Maine in order to make an attempt to stem the Republican tide, and get away while the getting was good. He was scheduled to speak one night in a country town, but arrived there in the afternoon. He sat around the grocery store for an hour or two listening to gossip and not divulging his identity.

A woman came in.

"Where you going, Lucy?" asked a friend.

"Goin' to the public speakin' tonight," she said, and then, turning to the store clerk, said:

"Give me a dozen eggs."

At this point Carl Vrooman became acutely interested.

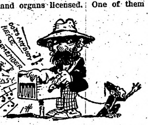
"And make them fresh," he suggested. "I am one of the speakers."

It was not because of unfamiliarity with public speaking that Mr. Vrooman seemed afraid of the eggs, for he has been addressing the public off and on for a good many years. Even in his college days he was noted as a speaker, representing Harvard and Oxford, England, in debates.

Tales of GOTHAM and other CITIES

Gotham Hand Organs All to Be in Tune Next Year

NEW YORK.—One of the really great reforms long necessary is promised at last. Every hand organ in New York is to be tuned. There are 500 hand organs licensed. One of them is in tune. George H. Bell, commissioner of licenses, is responsible. An Italian gentleman with a monkey and an organ stopped outside Mr. Bell's residence one morning and Mr. Bell's appetite was spoiled by the acidulous accent the Italian gentleman's organ gave to what Signor Verdi had supposed to be among his sweetest and most melodious harmonies.



Mr. Bell went out and so frightened the Neapolitan by displaying a badge that the gentleman from Italy prayed for mercy, and when told it was possible only if he had the organ tuned at once, he, the organ and the monkey hurried to a tuner for treatment.

The other 499 are at or about Broad and Wall streets every business day. Why organ grinders infest the financial district is a mystery unfathomable. With one exception no one ever has been known to give money to an organ grinder to play in the neighborhood of the stock exchange. Many persons give money to them not to play or to cease playing.

The one person who is known to have given money to an organ grinder to play is an Englishman, a member of the cotton exchange. On the afternoon of December 24, 1914, full of Christmas spirits and patriotic sentiment, he thought it would be a noble thing to have an organ grinder he had met in South William street play "Tipperary." He gave $1 to the music master. Every time the Italian stopped or tried to switch to another tune the Englishman gave $1 to him. From early in the afternoon until nightfall that machine ground out "Tipperary." By that time everybody but the Englishman was an earnest supporter of the kaiser.

It always has been supposed that the news of the large sum that one Italian got that day has led other organ grinders to hope that some day something like that will happen to them just as the report of big winnings on the race track or the stock exchange leads persons to persist in playing in the expectation that some day they will be the lucky ones.

Mr. Bell declares that he never will issue a license for a hand organ again unless that hand organ has been tuned. All licenses expire December 31, 1916. He will withhold renewals until the grinders bring certificates that all the bile and distemper have been removed from the torture

Thousand Seattle Men Spanked for Their Curiosity

SEATTLE, WASH.—More than 1,000 prominent Seattle men have actually been spanked with a rubber hose by Ed Murray, a clerk in the city-county building, because of their curiosity to look at pictures. The list includes superior court judges, city councilmen, heads of city and county departments, dozens of lawyers, and an assorted crowd of others, some of them from other cities.

Because each victim wanted to see his friend spanked the news has been kept quiet.

"Have you seen the Seattle blackmail pictures?" whispered Murray to a fellow worker one day.

"No," was the reply.

"Well, they're going to be destroyed tomorrow," he went on. "If you want to see them I can fix it up for you."

Then Murray and his victim went through dark hallways to one of the long record vaults on the first floor of the county-city building.

"I'll keep watch," was the next word; "they're in the box in the corner. Just pick 'em out."

When the victim leaned low, the trusty rubber hose came into play. "Whack!" it resounded as it hit the victim where dad used to apply the paddle.

"Wow!" wailed the victim.

Murray, who is gray headed and always serious appearing, discovered he had uncovered a great indoor sport.

His victim worked with him in decoying others, and Murray became a master in the art of swinging the hose.

"Name, please," he asks them, after landing the one swift blow. Red faced and twitching between agony and laughter, the victims gave their names and were recorded in Murray's book, which now contains more than 1,000 names.

One man came all the way from Everett, walked into the comptroller's office, went to Murray, and asked confidentially if it could be fixed up so he could see the pictures. Murray arranged it. And the man went back to Everett and sent down more victims.

Park Love Fashions in New York Quite Unchanged

NEW YORK.—There's absolutely no change in love fashions, says the veteran policeman on the Central Park beat, near the entrance at One Hundredth street. "I'm patrolling a section of park where I played as a boy," he says. "I've watched the spooners from before I spooned myself up to now and I've never seen any change in love-making styles. The language of the day may change and the fashions in clothes may change, but not the antics of the smitten.

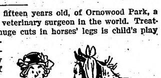
"They sit the same as they did 40 years ago and they hold their arms all cramped up for hours—same as they used. They look at each other's eyes like the monkeys you see in the Zoo—just looking, sometimes half an hour at a time, with not a word. "Do I bother them? Not on your life. I'll go out of my way not to bother them. I think there's something wrong when a chap doesn't want to spoon now and then. Only once was I roiled—but even that passed away quickly. I came on my own boy spooning with a pretty little girl. What made me sore was that I coughed and blew my nose so as to tip them. They were slow, so I roared out: 'Kelly, come over here!'

"The boy recognized my voice and jumped with the girl. They tried to beat it, but I told them to wait. They did and I told him I'd thrash him when I got home, and I told the girl I'd a good notion to spank her then and there.

"'No you won't,' said my boy. And then he walked off with his girl just as if he were my father and I was the son."

Atlanta Has the Only Woman Veterinary Surgeon

ATLANTA, GA.—Miss Ruth Corker, fifteen years old, of Ornowood Park, a suburb of Atlanta, is the only girl veterinary surgeon in the world. Treating mules for lockjaw or sewing up huge cuts in horses' legs is child's play for this girl, who learned her profession through her father and grandfather, both of whom are veterinary surgeons. She has a large number of animal patients.



"It takes a barrel of chloroform to put a mule to sleep," said Miss Corker. "So I rope them down, inject cocaine locally and operate."

Miss Corker is very pretty, with dark brown hair and hazel eyes. She wanted to do "something different" from other girls, she said. This is a new and entirely unexplored field for women. There are woman physicians who specialize on human patients, but so far as is known this little girl is the only female "horse doctor" in the world.

Miss Corker is very much in love with her work. She has acted in the capacity of helper to her father for so long that there is nothing in the line of animal ailments that she is afraid to tackle.

THE EIGHT
Proposed Amendments
to the Constitution of the STATE OF MINNESOTA

Submitted by the Legislature at Its General Session, 1915, Together With a Statement of the PURPOSES AND EFFECTS,
Prepared by Hon. Lyndon A. Smith, Attorney General of Minnesota.

Addressed to
Julius A. Schmahl
Secretary of State

OFFICE OF THE ATTORNEY GENERAL, ST. PAUL.

April 7, 1916.

Honorable Julius A. Schmahl,
Secretary of State,
Capitol.

DEAR SIR: Pursuant to your request and in accordance with the provisions of Section 46, Statutes 1913, I herewith hand you statement of the purposes and effect of all amendments to the Constitution proposed by the legislature of 1915 and to be submitted to the electors at the next general election; such statement also shows the reading of the existing sections and the way the same will read if the amendments are adopted.

Yours truly,
LYNDON A. SMITH,
Attorney General.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NO. 1.

By Chapter 379, Laws 1915, the legislature proposed for adoption by the electors, an amendment of Section Two (2) of Article Eight of the Constitution, by adding to said Section Two a new paragraph.

Section Two as it now stands reads as follows:

Section 2. "SCHOOL AND SWAMP LANDS—SCHOOL FUNDS FROM SALE OF—The proceeds of such lands as are or hereafter may be granted by the United States for the use of schools within each township in this state shall remain a perpetual school fund to the state; and not more than one-third of said lands may be sold in two years, one-third in five years, and one-third in ten years; but the lands of the greatest valuation shall be sold first: Provided, that no portion of said lands shall be sold otherwise than at public sale. The principal of all funds arising from sales or other disposition of lands or other property, granted or intrusted to this state in each township for educational purposes, shall forever be preserved inviolate and undiminished; and the income arising from the lease or sale of said school land shall be distributed to the different townships throughout the state, in proportion to the number of scholars in each township, between the ages of five and twenty-one years; and shall be faithfully applied to the specific objects of the original grants or appropriations. Suitable laws shall be enacted by the legislature for the safe investment of the principal of all funds which have heretofore arisen or which may hereafter arise from the sale or other disposition of such lands, or the income from such lands accruing in any way before the sale or disposition thereof in interest-bearing bonds of the United States, or of the State of Minnesota issued after the year 1860, or of such other state as the legislature may by law from time to time direct. All swamp lands now held by the state, or that may hereafter accrue to the state, shall be appraised and sold in the same manner and by the same officers, and the minimum price shall be the same less one-third, as is provided by law for the appraisement and sale of the school lands under the provisions of title one of chapter thirty-eight of the General Statutes. The principal of all funds derived from sales of swamp lands as aforesaid shall forever be preserved inviolate and undiminished. One-half of the proceeds of said principal shall be appropriated to the common school fund of the state; the remaining one-half shall be appropriated to the educational and charitable institutions of the state in the relative ratio of cost to support said institutions."

The paragraph which it is proposed to add to said Section Two reads as follows:

"A revolving fund of not over two hundred fifty thousand dollars ($250,000) may be set apart from the fund derived from the sale of school and swamp lands, to be used in constructing roads, ditches and fire breaks in, through and around unsold school and swamp lands and in clearing such lands, such fund to be replenished as long as needed from the enhanced value realized from the sale of such lands so benefited."

Under Section Two as it now stands the proceeds of the sale of school and swamp lands constitute the principal of a trust fund, the income of which is used for the support of the schools, educational and charitable institutions of the state. Section Two as it now stands provides that the principal of such fund "shall forever be preserved inviolate and undiminished."

THE EFFECT of the proposed amendment, if adopted, will be to modify the provision last quoted to the extent of permitting the legislature to set aside not to exceed $250,000 of the principal of the trust fund as a revolving fund to be used for the purposes stated in the amendment proposed.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NO. 2.

By Chapter 380, Laws 1915, the legislature proposed for adoption by the electors, an amendment of Section Six (6), of Article Eight (8) of the Constitution.

Section Six as it now stands reads as follows:

"Section 6. INVESTMENT OF SCHOOL FUNDS — The permanent school and university fund of this state may be invested in the bonds of any county, school district, city, town or village of this state, but no such investment shall be made until approved by the board of commissioners designated by law to regulate the investment of the permanent school fund and the permanent university fund of this state; nor shall such loan or investment be made when the bonds to be issued or purchased would make the entire bonded indebtedness exceed fifteen per cent of the assessed valuation of the taxable real property of the county, school district, city, town or village issuing such bonds; nor shall such loans or indebtedness be made at a lower rate of interest than three per cent per annum, nor for a shorter period than five years, nor for a longer period than twenty years, and no change of the town, school district, city, village or of county lines shall relieve the real property in such town, school district, county, village or city in this state at the time of the issuing of such bonds from any liability for taxation to pay such bonds."

If the proposed amendment is adopted it will then read as follows:

"The permanent school and university fund of this state may be invested in the bonds of any county, school district, city, town or village of this state, and in first mortgage loans secured upon improved and cultivated farm lands of this state. But no such investment or loan shall be made until approved by the board of commissioners designated by law to regulate the investment of the permanent school fund and the permanent university fund of this state; nor shall such loan or investment be made when the bonds to be issued or purchased would make the entire bonded indebtedness exceed 15 per cent of the assessed valuation of the taxable property of the county, school district, city, town or village issuing such bonds; nor shall any farm loan, or investment be made when such investment or loan would exceed 30 per cent of the actual cash value of the farm land mortgage to secure said investment; nor shall such investments or loans be made at a lower rate of interest than 3 per cent per annum, nor for a shorter period than five years, nor for a longer period than thirty years, and no change of the town, school district, city, village or of county lines shall relieve the real property in such town, school district, county, village or city in this state at the time of issuing of such bonds from any liability for taxation to pay such bonds."

THE PURPOSE of the amendment is to authorize the investment of the permanent school and university funds in "first mortgage loans secured upon improved and cultivated farm lands where the amount of the loans so secured does not exceed 30 per cent of the value of the land mortgaged.

THE EFFECT of the adoption of the proposed amendment will be to permit the legislature to authorize the investment of the permanent school and university funds in farm mortgages as above stated, as well as in the bonds of any county, school district, city, town or village of this state. Under Section Six as it now reads bonds cannot be purchased unless they mature at least five and not more than twenty years after purchase. If the amendment is adopted, bonds and mortgages may be purchased if they mature not less than five nor more than thirty years after purchase.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NO. 3.

By Chapter 381, Laws 1915, the legislature proposed for adoption by the electors, an amendment of Article Nine (9) of the Constitution by adding thereto a new section, which reads as follows:

"Section 17. The legislature is hereby authorized to provide by law for the mining and sale of any iron ore or other minerals which the state owns, in its sovereign capacity, and as trustee for the people of the state, which are situate under the waters or bed of any meandered public lake or river, and for that purpose may provide for the drainage of any such lake or river, or the diversion of the waters thereof to a new bed or channel, provided, however, that the vested riparian rights of private persons or corporations owning land adjoining such lakes shall not be destroyed or damaged without their consent, unless compensation therefor shall be first paid or secured. The principal of all funds arising from the sale of such iron ore, or other minerals, shall forever be preserved inviolate and undiminished, but the income therefrom shall be used for the construction, improvement and maintenance of the public roads of the state. The principal of such funds shall be loaned or invested in the same manner, by the same officers and upon the same terms as is, or from time to time hereafter may be authorized by the constitution and laws, for the loaning or investment of the permanent school and university funds of the state."

THE PURPOSE of the proposed amendment cannot be more clearly stated than is expressed therein.

THE EFFECT of the amendment, if adopted, would be to confer power on the legislature to provide by law for the mining of iron ore and other minerals, which the state owns in its sovereign capacity and situate under the bed of any meandered public lake or river, subject to the restriction that the rights of riparian owners on any such lake or river, shall not be destroyed or injured without compensation. If the legislature exercises the power, in case it is conferred, it could also provide for the drainage or diversion of the waters of the lake or river with reference to which it so legislates; it could also prescribe by whom such minerals could be mined and the compensation to be paid to the state therefor. The proceeds of the sale of any such minerals would constitute a fund to be loaned and invested the same as the permanent school and university funds, the income of such fund to be used in the construction, improvement and maintenance of public roads.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NO. 4.

By Chapter 382, Laws 1915, the legislature proposed an amendment to Section Two (2) of Article Six of the Constitution.

Said Section 2 now reads as follows:

"Section 2. SUPREME COURT—The supreme court shall consist of one chief justice and two associate justices, but the number of associate justices may be increased to a number not exceeding four, by the legislature, by a two-thirds vote, when it shall be deemed necessary. It shall have original jurisdiction in such remedial cases as may be prescribed by law and appellate jurisdiction in all cases, both in law and equity, but there shall be no trial by jury in said court. It shall hold one or more terms in each year, as the legislature may direct, at the seat of government, and the legislature may provide, by a two-thirds vote, that one term in each year shall be held in each or any judicial district. It shall be the duty of such court to appoint a reporter of its decisions. There shall be chosen, by the qualified electors of the state, one clerk of the supreme court, who shall hold his office for the term of four years, and until his successor is duly elected and qualified; and the judges of the supreme court, or a majority of them, shall have the power to fill any vacancy in the office of clerk of the supreme court until an election can be regularly had."

If the proposed amendment is adopted the section will then read as follows:

"Section 2. The supreme court shall consist of one chief justice and six associate justices. Five shall constitute a quorum, and the concurrence of at least four shall be necessary to a decision. It shall have original jurisdiction in such remedial cases as may be prescribed by law, and appellate jurisdiction in all cases, both in law and equity, but there shall be no trial by jury in said court. It shall hold one or more terms in each year, as the legislature may direct, at the seat of government, and the legislature may provide, by a two-thirds vote, that one term in each year shall be held in each or any judicial district. It shall be the duty of such court to appoint a reporter of its decisions and a clerk of the supreme court."

PURPOSE AND EFFECT: The Supreme Court as now constituted consists of a chief justice and four associate justices. The clerk of said court is now elected. If the amendment is adopted, two associate justices will be added to the court and the clerk will be appointed by the court instead of being elected by the voters.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NO. 5.

By Chapter 383, Laws 1915, the legislature proposed for adoption by the electors, an amendment of Section Eleven (11) of Article Four (4) of the Constitution.

Said section now reads as follows:

"Section 11. APPROVAL OF BILLS BY GOVERNOR — VETO POWER—Every bill which shall have passed the senate and house of representatives, in conformity to the rules of each house and the joint rules of the two houses, shall, before it becomes a law, be presented to the governor of the state. If he approves he shall sign and deposit it in the office of the secretary of state for preservation, and notify the house where it originated of the fact. But if not, he shall return it with his objections, to the house in which it shall have originated; when such objections shall be entered at large on the journal of the same, and the house shall proceed to reconsider the bill. If, after such reconsideration, two-thirds of that house shall agree to pass the bill, it shall be sent, together with the objections, to the other house, by which it shall likewise be reconsidered; and if it be approved by two-thirds of that house it shall become a law. But in all such cases the votes of both houses shall be determined by yeas and nays, and the names of the persons voting for or against the bill shall be entered on the journal of each house respectively. If any bill shall not be returned by the governor within three days (Sundays excepted) after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a law in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the legislature, by adjournment within that time, prevents its return; in which case it shall not be a law. The governor may approve, sign and file in the office of the secretary of state, within three days after the adjournment of the legislature, any act passed during the last three days of the session, and the same shall become a law. If any bill presented to the governor contains several items of appropriation of money he may object to one or more of such items, while approving of the other portion of the bill. In such case, he shall append to the bill, at the time of signing it, a statement of the items to which he objects, and the appropriation so objected to shall not take effect. If the legislature be in session, he shall transmit to the house in which the bill originated a copy of such statement, and the items objected to shall be separately reconsidered. If, on reconsideration, one or more of such items be approved by two-thirds of the members elected to each house, the same shall be a part of the law, notwithstanding the objections of the governor. All the provisions of this section, in relation to bills not approved by the governor, shall apply in cases in which he shall withhold his approval from any item or items contained in a bill appropriating money."

It is proposed to amend that section so that it shall read as follows:

"Section 11. Every bill which shall have passed the senate and house of representatives, in conformity to the rules of each house and the joint rules of the two houses, shall, before it becomes a law, be presented to the governor of the state. If he approves he shall sign and deposit it in the office of the secretary of state for preservation, and notify the house where it originated of the fact. But if not, he shall return it, with his objections, to the house in which it shall have originated; when such objections shall be entered at large on the journal of the same, and the house shall proceed to reconsider the bill. If, after such reconsideration, two-thirds of that house shall agree to pass the bill, it shall be sent, together with the objections, to the other house, by which it shall likewise be reconsidered; and if it be approved by two-thirds of that house it shall become a law. But in all such cases the votes of both houses shall be determined by yeas and nays, and the names of the persons voting for or against the bill shall be entered on the journal of each house respectively. If any bill shall not be returned by the governor within three days (Sundays excepted) after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a law in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the legislature by adjournment within that time, prevent its return; in which case it shall not be a law. The governor may approve, sign and file in the office of the secretary of state, within three days after the adjournment of the legislature, any act passed during the last three days of the session, and the same shall become a law. If any bill presented to the governor contains several items of appropriation of money, he may object to one or more of such items in whole or in part, while approving of the other portion of the bill. In such case he shall append to the bill, at the time of signing it, a statement of the items and parts of items to which he objects, and the part of any appropriation so objected to shall not take effect. If the legislature be in session, he shall transmit to the house in which the bill originated a copy of such statement, and the items objected to in whole or in part shall be separately reconsidered. If, on reconsideration, one or more of such items be approved by two-thirds of the members elected to each house, the same shall be a part of the law, notwithstanding the objections of the governor. All the provisions of this section, in relation to bills not approved by the governor, shall apply in cases in which he shall withhold his approval in whole or in part from any item or items contained in a bill appropriating money."

PURPOSE AND EFFECT: Under the Constitution as it now is, the governor may veto any item in an appropriation bill, but he cannot cut down the amount appropriated for any specific purpose. The amendment, if adopted, will give the governor power to reduce the amount of an appropriation for any given purpose, unless upon transmittal to the legislature of a statement of the part of an item of an appropriation bill to which he objects, the two houses, each by a two-thirds vote, approve the item as it was originally passed.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NO. 6.

By Chapter 384, Laws 1915, the legislature proposed an amendment of Section Thirteen (13) of Article One (1) of the Constitution.

The section as it now stands reads as follows:

"Section 13. PRIVATE PROPERTY FOR PUBLIC USE — Private property shall not be taken, destroyed or damaged for public use, without just compensation therefor first paid or secured."

If the amendment is adopted the section will read as follows:

"Section 13. Private property shall not be taken, destroyed or damaged for public use, without just compensation therefor first paid or secured, and such private property may be taken, destroyed or damaged for the purpose of private as well as public drainage upon just compensation therefor being first paid or secured."

THE PURPOSE of the proposed amendment is to permit the taking of private lands for the purpose of drainage purposes where the drain or ditch will be of no public benefit, but on the contrary will only benefit the land or lands of the person or persons constructing the drainage ditch.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NO. 7.

By Chapter 385, Laws 1915, the legislature proposed for adoption by the electors, an amendment of Section One (1) of Article Four (4) of the Constitution.

Section One as it now stands, reads as follows:

"Section 1. TWO HOUSES — SESSIONS — The legislature shall consist of the senate and house of representatives, which shall meet biennially at the seat of government of the state, at such time as shall be prescribed by law, but no session shall exceed the term of ninety legislative days, and no new bill shall be introduced in either branch except on the written request of the governor, during the last twenty days of such session, except the attention of the legislature shall be called to some important matter of general interest by a special message from the governor."

If the amendment is adopted, the section will then read as follows:

Sec. 1. TWO HOUSES—SESSIONS. — The legislature shall consist of the senate and house of representatives, which shall meet biennially at the seat of government of the state, at such time as shall be prescribed by law, but no session shall exceed the term of ninety (90) legislative days, and no bill shall be introduced in either branch, except on the written request of the governor, during the last twenty days of such session, except the attention of the legislature shall be called to some important matter of general interest by a special message from the governor; but the people reserve to themselves direct power as follows:

(a) CONSTITUTIONAL INITIATIVE.—When at any time prior to the commencement of any session of the legislature, there shall have been filed with the secretary of state a petition proposing an amendment to the constitution, signed by two per centum of the electors of the state, the secretary of state shall transmit the same to the legislature not later than ten (10) days after the commencement of the session. If the amendment so proposed be not submitted to the electors by the legislature at such session, or if it be submitted in an amended form, then, upon a further petition or petitions, each signed by eight per centum of the electors of the state, filed with the secretary of state within six months after the adjournment of the legislature, the amendment proposed in the first petition, or one or more amended forms thereof, shall be submitted to the electors for their approval or rejection at the next general or special state-wide election occurring not less than ninety days after the filing of any such further petition. Any amendment proposed by initiative petition and, in its original or in an amended form, submitted to the electors by the legislature or by a further petition, shall become a part of the constitution, if approved by a majority of the electors voting at such election, or by four-sevenths of the electors voting on the proposed amendment; provided, not less than three-sevenths of the electors voting at said election voted for the proposed amendment. This section shall be construed as a means in addition to Section 1, Article 14, of the state constitution, for amending the same.

(b) STATUTORY INITIATIVE.—When at any time prior to the commencement of any session of the legislature there shall have been filed with the secretary of state, a petition proposing a law, signed by two per centum of the electors of the state, the secretary of state shall transmit the same to the legislature not later than ten (10) days after the commencement of the session. If the law so proposed be not passed by the legislature at such session, or if it be passed in an amended form, then upon a further petition or petitions, each signed by six per centum of the electors of the state, filed with the secretary of state within six months after the adjournment of the legislature, the law proposed in the first petition or one or more amended forms thereof, shall be submitted to the electors at the next general or special state-wide election, occurring not less than ninety days after the filing of any such further petition or petitions, and if approved by a majority of the electors voting thereon, provided the vote in favor of the proposed law be not less than thirty-three per centum of the total number of votes cast at such election, the same shall become a law and go into effect thirty days after such election, and shall supersede any amended form of such law which may have been passed by the legislature. No law passed by the initiative petition and approved by the electors shall be subject to the veto of the governor. The authority of the people to enact laws, as provided in this subdivision, shall extend only to laws authorized by the provisions of the constitution.

(c) THE REFERENDUM. — If within ninety days after the final adjournment of any session of the legislature, a referendum petition, signed by six per centum of the electors of the state, shall be filed with the secretary of state against any law or any part of a law, passed by the legislature at such session, such law, or such part of a law shall be submitted to the electors at the next general or special state-wide election, occurring not less than ninety days after the filing of said petition. If a majority of the votes cast thereon be in the negative, provided such negative vote be not less than thirty-three per centum of the total number of votes cast at such election, such law or such part of a law shall thereby be repealed. Provided, that if a referendum petition is signed by fifteen per centum of the electors of the state, the law, or part of a law, against which such petition is filed shall be suspended pending the referendum vote thereon. Provided the same shall equal 33 per cent of the votes at such election.

Any law providing for a tax levy or appropriating money for the current expenses of the state government or state institutions, any act of the legislature submitting a constitutional amendment or other question to the electors of the state, or any emergency law necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health, or safety, shall go into effect immediately upon its passage and approval by the governor, and such laws, except emergency laws, shall not be subject to a referendum vote. All other laws shall go into effect ninety days after the adjournment of the legislature. A bill proposing an emergency law shall contain a preamble briefly setting forth the facts constituting the emergency. A separate vote shall be taken upon the preamble of such bill by a call of the yeas and nays, and if the preamble be adopted by a two-thirds vote of all the members of each house, it shall be an emergency law.

(d) GENERAL PROVISIONS.—All petitions provided for in this section shall contain a title indicating the subject and purpose of the proposed law or constitutional amendment, or the law, or part of a law to be referred, and if a change is proposed in an existing constitutional provision or statute, in addition to referring to the same, it shall state the general effect of the proposed change and also the full text of the proposed law or amendment to the constitution, or of the law or part of a law, to be referred. Any initiative or referendum petition may be signed in separate parts but each part shall conform to the provisions herein contained. All petitions shall be signed and verified before a person authorized to administer an oath, and shall be in such form that a person signing a petition thereby states under oath, the date of his signature, his residence, that he is a qualified elector, that he has not previously signed any part of such petition, and that he has signed the petition with knowledge of the contents thereof. To each part of such petition shall be attached the affidavit of the person before whom the same was signed, which affidavit shall contain a statement of the number of signers thereon, that each of the signatures attached to such part was made in the presence of the affiant, that to the best of his knowledge and belief each signature is the genuine signature of the person whose name it purports to be, that he believes the persons who have signed such petition to be electors, that they signed such petition with knowledge of the contents thereof, and that each person signed the same on the date stated opposite his name. The circulation of the petition provided for herein, or the prohibition of the circulation thereof, may be regulated by law, and in case the circulation of any petition is prohibited by law, the percentage of signers required on any petition provided for in this section shall be one-half of the percentage specified in subdivisions a, b and c of this section.

The percentage in any case shall be based upon the total number of votes cast for governor at the next preceding election. All petitions provided for in this section shall contain the signature of not less than one-half of the designated percentage of the electors in not less than one-fourth of the counties of the state. In initiating a law or constitutional amendment, electors who have signed the first shall be qualified to sign the second petition.

The sufficiency of all petitions shall be decided by the secretary of state subject to review by the court. If the secretary of state decides that any petition is insufficient, he shall permit a reasonable time for making corrections or for filing additional signatures. In the event of legal proceedings in court to prevent giving effect to any such petition on account of insufficiency, or any other ground, the burden of proof shall be upon the person attacking the petition. No law or amendment to the constitution initiated and approved by the electors as herein provided, shall be held unconstitutional or void on account of the insufficiency of any initiative petition; nor shall the repeal of any law submitted by referendum petition be held invalid for such insufficiency.

All initiative laws and constitutional amendments shall be so submitted to the electors as to permit an affirmative or negative vote upon each measure submitted. If conflicting proposed laws or conflicting proposed amendments to the constitution be approved at the same election, the one receiving the highest number of affirmative votes shall prevail as to conflicting provisions.

The style of all legislative measures and amendments to the constitution initiated by the people under this section shall be: "Be it enacted by the People of the State of Minnesota."

The provisions of this section may be enforced by appropriate legislation, but until such legislation has been enacted, this section shall be self executing.

THE PURPOSE AND EFFECT of this amendment, if adopted, will be three-fold.

(a) It will permit the voters to propose amendments to the state constitution, for adoption, without action by the legislature. Under the constitution as it now stands constitutional amendments can be proposed only by the legislature.

(b) So, too, if adopted, the amendment will permit electors to propose laws for enactment and if not enacted by the legislatures, the voters may by sufficient petition, require the question of the enactment of the proposed law to be submitted to the voters. If approved by a majority of the electors voting, thereon, provided the vote in favor of the proposed law is not less than thirty-three per cent of the total number of votes cast at such election, the same becomes a law with the same force and effect as though passed by the legislature. The governor will have no power to veto a law so passed, but the people cannot so pass any law which is prohibited by the constitution.

(c) So too, if adopted, the amendment will permit the voters by proper petition to require a vote on the question of whether or not any law or part thereof, of certain classes of laws, passed by the legislature shall be repealed. If the petition asking for the referendum is signed by fifteen per cent of the voters of the state, the number of whom is to be determined by the number of votes cast for Governor at the preceding election, the law so referred to the voters will not take effect pending the referendum vote thereon. The vote required to repeal a law passed by the legislature and the classes of laws which cannot be so repealed are specified in Subdivision "C" of the proposed amendment as above printed.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NO. 8.

By Chapter 386, Laws 1915, the legislature proposed for adoption by the electors an amendment of Section 7, Article 6, of the constitution.

The section now reads as follows:

"Section 7. PROBATE COURTS—There shall be established in each organized county in the state a probate court, which shall be a court of record, and be held at such times and places as may be prescribed by law. It shall be held by one judge, who shall be elected by the voters of the county for the term of two years. He shall be a resident of such county at the time of his election, and reside therein during his continuance in office; and his compensation shall be provided by law. He may appoint his own clerk where none has been elected; but the legislature may authorize the election, by the electors of any county, of one clerk of register of probate for such county, whose powers, duties, term of office and compensation shall be prescribed by law. A probate court shall have jurisdiction over the estates of deceased persons and persons under guardianship, but no other jurisdiction, except as prescribed by this constitution."

The amendment simply proposes to substitute the word "four" for the word "two" so that the sentence prescribing the duration of the term of office will, if the amendment is adopted, read as follows:

"It shall be held by one judge, who shall be elected by the voters of the county for the term of four years."

PURPOSE AND EFFECT: The amendment, if adopted will make the term of office of the Judge of Probate four years instead of two.

Visited by the Catacombs.

"Did I understand you to say you were in Europe?" he asked of the man who was talking to a drummer across the aisle.

"Yes, sir."

"Were you in Rome?"

"I was there for a month, sir."

"Ah, I am glad to have met you. I wanted to ask about Rome. You visited the catacombs, of course?"

"Didn't have to. They visited me."

"How do you mean?"

"Why, I never stirred out of the hotel that they weren't striking me for alms. Never saw such an infernal set in all my born days."

"Don't you mean the lazzaroni?"

"Of course. The catacombs and the lazzaroni are the same thing, only 'catacombs' is the Italian of it and the other is the English. If you haven't been over I'd advise you to go—if you can raise the dudads. You don't know how much a trip abroad will broaden and liberalize your mind."

And the other sank back and hid himself in a corner, and he did not get over looking pale for the next 30 miles.

Real Academic Dignity.

Max Muller tells a story of one of Dr. Strachan Davidson's predecessors as master of Balliol. "Once, when returning from a solitary walk, Doctor Jenkins, whose regard for his own dignity was very great, slipped and fell. Two undergraduates, seeing the accident, ran to assist him, and were just laying hands on him to lift him up when he descried a master of arts coming. 'Stop!' he cried. 'I see a master of arts coming down the street,' and he dismissed the undergraduates with many thanks, and was helped on his legs by the M. A."—London Chronicle.

The Clever Wasp.

Wasps appear to be well-nigh as industrious as ants or bees. One authority has declared that the cardinal doctrine of the wasp is: "If any wasp will not work, neither shall he eat."

Division of labor is clearly seen in the wasp's nest. Some of the workers seem to be specially employed as foragers and soldiers, others appear to be told off as nurses and guardians, while yet others are engaged as paper makers and masons.

The Bank Wrecker

Copyright by W. G. Chapman

Billy Gard was not thinking of business at all. As a healthy ultranormal young man, he was drowsing over his breakfast as one has a way of doing when at peace with the world and when unaroused by any call of the present. He had reached the rolls and coffee stage of his meal in a spirit of detachment that took no account of the somewhat garish flashiness of the hotel dining room in this typical hostelry of a city that had become noted as a maker of industrial millionaires. Then as his glance idly trailed among the other breakfasters, it automatically picked up an incident that flashed a light into his dormant brain and brought it to full consciousness.

A spoon had started from a grape fruit to the mouth of the tall, curly-haired man two tables away. Half way on its journey the hand which held it had twitched violently and spilled most of the contents. The brown eyes of the man stole out somewhat furtively to learn if anybody had noticed his nervousness.

Special Agent Billy Gard now gazed at the ceiling, but his mind was busy. It was running over the facts that it contained with relation to Bayard Alexander, who was this morning not himself and apprehensive lest the fact be noticed. For Alexander was of the class of men of whom it was his business to know. He was cashier of the Second National bank and Uncle Sam keeps a pretty close watch on such institutions when they happen to be located in communities of feverish activity.

So the special agent recalled that the tall man with the damp curls was a moving spirit in the city, an important instrument in its development, a man of many philanthropies, personal friend of a United States senator, cashier and active head of one of the most powerful financial institutions in the community. He was a man of very great energy, but one who led a normal, wholesome life and who, at the age of forty-five, seemed just coming into his stride. The bank examiners, Gard recalled, had steadily given the Second National a clean bill of health.

Why, then, should Alexander be nervous and, granting him that privilege, why should he fear its being noticed?

All of which was the seemingly illogical reason why Gard went to Wheeling that very night and was not seen about the metropolis for a week thereafter.

"I am a poor man," he told Allen, the stout bank examiner, when they met in the West Virginia town. "Poor but honest and not trying to borrow money. I am on my way to the city of opportunity looking for a job."

"You have come away that you might go back, as I understand it," said Allen. "Couldn't you change your peacock raiment for a hand-me-down without coming to Wheeling?"

"Yes, but I couldn't see you, Cherub," said Gard, "and you are to make all things possible for me. You are to convert me from a dweller in gilded palaces to a bank bookkeeper out of work, but with credentials.

"There is in Wheeling a bank cashier of your acquaintance," explained the special agent, "who used to work beside a bookkeeper whose friendship I want to cultivate. You introduce me to the cashier, he finds out what a really good fellow I am, we become friends. He gives me a letter of introduction to the man I want to meet. I return to the city and thrust myself properly into the affairs of one Sloan, bookkeeper for the Second National. The next time the corpulent examiner comes around he gets the surprise of his life. Do you follow me?"

Billy Gard had reached the conclusion that, if there was anything wrong with Bayard Alexander's bank the examiner was being deceived and that, therefore, there must be a juggling of accounts. Bookkeeper Charley Sloan of the individual ledgers occupied the post most likely to be used for deception, and so the special agent was taking a lot of trouble to make the right opportunity for getting friendly with Charley. That mild little man was therefore favorably impressed when he was handed a letter from his former associate who had gone to Wheeling and become a cashier. The two visited so agreeably together that a friendship developed and Gard came to live at the bookkeeper's boarding house. The two accountants grew to spend many evenings together and naturally talked shop.

"I had a friend," said Gard one evening, "who worked in a bank in New Orleans. Next to him was a bookkeeper who went wrong. He was induced to do this by a depositor who had a scheme for making them both rich. All the depositor needed was a little money. So he proposed that he draw checks against the bank and that the bookkeeper charge them temporarily to other accounts. The depositor would cash the checks at other banks and, when they came in, the teller would merely turn them over to the bookkeeper, probably asking if there was money to meet them. In this way a depositor who never had a thousand dollars in the bank eventually checked out $50,000."

"There was a teller," Sloan volunteered, "who worked in a bank here who entered the deposits in the books of the people making them and put the money in his pocket. There was no record of it except in the pass books. He got nearly all the money that came in for two months before he was found out."

"There are a lot of ways in which a bookkeeper may hide the facts with relation to a bank," continued the special agent. "It is pretty safe to charge anything to the inactive account of an estate or an endowed institution. These are not often looked into. The accounts balance for the examiner. I'll bet there isn't one bank in a dozen that doesn't fool the examiner."

"It's the easiest thing in the world," volunteered Sloan, "to take the necessary number of leaves out of the loose-leaf ledger to counter-balance it if the cash is short, and hide the leaves until the examiner is gone."

"Did you ever know that to be done?" abruptly asked the special agent.

The bookkeeper colored to his temples and was noticeably confused at the question. Then he said he had heard of its being done. The sleuth would have sworn he had led the bookkeeper into a confession.

Nothing was more natural than that these two bank bookkeepers should recur occasionally to the possibility of so arranging accounts that were in questionable condition that they would be passed by the examiner. Gard would lead to this in such a way that the bookkeeper would seem to have begun these discussions. Then he would talk freely. He would tell so many stories that the timid Sloan would want to relate a few in furnishing his part of the entertainment. But Gard knew that the bookkeeper was a man without imagination and that he could relate only what had happened in his experience. So, he was all ears when Sloan one night gave his opinions on the subject of kiting.

"Of course," he said, "all banks have depositors who kite their checks and thereby get hold of money which they may use for a week before they have to make good. A depositor may turn in a check for a thousand dollars, drawn on a New York bank where he has no money. At the same time he sends the New York bank a check for the same amount, drawn on you. This causes the New York bank to honor the check drawn against it. The check drawn on you, has to find its way through the clearing house and it will be a week before it gets back. In the meantime the depositor has had the use of a thousand dollars."

"But when it comes to real kiting," continued the bookkeeper, "it is the banks themselves that do it. If a bank has a sudden call for $100,000 and hasn't the money, all it has to do is to send a messenger with a check to a friendly bank around the corner. The messenger gets the whole amount in cash. It appears as an asset of the bank. It will be two or three days before the check will come back through the clearing house and appear as a liability, or the friendly bank may hold it up for a day or two. The banks may be swapping this sort of favors. The bank examiner does not know of the outstanding check. He is out of town before it appears."

Special Agent Billy Gard was again practically certain he had here been told a chapter out of the experiences of the Second National. He began to see his way clear to a denouement.

That same night events were transpiring of which he was to know a week later but which as yet were held in confidence among the directors of the Second National. They took place at a meeting of these same directors, called by a minority which was dissatisfied with certain features of its management. Director Hinton, a sprightly and quick-tempered little man, was the leader of the revolt. Senator Bothdoldt was present as a supporter of the management of the bank as represented by the suave, forceful cashier, Bayard Alexander, whose hand sometimes shook at breakfast.

"I want to protest," Hinton began by launching directly into the heart of the matter in hand, "against this new loan to the McGrath Construction company. It has been three years now that we have been pouring out our money to these people. We have $400,000 of their paper and I want to be shown that we can realize on it. It is time to call a halt."

"And there are the notes of the Oldman Mercantile company," somewhat heatedly argued a second disaffected director. "I have been reliably informed within the last two days that they are in danger of going to the wall."

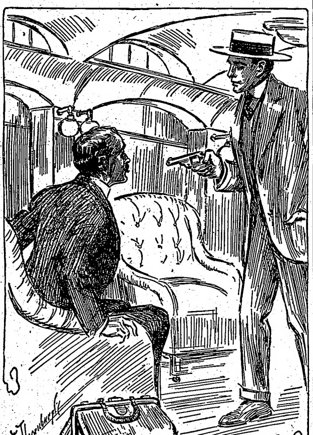
"And we, as directors, are responsible for the bank," said Mr. Isaacs, who was conservative.

"I for one," said Mr. Hinton, "have reached the point where I insist on a new management. I would like to know the sentiment of the board upon this question."

But the cashier asked for a word of explanation. Broad-shouldered and upstanding he rose among these heavy, sleek, bald-headed business men. His high and intellectual brow and clear-cut features gave him a distinction that always made its impression. But the firm mouth and the damp curls were those of a man of physical force and determination. His voice was alluring and convincing as he made his plea and there was now no tremble of the hand.

He stated and called upon Senator Bothdoldt to witness that the McGrath Construction company had just received from the government contracts for the building of numerous locks in the Ohio river. He agreed with the spirit of conservatism of the board and shared it. He had heard the rumors with relation to the Oldman Mercantile company and had sifted them to their depths and had found them without basis in fact. However, he had just called in a block of their notes. He painted a rosy picture of the condition of the bank and the prospects of the future. He reminded the directors that they had given him a free hand in the past and pointed to the institution as a monument to his accomplishment. At the termination of which speech, so convincing and so dominant was the personality of the man, Director Hinton withdrew his protest and the institution was left under the former guidance.

It was three days later that things began to happen. Gard had called upon Bank Examiner Allen to come to his assistance. The two of them had conferred the night before and settled upon a plan of campaign for testing the stability of the affairs of the bank.



"I AM AN AGENT OF THE DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE," SAID GARD. "YOU ARE UNDER ARREST."

It was in accordance with this plan that the rotund and genial Allen breakfasted in that dining room where the special agent's suspicions had first been aroused. Bayard Alexander was at his usual table and Allen allowed the banker to see him although he appeared not to be aware of it. It was also in accordance with the cards played by the men of the government service that Special Agent Gard, still a bit seedy in his hand-me-down suit, was loafing on the sidewalk opposite the Second National bank when the cashier came to work. It was a part of his plan that he should see as much as possible of what went on in the institution when the word was passed that the examiner was in town.

Gard was not surprised, therefore, when a messenger emerged from the bank and hurried off down the street. He believed that the story of the bookkeeper of the kiting bank was to be enacted before his eyes. He followed the messenger to another bank two blocks away and there saw him present a check. Gard crowded in on the pretense of getting a bill changed and saw blocks of bills of large denominations being taken from the vault. The messenger hurried back to the bank with them. It was evident that that institution was making ready for the coming of the examiner. It was as evident that its affairs were not as they should be or this preparation would not be necessary.

It was a part of the program that, when Sloan, the bookkeeper, came out of the bank for lunch, Gard should be waiting for him. It was not unusual that they thus went to their noonday meal together.

"Will you do me a favor?" asked Sloan while they were at lunch. "Take care of this package for me. It is a large photograph, rolled, that I have just received from home. Please be careful of it."

The special agent assumed charge of the package which looked not unlike a roll of music. Later he found his suspicions justified for in the roll were a number of leaves from the bank's individual ledger. Gard was appalled at the amount of money that they represented. He carefully photographed them and returned them that night to the bookkeeper.

No pretext was omitted for getting a look into what was transpiring in the Second National bank on this particular day. Examiner Allen had called in the afternoon and had carefully looked over the balances. All appeared to be in order and no discrepancies were revealed. The bank seemed particularly strong from the standpoint of cash on hand.

It was just at closing time that two things happened. Gard presented himself at the Second National and asked to see the cashier. He had become known there as an associate of Sloan's. He was looking for a position as bookkeeper and it was for this he came. He waited. It often happens that an individual may wander unannounced into quarters the privacy of which are ordinarily closely guarded. Gard found the door open that led into the corridor off of which were to be found the offices of the officials of the bank. He walked in and wandered down the row until he found that of the cashier. This he entered and found entirely empty. It was a spacious room with a big, flat-topped desk. Across one corner of this was thrown a coat, and a hat rested upon it. An open traveling bag stood on the table.

The special agent, by leaning on the table in the attitude of waiting, could look into the bag. There he saw a package of what he recognized as a well-known issue of industrial bonds which the examiner had listed as one of the chief assets of the bank. It should have been in the bank's vaults, instead of which it was in the cashier's traveling bag. This was a discovery well worth consideration.

Cashier Alexander entered the room hurriedly from another part of the bank. He was visibly startled to find someone present and demanded bruskly what the intruder was doing there.

"I am a bookkeeper, sir," said the special agent very humbly. "Sloan is a friend of mine and thought you might employ me."

"I can't talk to you tonight. Come around next week."

"But may I not come tomorrow?" said Gard.

"I will be out of town for three days," Alexander said finally. "I can't talk to you until after that."

The special agent took his dismissal. He had learned that the bank cashier was going away and that he was taking a package of the bank's most valuable securities with him. He was going some distance for the trip was to last three days. His destination was probably New York.

Meantime the genial examiner had rolled in upon the bank to which the Second National had sent its messenger, at about closing time. He had asked to see the transactions of the day. Among these was found the record of the check that had been cashed early in the morning. It was the personal check of Bayard Alexander and was for $125,000.

The two representatives of the federal government conferred hurriedly.

"And the securities," questioned Gard. "Were they intact when you were at the bank this morning?"

"Everything was in order," replied Allen.

"The package of industrials. What was its value?"

"About $500,000," replied the examiner.

"Alexander is leaving tonight with those securities. He may be taking the $125,000 in cash with him. The time has come for his arrest. Particularly must we guard those assets and prevent any unnecessary demands upon the bank."

"He may be making a run for Canada," said Allen.

"The securities will take him to New York that he may realize upon them," was Gard's deduction. "I am for the station and will follow him if he takes any train. You try for his trail about town and report to me there."

But after all it was a piece of luck that saved the day for Gard. He was racing for the station in a taxicab when his machine was halted at a crossing. Another taxicab pulled up beside his, waited a minute, two minutes. He could see the driver from where that individual sat not six feet away and just opposite his window. Presently this chauffeur bent down to get instructions from his fare. The man in the taxicab was talking quietly, but so near was he to the special agent that he could be easily overheard.

"Get out of this jam," he was saying. "Cut across town to the North side station. We have already missed the 6:15. If you head it off at the North side it is worth a twenty-dollar bill to you."

The voice was smooth and unruffled. Yet it was dominant. It set the driver immediately upon edge and into motion. And there was in it a familiar note that puzzled the detective for a moment, then brought back the interview of the afternoon. Yes, it was Bayard Alexander talking.

It was hard luck that caused a crossing policeman to let the first automobile through and shut off the second. It was the worst sort of luck that caused the special agent to arrive at the North side station just as the gate was slammed and made it necessary for him to produce credentials to get through. He was barely able to swing into the vestibule of a sleeper as the train was getting under way. It was particularly hazardous from the standpoint of accomplishing the end he had in mind, for he did not even know if Alexander was aboard and faced the danger of having ridden away on the fastest train to New York and left his work behind him. Even if the man he was after was aboard there was the chance that he had become aware of the chase and would take precaution to outwit him.

But now there was no hurry. His man was or was not on the train and the porter told him there would be no stop for two hours. The special agent was still a good deal of a youngster with an appreciation of the dramatic and here was a situation that appealed to him. He wondered if he were riding into the dusk on a wild goose chase, or if he had cornered this fugitive master-crook, with a traveling bag containing half a million dollars of other peoples' money. He pictured the man he was after—the suave, confident, stealthy cashier, who had stolen his hundreds of thousands and had, by the very force of him, compelled his subordinates to bide his shortcomings. He wondered if this man of action was expecting pursuit or if he was riding on in confidence of being able to make his escape. He thought of the satchel that the cashier carried and of his responsibility, as a government agent, for safeguarding its contents. It was something of an assignment for a youngster.

"And mother used to say to me," grinned Billy to himself, "when she sent me around the corner for a dozen eggs: 'Do be careful to bring back the change and for goodness sake don't drop the bag.' I wish mother could see me now."

Whereupon William H. Gard of the United States department of justice arose and went to the front of the train. From this point he worked steadily back, making sure that he saw every passenger, looking each over with sufficient scrutiny that a disguise would not have escaped him, making sure that the man he sought was in the portion of the train to the rear. It began to look as though he had actually boarded a train which the fugitive had failed to catch.

Dark was just coming on. It was that hour when most of the passengers on a train are to be found in the diner. It happened that this train was running light and now the sleepers were practically deserted but for the nodding porters. Through one after another of these the special agent passed until there remained only the observation car at the end. It was here that he would find his quarry or prove himself outwitted.

When he came into the observation car through the narrow hall that leads to it, a lounging figure by the door drew itself taut. Instinctively it put its hand to a traveling bag that rested on the next chair. Then it remained still.

The special agent came direct down the car and went immediately to the task in hand.

"You are Bayard Alexander," he said, "and my prisoner."

The cashier was, after all, surprised. He was not aware that he was being followed. He sprang forward in his chair but met the glint of a pistol in the hand of the special agent.

"And you? Oh, I see!" said the cashier, recovering himself. "The bookkeeper was not a bookkeeper after all."

"I am an agent of the department of justice," said Gard. "You are under arrest."

The tall figure of the cashier had risen from its chair. To the traveling bag he clung instinctively. The situation seemed entirely in the control of the special agent with gun drawn and the retreat cut off. Yet, like a flash, the cashier turned the knob of the door that led out upon the rear platform of the observation car. The gun of the special agent spit forth a flame, but whether he had intended to bring down his man or not he was afterward quite unable to recall.

But with a leap he was after and upon the fugitive. He realized the intent of the cashier to throw himself from the train, to end all in suicide. He saw the traveling bag getting beyond his reach. It was the last thing that would have appealed to him to stand idly by while such incidents were taking place.

The two men grappled. A new purpose flashed into the mind of the cashier. Here was he given an unexpected opportunity for freedom. Only the special agent stood in his way. If he could but drop this youngster over the rail, suicide would be unnecessary. A new purpose came into his tall, lithe form. It was to be put to the task of fighting for its own preservation.

And such a setting for a fight! The clamor of the train beat into the blood of the contestants like the applause of an arena. The swish of the platform as the express dashed through the darkness at seventy miles an hour made the ordinary strategy of battle uncertain. Beyond the narrow rail that skirted this platform upon which their fight was staged death waited expectant on three sides. There were now no weapons and the contestants went back to the primal in a tooth and fang grapple for existence as might two frenzied bears at bay.

The cashier was the larger man and one who had always kept in condition through gymnasium work. The special agent was lither and younger. The larger man was determined that he would thrust the smaller over the rail and fling him from the train. He fought his way to the edge of the platform, forcing his antagonist further and further over it, hammering him down by the sheer superiority of weight and strength.

But all the time the special agent was playing to his own advantage. He was getting low beneath the guard of the cashier. His arms had found an iron lock beneath his antagonist's coat and about his waist. He felt that this hold could not be broken and that a time would come when the strength of the larger man would wane. He could afford to wait.

It was but a swish of the train that gave him the slight advantage he sought in taking the aggressive. It swayed the tall form of his enemy as it towered above him a little backward. This put the spine in a position where it could not immediately resist a strong pressure. Already he had felt a give in the body muscles that meant the first approach of weakness. Like a flash his head was on the tall man's chest, all his strength was in his arms, and he was administering that treatment known in his youth as the "Indian hug." Slowly he overcame his antagonist, bent him back, and they came tumbling among the chairs of the observation platform.

From the fall came a new grip to the advantage of the special agent. As they went down he flung his legs around his antagonist, and was able to get the wrestler's "scissors" about his waist, thus applying pressure where there was already exhaustion and allowing his legs, which were rested, to bear the brunt.

Thus were they locked when the brakeman came to the rear and found them. But the battle was already near its end. For the flash of a moment the cashier rallied and acted. In that moment his hands seized and flung from the train the grip with its precious burden. Then he sank into unconsciousness.

Billy Gard had ridden back to the section of the road where the traveling bag had gone overboard, and had waited for the coming of daylight to search for it. In the gray dawn he walked down the track and met an Irish section man, who had already picked it up.

"I see you have found my satchel," said Gard, accosting him.

"Your satchel it may be," said the Irishman, "but you will have to be after tellin' me what's in it by way of identification."

"Nothing much beside half a million dollars," said the special agent, proffering the key.

The man who had found the traveling bag looked inside and, as far as Billy Gard knows, never spoke again. He was still dumb when the young man drove away in his automobile.

Lesson Learned.

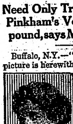
Mrs. French Vanderbilt was talking at a luncheon in Newport, about a young matron of great wealth who had deserted her husband for a handsomer, but by no means better man.

"When Blanc married Helen with her thirty million dollars," said Mrs. Vanderbilt, "he thought he was stepping straight into paradise.

"I'm sorry for Blanc. He has now learned that the richest girls made the poorest wives."

YOUNG WOMEN MAY AVOID PAIN

Need Only Trust to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, says Mrs. Kurtzweg.



Buffalo, N.Y.—"My daughter, whose picture is herewith, was much troubled with pains in her back and sides every month and they would sometimes be so bad that it would seem like acute inflammation of some organ. She read your advertisement in the newspapers and tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She praises it highly as she has been relieved of all these pains by its use. All mothers should know of this remedy, and all young girls who suffer should try it."—Mrs. MATILDA KURTZWEG, 529 High St., Buffalo, N. Y.

Young women who are troubled with painful or irregular periods, backache, headache, dragging-down sensations, fainting spells or indigestion, should take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Thousands have been restored to health by this root and herb remedy.

If you know of any young woman who is sick and needs helpful advice, ask her to write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. Only women will receive her letter, and it will be held in strictest confidence.

Arsenic Absorbed by Living Hair.

New light has been thrown on the legal side of arsenic poisoning, says the Scientific American. It has been found that arsenic compounds are absorbed by the hair of living persons, though not absorbed after death. In the hair of a man arsenic has been known to reach a concentration of one to five parts in 100,000. The deposit takes place in the hair after it has been absorbed by the abdominal organs—liver and kidneys in particular.

Therefore, in cases of acute, quick poisoning, a chemical analysis of the hair would show no arsenic, while it would be found in the liver and kidneys. On the other hand, if slow arsenic poisoning were suspected, analysis would show arsenic in the hair, but not in the liver and kidneys, and it could safely be assumed that the poisoning was not recent. The legal value of such evidence is apparent.

Don't Neglect Kidneys

Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Prescription, Overcomes Kidney Trouble

It is now conceded by physicians that the kidneys should have more attention as they control the other organs to a remarkable degree and do a tremendous amount of work in removing the poisons and waste matter from the system by filtering the blood.

The kidneys should receive some assistance when needed. We take less exercise, drink less water and often eat more rich, heavy food, thereby forcing the kidneys to do more work than nature intended. Evidence of kidney trouble, such as lame back, annoying bladder troubles, smarting or burning, brick-dust or sediment, sallow complexion, rheumatism, maybe weak or irregular heart action, warns you that your kidneys require help immediately to avoid more serious trouble.

An ideal herbal compound that has had most remarkable success as a kidney and bladder remedy is Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root. There is nothing else like it. It is Dr. Kilmer's prescription used in private practice and it is sure to benefit you. Get a bottle from your druggist.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper. Adv.

Waiting!

By

Mrs. Alvah Gordon Garth

(Copyright, 1916, by W. G. Chapman.)

"Going home, Livingston?"

"With fear and trembling."

"Because—?"

For answer Royce Livingston took out his memorandum book. He pointed to a page. It was a record of auto hire, suppers, theater parties and haberdashery. It footed up two hundred and seventy-eight dollars. Ned Griscom puckered his lips to a low amazed whistle.

"Pretty steep, eh?" questioned Royce, his brief laugh full of assumed indifference. "I don't know what my Aunt Marcia will say to it, but I've got to tell her. My creditors will wait just one week into the vacation. Then—action."

"As how, now?"

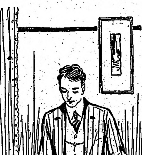
"Notify my aunt, and then a row, I can tell you! for I have overdrawn my allowance every month of the present term."

"She must like you, Livingston."

"I'm all she has in the way of relations, and a poor specimen, I'm free to say. Dear woman! She's cared for me ever since her sister, my mother, died. Never a scolding word—sweet, patient, self-sacrificing—oh, I'm a cad, I am!" and Royce strode away, hating himself.

He had reason to say "Dear woman," for Aunt Marcia had been a veritable mother to him. The worst of it was, it struck him, she was positively proud of him. His juvenile picadilloes she had never chided. As he grew older and some of his wild capers came to her notice, she passed them by as the evanescent and unavoidable ebullition of growing manhood. Royce felt thoroughly ashamed of himself.

"I'll cut it all out. I'll amount to something and be a credit to the family name," he resolved. "When I get home I'll tell the whole miserable story of my folly and extravagance to Aunt Marcia, and turn over a new leaf, strictly."



They Were His College Bills.

Royce was not destined to see his aunt when he arrived at Ferndale the next morning. The old family servant met him at the door and greeted him with genuine pleasure in her face. She was Mary Barker, true as steel to her mistress and loyal to all of her kin.

The house was in sterling order, a royal breakfast lay spread, specially prepared for one, and he obviously the honored guest. When she showed him later to his room he found it newly furnished, a box of cigars on a stand, everything accessible for comfort and luxury, a check on his dressing table for one hundred dollars and beside it a little stack of paper slips inclosed by a rubber band.

They were his college bills and all marked "Paid." A little note said: "Enjoy yourself after your hard term. I shall not see you today, as I am confined to my room." Royce was overcome. Not a word of reproach, the way cleared for perfect freedom from care or annoyance. He swallowed a big lump in his throat and registered a renewed solemn vow to mend his reckless ways.

But youth is youth and loneliness a bore, and towards afternoon Royce got tired of reading and strolling in the garden and lounging about.

"I hope my aunt isn't sick, Mary," he remarked to the old servant.

"Oh, bless you, now!" was promptly responded. "You see, this is the twenty-eighth."

"Of what?" demanded Royce bewilderedly.

"Of June. Why, don't you know? Oh, I've put my foot in it! I thought—" and Mary darted away, flushed and discomposed.

"A mystery here!" soliloquized Royce, and then forgot all about it when he reached the village billiard room, met some old village chums, went to a traveling show that happened to be in town, and started for home at nearly midnight.

A night key had been trustfully left on his dresser by his confiding aunt, and Royce counted on getting to his room quietly. When he came to search for it, however, he found that he had lost it somewhere from his pocket. He recalled old boyish days and a certain low window at the rear of the house. Royce started around the wing. Then he halted in sheer amazement. He had never known its upper room to be occupied. It had been kept always locked up. It was occupied now. A shade at an open window was fluttering in the strong night breeze and he could see plainly into the lighted room beyond.

A remarkable picture met his perplexed vision. His aunt sat in the center of the room. She was arrayed in the garb of a bride. Veil, wreath, dress, filmy, almost eerie-like, she was garbed as if for a wedding ceremony. Except that the delicate filaments of apparel were old, yellow, in places frayed out and torn, she might be a bride awaiting the call to the altar.

She sat rigid, though graceful, her set sad eyes, her whole pose one of expectancy, as though each moment she anticipated the arrival of her bridesmaids. Then the curtain flapped close and the strange startling picture was shut from view. Royce rubbed his eyes, he marveled. He reached his room by the old surreptitious route. Then he lay awake, groping vainly in his mind for a key to this uncanny mystery.

His aunt greeted him at the table next morning, her old gracious, kindly self. She was still a beautiful woman, under forty, and not a trace of her face that she had been keeping a weary vigil that surely commemorated some vivid event in the long gone past.

And for the first time that afternoon Royce learned of the romance in the life of his aunt. Ten years ago she had been engaged to a man named Rolfe Gregory. The marriage day was set, the evening arrived. She was all ready for the ceremony when a note came from Gregory. He bade her farewell forever—he could not marry her. He would love her to the end of life, but a great barrier had been raised against all future happiness.

And Aunt Marcia still loved her recreant lover, thus Royce reasoned, else why this annual vigil, remindful of the expectedly most happy moment of her life? Royce began an investigation. He located Rolfe Gregory in a city five hundred miles away. He devoted the money Aunt Marcia had given him to ferreting out this man.

Royce found Rolfe Gregory leading a lonely bachelor life, a sad, cheerless man of forty. He formed his acquaintance, he learned his secrets.

On the eve of his wedding his father was confronted with a prosecution for fraud in his business. In no way could it be averted save through money. In no way could the money be secured except through Gregory's marriage to an heiress who loved him. He made the sacrifice, his wife lived two years. Since then he had lived a hermit life existence, ashamed to seek again the only woman he had ever loved.

"There is someone to see you in the parlor, Aunt Marcia," Royce said one day. "a broken, penitent man with a sad, sad story to tell. You will listen to it?"

"Is it Rolfe Gregory?" she spoke, and sweetly, patiently.

"Yes, Aunt Marcia."

"I knew he would come back to me in time," she said simply.

He had come back—to remain. Their tears mingled and then their kisses. Time had not soured them. It had mellowed them, had made them patient and forgiving, and a future hovered.

It was a future hallowed by another issue: the regeneration of Royce Livingston. He had done a grand act in bringing those two starving souls together, and, somehow, a new ambition and manlier impulses came into his young life.

CHINESE DISLIKE SOLDIERS

Unlike the Japanese They Have a Contempt for the Professional Fighting Man.

The well-known olden dislike of, even contempt for, soldiers common to the industrious masses of China, in town as in country, is based on their experience that the soldier is a loafer most of the time and a terror to the country when war is in the air. They have not glorified valor or quite grasped the beauty, not to say the duty, of dying for one's country, although when they do fight they face death with a great indifference.

Discussing this phase of the Chinese character, Yone Noguchi, the Japanese writer, says in the course of a recent article, according to East and West: "This Chinese hatred of soldiery business or the encouragement of effeminate indolence is well explained in a famous ballad written by Po Chu-i called 'The Arm Broken Old Man.' This old man was not informed till he received in his youth an order to become a soldier and intentionally broke his arm in order to be excused from such a duty. Although his arm pained badly on a cold or rainy day, he was glad to be thankful for it, for while his friends had been killed in the battlefield, he alone could enjoy a long life. What a different sentiment from that of us Japanese, whose loyalty to the flag and the imperial house is taught to begin with the slighting of our own lives."

Mere Formality.

"Shall we tell papa?" asked the girl.

"Huh?"

"That you are his son-in-law-elect?"

"Don't you suppose the old man knows that something is up after I have been hanging around here for two years? What's the use of bothering him with a notification committee?"—Louisville Courier-Journal.

SWINE HARVEST CORN

One of the Most Economical Practices on Any Farm.

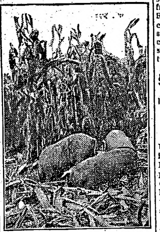
Crop Is Consumed Without Waste and Cost of Husking Is Saved—Sows Intended for Fattening Make Remarkable Gains.

Hogging down corn, once in disrepute and counted shiftless, has now become respectable and moves in the very best society.

Careful experiments as well as practical experience of hard-fisted farmers have shown that the hog is the most economical corn harvester known. He husks the corn, consumes it without waste and returns as much or more pork per bushel of corn than where the grain is husked and carried to him. The cost and labor of corn husking are thereby saved.

Furthermore, during the process the animals have spread the resulting manure over the land in an even manner, another saving of labor and great benefit to the soil. Particularly where the corn is not of the highest commercial quality and is intended for immediate feeding is hogging down recommended. You can trust the pigs to get all out of the field there is in it.

Turn in the shotes weighing from 90 to 150 pounds or a little more and let them clean up the field fairly well. Naturally there will be some shattered grains and scattering ears left and then you can turn in the old brood sows and let them pick up the leavings. Old sows that are being fattened for market make remarkable gains turned into the cornfield.



Hogging Down Corn.

Don't forget that corn alone, while it is the best hog feed, is not sufficient. Many farmers sow rape or cowpeas or soy beans between the rows in the summer and by fall they have a good growth of pasture. Rape is one of the best crops for this purpose. If conditions are favorable, sow a patch of rape along one side of the cornfield in early fall where it won't be hindered by the shade of the corn as when sown in the rows. This will make a good growth and give lots of pasture as well as supplement the corn in case you hog it down.

SERIOUS EGG-EATING HABIT

Many Writers Recommend Drastic Measures to Remedy Evil—Brought About by Confinement.

The egg-eating habit is one of the serious troubles the poultryman has to contend with. Many writers recommend drastic measures in combating the evil—the selling or killing of the entire flock, if the habit is general.

In general, it may be stated that the egg-eating habit is brought about by confinement, the accidental breaking of eggs in the nest, the feeding of egg-shell with portions of the egg-substance adhering, and a lack of animal and mineral food in the ration.

The two most general causes are confinement and lack of mineral and animal food. Hens having free range seldom contract the bad habit. The reason for this is plain. They are in and about the laying house only while laying, and at other times are too busy hunting for food to fall into evil ways. It's the idle hen that contracts the habit.

FEEDING CATTLE OVER FENCE

If There Is Any Doubt About Strength of Inclosure, Corn Had Better Be Fed in Yards.

Be sure that when you feed your cattle corn over the fence that the feeding is done at a place where the fence is very strong.

Cattle crowd the fence at such a point very hard and if there is any doubt about the strength the corn had better be hauled to the yards and fed there.

Better make a little extra work than to educate a herd of fence breakers.

OLD TURKEYS FOR BREEDING

Fowl Is in Its Prime at Three Years—Poor Practice to Dispose of All the Mature Birds.

The turkey is not fully matured until two years of age, and is in his prime at three years, and nearly as good at four years old.

It is therefore a mistake to sell off all the older birds and retain the young ones for breeding purposes.

ANIMAL FOOD FOR CHICKENS

Meat-Fed Fowls Make Quicker and Cheaper Gains Than Others—Milk Is Good Substitute.

An agricultural investigator, after a series of tests, has come to the conclusion that meat-fed chicks make quicker and cheaper gains than others, regardless of size, and that chicks started on a ration deficient in animal food never regain their lost ground. In some of his own experiments he found that hens without meat generally began laying before meat-fed hens and maintained their position for weeks and even months on such rations. He concludes that although the work done by most investigators has usually shown a decided superiority for the meat-fed laying hens, there is sufficient evidence the other way to warrant further investigation. In the fattening of fowls, animal food has appeared to be essential to the best results, except when milk has been used, but of the various sources there seems to be little preference aside from convenience or economy.

The substitutes for animal food in common use are milk, milk albumen, or dried milk, vegetable sources of protein, and bone ash or phosphate sources. Milk albumen has not generally given good results. Milk, sour or otherwise, has given conflicting results. Vegetable protein when used under favorable conditions, has often given as good results as when protein from animal sources has been used. Results of feeding bone ash or some carrier of phosphorus indicate that some of the advantage that has been claimed for animal protein may possibly be due to the mineral matter contained in the meat scrap or cut bone.

SHIPMENT OF DEAD ANIMALS

In Some Instances Shippers Have Violated Regulations of Agricultural Department.

It has come to the attention of the U. S. department of agriculture that in some instances shippers of live stock have violated the regulation of the department prohibiting the shipment of dead animals in the same car with live animals. The regulation, which was adopted February 10, 1915, and amended July 1, 1916, is as follows:

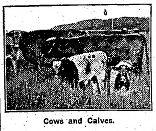
"No dead animal shall be transported, offered, or accepted for transportation in the same car with live animals from the original point of shipment in any State or Territory or the District of Columbia to or through any other State, Territory, or the District of Columbia."

The foregoing regulation is binding alike upon individual shippers, railroads, and other carriers. Violation of the regulation is punishable by a fine of $100. The original regulation, B. A. I. Order 210, and the later, amended regulation, B. A. I. Order 245, were promptly made public, but it is possible that some individual shippers are not familiar with the regulation. They should hereafter be careful to observe it. Failure by several railroads to observe the regulation has already resulted in prosecutions of them and the imposition of penalties.

SHOULD RAISE DAIRY CALVES

Practice Offers Dairyman Many Advantages—Improves Quality and Market Value of Herd.

The practice of raising his own calves offers the dairyman many and unlimited advantages. It improves the quality and market value of his herd, means increased production of both milk and butterfat, and reduces, to the minimum, the danger of infecting his herd with the many diseases common to this class of live stock, thereby avoiding serious loss which may result from condemnation or death of diseased animals and from decreased production, due to low vitality caused by disease. It protects his product against contamination with disease germs which might otherwise jeopardize the health and life of the consuming public.—Indiana Experiment Station.



Cows and Calves.

NATURAL CRAVING FOR MEAT

Hens in Confinement Should Be Given Regular Supply of Animal Food of Some Kind.

Hens have a natural craving and liking for animal food. In summer, when they can roam the fields and meadows their appetite for animal food is amply gratified by the finding and consuming of thousands of worms and bugs. During the winter months, if no animal food is supplied, the hen, if given the chance, will satisfy her appetite for animal food by eating eggs. Hens in confinement, and at all seasons of the year when animal life is not abundant on the range, should be regularly supplied with animal food of some kind. When egg-shells are fed to hens, they should be very finely crumbled. Browning them in the oven will not destroy their food value, and when browned they crumble easily.

Take Iron, Says Doctor, if You Want Plenty of "Stay There" Strength Like an Athlete!

Ordinary Nuxated Iron Will Make Delicate, Nervous, Rundown People 200 Per Cent Stronger in Two Weeks' Time, in Many Cases.

New York, N. Y.—Most people foolishly seem to think they are going to get renewed health and strength from some stimulating medicine, secret nostrum or narcotic drug, said Dr. Sauer, a specialist of this city, when, as a matter of fact, real and true strength can only come from the food you eat. But people often fail to get the strength out of their food because they haven't enough iron in their blood to enable it to change food into living matter. From their weakened, nervous condition they know something is wrong, but they can't tell what, so they generally commence doctoring for stomach, liver or kidney trouble or symptoms of some other ailment caused by the lack of iron in the blood. This thing may go on for years, while the patient suffers untold agony. If you are not strong or well, you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of ordinary nuxated iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see for yourself how much you have gained. I have seen dozens of nervous, run-down people who were ailing all the while, double and even triple their strength and endurance and entirely get rid of all symptoms of dyspepsia, liver and other troubles in from ten to fourteen days' time simply by taking iron in the proper form, and this after they had in some cases been doctoring for months without obtaining any benefit. But don't take the old forms of reduced iron, iron acetate or tincture of iron simply to save a few cents. You must take iron in a form that can be easily absorbed and assimiliated like nuxated iron if you want it to do you any good, otherwise it may prove worse than useless. Many an athlete or prize-fighter has won the day simply because he knew the secret of great strength and endurance and filled his blood with iron before he went into the affray, while many another has gone down to inglorious defeat simply for the lack of iron.

NOTE—Nuxated Iron recommended above by Dr. Sauer, is one of the newer organic iron compounds. Unlike the older inorganic iron products, it is easily assimilated, does not injure the teeth, make them black, nor upset the stomach; on the contrary it is a most potent remedy in nearly all forms of indigestion, as well as for nervous, run-down conditions. The Manufacturers have such great confidence in Nuxated Iron that they offer to forfeit $100.00 to any charitable institution if they cannot take any man or woman under sixty, who lacks iron and increase their strength 200 per cent or over in four weeks' time, provided they have no serious organic trouble. They also offer to refund your money if it does not at least double your strength and endurance in ten days' time. It is dispensed by most druggists. If your druggist or general store is without a supply, ask them to get it for you.—Adv.

What's Doing in Minnesota

Red Wing. — More than 100 cities and villages were represented at the fourth annual convention of the League of Minnesota Municipalities, at Red Wing. The organization has a membership of 121 municipalities.

St. Paul. — Special state aid of $27,819.67 to schools in eight Minnesota cities maintaining classes for deaf and sub-normal pupils is apportioned according to a report from S. A. Challman, inspector, to C. G. Schulz, state superintendent of instruction.

Northfield. — Charles J. Hunt of St. Paul sounded the keynote of Congregationalism here in the moderator's address before the sixty-first annual state conference of the denomination at the opening meeting of a two days' program.

St. Paul. — Property loss of $617,858 resulted from 251 fires in Minnesota during September, Robert W. Hargadine, state fire marshal, announces. In the corresponding month last year 208 fires caused $317,662 loss, he added.

Bemidji. — Nymore, a suburb, was annexed to Bemidji and a $75,000 gas franchise granted to the Public Improvement company of Minneapolis at a meeting of the city council. With the incorporation, Bemidji has a population exceeding 8,000.

St. Paul. — Only a "general demand from over the state" for laws to permit the Minnesota guardsmen on the border to vote Nov. 7, Governor J. A. A. Burnquist said, will result in a call for an extra session of the legislature. "Such a demand doesn't exist at this time, in my opinion," said the governor.

Winona. — Through the use of large pumps, the steamer Frontenac has been floated and towed to Fountain City, under the direction of W. D. Wisherd of the Mississippi Excursion Boat agency. The Frontenac, 18 months ago, struck the lower railway bridge in Winona. She sank after being partly beached.

Minneapolis. — George H. Reif, superintendent of schools for Ramsey county, in an address before the Minnesota Public Health association, in session at the Radisson hotel, Minneapolis, advocated legislation covering the medical examination of school children and providing for county nurses in rural communities.

Brainerd. — L. H. Slocum, who was removed as auditor of Koochiching county, following irregularities found in the books of his office, cannot be compelled to testify before M. J. Brown, special commissioner appointed by Governor J. A. A. Burnquist to investigate the county finances, Judge W. S. McClenahan has ruled.

Wabasso. — Minnesota state banks number 1,290 with the opening of the Farmers' State Bank of Wabasso, which has just been chartered by A. H. Turrittin, state superintendent of banks. It begins with $15,000 capital and $3,000 surplus. C. L. Burley and M. J. Burley, both of Wabasso, are president and cashier respectively.

Northfield. — A unanimous indorsement was given the plan for co-operation between the Baptists and Congregationalists of Minnesota in the support of Carleton college here and Pillsbury academy, Owatonna, and St. Paul was chosen as the 1917 meeting place at the business session of the Minnesota Congregational conference here.

Brainerd.—Each of the twelve counties interested in the Minnesota Scenic highway will take fifty memberships, according to plans adopted by the directors of the association behind the enterprise at a meeting here. The territory includes Hennepin and Ramsey counties. Memberhip buttons are being sold at $1 each to furnish financial support.

Brainerd. — It was a motion picture play that brought light here. For weeks the city had been in darkness because the general fund was overdrawn and the city owed the water and light board $12,000. The Brainerd Amusement company staged a benefit movie performance to raise money to buy enough street light for a month or more. The event was a thorough success.

St. Paul. — Radical changes in the organization of Minnesota's state government have just been proposed by Representative L. C. Spooner of Morris to members of the state efficiency and economy commission, meeting at the state capitol. The program has been the subject of conferences, and it was said that most of the changes suggested by Mr. Spooner were likely to be approved.

Crookston. — Resolutions asking that the legislatures of Minnesota, North and South Dakota appropriate a fund for a topographical survey of the Red river valley, and also appoint a commission to eradicate noxious weeds, were passed by more than 300 representative business and professional men of northwestern Minnesota, North and South Dakota, in session here to discuss grain and flood control of the Red river valley.

Boy River. — Two children, one and two years old, were burned to death, and their mother, Mrs. Charles Robbins, suffered severe injuries in her attempt to rescue them, when the Robbins farm home three miles east of here, was entirely destroyed by fire.

Northfield. — Mrs. M. W. Skinner, who gave to Carleton college the new Skinner Memorial chapel dedicated as the opening ceremony in celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the school was announced by President D. J. Cowling as the donor of the pipe organ in the chapel, at a cost of $17,000.

R. R. AND WAREHOUSE COMMISSION BEGINS HEARINGS ON ORDER TO SHOW CAUSE.

HEALTH RULES ARE ADOPTED

State Board Passes Regulations to Prevent Blindness of Infants and Disposes of Other Matters—To Ask No New Laws of Legislature.

St. Paul.

The state railroad and warehouse commission has begun hearings on an order to the Northern Pacific, Minnesota & International, and Big Forks & International Railway companies to show cause why they should not be treated as one line for rate making purposes following the supreme court decision that the North Western & Omaha roads should be so regarded.

The answer of the companies is that the roads are independently owned and that further reduction of rates, under those established under the Cassman distant tariff law, would be confiscatory.

The Backus-Brooks company and E. W. Backus, the latter as an individual and also a trustee, intervening, claim to own 30 per cent of the Minnesota & International road, and maintain that line is managed, operated and owned independently of the other companies.

To Check Infant Blindness.

The state board of health has just passed regulations, which have the effect of law, to prevent blindness among infants and to protect the city water supply in St. Paul, modified those relating to transportation of the dead, and disposed of numerous minor matters.

The regulation to prevent blindness among infants requires physicians or others in attendance at births to "treat the eyes of every new born babe with a one per cent solution of silver nitrate." Midwives are required to call a licensed physician when inflammation develops in both eyes of the infant under their care.

The policy of the board in the next Legislature will be simply to carry on its work and it will introduce little or no new legislation, it was announced.

The subject has been one of some speculation following the organization of various agencies to formulate new bills relating to public health in the state.

"With these various organizations at work," said Dr. H. M. Bracken, executive officer, "the board did not feel that much activity is demanded from it although we expect to be consulted on the subjects as they claim attention from the legislators."

Food Quality Improves.

Sixteen years' fight by the Minnesota Dairy and Food Commission against the use of injurious preservatives and other adulteratives has affected a marked improvement in the wholesomeness of food products sold in Minnesota, according to Julius Hortvet, state chemist. Only one of thirty samples of tomato catsup, for example, he said, was found illegal, while more than 50 per cent of the samples were "outside the law" in other years. Salicylic acid, sulphates and coal tar dye have entirely disappeared since the state began allowing a harmless amount of preservatives, the chemist said.

State Aids Stammerers.

C. G. Schulz, state commissioner of education, has notified George F. Womrath, business superintendent of schools, that the state aid for special work for stammerers, deaf children and special classes conducted in the Minneapolis schools will this year amount to $12,451.65. This is appor $10,285; for the work with deaf chil $1,300. Miss May E. Byrne has sup schools.

Projects For Sanitoria Safe.

Delays in pending projects for three new county tuberculosis sanitoria, threatened, according to reports at the capitol, by a new clash between the state board of health and the state tuberculosis advisory commission like that during the last legislature, were avoided under an agreement reached at a conference of interested state officials.

To Ask Explosives Law.

The use of explosives in agriculture and other peaceful pursuits has increased so rapidly in recent years, Robert W. Hargadine, state fire marshal, said that he plans to recommend to the next Legislature the passage of a law establishing safety zones around places where dynamite and other explosives are stored in Minnesota.

Plague Probe Ordered.

Special investigation of the handling of an outbreak of infantile paralysis at Brainerd last August has been ordered by the state board of health. Dr. A. J. Chesley of the division of preventable diseases, said sudden deaths of five or six children were reported in that city about the time of the reported outbreak, that it was stated no attention was paid to quarantine regulations and that there were indications of the existence of cases other than those located later by board experts.

THE SUNBEAM.

BY W. G. HUNT, EDITOR

Published every Friday, at Sunbeam, Pennington County, Minnesota.

Entered as Second-class matter August 30 1905, at the post office at Sunbeam Minn. under the Act of Congress of March 3,1879

Adolph Eklund, candidate for Clerk of Court, devotes considerable space in the last week's issue of the Thief River Falls Times, at five cents a line, informing the public of how well he was educated, and criticising us for saying that he might not be as well qualified for Clerk of Court, as Mr. Ives. We don't care where Mr. Eklund graduated, or what school he attended, we will bet fifty dollars against five cents that he is not qualified to take editorial charge of THE SUNBEAM and the Sunbeam post office and run it one week, and we have run THE SUNBEAM for sixteen years, and the post office for eleven years, and we never got any higher in school than the Third Reader, and through addition in arithmetic, Experience is the best school that can be attended by anyone, and we simply wished to convey the idea in our article supporting Mr. Ives, that it was not for the best interests of the tax payers of this county to exchange as well a qualified official as Mr. Ives has proven himself to be, for a stranger to the office, simply because another man wants the job, that we don't know whether he is qualified to fill the position. If a farmer has a heavy load of grain to take to market, do you think he would hitch up a green colt to make the trip, or take one of the old horses, that he was sure would deliver the load to town? We think he would take the old horse, and the same rule applies to county officials.

At the Highlanding drainage meeting, Senator O'Neill expressed himself as being in favor of rushing an appropriation through the Legislature direct from the state, for the temporary improvement of Red Lake and Clearwater Rivers, so as to prevent the settlers from being drowned out of the country, before the government had time to make permanent improvements. A measure of this kind must pass both houses of the Legislature, and it is up to the people of Pennington county to pull off their coats and get to work for a man's election to the lower house of that Legislature whose interests are identical with ours. John A. Duffy, of Red Lake Falls has his money invested with us in these lands that are being destroyed by these floods, and we want HIM there to work for and support this measure. Don't cast your vote for an obscure lawyer, of Clearwater county, for this important position, who is liable to pick up other clients in St. Paul, whose interests are detrimental to ours, but get out to election and put your X opposite the name of John A. Duffy, for Representative from this District. Stay by your own interest, and your own home counties best interest.

During the first two years of the European war this country sold to the belligerent nations foodstuffs amounting to almost two billions of dollars. It is this sort of "wise Democratic legislation" that is giving the American farmer his good prices, and the intelligent american farmers are well aware of this fact. If that war should suddenly close, with the present party in power, would it would only take about six, or eight months for wheat to reach the good old Grover Cleveland price of forty five cents a bushel, and first class cows would be selling for fourteen dollars a head. But the farmers of the Northwest are pretty solid in line for a change in the present management of the affairs of this nation, and are going to vote for it on November 7th.

Democratic campaign managers are claiming nearly every state in the Union. The DeMocrats, however, are always stronger at rehearsal than at performances, as for instance that Minneapolis Daily News, agent of the "public crib feeders," is making frantic efforts to keep enough of the faithful in line to give Wilson a small majority of straw votes. But just wait until November 7th, and the people get a crack at the ballot box, and they will hoist that gang out of power, with such a decided majority, that they will not take another straw vote for a number of years.

Wondrow Wilson says he believes in keeping the government out of the hands of a narrow minded few people, and put it in the people at large. We wonder if he ever heard of the mail service of eastern Pennington county, where one man runs it in his interest, giving the people a tri-weekly service, instead of a daily mail service, between Kratka and Highlanding, at exactly the same expense to the government. Them people understand the difference between talk and actual conditions, and will vote November 7,.

SINFUL MUTILATION OF FAMOUS SPEECH

We notice that the editor of the Democratic campaign book, made up of Samples of "Woodrow Wilson's Wit and Wisdom," has tampered with one specimen speech by shifting the phrase "too proud to fight."

This smacks of lese majeste, to say the least.

The only possible excuse for this sin of omission that we can think of is that there may also be times when a haughty handbook compiler is too proud to print.

Sageng Out For Hughes

Senator Ole O. Sageng, of Dalton, champion of woman suffrage, and famous as "the man without a party," will take the stump for Charles E. Hughes and the republican state ticket. He will speak for the last two weeks of the campaign under the auspices of the republican state committee. Senator Sageng for years was the only populist in the republican state legislature, but won re-election in 1910 as an independent, and in 1914 under the non-partisan law, never binding himself to any party organization. This year he is an earnest supporter of the republican national and state candidates. Campaign dates are being arranged for him.—The Norman County Index.

NO ONE WAS AFRAID OF HAITI.

Haiti did not behave as badly to us as Mexico behaved; but Mr. Wilson intervened, fought the Haitiens, shedding their blood with the blood of our troops, took possession and now has our armed forces in control of Haiti and directing its government. His course of action in Haiti can be defended only if his course in Mexico is unqualifiedly condemned; for, with Haiti he was far more [illegible] in Mexico than in Haiti. But there was a 'difference' in the two cases; and to Mr. Wilson it was a vital difference. Haiti was weaker than Mexico. No one was afraid of Haiti.—From the speech of Colonel Roosevelt, delivered at Lewiston, Maine, in behalf of Charles E. Hughes.

If the Democratic national administration had left on the statute books in 1894 the federal corrupt practices act placed there by the Republicans there would be no occasion for the present administration's campaign publicity measure which, at best, is a very poor substitute for the law repealed.

THE LOCAL NEWS

Speed the fall plowing.

Local news are rather scarce this week.

James O,Brien made a trip to Montana this week.

John Quirk is picking up a car load or two of stock for the St. Paul market.

Ole Halverson returned from Dakota last Monday, where he has been thrashing this fall.

Henry and Lars Hyland are busy this week, constructing a ditch for the town of Deer Park,

We understand that the Dam Constructors at Thief River Falls are having lots of difficulty trying to dam Red Lake River.

Eddy Hyland crossed the Red Lake river, Tuesday, and is now finishing up on the south side, in Deer Park township, his thrashing jobs.

Walter McAndress and Wm. Causins drove down to Thief River Falls this week, after the pews for the new Catholic church, at Rhoda.

Read the platform of John A. Duffy published in another column, as we consider it a good one and Mr. Duffy a man of his word.

If the weather continues favorable the farmers living on the south side of Red Lake River may yet get their thrashing done this fall.

The Duluth Herald and Minneapolis Daily News will owe their readers an explanation, of how it happend, on November 8th, that there was such a republican land slide the day before.

Any subscriber of this paper, who fails to receive it promptly on the mail day that it should reach him will please notify us at once, as we don't propose to let much of that "missent" business go this year. If they can't read they had better get out of office.

County Democrats are throwing all of their strength to Wilson, and ignoring their Author Candidate for Congressman from this District, and their Boiler maker Candidate for governor, but it don't make much difference, as the whole bunch will be billed for a trip up salt river soon.

The Democrats have now about given up carrying New York for Wilson, and are claiming they will carry Minnesota. But they will be defeated in this state by from sixty to eighty thousand Majority, and Pennington County will be in line for the honor of being the banner Republican County of the state.

Which Candidate are you going to support for the legislature? A man who is a resident of Red Lake county, and has done business with the farmers for a good many years, and has pretty near their solid support, or a lawyer from Clearwater County that the farmers are fighting his election as hard as they can, and who tried to betray their interest when we Pennington County farmers shoved him onto them two years ago? Think this over.

We have been at considerable extra expense to publish the proposed Constitutional amendments, so our readers can have an opportunity to study them before Election. Keep this issue as they will not be published again. Failure to vote yes on any of the amendments is the same as a vote against them, and any amendment that you are in favor of be sure to vote yes x for it. No. 1 should be adopted by all means.

STENVICK'S BILL

STATE OF MINNESOTA.
Thirty Ninth Session]
H. F. No. 404

Introduced by Mr. Stenvick. February 9, 1915. Referred to Committee on Taxes and Tax Laws. Reported back February 19, 1915

A BILL For an Act to Amend Chapter 462, General Laws 1909, the Same Being Section 2055, General Statutes 1913, Relating to Tax Levey for County Purposes in Certain Counties;

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota

Section 1 That Chapter 462, General Laws 1909, the same being Section 2055, General Statutes 1913, be amended so as to read as follows:

Eight mill tax levy authorized in certain Counties—The County Board of any County having a taxable valuation of less than three million five hundred thousand and more than one million dollars, may levy, for county purposes, such amounts in excess of existing limitations as may be necessary to defray ordinary county expenses, but the total rate for county purposes shall not exceed eight mills.

Sec. 2 This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

The above is the bill as introduced by your Hon. Stenvick.

.....

FARMERS CLUBS GET BUSY.

The farmers Clubs of Clearwater county immediately organized to defeat this bill, that must have been introduced at the request of city property owners, who wanted to pass a law to nearly double the farmers taxes to build up county seats, but through the efforts of the farmers. Club of Clearwater county and the assistance of Senator O'Neill, the bill was defeated. Them Clearwater county farmers are fighting the re-election of Stenvick, because he betrayed their best interests, and it is the duty of the Pennington county farmers to help them, instead of going to election and voting for a man that we don't know, and they do know and don't want to Represent them in the legislature of this state.

Yesterdays snow storm melted about as soon as it fell, and thoroughly soaked up the ground and all grain and hay that is not in stack. It seems that this season is bound to keep up its reputation for being the banner off year.

TEUTON FORCES IN DOBRUDJA VICTORS OVER ALLIED ARMY

GAIN DECISIVE VICTORY, ROUTING RUSSIANS AND ROUMANIANS OVER WHOLE FRONT, ACCORDING TO BERLIN.

AUSTRO-GERMANS CAPTURE TOPRAI SARI AND COBADIN

Slavs Driven Back by Teutonic Allies Along Narayuvka River in Galicia —Germans Repulsed with Heavy Losses South of Somme River in France.

Berlin, by wireless to Sayville, Oct. 24.—The War office announces that Field Marshal von Mackensen's army in Dobrudja has gained a decisive victory over the Russians and Roumanians driving them from their positions over the whole front. The Teutonic Allies are pursuing the enemy.

The towns of Toprai Sati, 14 miles southwest of Constanza and Cobadin, 17 miles southeast of the Danube town of Rachova, have been taken by the combined Austrian, German, Bulgarian and Turkish forces.

Roumanians Fight Stubbornly.

London, Oct. 23.—On the Transylvania front hard fighting continues in the mountain passes but with the result in doubt, owing to the conflicting statements of Berlin, Petrograd and Bucharest war offices. Petrograd says the Roumanians have been forced back in the Buzeu valley. Bucharest, however, does not concede this, asserting that counter-attacks by the Teutonic Allies here were repulsed at the point of the bayonet. It is evident from the official statements that no great changes in position have taken place anywhere along this front but that the Roumanians are fighting tenaciously to hold back the would be invaders of their country.

Teutons Win Over Russians.

The battle of the last week along the Narayuvka river in Galicia has resulted in an important victory for the Austro-German forces over the Russians, according to Berlin. Here the Russians after a general attack by the Teutonic Allies between Svitelniki and Skomovochy, were driven back suffering heavy casualties.

During the morning and the afternoon, the Germans launched violent attacks against the positions newly won by the French in the Chaulnes wood south of the Somme river in France. Both attacks were repulsed. the Germans suffering heavy casualties, according to Paris.

Notwithstanding bad weather on the Macedonian front, slight additional progress has been made by the Allies in the Cerba river region.

"A hostile seaplane was shot down and destroyed this afternoon by one of our naval aircraft. The machine fell into the sea. Judging by time it probably was the seaplane which visited Sheerness today."

Greece is required to transfer the entire military force in Thessaly (in the rear of the Allied forces in Macedonia) to Morea (the peninsula forming the southern extremity of Greece).

WILSON SEES NO WAR CLOUDS

TELLS FARMERS OF NEED FOR ECONOMIC PREPAREDNESS.

Says He Wants Privilege of Representing the Whole Force of the Nation.

Long Branch, N. J., Oct. 24.—In a speech devoted primarily to a discussion of the need for economic preparedness in the United States President Wilson told a delegation of farmers, architects and engineers here that he did not expect the United States to get into war.

"I know that the way in which we have preserved peace is objected to," said the President, "and that certain gentlemen say they would have taken some other way that would inevitably have resulted in war, but I am not expecting these gentlemen to have a chance to make a mess of it."

Taking the work done by the administration for the farmers for his text, Mr. Wilson declared:

"We want the privilege of representing the whole force of the nation."

Mr. Wilson said the Democratic party had been trying to take the government out of the control of small groups and "square it with the counsel of the whole nation."

In detail he told of work being done to mobilize the industrial resources of the nation, saying "One of the great lessons of the European war has been that the economic co-ordination and co-operation of the country is just as important as the military co-operation of it."

TWENTY-SEVEN PERISH IN STORM ON LAKE ERIE

Lone Survivor, Adrift Thirty Hours on a Raft, Brings Tragic Story Ashore.

Cleveland, Oct. 23. — Storm-swept Lake Erie has given up another fragment of the story of its "black Friday"—another vessel pounded to pieces in the stinging gale and grinding waves carrying 21 men to death, a total of 27 for the day. The last vessel is the Duluth-owned whaleback, James B. Colgate.

Its lone survivor, adrift for 30 hours on a raft, brought the story ashore. Half dead from two nights and a day spent tortured and torn by the seas, he was carried off a rescue ship at Conneaut, Ohio. He is Captain Walter G. Rashaw of this city, master of the Colgate which went down at 10 o'clock Friday night off Long Point, Canada, opposite Erie.

"I cannot think at this time of any benediction that can possibly fall upon the American people equal in importance to the benediction we have received from the memory of the gentle humanity of Lincoln."

VENIZELISTS ASK RECOGNITION

REACH DECISION AFTER TWO DAYS OF DISTURBANCES.

Will Present Case of Provisional Government to the Allies—Favor Greece's Intervention.

Athens, Oct. 19.—Venizelist leaders have decided to call upon the Allies to formally recognize the new provisional government set up at Saloniki, favoring Greece's intervention in the war.

This decision was reached after two days of serious disturbances in the Greek capital, in which the mobs threatened to attack allied marines.

The provisional government took its first warlike step, issuing a proclamation calling up recruits of the class of 1916 on the island of Crete.

Two diplomatic missions were organized. They will present the case of the provisional government to the Allies, declaring that only formal recognition of this new government will save Greece from utter chaos.

Negotiations have been begun informally with the United States to permit the recruiting of Greek armies in the event that the United States recognizes the new government.

KING OF GREECE MAY MEET ALL OF ALLIES' DEMANDS

Second Detachment of French Marines Landed at Piraeus—Clash With Greeks Feared.

Athens, Oct. 20.—Although no authorized statement has been issued, King Constantine, after a conference with the British minister, is said to be disposed to meet the demands of the Allies in full. Vice Admiral Du Fournet, commander of the allied fleet, declared after a conference with the Greek premier and foreign minister that he was hopeful that the situation would improve. The most severe military measures are now in force to prevent trouble.

Athens, Oct. 20.—Possibilities of a clash between Greek royalists and allied bluejackets, which apparently were averted when Greek troops dispersed anti-Allymobs and gained control of the situation in the capital, loomed up greater when a further detachment of French marines was landed at Piraeus.

HALIFAX FEARS ZEPPELINS

Halifax, Oct. 23.—All lights, except a few shaded ones in the West and North ends have again been ordered turned off in the streets of this city at night and all blinds must be drawn. according to orders just sent out from military headquarters.

Greek Troops in Control At Athens.

Athens, Oct. 20.—Greek troops are in complete control of the situation here, anti-Ally mobs are being dispersed and for the time being a serious clash between civilians and French marines seems to have been averted. The anti-Ally leaders, however, are continuing their attempts to organize demonstrations and the crisis is by no means past. It is understood that King Constantine, following conferences, sent personal appeals to the most prominent of his supporters urging them not to stir up strife.

HUGHES DENIES SECRET PLOT

NO AGREEMENT MADE WITH O'LEARY, NOMINEE SAYS.

Democrats Charged Former Jurist Promised to Make Speeches Satisfactory to Critics.

New York, Oct. 24. — Charles E. Hughes, Republican candidate for president, has denied the charge of the Democratic National committee that he had entered into a secret agreement with the American Independent Conference in which Jeremiah A. O'Leary is said to be the central figure.

His denial was in reply to a statement issued from Democratic headquarters in this city containing what purported to be a report made by Mr. O'Leary, at the session of the conference in Chicago, of what occurred at a meeting between Mr. Hughes and a committee from the conference headed by O'Leary.

Satisfaction Promised, Claim.

In this alleged report, O'Leary was quoted as having said: "Mr. Hughes promised that his future conduct in the speech-making line should be entirely satisfactory to the interests of the committee."

The Democratic statement charged that O'Leary and his committee were delegated to meet Mr. Hughes and ascertain his attitude with reference to "Mr. Roosevelt's pro-British and anti-American utterances in particular and his (Mr. Hughes) policies in general."

The letter is signed by Samuel Gompers, president, James O'Connell, vice president, and Frank Morrison, secretary, the federation's labor representation committee, and it has been sent to the heads of all affiliated organizations.

In most cases delivery within a short period is stipulated.

NO RECALL OF BORDER TROOPS

Withdrawal to Await Decision of Joint Commission.

Washington, Oct. 21.—No further important relief of border troops is contamplated by the War department until after the American-Mexican commission at Atlantic City reaches a decision. If this is satisfactory, the troops, it is said, will return in a body. Otherwise all will probably be left at their present border stations.

BATTLE STILL RAGES IN SANTA YSABEL DISTRICT

General Pershing Reports Villistas and Carranzistas Are Still Striving to Hold Their Positions, Indicating That Recent Conflict Was Not of Decisive Character.

El Paso, Oct. 24.—In the lack of detailed news of the battle between the forces of Villa and Carranza, rumor, which claims Mexican origin, says that Ozuna was caught in a trap by Villa, Ozuna himself being killed and his forces annihilated.

Recent semi-official reports from Chihuahua City say that General Ozuna, with a force of 2,000 cavalry, two sections of machine guns and a large supply train, left Chihuahua City on October 19 to take the field against Villa.

A message dated the 18th said General Ozuna had been ordered by General Trevino to proceed along the Mexican-Northwestern railway reinforcing his column with the troops stationed along the lines of Fresno, Las Escobas and Santa Ysabel, which would add a thousand men to his command.

Fighting Still in Progress.

Chihuahua City, via El Paso Junction, Tex., Oct. 23.—The advance column of General Ozuna engaged the enemy who concentrated all bands numbering over a thousand men at Santa Ysabel. Further fighting is in progress.

Says Battle Not Decisive.

San Antonio, Oct. 23. — General Pershing reported to headquarters that both the Villistas and Carranzistas are striving to hold their respective positions following the encounter near Ysabel, indicating that the conflict was not of decisive character. According to the field commanders best informed, Villa's command consists of about 500 men with arms and an equal number without arms.

PUT AMERICAN ALLEGIANCE ABOVE ALL OTHERS--WILSON

Foreign-Born Citizens Praised by President in Chicago—Eight-Hour Principle Upheld.

Chicago, Oct. 21.—President Wilson, speaking to a New Citizens' meeting here, declared that foreign-born citizens of the United States should put their American allegiance above all others. He praised the ideals that bring new citizens to the United States and outlined his belief that in the determination of the future of the world, after the present war, America will play an important part.

During a strenuous twelve hours in Chicago, the President addressed a collection of women as "Fellow Citizens," upheld the principle of the eight-hour day and urged that progressives of all parties work for a broader America.

A demonstration lasting more than five minutes greeted the President at the New Citizens' meeting. When the President entered the hall, the audience stood and cheered. The stock yards pavilion, where the meeting was held, was decorated with American flags and packed with people. Judge Clarence M. Goodwin presided. Governor Dunne of Illinois, spoke for "America First."

ALLIES NOW CONTROL SITUATION AT ATHENS

French Admiral Appointed Chief Inspector by Greek Minister of Interior—Directs Activities of Police.

London, Oct. p3.—Vice Admiral Dufournet, commanding the Allied fleet in Greek waters, has assumed complete control of the situation at Athens and has taken drastic steps to prevent further rioting.

The Greek police and gendarmerie now perform their duties under the eye of the French commander, who approves all police orders. No police officer can be dismissed nor transferred without his sanction.

The vice admiral received these powers through an appointment from the Greek ministry of the interior to be "chief inspector." He is empowered to appoint inspectors with similar powers in other Greek cities.

Hindenburg Opposes Illegal War.

Berlin, (Via London), Oct. 21.—General von Ludendorf has joined his chief, Field Marshal von Hindenburg, in opposing a more ruthless prosecution of submarine warfare. Field Marshal von Hindenburg's position was made plain at a meeting of the independent committee for German peace terms when, through a personal representative, he requested the committee to abstain from agitation for a sharper submarine campaign. General von Ludendorf has announced his views through a letter.

WHY STRIVE TO KILL TIME?

If Annihilation Were Possible, the World Would Remain Just Exactly as It Is Today.

There are so many gentle proverbs devoted to the praise of Time, that it is wonderful to think how, in our day, that comely Titan has come to be regarded by the most of us as our worst enemy.

We are forever scheming how to forereach him, to get the better of him, even—in the extravagant phrase of the speed-at-any-price maniacs—to annihilate him.

Those, to be sure, fail to see how the consummation of their ideal would leave them exactly at the point from which they started.

Even the forty minutes girdle round about the earth, if achieved, would soon exhaust the excursive potentialities of existence: and, unless science is prepared to deal triumphantly with the problem of penetrating and breathing atmosphereless space, one fails to see what the world would gain through a perfected system of aeroplanes but the taedium vitae in its final and quite incurable form.

The Main Thing.

"I suppose it takes a certain amount of tact to get into society," said the Climber.

"Yes, one must know just whom to snub," replied the Woman Who Had Arrived.

"There's a Reason"

INTERESTING ITEMS FROM THE CITIES

Intensive Farming on Philadelphia's Vacant Lots

PHILADELPHIA.—Some of the most intensive farming in the country is carried on in the city of Brotherly Love, on its vacant lots, especially out along Woodland avenue, where there are some of the best little farms to be found anywhere. Jonathan Fly, a farmer lad of eighty-three, last year coaxed at the rate of $900 out of an acre. A rival agriculturist, who had copied some of Mr. Fly's methods, made Mother Earth give him at the rate of $960 to the acre.

A PURTY GOOD YEAR BANK BOOK

There are in Philadelphia this year 610 little farms such as these upon which poor families have grown an average of $300 to the acre.

The Vacant Lots Cultivation association is almost old enough to vote. It has been operating long enough to have proved that for every dollar which kind-hearted philanthrophy donates for the purpose of tilling town lots four dollars come out of the ground.

Even a captain of finance or a war bride doesn't expect to make over 300 per cent, and that is what these 610 little farms will do this year.

An owner has a ten-acre plot of ground, upon which he allows poor people to grow crops. The lots association plows the ground and fertilizes it gratis and the little gardeners do the planting, cultivating and reaping.

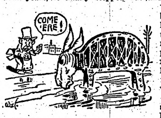
Any day the owner wants his land to sell or build upon he may have it. He merely loans it to his more unfortunate brothers until he needs it.

Up at George's hill is a man of eighty-seven years who is famous for the way he tills his little farm. There are hundreds of families who grow a year's vegetable supply upon their borrowed land. Some men have been working the same plot for 15 years. The industrious are never driven from their gardens so long as the garden is available for use.

The ordinary farmer is content with one crop in a year. Not so with scores of these city tillers of land that may be worth anywhere from $1,000 to $20,000 an acre. They frequently raise two or three crops in a season off the same plot, the plots averaging one-sixth of an acre.

St. Louis' Municipal Bridge Finally Is Landed

ST. LOUIS.—St. Louis' big, balky mule—the municipal free bridge—has come ashore. After stubbornly standing in the Mississippi river more than four years, it finally stepped out and was tied to the eastern approach with four 27-ton steel girders. The balk has been removed, and the steel halter promises to make the "mule" a tractable and useful public utility. It no longer is the "endless" bridge, "approachless" Jinx, or any of the other fantastic creatures which jokesters have pointed out as one of the most modern useless structures in the world.



While the bridge was acting like a balky mule, the taxpayers of St. Louis have been feeding $829 in cash every day into the Mississippi river in the shape of interest charges and sinking fund. This has amounted to more than $300,000 a year in feed bills, for which St. Louis got nothing except a healthier balk.

The cost of the bridge to date has been more than $6,000,000. The first issue of bonds in 1908 was $3,500,000. Work was begun in December, 1909, and was to be completed within two years. The second bond issue for the eastern approach was $2,750,000. To this must be added the interest charges since the issue of the first bonds, about eight years.

In the intervening six years during the building of the "balky mule" and while it stood there in the river until the second bond issue was passed two years ago, the old house of delegates and city council kicked back and forth dozens of bills and held many "investigations" and secret meetings to determine the correct route for an east approach.

This unpleasant portion of ancient history included factional squabbles, and many personally conducted efforts of various members of the assembly to cause the east approach to be built along the route outlined exclusively by them. These approaches ran in various directions, and a combined map of them all would show East St. Louis covered by the ribs of a fan, with zig-zag curves and extensions to what was termed "free territory."

Patsy Was on the Pier to Meet His Loved Ship

NEW YORK.—When the Berkshire of the Hudson Navigation company arrived at her pier the other day from Albany, passengers on board were startled by the barking of a dog, followed by cheers from the crew. There on the pier stood a very bedraggled dog, held by a watchman, and fairly shrieking with joy. The instant the gangplank was pushed over, the dog broke from the man and shot on board to hurl himself into the engine room. Patsy had "come back."

Pasty, who is all dog, was picked up two years ago by Stephen Flynn, engineer of the Berkshire, while he was on board the Trojan of the same line. The dog had crept into the shelter of the pier with a broken leg, and the engineers put the leg in splints and cared for him until he was well again.

Patsy attached himself to Flynn, and when the engineer was transferred to the Berkshire he followed him and became the pet of the vessel. While the Berkshire was off Hastings on her way to Albany, the dog, playing with a steward's boy, slipped overboard after a bone. The boy was too alarmed to say a word, and it was not until the Berkshire got to Albany the next morning that he confessed.

Early next day the watchman at pier 32, Hudson river, was aroused by the barking of a dog and, opening the wicket, he admitted the wet and footsore Patsy, minus his handsome collar, and with a bad cut over one eye. He took care of him until the vessel arrived.

New York Discovers That It Has a Lemon Creek

NEW YORK.—Class in New York city's geography, stand up. Where is Lemon creek? Of course, everybody knows that there are 49 islands in the city boundaries, but who knows where to find Lemon creek?

LEMON CREEK

The United States government knows where Lemon creek is and—yes, you've guessed it the first time—it is talking of improving and enlarging the waterway with the name that makes your mouth water.

"On October 2, in the Princess Bay Yacht clubhouse, Princess Bay beach," said the official notice issued by the United States army corps of engineers, "Lieut. Col. C. H. McKinstry will hold a hearing at 3:10 p. m. for the consideration of a proposition to improve Lemon Creek."

Looking through a spyglass at a city map you may find Lemon creek, about a jump and a half wide, starting somewhere abaft the beam of Lake island, where Staten island's favorite garbage disposal plant will not be built unless it is built. It then flows down grade toward the Lower bay, and leaps deftly into that great fishing resort near the spot where the fishermen get their loads of bait and things.

The proprietor of the creek was away from home when an attempt was made to learn why he is not satisfied with Lemon creek in its wild and unimproved state.

IN THE LIMELIGHT

EUROPE'S JOLLIEST KING

The jolliest king in all Europe is Christian X of Denmark. He is far removed from the Hamlet immortalized by Shakespeare. Hamlet was a morose sort of person who lost himself in philosophy. Christian, with the lungs of a giant, can bawl out a music-hall ditty with all the lustiness of a Copenhagen stevedore.

Christian can pull an oar, swing a racket, jump a hurdle, sail a boat, ride a horse, empty a bottle, and make a speech. He is the most popular man in Denmark.

The king is a giant in stature. There is a joke in Copenhagen, first cracked by a jovial Dane, that when the king gets cold feet in December, he doesn't begin to sneeze till May.

In his youth, the present king of Denmark spent some time in a Jutland garrison, and made himself extremely popular with the civil and military functionaries by his politeness to their wives and his friendliness to their sons and daughters. He was—as he still is—a fine dancer, and many stories are still current in Jutland of the democratic manner in which he tripped the light fantastic with pretty peasant girls on Midsummer's eve. He is a little more sedate, now that he is king, but the Jutlanders keep for him a very warm place in their hearts. They showed it when he became engaged. Anxious to have him amongst them again, they paid him a pretty compliment by building for him and his bride, and presenting to him as a wedding present, the castle of Marselisborg.

TINKHAM'S SIGNATURE

George Holden Tinkham is a bachelor congressman from Boston, noted for having the most horrible signature in congress.

When he signs his name it suggests the signature of a careless hen dashed off hastily in a radish bed. Only once in his life has Tinkham written his name in a way that made it even half legible. That was when he prepared a sample signature for the purpose of having a facsimile made to go on his official envelope. Tinkham worked for more than an hour on that. And when he got through it was no more like his regular handwriting than if he had hired a stranger to do it for him.

Aside from his chirography, Tinkham seems to be all right. There are persons who claim to be able to read character from handwriting. Such a person would put Tinkham down for a dissipated yeggman. But he would do the man a grave injustice. The reason Tinkham writes the way he does is because he is eager to get at something else. He is a brisk chap; always in a hurry. Nothing distresses him so much as a slow train, or, in fact, any slow means of transportation.

Tinkham's habit of doing things at high speed includes getting dressed in the morning. He dresses in such haste that he never knows just what he has on until hours later. As a rule, though, his sartorial layout includes a red necktie. He will wear a red necktie every day for two or three months and then suddenly he will appear in one that is bright green simply because he found the green one first.

WILL DRIFT TOWARD POLE

© CLINEDINST

Capt. Robert A. Bartlett, companion of Peary on the trip when the latter, with a negro, reached the North pole, announced he has pledges of $85,000 for a new project in the arctic regions. He proposes to let a ship be frozen up in the arctic region and then drift toward the pole across a part of the earth never before explored.

"I desire to superintend the construction of a wooden vessel of about 350 tons, especially for arctic work," he said. "We would start in May, 1918, northward through Bering strait; go eastward off the northern coast of Alaska to about 130 west longitude, and latitude 74 or 75, or even farther north; let the vessel freeze up and go with the ice drift through the great unexplored arctic regions. There are more than 1,000,000 square miles of unexplored territory in the Arctic ocean. I would take only eight men with me on the trip, preferably young college men. While we drifted we would take soundings and use a deep-sea dredge to gather the flora and fauna from the floor of the ocean. Instead of regular steam engines and boilers, requiring the consumption of coal, I will install a Bollinger crude-oil engine, thus doing away with the necessity of engineers and firemen.

"From my knowledge of the arctic regions and the currents of general drift of the ice, I should say that we would drift for about five years before reaching civilization again, but we might do it in three years. I would provision the ship for five or six years, and that would be easy with only nine men to provide for. The general drift would be to the west, and I should say that we would eventually come out either between Greenland and Spitzbergen, or between Spitzbergen and Franz Josef Land."

WOMAN HIGHLY HONORED

Catherine Waugh McCulloch of Evanston, Ill., who is one of the presidential electors on the Democratic ticket in Illinois, is the first woman so recognized in the history of either of the historic parties.

She is a lawyer by profession, and was educated at Rockford college and at the Northwestern University Law school. Admitted to the Illinois bar in 1886, and to the Supreme court of the United States in 1898, she has steadily won for herself a high reputation for ability and character. For many years she was in charge of the legislative work of the equal suffragists of the state, and legal adviser of the national organization.

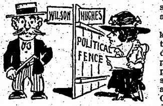
Years ago she became a justice of the peace, and exercised the functions of a judge. She is much interested in religious and philanthropic activities, and writes freely and powerfully.

Mrs. McCulloch, while gratified by the honor bestowed on her, accepts it, not in a personal sense but as a recognition of the new importance gained by women in American politics.

NATIONAL CAPITAL AFFAIRS

Political Views Divide Many Washington Families

WASHINGTON.—Meredith Nicholson, the author who was offered a post in the diplomatic service by President Wilson, and his wife have agreed to differ on a most important question. It is that of the candidacy of Mr. Wilson for re-election. Mr. Nicholson is for him and Mrs. Nicholson is against him and for Mr. Hughes.

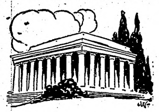


A number of other equally well-known families have divided within the last few weeks over the presidential campaign. Among the couples which have agreed to differ as to presidential candidates are Representative William Kent of California and Mrs. Kent, Mr. and Mrs. Fremont Older of California, Mr. George Middleton and his wife, Fola La Follette, daughter of Senator La Follette of Wisconsin; Mr. and Mrs. J. A. H. Hopkins of New Jersey, and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lloyd Jones of Madison, Wis.

The wives maintain that for them and for all women no issue is of more fundamental importance than that of national woman suffrage, which has been indorsed by Mr. Hughes and opposed by Mr. Wilson. For this reason they are out to defeat Mr. Wilson.

Rapid Work on the Beautiful Lincoln Memorial

ANOTHER step in the building of the Lincoln memorial in Potomac park has been taken—that of letting contracts for construction of the terrace walls of the beautiful monument and of the masonry approaches to the gigantic pile. An appropriation of $309,500 is available for the building of these features of the memorial, which, according to specifications, are to be of the best granite obtainable.



Indications are that the imposing monument to the martyred president of the sixties will be completed months ahead of the time stipulated in the contract. The contract time is March, 1918, but work is progressing at such a rate on the memorial that the more optimistic of the officials in charge of the construction are hazarding the belief that the structure will be standing as a complete tribute to the immortal Lincoln by the end of 1917.

Already the colonnade and the outside walls of the structure are completed. The interior, mostly of limestone, is almost installed, while the eight interior columns are now in place. The ceiling beams of bronze are not yet in and the roof is not yet on.

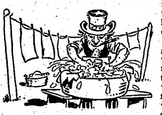
Work on the granite terrace walls and the masonry approaches has been started, and grading of the mound on which the memorial stands is being pushed forward with all possible speed. Hundreds of workmen and scores of teams are engaged in the work of completing this mound, which necessitates extension of Potomac park in the vicinity of the memorial into the river more than 200 feet.

Dredges are employed in the building up of the new ground, taking the earth from the river and piling it up behind the new seawall which is being constructed for the purpose. This work means that the park in the vicinity of the memorial, instead of following the line it now does along the driveway will be bowed out 200 feet farther into the river.

Officials in charge of the work said that landscaping and grading is one of the biggest tasks in the construction of the memorial, and explained that while a great part of this work has already been accomplished, it will be weeks before the ground in the locality of the monument will begin to assume the appearance it is expected to take on according to the plans of the memorial.

Post Office Department Running a Big Laundry

IT MAY not be generally known, but Uncle Sam is today running a laundry. By this means he is combating the high cost of living. A couple of years ago, when the post office department asked for bids for the washing of towels for the department in Washington, the prices seemed to be abnormally high for the great number to be laundered.

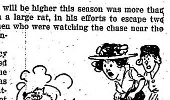


Someone in the department suggested that it take over the towel-washing business itself as an experiment. The suggestion sounded good to the officials, who purchased a small washing machine, and it was soon found that the towels were being washed at a rate much below that quoted. The department has within the past few weeks, decided to go into the laundry business on an even larger scale. A new and larger washing machine has been purchased, and it now proposes not only to wash the towels of the post office department, but also those used at the Washington city post office. This will mean that the post office laundry will wash on an average of about 4,000 towels each day.

The department has found that it can wash and iron these 4,000 towels at a cost of not over 18 cents per 100 towels. It is said that the bids received by the department were in the neighborhood of 50 cents per 100. It can therefore be estimated that the department is saving approximately $500 a year by doing its own laundry work, and not only has its towels on hand at all times, but is sure that they are thoroughly washed.

Rat Proves Prediction on Fashions is Correct

THE latest fashion note that skirts will be higher this season was more than vindicated the other night, when a large rat, in his efforts to escape two bulldogs, ran toward a crowd of women who were watching the chase near the corner of Thirteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest.



Through some mysterious agency of "ratdom" a huge rodent escaped sentries and meandered toward the white light of the avenue. As far as can be learned it was but a sight-seeing trip, but Sir Rodent had not counted up the carnivorous capacity of other members of the animal kingdom.

Two bulldogs simultaneously spied the tourist and both claimed him for their own. Two sets of teeth closed upon Mr. Rat about the same time, and a guttural argument ensued as to rightful ownership. Becoming incensed at the futility of this argument, both dogs loosened their hold upon the rat, who scampered toward what looked to be a wall of protection, but which was really a flock of skirts whose owners had stopped on the corner to witness the struggle.

Then it was that fashion came into her own, for skirts certainly went higher, and hastily departing visions of dainty ank—but then, as Kipling would say, "that is another story."

His Ratship was captured.

MORE HORSES THAN EVER BEFORE.

Nearly everyone believes that the horse is fast disappearing; but they are in error. Census statistics show that there are more horses in this country now than ever before, notwithstanding that 500,000 horses have been gathered up by France and Great Britain and sent to the war front.

The motor car and the motor truck, while greatly increasing in numbers, have not caused a corresponding decrease in the use of horses. This is shown by figures gathered in Chicago, where in the last five years motor vehicles increased from 11,000 to 43,000, while horse-drawn vehicles only decreased from 58,000 to 49,000. Thus 32,000 motor cars came into use, but they displaced only 9,000 horse-drawn vehicles. From these figures it would seem that it will be a long time before horses disappear from the streets.

THE EIGHT
Proposed Amendments to the Constitution # of the
STATE OF MINNESOTA

Submitted by the Legislature at Its General Session, 1915, Together With a Statement of the

PURPOSES AND EFFECTS,

Prepared by Hon.
Lyndon A. Smith,
Attorney General of Minnesota.

Addressed to
Julius A. Schmahl
Secretary of State

OFFICE OF THE ATTORNEY GENERAL, ST. PAUL.

April 7, 1916.

Honorable Julius A. Schmahl,
Secretary of State,
Capitol.

DEAR SIR: Pursuant to your request and in accordance with the provisions of Section 46, Statutes 1913, I herewith hand you statement of the purposes and effect of all amendments to the Constitution proposed by the legislature of 1915 and to be submitted to the electors at the next general election; such statement also shows the reading of the existing sections and the way the same will read if the amendments are adopted.

Yours truly,
LYNDON A. SMITH,
Attorney General.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NO. 1.

By Chapter 379, Laws 1915, the legislature proposed for adoption by the electors, an amendment of Section Two (2) of Article Eight of the Constitution, by adding to said Section Two a new paragraph.

Section Two as it now stands reads as follows:

Section 2. "SCHOOL AND SWAMP LANDS—SCHOOL FUNDS FROM SALE OF—The proceeds of such lands as are or hereafter may be granted by the United States for the use of schools within each township in this state shall remain a perpetual school fund to the state; and not more than one-third of said lands may be sold in two years, one-third in five years, and one-third in ten years; but the lands of the greatest valuation shall be sold first: Provided, that no portion of said lands shall be sold otherwise than at public sale. The principal of all funds arising from sales or other disposition of lands or other property, granted or intrusted to this state in each township for educational purposes, shall forever be preserved inviolate and undiminished; and the income arising from the lease or sale of said school land shall be distributed to the different townships throughout the state, in proportion to the number of scholars in each township, between the ages of five and twenty-one years; and shall be faithfully applied to the specific objects of the original grants or appropriations. Suitable laws shall be enacted by the legislature for the safe investment of the principal of all funds which have heretofore arisen or which may hereafter arise from the sale or other disposition of such lands, or the income from such lands accruing in any way before the sale or disposition thereof in interest-bearing bonds of the United States, or of the State of Minnesota issued after the year 1860, or of such other state as the legislature may by law from time to time direct. All swamp lands now held by the state, or that may hereafter accrue to the state, shall be appraised and sold in the same manner and by the same officers, and the minimum price shall be the same less one-third, as is provided by law for the appraisement and sale of the school lands under the provisions of title one of chapter thirty-eight of the General Statutes. The principal of all funds derived from sales of swamp lands as aforesaid shall forever be preserved inviolate and undiminished. One-half of the proceeds of said principal shall be appropriated to the common school fund of the state; the remaining one-half shall be appropriated to the educational and charitable institutions of the state in the relative ratio of cost to support said institutions."

The paragraph which it is proposed to add to said Section Two reads as follows:

> "A revolving fund of not over two hundred fifty thousand dollars ($250,000) may be set apart from the fund derived from the sale of school and swamp lands, to be used in constructing roads, ditches and fire breaks in, through and around unsold school and swamp lands and in clearing such lands, such fund to be replenished as long as needed from the enhanced value realized from the sale of such lands so benefited."

Under Section Two as it now stands the proceeds of the sale of school and swamp lands constitute the principal of a trust fund, the income of which is used for the support of the schools, educational and charitable institutions of the state. Section Two as it now stands provides that the principal of such fund "shall forever be preserved inviolate and undiminished."

THE EFFECT of the proposed amendment, if adopted, will be to modify the provision last quoted to the extent of permitting the legislature to set aside not to exceed $250,000 of the principal of the trust fund as a revolving fund to be used for the purposes stated in the amendment proposed.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NO. 2.

By Chapter 380, Laws 1915, the legislature proposed for adoption by the electors, an amendment of Section Six (6), of Article Eight (8) of the Constitution.

Section Six as it now stands reads as follows:

"Section 6. INVESTMENT OF SCHOOL FUNDS — The permanent school and university fund of this state may be invested in the bonds of any county, school district, city, town or village of this state, but no such investment shall be made until approved by the board of commissioners designated by law to regulate the investment of the permanent school fund and the permanent university fund of this state; nor shall such loan or investment be made when the bonds to be issued or purchased would make the entire bonded indebtedness exceed fifteen per cent of the assessed valuation of the taxable real property of the county, school district, city, town or village issuing such bonds; nor shall such loans or indebtedness be made at a lower rate of interest than three per cent per annum, nor for a shorter period than five years, nor for a longer period than twenty years, and no change of the town, school district, city, village or of county lines shall relieve the real property in such town, school district, county, village or city in this state at the time of the issuing of such bonds from any liability for taxation to pay such bonds."

If the proposed amendment is adopted it will then read as follows:

> "The permanent school and university fund of this state may be invested in the bonds of any county, school district, city, town or village of this state, and in first mortgage loans secured upon improved and cultivated farm lands of this state. But no such investment or loan shall be made until approved by the board of commissioners designated by law to regulate the investment of the permanent school fund and the permanent university fund of this state; nor shall such loan or investment be made when the bonds to be issued or purchased would make the entire bonded indebtedness exceed 15 per cent of the assessed valuation of the taxable property of the county, school district, city, town or village issuing such bonds; nor shall any farm loan, or investment be made when such investment or loan would exceed 30 per cent of the actual cash value of the farm land mortgage to secure said investment; nor shall such investments or loans be made at a lower rate of interest than 3 per cent per annum, nor for a shorter period than five years, nor for a longer period than thirty years, and no change of the town, school district, city, village or of county lines shall relieve the real property in such town, school district, county, village or city in this state at the time of issuing of such bonds from any liability for taxation to pay such bonds."

THE PURPOSE of the amendment is to authorize the investment of the permanent school and university funds in "first mortgage loans secured upon improved and cultivated farm lands where the amount of the loans so secured does not exceed 30 per cent of the value of the land mortgaged.

THE EFFECT of the adoption of the proposed amendment will be to permit the legislature to authorize the investment of the permanent school and university funds in farm mortgages as above stated, as well as in the bonds of any county, school district, city, town or village of this state. Under Section Six as it now reads bonds cannot be purchased unless they mature at least five and not more than twenty years after purchase. If the amendment is adopted, bonds and mortgages may be purchased if they mature not less than five nor more than thirty years after purchase.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NO. 3.

By Chapter 381, Laws 1915, the legislature proposed for adoption by the electors, an amendment of Article Nine (9) of the Constitution by adding thereto a new section, which reads as follows:

> "Section 17. The legislature is hereby authorized to provide by law for the mining and sale of any iron ore or other minerals which the state owns, in its sovereign capacity, and as trustee for the people of the state, which are situate under the waters or bed of any meandered public lake or river, and for that purpose may provide for the drainage of any such lake or river, or the diversion of the waters thereof to a new bed or channel; provided, however, that the vested riparian rights of private persons or corporations owning land adjoining such lakes shall not be destroyed or damaged without their consent, unless compensation therefor shall be first paid or secured. The principal of all funds arising from the sale of such iron ore, or other minerals, shall forever be preserved inviolate and undiminished, but the income therefrom shall be used for the construction, improvement and maintenance of the public roads of the state. The principal of such funds shall be loaned or invested in the same manner, by the same officers and upon the same terms as is, or from time to time hereafter may be authorized by the constitution and laws, for the loaning or investment of the permanent school and university funds of the state."

THE PURPOSE of the proposed amendment cannot be more clearly stated than is expressed therein.

THE EFFECT of the amendment, if adopted, would be to confer power on the legislature to provide by law for the mining of iron ore and other minerals, which the state owns in its sovereign capacity and situate under the bed of any meandered public lake or river, subject to the restriction that the rights of riparian owners on any such lake or river, shall not be destroyed or injured without compensation. If the legislature exercises the power, in case it is conferred, it could also provide for the drainage or diversion of the waters of the lake or river with reference to which it so legislates; it could also prescribe by whom such minerals could be mined and the compensation to be paid to the state therefor. The proceeds of the sale of any such minerals would constitute a fund to be loaned and invested the same as the permanent school and university funds, the income of such fund to be used in the construction, improvement and maintenance of public roads.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NO. 4.

By Chapter 382, Laws 1915, the legislature proposed an amendment to Section Two (2) of Article Six of the Constitution.

Said Section 2 now reads as follows:

"Section 2. SUPREME COURT— The supreme court shall consist of one chief justice and two associate justices, but the number of associate justices may be increased to a number not exceeding four, by the legislature, by a two-thirds vote, when it shall be deemed necessary. It shall have original jurisdiction in such remedial cases as may be prescribed by law and appellate jurisdiction in all cases, both in law and equity, but there shall be no trial by jury in said court. It shall hold one or more terms in each year, as the legislature may direct, at the seat of government, and the legislature may provide, by a two-thirds vote, that one term in each year shall be held in each or any judicial district. It shall be the duty of such court to appoint a reporter of its decisions. There shall be chosen, by the qualified electors of the state, one clerk of the supreme court, who shall hold his office for the term of four years, and until his successor is duly elected and qualified; and the judges of the supreme court, or a majority of them, shall have the power to fill any vacancy in the office of clerk of the supreme court until an election can be regularly had."

If the proposed amendment is adopted the section will then read as follows:

> "Section 2. The supreme court shall consist of one chief justice and six associate justices. Five shall constitute a quorum, and the concurrence of at least four shall be necessary to a decision. It shall have original jurisdiction in such remedial cases as may be prescribed by law, and appellate jurisdiction in all cases, both in law and equity, but there shall be no trial by jury in said court. It shall hold one or more terms in each year, as the legislature may direct, at the seat of government, and the legislature may provide, by a two-thirds vote, that one term in each year shall be held in each or any judicial district. It shall be the duty of such court to appoint a reporter of its decisions and a clerk of the supreme court."

PURPOSE AND EFFECT: The Supreme Court as now constituted consists of a chief justice and four associate justices. The clerk of said court is now elected. If the amendment is adopted, two associate justices will be added to the court and the clerk will be appointed by the court instead of being elected by the voters.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NO. 5.

By Chapter 383, Laws 1915, the legislature proposed for adoption by the electors, an amendment of Section Eleven (11) of Article Four (4) of the Constitution.

Said section now reads as follows:

"Section 11. APPROVAL OF BILLS BY GOVERNOR — VETO POWER— Every bill which shall have passed the senate and house of representatives, in conformity to the rules of each house and the joint rules of the two houses, shall, before it becomes a law, be presented to the governor of the state. If he approves he shall sign and deposit it in the office of the secretary of state for preservation, and notify the house where it originated of the fact. But if not, he shall return it with his objections, to the house in which it shall have originated; when such objections shall be entered at large on the journal of the same, and the house shall proceed to reconsider the bill. If, after such reconsideration, two-thirds of that house shall agree to pass the bill, it shall be sent, together with the objections, to the other house, by which it shall likewise be reconsidered; and if it be approved by two-thirds of that house it shall become a law. But in all such cases the votes of both houses shall be determined by yeas and nays, and the names of the persons voting for or against the bill shall be entered on the journal of each house respectively. If any bill shall not be returned by the governor within three days (Sundays excepted) after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a law in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the legislature, by adjournment within that time, prevents its return; in which case it shall not be a law. The governor may approve, sign and file in the office of the secretary of state, within three days after the adjournment of the legislature, any act passed during the last three days of the session, and the same shall become a law. If any bill presented to the governor contains several items of appropriation of money he may object to one or more of such items, while approving of the other portion of the bill. In such case, he shall append to the bill, at the time of signing it, a statement of the items to which he objects, and the appropriation so objected to shall not take effect. If the legislature be in session, he shall transmit to the house in which the bill originated a copy of such statement, and the items objected to shall be separately reconsidered. If, on reconsideration, one or more of such items be approved by two-thirds of the members elected to each house, the same shall be a part of the law, notwithstanding the objections of the governor. All the provisions of this section, in relation to bills not approved by the governor, shall apply in cases in which he shall withhold his approval from any item or items contained in a bill appropriating money."

It is proposed to amend that section so that it shall read as follows:

> "Section 11. Every bill which shall have passed the senate and house of representatives, in conformity to the rules of each house and the joint rules of the two houses, shall, before it becomes a law, be presented to the governor of the state. If he approves he shall sign and deposit it in the office of the secretary of state for preservation, and notify the house where it originated of the fact. But if not, he shall return it, with his objections, to the house in which it shall have originated; when such objections shall be entered at large on the journal of the same, and the house shall proceed to reconsider the bill. If, after such reconsideration, two-thirds of that house shall agree to pass the bill, it shall be sent, together with the objections, to the other house, by which it shall likewise be reconsidered; and if it be approved by two-thirds of that house it shall become a law. But in all such cases the votes of both houses shall be determined by yeas and nays, and the names of the persons voting for or against the bill shall be entered on the journal of each house respectively. If any bill shall not be returned by the governor within three days (Sundays excepted) after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a law in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the legislature by adjournment within that time, prevent its return; in which case it shall not be a law. The governor may approve, sign and file in the office of the secretary of state, within three days after the adjournment of the legislature, any act passed during the last three days of the session, and the same shall become a law. If any bill presented to the governor contains several items of appropriation of money, he may object to one or more of such items in whole or in part, while approving of the other portion of the bill. In such case he shall append to the bill, at the time of signing it, a statement of the items and parts of items to which he objects, and the part of any appropriation so objected to shall not take effect. If the legislature be in session, he shall transmit to the house in which the bill originated a copy of such statement, and the items objected to in whole or in part shall be separately reconsidered. If, on reconsideration, one or more of such items be approved by two-thirds of the members elected to each house, the same shall be a part of the law, notwithstanding the objections of the governor. All the provisions of this section, in relation to bills not approved by the governor, shall apply in cases in which he shall withhold his approval in whole or in part from any item or items contained in a bill appropriating money."

PURPOSE AND EFFECT: Under the Constitution as it now is, the governor may veto any item in an appropriation bill, but he cannot cut down the amount appropriated for any specific purpose. The amendment, if adopted, will give the governor power to reduce the amount of an appropriation for any given purpose, unless upon transmittal to the legislature of a statement of the part of an item of an appropriation bill to which he objects, the two houses, each by a two-thirds vote, approve the item as it was originally passed.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NO. 6.

By Chapter 384, Laws 1915, the legislature proposed an amendment of Section Thirteen (13) of Article One (1) of the Constitution.

The section as it now stands reads as follows:

"Section 13. PRIVATE PROPERTY FOR PUBLIC USE — Private property shall not be taken, destroyed or damaged for public use, without just compensation therefor first paid or secured."

If the amendment is adopted the section will read as follows:

> "Section 13. Private property shall not be taken, destroyed or damaged for public use, without just compensation therefor first paid or secured, and such private property may be taken, destroyed or damaged for the purpose of private as well as public drainage upon just compensation therefor being first paid or secured."

THE PURPOSE of the proposed amendment is to permit the taking of private lands for the purpose of drainage purposes where the drain or ditch will be of no public benefit, but on the contrary will only benefit the land or lands of the person or persons constructing the drainage ditch.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NO. 7.

By Chapter 385, Laws 1915, the legislature proposed for adoption by the electors, an amendment of Section One (1) of Article Four (4) of the Constitution.

Section One as it now stands, reads as follows:

"Section 1. TWO HOUSES — SESSIONS — The legislature shall consist of the senate and house of representatives, which shall meet biennially at the seat of government of the state, at such time as shall be prescribed by law, but no session shall exceed the term of ninety legislative days, and no new bill shall be introduced in either branch except on the written request of the governor, during the last twenty days of such session, except the attention of the legislature shall be called to some important matter of general interest by a special message from the governor."

If the amendment is adopted, the section will then read as follows:

> Sec. 1. TWO HOUSES—SESSIONS. — The legislature shall consist of the senate and house of representatives, which shall meet biennially at the seat of government of the state, at such time as shall be prescribed by law, but no session shall exceed the term of ninety (90) legislative days, and no bill shall be introduced in either branch, except on the written request of the governor, during the last twenty days of such session, except the attention of the legislature shall be called to some important matter of general interest by a special message from the governor; but the people reserve to themselves direct power as follows:
>
> (a) CONSTITUTIONAL INITIATIVE.—When at any time prior to the commencement of any session of the legislature, there shall have been filed with the secretary of state a petition proposing an amendment to the constitution, signed by two per centum of the electors of the state, the secretary of state shall transmit the same to the legislature not later than ten (10) days after the commencement of the session. If the amendment so proposed be not submitted to the electors by the legislature at such session, or if it be submitted in an amended form, then, upon a further petition or petitions, each signed by eight per centum of the electors of the state, filed with the secretary of state within six months after the adjournment of the legislature, the amendment proposed in the first petition, or one or more amended forms thereof, shall be submitted to the electors for their approval or rejection at the next general or special state-wide election occurring not less than ninety days after the filing of any such further petition. Any amendment proposed by initiative petition and, in its original or in an amended form, submitted to the electors by the legislature or by a further petition, shall become a part of the constitution, if approved by a majority of the electors voting at such election, or by four-sevenths of the electors voting on the proposed amendment; provided, not less than three-sevenths of the electors voting at said election voted for the proposed amendment. This section shall be construed as a means in addition to Section 1, Article 14, of the state constitution, for amending the same.
>
> (b) STATUTORY INITIATIVE.—When at any time prior to the commencement of any session of the legislature there shall have been filed with the secretary of state, a petition proposing a law, signed by two per centum of the electors of the state, the secretary of state shall transmit the same to the legislature not later than ten (10) days after the commencement of the session. If the law so proposed be not passed by the legislature at such session, or if it be passed in an amended form, then upon a further petition or petitions, each signed by six per centum of the electors of the state, filed with the secretary of state within six months after the adjournment of the legislature, the law proposed in the first petition or one or more amended forms thereof, shall be submitted to the electors at the next general or special state-wide election, occurring not less than ninety days after the filing of any such further petition or petitions, and if approved by a majority of the electors voting thereon, provided the vote in favor of the proposed law be not less than thirty-three per centum of the total number of votes cast at such election, the same shall become a law and go into effect thirty days after such election, and shall supersede any amended form of such law which may have been passed by the legislature. No law passed by the initiative petition and approved by the electors shall be subject to the veto of the governor. The authority of the people to enact laws, as provided in this subdivision, shall extend only to laws authorized by the provisions of the constitution.
>
> (c) THE REFERENDUM. — If within ninety days after the final adjournment of any session of the legislature, a referendum petition, signed by six per centum of the electors of the state, shall be filed with the secretary of state against any law or any part of a law, passed by the legislature at such session, such law, or such part of a law shall be submitted to the electors at the next general or special state-wide election, occurring not less than ninety days after the filing of said petition. If a majority of the votes cast thereon be in the negative, provided such negative vote be not less than thirty-three per centum of the total number of votes cast at such election, such law or such part of a law shall thereby be repealed. Provided, that if a referendum petition is signed by fifteen per centum of the electors of the state, the law, or part of a law, against which such petition is filed shall be suspended pending the referendum vote thereon. Provided the same shall equal 33 per cent of the votes at such election.
>
> Any law providing for a tax levy or appropriating money for the current expenses of the state government or state institutions, any act of the legislature submitting a constitutional amendment or other question to the electors of the state, or any emergency law necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health, or safety, shall go into effect immediately upon its passage and approval by the governor, and such laws, except emergency laws, shall not be subject to a referendum vote. All other laws shall go into effect ninety days after the adjournment of the legislature. A bill proposing an emergency law shall contain a preamble briefly setting forth the facts constituting the emergency. A separate vote shall be taken upon the preamble of such bill by a call of the yeas and nays, and if the preamble be adopted by a two-thirds vote of all the members of each house, it shall be an emergency law.
>
> (d) GENERAL PROVISIONS.—All petitions provided for in this section shall contain a title indicating the subject and purpose of the proposed law or constitutional amendment, or the law, or part of a law to be referred, and if a change is proposed in an existing constitutional provision or statute, in addition to referring to the same, it shall state the general effect of the proposed change and also the full text of the proposed law or amendment to the constitution, or of the law or part of a law, to be referred. Any initiative or referendum petition may be signed in separate parts but each part shall conform to the provisions herein contained. All petitions shall be signed and verified before a person authorized to administer an oath, and shall be in such form that a person signing a petition thereby states under oath, the date of his signature, his residence, that he is a qualified elector, that he has not previously signed any part of such petition, and that he has signed the petition with knowledge of the contents thereof. To each part of such petition shall be attached the affidavit of the person before whom the same was signed, which affidavit shall contain a statement of the number of signers thereon, that each of the signatures attached to such part was made in the presence of the affiant, that to the best of his knowledge and belief each signature is the genuine signature of the person whose name it purports to be, that he believes the persons who have signed such petition to be electors, that they signed such petition with knowledge of the contents thereof, and that each person signed the same on the date stated opposite his name. The circulation of the petition provided for herein, or the prohibition of the circulation thereof, may be regulated by law, and in case the circulation of any petition is prohibited by law, the percentage of signers required on any petition provided for in this section shall be one-half of the percentage specified in subdivisions a, b and c of this section.
>
> The percentage in any case shall be based upon the total number of votes cast for governor at the next preceding election. All petitions provided for in this section shall contain the signature of not less than one-half of the designated percentage of the electors in not less than one-fourth of the counties of the state. In initiating a law or constitutional amendment, electors who have signed the first shall be qualified to sign the second petition.
>
> The sufficiency of all petitions shall be decided by the secretary of state subject to review by the court. If the secretary of state decides that any petition is insufficient, he shall permit a reasonable time for making corrections or for filing additional signatures. In the event of legal proceedings in court to prevent giving effect to any such petition on account of insufficiency, or any other ground, the burden of proof shall be upon the person attacking the petition. No law or amendment to the constitution initiated and approved by the electors as herein provided, shall be held unconstitutional or void on account of the insufficiency of any initiative petition; nor shall the repeal of any law submitted by referendum petition be held invalid for such insufficiency.
>
> All initiative laws and constitutional amendments shall be so submitted to the electors as to permit an affirmative or negative vote upon each measure submitted. If conflicting proposed laws or conflicting proposed amendments to the constitution be approved at the same election, the one receiving the highest number of affirmative votes shall prevail as to conflicting provisions.
>
> The style of all legislative measures and amendments to the constitution initiated by the people under this section shall be: "Be it enacted by the People of the State of Minnesota."
>
> The provisions of this section may be enforced by appropriate legislation, but until such legislation has been enacted, this section shall be self executing.

THE PURPOSE AND EFFECT of this amendment, if adopted, will be three-fold.

(a) It will permit the voters to propose amendments to the state constitution, for adoption, without action by the legislature. Under the constitution as it now stands constitutional amendments can be proposed only by the legislature.

(b) So, too, if adopted, the amendment will permit electors to propose laws for enactment and if not enacted by the legislatures, the voters may by sufficient petition, require the question of the enactment of the proposed law to be submitted to the voters. If approved by a majority of the electors voting, thereon, provided the vote in favor of the proposed law is not less than thirty-three per cent of the total number of votes cast at such election, the same becomes a law with the same force and effect as though passed by the legislature. The governor will have no power to veto a law so passed, but the people cannot so pass any law which is prohibited by the constitution.

(c) So too, if adopted, the amendment will permit the voters by proper petition to require a vote on the question of whether or not any law or part thereof, of certain classes of laws, passed by the legislature shall be repealed. If the petition asking for the referendum is signed by fifteen per cent of the voters of the state, the number of whom is to be determined by the number of votes cast for Governor at the preceding election, the law so referred to the voters will not take effect pending the referendum vote thereon. The vote required to repeal a law passed by the legislature and the classes of laws which cannot be so repealed are specified in Subdivision "C" of the proposed amendment as above printed.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NO. 8.

By Chapter 386, Laws 1915, the legislature proposed for adoption by the electors an amendment of Section 7, Article 6, of the constitution.

The section now reads as follows:

"Section 7. PROBATE COURTS—There shall be established in each organized county in the state a probate court, which shall be a court of record, and be held at such times and places as may be prescribed by law. It shall be held by one judge, who shall be elected by the voters of the county for the term of two years. He shall be a resident of such county at the time of his election, and reside therein during his continuance in office; and his compensation shall be provided by law. He may appoint his own clerk where none has been elected; but the legislature may authorize the election, by the electors of any county, of one clerk of register of probate for such county, whose powers, duties, term of office and compensation shall be prescribed by law. A probate court shall have jurisdiction over the estates of deceased persons and persons under guardianship, but no other jurisdiction, except as prescribed by this constitution."

The amendment simply proposes to substitute the word "four" for the word "two" so that the sentence prescribing the duration of the term of office will, if the amendment is adopted, read as follows:

> "It shall be held by one judge, who shall be elected by the voters of the county for the term of four years."

PURPOSE AND EFFECT: The amendment, if adopted will make the term of office of the Judge of Probate four years instead of two.

Visited by the Catacombs.

"Did I understand you to say you were in Europe?" he asked of the man who was talking to a drummer across the aisle.

"Yes, sir."

"Were you in Rome?"

"I was there for a month, sir."

"Ah, I am glad to have met you. I wanted to ask about Rome. You visited the catacombs, of course?"

"Didn't have to. They visited me."

"How do you mean?"

"Why, I never stirred out of the hotel that they weren't striking me for alms. Never saw such an infernal set in all my born days."

"Don't you mean the lazzaroni?"

"Of course. The catacombs and the lazzaroni are the same thing, only 'catacombs' is the Italian of it and the other is the English. If you haven't been over I'd advise you to go—if you can raise the dudads. You don't know how much a trip abroad will broaden and liberalize your mind."

And the other sank back and hid himself in a corner, and he did not get over looking pale for the next 30 miles.

Real Academic Dignity.

Max Muller tells a story of one of Dr. Strachan Davidson's predecessors as master of Balliol. "Once, when returning from a solitary walk, Doctor Jenkins, whose regard for his own dignity was very great, slipped and fell. Two undergraduates, seeing the accident, ran to assist him, and were just laying hands on him to lift him up when he descried a master of arts coming. 'Stop!' he cried. 'I see a master of arts coming down the street,' and he dismissed the undergraduates with many thanks, and was helped on his legs by the M. A."—London Chronicle.

The Clever Wasp.

Wasps appear to be well-nigh as industrious as ants or bees. One authority has declared that the cardinal doctrine of the wasp is: "If any wasp will not work, neither shall he eat."

Division of labor is clearly seen in the wasp's nest. Some of the workers seem to be specially employed as foragers and soldiers, others appear to be told off as nurses and guardians, while yet others are engaged as paper makers and masons.

The Faro Gang and the Bank Bookkeeper

Copyright by W. G. Chapman

A twelve-dollar-a-week bookkeeper in a prim New England town, without access to the funds of the bank for which he worked, stole nearly a half million dollars and so juggled the books as to hide the shortage from the directors and from the national bank examiner for a period of two years.

The "faro gang," a band of master crooks, as well organized as though for the development of a mining venture, financed in advance for many thousands of dollars, took the money from the bookkeeper as regularly as he took it from the bank—took it all, but never aroused his suspicion.

The detectives of the bureau of investigation, department of justice, unraveled the whole tangled skein and revealed the ramifications of one of the completest schemes for the illicit acquisition of other people's money that the history of the crime of the nation has ever developed.

The first incident that led to the discovery of this monster plot to defraud took place when two most staid and dignified of the stolid citizens of Bainbridge, Mass., happened to meet outside the First National bank of that serene suburb of Boston one sunshiny afternoon. Their conversation led to an argument as to whether there was $186,000 or $187,000 in the endowment of an orphanage, of which they were directors. To settle this argument they decided to have a look at the books which contained the record of deposits and withdrawals.

So these dignified guardians of this endowment fund approached the cashier's window in the First National bank and asked for the balance in the given account. The official turned automatically to the ledger containing the inactive accounts of the bank, glanced at the balance and automatically reported the figures there revealed.

"Four thousand five hundred dollars," he said.

So was obtained the first revealing flash into the affairs of this institution which had stood as the conservative financial bulwark of the community for a hundred years. Yet a week later, when the principal pass books had been called in, and the experts had complete their examination, the bank was shown to be but a financial shell. Each of those large inactive accounts that lent the institution its strength was found to have melted away. A bank of a capital of but $100,000, it was soon shown that it had been looted for more than $400,000 of the depositors' money.

As soon as the shortage was evident a report was made to the department of justice, in Washington, which has charge of the prosecution of violators of the national banking laws. Expert accountants and Special Agent Billy Gard of the bureau of investigation of that department were immediately hurried to the scene. When they arrived they found that one event had just transpired which came near establishing the facts as to the immediate responsibility for the shortage. The bookkeeper of the bank had disappeared.

The bank was an institution which employed but three men; a cashier, an assistant cashier, and a bookkeeper. The disappearance of the bookkeeper, Robert Tollman, fixed attention on him, and it was ultimately demonstrated that he was the only individual inside the bank who had anything to do with its misfortunes.

Special Agent Gard who handled the outside work of the investigation, found Tollman to be a youngster of twenty-three, a mild-eyed, likable chap, who made friends easily. He was a member of one of those old New England puritanical families that have become institutions in the community in which they reside. Back of him were a dozen generations of repression, of straight-edged righteousness. At the age of eighteen he had entered the bank, and at twenty-three was receiving a salary of but $12 a week. There had been no chance for advancement. At twenty-one he had come into $20,000 as an inheritance from an aunt and this had been the one event of his life, up to that time.

The government's expert accountants immediately established the manner in which the funds of the bank had been taken. As bookkeeper, Tollman did not have access to the cash or securities, and was therefore not considered as being in a position of trust. He was not even bonded. But beneath his eye there constantly passed those large accounts of the bank which represented its wealth.

It was about six months after Tollman came of age that irregular charges began to appear against the inactive accounts. At first they were modest and infrequent. Steadily they strengthened and grew in size. Eventually it was shown that charges averaging $5,000 a day were being regularly placed against these accounts. There were weeks during which the bookkeeper had succeeded in abstracting such amounts every day.

The bank accountants were soon able to demonstrate the method of these abstractions. The bookkeeper would give a check against his own account to some individual in Boston and that individual would deposit it for collection. It would be sent through the clearing house and eventually reach the bank in Bainbridge. The bookkeeper was always early at the bank when any such checks were expected from the clearing house. He opened the letters transmitting them, turning the statement of the total amount represented over to the cashier, that a check might be sent by him to the clearing house. It was the province of the bookkeeper to enter the individual checks against the accounts represented. When he reached his own personal check, he charged it to some one of the inactive accounts instead of his own and destroyed it. So had he taken $400,000.

But the immediate task in hand fell to Billy Gard. It was the apprehension of the fugitive and the recovery, if possible, of all or part of the money taken. It was in the course of the performance of this duty that the ramifications of this case which give it a place among the most unique and complete crimes of the age were developed.

While accountants were revealing the methods used inside the bank in getting hold of the money, Gard was busy outside. Tollman, having disappeared, was to be traced. The first step was to establish his habits, to find his associates. To the experienced special agent the groundwork of a case of this sort unfolds almost of itself. There were the people who knew him best in Bainbridge, for instance. They told Gard that the youngster had broken away, of late, from the friends of his youth. He was believed to have gone to Boston for his pleasures. He had a big red automobile which, it was supposed, he had bought with the money of his inheritance and in which he drove away practically every night. Through the whole of the last year of his peculations, Tollman, the twelve-dollar-a-week clerk, drove regularly to his work at the bank in this car.

In Boston Gard picked up the clues. Tollman was well known at certain hotels and cafes. At one hotel which was a rendezvous for sporting people he regularly called upon a very dashing young woman who was registered as Laura Gatewood. It was at this same hotel that he became acquainted with an accomplished individual known as John R. Mansfield, who was well known about McDougal's Tap, in Columbia avenue, and whose livelihood was secured through alleged games of chance. Miss Gatewood also introduced Tollman to a Mrs. Siddons, an especial friend of Mansfield, who maintained a cozy little apartment in a respectable part of Boston, and who had, in a dress suit case, a portable faro outfit which could be set up in her rooms upon occasion. There was also Edward T. Walls, a large and dominant man, who had, of late, found poker playing on transatlantic liners a rather precarious calling. But, finally, Miss Gatewood arranged meetings between Tollman and "Big Bill" Kelliner, who lived in Winthrop, not far away, was in the wholesale liquor business, in politics, and, as afterward developed, was a dominating spirit in the "faro gang."

With the development of the friendship with Kelliner began the trips to New York. These two would meet two or three times a week at the Back Bay station and together take the train for New York. So frequent were these trips that the members of the train crews came to be well acquainted with the men, and to know something of their movements. They gave clues to the hotels in New York at which these travelers stayed, and this led to their identification by hotel clerks and other facts as to their associates. Eventually all this led to a certain house in West Twenty-eighth street and a consultation with the New York police as to its character.

It developed that in this house there was always running, on evenings when Kelliner and Tollman came to New York, a faro game. Here Kelliner gambled and at first won and induced Tollman to try his luck. The youngster was allowed to win prodigiously. Again he would lose, but not enough to frighten him away. So was the craze for gambling developed in the bookkeeper. But eventually he lost what was left of his inheritance. Up to this time he was honest. But at the suggestion of Kelliner he stole from the bank to make good his losses. He lost again, and was in the mill. There was no chance of escape but through stealing more of the bank's funds and gambling in the hope of eventually winning out. The bookkeeper had entirely lost his head. He became consumed with the recklessness of desperation.

In the meantime the Gatewood woman had moved to New York. Also Tollman had become deeply enamored with her. So fond was he of her company, as a matter of fact, that he would often turn over to Kelliner and Mansfield and other of their friends the money with which to gamble, while he visited with Miss Gatewood. The members of the gang would go to some gilded restaurant and dine sumptuously and return to Tollman and report that luck had been against them, and that they had lost all the money. On such occasions the profits of the evening were almost clear to the gang. On such occasions, so the members of the train crew back to Boston reported, "Big Bill" Kelliner would sob out his apparent grief, because of his losses, on the shoulder of Tollman. The latter was thus placed in the role of comforter. Kelliner would swear never to gamble again and make his protestations so earnestly that Tollman would become the aggressor and urge his associate on and paint pictures of luck ahead. So adroitly did Kelliner play this game that Tollman had been heard to threaten to break with him because he was a piker.

For two years this arrangement continued. Kelliner, Mansfield, Walls, the Gatewood woman, and other accomplices, maintained themselves as decoys that induced the young bookkeeper to draw even more checks against his personal account and always extract these and charge them where they were least likely to be missed. Despite his long carouses at night Tollman never failed to be at the bank in time to open the mail and extract the checks that would have betrayed him. Despite the loss of sleep he was never so dull that he neglected any detail in his bookkeeping that would have caused his accounts to fail to balance or to show any irregularities that would have caused the bank examiner to grow suspicious. Unsuspectingly the stern old bank of Bainbridge stood with unruffled front until it became but a financial skeleton, its last spark of vitality wasted away.

But this young bookkeeper of the gambling mania! What became of him? Those other aiders and abetters to his crime! What action was taken in their case?

Special Agent Billy Gard eventually had in hand a complete understanding of the individuals and the methods that were associated with this case. He had reached the necessity of making arrests.

Kelliner was taken into custody. He indignantly protested that he was innocent of any criminal wrongdoing. Mansfield, Walls and Tollman had disappeared. The capture of the latter was of first importance.

The special agent turned first to that primary command of the old-school detective when a crime is committed: "Find the woman." The results obtained indicate that there may be much in the theory. In the case of Tollman the connection with the Gatewood woman was soon established. She was not about her old haunts in New York. No trails were immediately found. It was developed that she had originally lived in Kansas City. When any individual has got into trouble there is always a strong probability that he will return to his old home, another detective theory to which Billy Gard subscribed. It is particularly true with reference to such serious crimes as murder, but it is to a material extent true in all cases that necessitate flight.

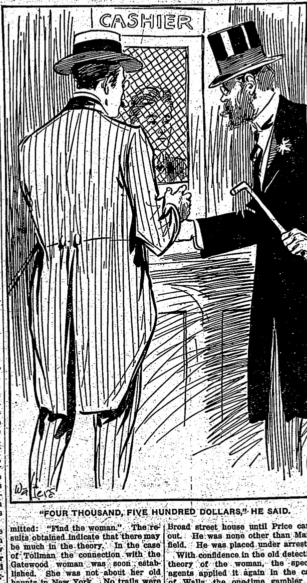
Upon this theory Gard went to Kansas City to look for the woman in the Tollman case. It required some weeks to find her. When she was located it was found that Tollman was not with her. He had been there until the night before. They had quarreled and he had gone away. The cause of their quarrel was the fact that Tollman had no money. She had cast him off as a dead husk. She did not know his whereabouts.

In practically every case of otherwise well-executed crime these develops some element of unexpected folly—the criminal does some one thing that seems, from what would be supposed to be his standpoint, inexcusably stupid. Gard was therefore not surprised when it developed that Tollman had not so much as a thousand dollars out of all he had taken from the bank. He had made no provision for the time which he must have known would inevitably come when he should be detected. This, however, was not the crowning folly from a criminal standpoint. Despite the dash and cunning and the determination he had evinced in his lootings, he lost his nerve when his woman threw him out. He purchased, with the proceeds of pawned jewelry, a ticket to Bainbridge, Mass., went there, and gave himself up to the police. His nerve was broken.

The theory of "find the woman" was applied in the case of the third of the offenders, John R. Mansfield, the Boston gambler. The apartment of Mrs. Siddons where the faro game was, upon occasion, set up, and the woman herself, who was suspected of being particularly intimate with Mansfield, were watched. The watch was not effective, however, for the woman disappeared with no one seeing her.

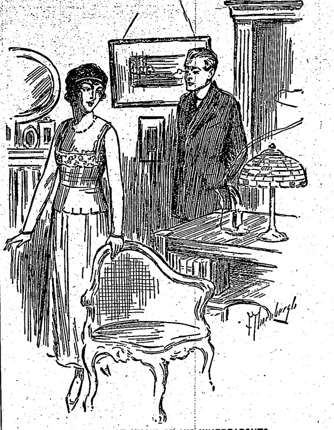
The janitor at the apartment house reported that in going she had taken a particularly heavy trunk. Special Agent Stephens undertook to follow that trunk. He canvassed half the expressmen of Boston before he found the man who had taken the trunk away. This man stated that he had taken it to the Back Bay station at a certain time, and that it had been weighed and found to be in excess of the baggage a passenger might carry free of charge. This singled it out from the mass of trunks. The expressman remembered that it weighed 225 pounds, and that the baggageman had marked it for 60 cents excess. According to the rate book this would have been the excess charge for that weight to New York. The trunk was thus located with sufficient definiteness that its number was procured.

In New York it was found that the excess trunk had been sent on to North Philadelphia with the charge C. O. D. Here the record showed that the trunk had been called for by a Mrs. Price, living at an address on Broad street, and the agent remembered that she had been accompanied by a man. At this address a Mr. and Mrs. Price were found to be living. Special Agent Stephens watched the Broad street house until Price came out. He was none other than Mansfield. He was placed under arrest.



"FOUR THOUSAND, FIVE HUNDRED DOLLARS," HE SAID.

With confidence in the old detective theory of the woman, the special agents applied it again in the case of Walls, the one-time gambler on transatlantic liners. This was not done, however, until several suspected individuals in different cities had been shown not to be the man wanted, and many other schemes for the apprehension of the gambler had failed. For Walls was married to a very attractive and respectable woman, who supported herself by keeping a boarding house after his flight. It could not be discovered that she was in communication with her husband. Finally, there was developed another woman with whom Walls was known to have been friendly, and who had a part in the activities of the faro gang. This woman's correspondence was watched, and it was soon discovered that she was sending letters to and receiving letters from a man in Detroit, Mich. Tracings of the man's handwriting were made as the letters came through the post office, and when compared with that of Walls, the resemblance was convincing.



SHE DID NOT KNOW OF HIS WHEREABOUTS.

The writer of these letters gave his address as a lock box. A special agent went to Detroit, but the box had been given up. Two months later more letters came to the same woman from Grand Junction, Colo., and also from a lock box. The postmaster was able to describe the man holding the box and the description suited Walls. But he moved again before a detective got there to identify and arrest him. There was a chase of six months on such clues, always through the same woman, but Walls was still at large.

Eventually there appeared among death notices in New York the name of Edward T. Walls. Subsequently Mrs. Walls went from her boarding house in Boston and took charge of the body. Suspecting that this might be a trick to throw them off their guard, the special agents took every precaution to identify the body. Eventually they were convinced that the man they had pursued so diligently was dead. The case was closed.

The three principals in this case, Tollman, Kelliner and Mansfield, were given 15, 18 and 10 years respectively. After their conviction both Tollman and Kelliner talked freely to Billy Gard of the whole case and threw some interesting sidelights upon it. Kelliner told particularly of the inception of the plans of the faro gang. He said it came into being at Atlantic City where he and Mansfield and Walls happened to be spending a week end. Kelliner at that time already had a line on Tollman and other possible victims were deemed ready for the plucking.

With these prospective victims in mind the faro gang was organized. Money had to be raised for the fitting up of the establishment in Twenty-eighth street, which was only used when victims were in tow. This alone cost $2,000. Then there was the necessary expense money of the members of the gang while they were developing their victim. There must be cash in the bank to be won when those victims made their first appearance. Altogether it was a business that had to be capitalized for something like $20,000 before it could begin operations. But, as it afterwards turned out, it was a profitable investment if viewed from the standpoint of Tollman alone; and there were other victims.

BAY RUM FROM WEST INDIES

Only Real Genuine Extract Made From Trees That Are Cultivated Only on Danish Islands.

After 50 years of negotiations, and at a cost of $25,000,000, the United States is on the threshold of achieving the ownership of the source of all genuine bay rum.

It is true that we are not buying the Danish West Indies primarily because they are the group made famous by the refreshing toilet preparation, nevertheless the American people will feel more "at home" in calling the islands ours when they recall that if it weren't for St. Thomas, St. John and St. Croix, freshly shaved faces would be unsoothed by the universally popular product of distilled leaves.

The bay tree of glory is the laurus nobilis, while the bay of rum has the caustic name of myrica acris. The peculiar species of aromatic bay which supplies the distinctive ingredient of bay rum is closely allied in appearance to several other varieties of bay growing on St. John and St. Croix, and great care is necessary to avoid confusion in gathering the leaves and berries, for a very small number of leaves of the wrong kind will materially affect the quality of the finished product.

The leaves of the myrica acris are from three to five inches in length. The round berries are about the size of a pea and contain from seven to eight seeds. The bay rum which is made from a combination of green leaves and berries is of a better quality than that distilled from dried leaves or from the leaves without the berries. The berries are very difficult to gather, however, and they cost from 15 to 20 times as much as the leaves.

The basis of bay rum is Jamaica or St. Croix rum, made from the skimmings of the sugar boilers, scrapings of sugar barrels, and the washings from sugar pots.

For a number of years much of the bay rum of American commerce has been manufactured in this country, the ingredients usually being about one-half the bulk alcohol, one-sixteenth Jamaica rum, 40 drops of oil of bay to the pint, 20 drops of oil orange, a few drops of oil of mace, and the remainder distilled water, all of which is allowed to stand for several weeks and is then filtered through magnesia.

TALES OF HOTEL REPORTERS

They Were Fanciful and Readable in Good Old Days When the Imagination Had Free Rein.

If a man physician named Dr. John Jones marry a woman physician named Dr. Mary Smith, how shall they register when they go on their bridal tour? Shall they register as "Dr. John Jones and wife," or as "Dr. John Jones and Dr. Mary Jones"? Shall they call themselves "Dr. and Mrs. John Jones," or "Drs. John and Mary Jones"?

Ah, for the old days when "hotel reporters used to give Chicago silly-season problems like this one, which is now thrown into the New York newspapers, says the Chicago Post.

Those were great times, my masters. The "hotel reporters" never had enough to do. Their superiors knew it, but they knew that the fact would stimulate the imagination. It did. Every afternoon the bored reporters would gather, with no news and nothing to write. Inevitably, they would "make up" something—this was before the day when people began to say "frame up."

They would have "Mr. Zero" of Medicine Hat paged on the hottest day of the year. They would pull the old one about the bellboy who called "Mr. Smith" in a crowded lobby and had eighty-five men spring up and answer "Here." They would spin interviews with strange people who just happened to drop into town and drop out again before the city editor or any rival newspaper could check up on them. Charles Dillingham, the theatrical man, was a hotel reporter. So was Joseph Medill Patterson. So were "Eddie" Westlake and many others.

The work they did was just plain foolery, like the sublimely unimportant question of how Doctor Jones and wife should register. We don't doubt that Dillingham and his generation printed that same query. It is too bad that this innocent humor is gone from the papers. It never did anybody any harm. It offended but the strictest of truthtellers.

He Anticipated Her.

"Do you love me?" murmured the beautiful girl.

"I do. Also I'm strong for suffrage like your poodle and think I can get along with your ma."

But she didn't accept him after all. A girl doesn't like to have all her questions anticipated.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Black Doe

By H. M. EGBERT

(Copyright, 1916, by W. G. Chapman.)

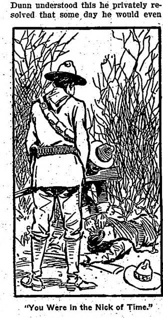
Perhaps Dunn should never have joined the Northwestern mounted police, for of all types of men who are out of their element there, the moody, introspective, unaggressive man comes easily first. But Dunn had had a hankering after the military life when he went out to Calgary two years before.

Now he was in for several years, and cursing his luck daily. What he liked best was the lonely patrols up in the Big Lake country.

He had met Marie Dufour there, the daughter of an old trapper who had retired, like his fur-bearing beasts, before the march of civilization. He had seen her three times during the past two years, and it had been understood that when he became a corporal he was to speak to her father.

But the coveted stripes would never be his so long as Sergt. Mitchell remained in the squadron. A hard-featured, service-bitten man, Mitchell made Dunn's life wretched. He inspected his uniform with an eagle eye that discovered the smallest speck or flaw, he hauled him before his officers on trivial charges; in short, he did his best to break Dunn or force him out of the service.

It was a long time before Dunn discovered that Mitchell had met Marie in the Big Lake country the year before and coveted her beauty. When Dunn understood this he privately resolved that some day he would even up the score between them. For the present he remained quietly in barracks, doing his duty and suffering under Mitchell's ill-treatment.



"You Were in the Nick of Time."

The quiet life was interrupted by one of those periodical excitements that descend upon the barracks. Black Doe, in a state of drunkenness, had shot a police officer at Neverport, and was making for the Big Lake country. Mitchell was ordered to take two troopers and get him.

It was a journey of two hundred miles, in the slushy period of spring. But the police never postpones its vengeance when it can avoid it, and never abandons it.

Dunn could not imagine what it was that impelled Mitchell to select him along with Crum. Perhaps Mitchell wished to see the man he most hated in Marie's presence, so as to be more sure of his bearings. Whatever the motive, he selected Dunn, and he gibed at him all the way.

He found fault with him during the long and painful day marches, with his equipment, his care of his horse, his manner of riding. He detailed him on one-man fatigues in the daytime, and gave him all the difficult work. Dunn's rage smoldered, but the idea in the back of his mind that he would get even with Mitchell hardly assumed any tangible form.

In due course they reached the store at Big Lake. Their visit was a complete surprise. Black Doe had been seen in the neighborhood, and evidently was off his guard. Mitchell ascertained that he had made no purchases, without which it would be impossible for him to continue on his way northward into the barrens.

"We'll spend the night at Johnny Dufour's," he said to Crum, as the three rode away toward the shack.

Dunn's heart sank when he off-saddled. Marie was already in the doorway to greet the visitors, and her eyes wandered with wonder from Dunn's face to Mitchell's.

"Take my horse to the stables!" commanded Mitchell curtly. "And, say! Take Crum's, too. And see that they're well groomed before you come in to supper."

Dunn went away obediently, riding his horse and leading the two others. Now he began to understand, he thought, the reason why Mitchell had selected him. He wanted to humiliate him in the eyes of the girl.

At supper Mitchell kept up a cross-fire of chaff, banter, and spitefulness directed at Dunn. Dunn's acquiescence seemed to enrage him. He would have welcomed a chance either for a brawl or for punishment for indiscipline; but Dunn only sat silently, watching Marie furtively, while the sergeant's eyes were alight with triumph. He felt that he had won, had shown Marie his superiority over Dunn.

They retired to their bunks. They were to start up the trail at daybreak, on the quest for Black Doe. Dunn slept fitfully; he was thinking of Marie, and his heart was full of passionate resentment.

He was the first up, and went to groom the horses. As he came back to the shack he heard Mitchell's voice and the girl's behind the open door. Mitchell had his arm round her waist and was drawing her toward him. Crum was nowhere in sight.

Then Dunn knew what he meant to do. He crept back very softly to the stable and loaded his rifle. He took it in his arms, carrying it as a mother might her first born, and approached the door again.

Mitchell held the girl in his arms now, and she was struggling as he tried to kiss her. Dunn, aiming deliberately, was conscious of the open door at the back of the shack, and a clump of dwarf fir about a hundred yards distant. Then he concentrated his attention upon Mitchell. Carefully he drew a bead on him so as to avoid hitting the girl.

Bang!

Mitchell leaped into the air, flung out his arms, and pitched head foremost. Dunn stepped into the shack. There was no need to look more than once at the dead face, or the blood oozing from the heart.

Marie ran to Dunn, sobbing wildly. "You did right, the beast!" she cried.

"Come with me," said Dunn.

They raced to the stables, and in a moment he had freed the horses, saddled them, and placed her on the sergeant's. In another moment they were galloping across the barrens. At the time Dunn was conscious of wondering where old Dufour and Crum were. But a moment later they heard shouts behind them. They galloped frantically forward, anywhere, so long as they could win free.

Crum was a man of resolution, and Dunn knew that he would take up the chase and never leave it. He reckoned on the fact that Crum's horse was the slowest of the three. The freshly falling snow would hide their tracks if they could win the country across the river bed, where a series of hummocks swelled into the Big Lake mountains.

Far behind him Dunn heard a shout. He turned and looked back as he rode. Crum was standing at the door of the stable, waving his arms to him.

A few minutes later Dunn, looking back, saw Crum mounted and in pursuit of them, a tiny figure upon a tiny horse. They rode madly for the dip toward the river.

"We must be careful," said Marie, as they began the descent. "The rocks are dangerous."

Even as she spoke her horse tripped on a projecting bowlder, stumbled, and flung her face downward upon the hard bed of the frozen stream. Dunn leaped from his horse and kneeled beside her. She had been stunned by the fall; she opened her eyes and looked about her half-conscious.

The horse scrambled to its feet, ran up the bank, and raced back toward the stable, followed by Dunn's horse. And Dunn, kneeling at Marie's side, knew that chance had settled his particular problem. And in the distance Crum came on inexorably.

Dunn shrugged his shoulders as one who has played his last card. He carried the girl up to the top of the bank and waited for Crum, who came galloping up on his blown horse. He flung himself to his feet, panting, like his steed.

"What's the matter with you, to play this crazy trick after killing him?" he shouted.

Dunn smiled. "I guess you're right, Crum," he said. "Take the girl on your saddle; I'll walk. You can trust me."

Crum, staring at him in apparent perplexity, lifted Marie to the saddle before him. She had fallen into a swoon again. Then he rode slowly back toward the cabin, with Dunn walking a little distance in front of him.

He turned his horse away when near the stable, and went toward the little patch of stunted trees that had struck upon Dunn's attention at the moment when he raised his rifle. Dunn saw the motionless body of a man lying hidden among them. It was Black Doe.

"How did you get him, Dunn?" asked Crum, dismounting and turning the body over. "See! He had just fired. You were in the nick of time."

The dead man's fingers were clutched about the trigger; the rifle had been discharged; over his heart was a bullet wound.

Dunn, unable to speak, accompanied Crum back to the shack. Mitchell lay where he had fallen, and old Dufour was muttering in the corner, as if he did not understand.

"He got poor Mitchell a second before you fired," said Crum. "Over the heart, too. See!"

Dunn looked in horror now mixed with agitation. He saw that track of the bullet, through the breast and out under the rib. The missile lay upon the floor beside the inert man. It was a battered .45, such as the Indians use. Dunn's bullet had been a .303. And it had been Black Doe whom he had killed, not Mitchell.

Owatonna. — Two prisoners sawed their way to freedom from the Steele county jail, took an automobile owned by County Superintendent of Schools James Mort, and escaped.

Minneapolis. — A boom for the establishment of a state normal school in the St. Anthony Park district was started at a meeting of the St. Anthony Park North Improvement association.

Minneapolis. — Indorsement of the serum-only method of treatment for hog cholera, as distinguished from the serum-virus method, is made in the current issue of the University Farm Bulletin.

Stillwater. — Double funeral services were held here for Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Chatterton, pioneer residents of Stillwater, whose deaths occurred within six and a half hours of the other. Each was 84 years old.

Albert Lea. — Ernest Hanson, son of Fred Hanson of Clarks Grove, was killed almost instantly near here when the motorcycle on which he was riding collided head-on with an automobile driven by Severe Olson of this city.

Stillwater.—High school boys served as judges at the Stillwater Horse and Cattle show. Heretofore state university students have acted in this capacity. The entries included many animals that have won prizes at the state fair.

Brainerd. — Pending the arrival of "Fisherman John" of Stillwater, five rivermen of Brainerd and Guting have been enlisted in the search for the body of Selwyn P. Coffrain a Brainerd business man, who was drowned in Lake George Oct. 15 while duck hunting.

Brainerd.—District schools in Dukeman and Neutral have been closed following an infantile paralysis investigation conducted in Crow Wing county by Dr. R. A. Beise of this city, at the solicitation of the farmers in Garrison and Maple Grove townships. Quarantine regulations have been established.

Pipestone. — The sun appeared in the role of a firebug in Pipestone and but for the prompt discovery of a fire which started in the window of a large jewelry store, a heavy loss would have resulted. Lying in the window, with numerous valuable pieces of jewelry, was a pair of spectacles, which reflected the rays of the sun onto the plush.

Grand Rapids. — Olga Dahl, who was assaulted and shot September 21, has recovered sufficiently to travel by automobile. She has made her first visit to her parents at Warba since receiving her injuries, and was driven to Deer River, where she is staying at the home of Mrs. Marian Taylor, the nurse who has been in charge of the case.

Minneapolis. — Mallard ducks have been placed on the open market here for the first time since Hennepin county pioneer days. The ducks were placed on sale at two downtown stores. They were raised on C. D. Velie's game breeding farm at Maxwell's bay, Lake Minnetonka. They are absolutely the first "legal mallards" ever placed on the open market.

Minneapolis. — The state campaign for the adoption of Amendment No. 1, intended to improve state lands and make them more salable, is in full swing. It has been decided that it will be better for the campaigners to divide the territory and campaign individually, because in that way they can cover much more territory than one party could cover in an automobile.

St. Paul. — Frederick T. Price, convicted wife murderer, has made his last fight for liberty before members of the Minnesota supreme court, asking for a new trial on the grounds of errors at his trial, and alleging misconduct on the part of George W. Armstrong, assistant county attorney, who prosecuted him. After arguments by Price's attorney and by Mr. Armstrong, the court took the case under advisement.

Duluth. — Henry Johnson, age 36, formerly of Ray, Minn., has been arrested in a Duluth saloon as a suspect in the criminal shooting of Miss Olga Dahl, Itasca county school teacher. Questioned by Chief of Police McKercher, Johnson said he came here from Skibo, and that he had been in Round Lake "a long time ago." Johnson has served a 10 months' term in a Canadian prison for an unnatural crime and has also been an inmate of the Fergus Falls asylum for the insane.

Minneapolis.—The University of Minnesota is to become, in effect, a second West Point. It has been named as one of the sixteen of the leading universities and colleges of the United States authorized to train reserve officers along lines laid down in the army reorganization law. President Vincent was appointed one of a committee to work out a curriculum adapted to the various institutions, and to the government's requirements, and to arrange other details for beginning instruction.

Mankato. — That highest self-realization as the aim of education is the basis for the new state course of study for elementary schools was pointed out here by Miss Theda Gildemeister, supervisor of training in Winona normal school, in an address at the Southern Minnesota Teachers' convention.

Duluth. — The validity of the Duluth wheelage tax ordinance is sustained on all points raised in an appeal decided by the State Supreme court. The appeal was taken by James D. Park against the City of Duluth and others to test the ordinance after it had been upheld by the lower court.

BOARD OF PARDONS COMMUTES TERMS

DENIES THREE PARDON APPLICATIONS AND TAKES OTHER CASES UNDER ADVISEMENT.

TO TRY 'ABSENT VOTERS' LAW'

Traveling Salesmen and Others May May Cast Ballots Anywhere in Minnesota on Election Day, Under Statute—Must Have Certificate.

St. Paul.

The board of pardons has commuted the sentences of three prisoners at Stillwater, denied three pardon applications and has taken the remaining eight cases heard under advisement until November 9, to which date the board adjourned. Fred Wagner, Jr., "lifer"; Christ I. Lucken and Earl Scrafield, serving indeterminate sentences, were voted commutations.

Denials were voted on the petitions of Mike Lali, Petro Bacani and Jim Francisetti, a trio serving reformatory sentences for assault.

The pardon pleas of "Kid" Scully, sentenced at Minneapolis in March, and that of Harry T. Robinson, under 20 years' sentence for burglary of the Shubert theater in St. Paul, were among those taken under advisement.

Vincent Wood is in the state prison for life because he tried to play a practical joke on his best friends, his attorney told the pardon board in an appeal for a pardon of sentence commutation for his client.

Wood, whose practical joke cost a man's life, went to prison for the rest of his day's with his lips sealed on a story that might have won him acquittal, said his attorney.

Absentees to Vote.

Traveling salesmen and others expecting to be absent from home on election day are preparing in many cases to cast their votes for president and for state officers under the "absent voters' law." The law does not cover absence from the state, but a voter anywhere in Minnesota on election day can cast his ballot if he has prepared for the contingency.

Sections 468 to 471 of the revised statutes, provide a method for an absent voter to cast his vote for president, for a state officer "voted for by the voters throughout the state as a whole" or on any constitutional amendment.

First, he must go on a registration day, which will be Oct. 28, before the judges of his home precinct and get a certificate from them, saying that he is a resident and legal voter of that precinct. On election day he is to present the certificate at the precinct where he desires to vote. Two "qualified resident voters" are to identify him as the man named in the certificate. He then is to be given a state ballot. After he has marked it and handed it to the judges, they are to place it in an envelope and send it by registered mail to the auditors of the voter's home county. It is to be opened and counted by the county canvassing board.

Citizens' Camp at Fort.

Fort Snelling has been designated as a military training camp for business men similar to the camp at Plattsburg, N. Y. Major-General Barry commanding the Central department of the army, authorized the maintenance of two such camps of 80 days each during August and September, 1917, at Fort Snelling, civic workers announced.

All of Minnesota, North and South Dakota, Wisconsin and Montana will be asked to co-operate in making this camp a success. Fully 1,000 men will be necessary to make the camp a success, but the general interest in the eastern training camps, shown by business and professional men, warrants the belief that at least 1,500 will train at Fort Snelling next year."

Soldiers Plan Carnival.

Minnesota soldiers in camp at Llano Grande, Texas, will have an outdoor sports carnival of their own. They expect to be denied the pleasure of participating in the St. Paul Outdoor affair to take place early next month. They will be aided by the home folk in supplying some of the articles necessary for the carnival for a letter from Rev. L. R. S. Ferguson, chaplain of the First Field artillery, met with a prompt response.

Hearing on Adjustments.

The State Tax Commission has held hearings looking toward adjustments of assessments of mineral lands in Minnesota. Representatives of about fifteen mining companies and other owners of mineral properties appeared, a small number in comparison to those in past years.

Cavalry Troop for "U."

A cavalry troop may be established at the University of Minnesota during the next college year, according to Major George W. Moses, new commandant of the cadet corps and instructor in military science. "Three branches of instruction in colleges are provided in the new army law and next year we expect to see the infantry, artillery and cavalry all at the university," said the commandant. Three more regular army officers will be sent to the university to give instruction, he said.

HINDUS WED WITH BRAHMIN RITES

Strange Ceremony in New York Marks Romance Begun in Faraway India.

BOTH ARE COLLEGE STUDENTS

Incense and Flowers Are Most Important Feature of the Ceremony —Instead of Rice Bride and Groom Exchange Garlands.

New York.—A romance which began in faraway India culminated here in the marriage of two young members of the Hindu priestly caste, both students at Columbia university. The bride was Miss Radhabai Pawar, a Brahminee, who lives at Whittier hall, and the bridegroom was Shankar M. Pagar, a Brahmin, both sent to this country by the government of Baroda to complete their education.

The ceremony was celebrated at the Vedanta society's meeting place, 236 Central Park West, and lasted about 20 minutes. A formal Brahmin ceremony takes up three days, but Mr. Pagar and his bride have adopted many of the American customs and they welcomed the shorter ceremony.

To be married in an orthodox Brahmin temple they would have been obliged to travel to Boston or to San Francisco, so they decided to be wedded by a member of the Vedanta society.

About 50 persons were present, including some of the bride's classmates, and a group of young Hindu students who are finishing their education at Columbia and New York university, all friends of the bridegroom.

The ceremony was impressive, and for a short time it seemed as if the mysticism of India, the spirit of Veda, had settled upon this quiet corner in Central Park West.

Wear Native Costumes.

The couple wore their native bridal costumes. The bride, who is twenty-six years old, was dressed in a white silk sari, while the bridegroom, her senior by one year, wore a turban, shawl, and dhoti.

It was a ceremony of love, of flowers, of incense. In all East Indian ceremonies incense is a most necessary thing, and it hung in purplish clouds over the young couple who sat while the priest, Swami Bodhalanda, read verses from the sacred books of India, the Mantras of the Vedas. Instead of the ring ceremony, the bride and bridegroom exchanged garlands of flowers. There were flowers everywhere, it seemed.

Hindus have married American women, but this is the first marriage on record in this country where a Hindu youth married a Hindu maid.

After the ceremony the bride and bridegroom, followed by their intimate friends, were whisked off in American style to the Hindustan Association of America, which occupies a plain brown-stone house at 364 West 120th street, where a supper of Indian dishes was served.

But before the wedding feast the guests assembled in the large meeting room and blessed the bride with speeches. There also the mysticism of India and the materialism of America intermingled.

On a small table, a soft golden light fell from a Buddha lamp, and in another corner an electric light glowed through an urn of alabaster, casting a white light upon the bride. She was surrounded by fragrant flowers, and upon her ears fell the songs of her native land, mostly love songs. And some of them came from a phonograph, and other love melodies were sung, accompanied by a parlor organ.

Feast of Indian Dishes.

All sorts of rare and highly spiced dishes relished by the Hindus were prepared by a Hindu chef for the feast. The bride and bridegroom sat at the head of the table, the bridegroom, meantime, having changed the robes of his land for American dress.

Later the newlyweds left on their honeymoon, and like other American bridal couples, they tried to keep their destination a secret.

The bride took the degree of Bachelor of Science last year, and is now trying for the degree of Master of Arts. She is specializing in pedagogy. Mr. Pagar is a graduate of Wisconsin university, and has already taken the degree of Master of Arts at Columbia. This year he expects to take the degree of Doctor of Philosophy.

Both were born in the state of Baroda, India, and they have known each other since childhood. Their childish friendship ripened into love, and four years of separation did not lessen their affection. Mr. Pagar came here six years ago after winning a scholarship at the University of Bombay, and his bride has been a student at Columbia for two years. They plan to return to Baroda next summer, and will take up educational service for the government.

To the uninitiated in a wedding in Sanskrit, it was impossible to determine whether the word "obey" was a part of the ceremony. One of the Hindu students present at the wedding, however, explained that the sacredness in which the ceremony was held by the Hindus obviated any emphasis on this point. So sacred is the ceremony, in fact, that only to those for whom the ceremony is being performed are its secret canons revealed.

Mrs. Williams broke open an egg, after the egg had been boiled. Inside she found a piece of newspaper about half an inch long and an eighth of an inch wide. There were a few lines of print on the paper, and Mrs. Williams could make out the three words, "To be known," and, underneath, "go to." The egg was in good condition.

Considerable Swift and Accurate Shooting Seems to Have Been Experience of Most of Them—Call Villa by First Name.

Field Headquarters, American Punitive Expedition, in Mexico.—There are not so many scouts now as there were in the first days of the punitive expedition.

One by one, with many a scoutlike whoop and much business of twirling six-shooters on the fingers, the greater number of them have departed in a cloud of dust and a great clattering of hoofs.

That they were allowed to depart may lay the commanders of this expedition open to some criticism. It is difficult to entertain an army in camp and those earlier scouts were entertaining. Those that are left devote an awful lot of time to scouting and very little to conversation.

For instance, Jack Boyd, scout chief, was in this tent but a few minutes ago and an effort was made to draw him out on his experience with the rifle.

"Shucks!" said Jack Boyd, glancing in embarrassment at the gold watch on his wrist. "I'm not a good shot. It just happens when we're out for game I'm lucky."

Strong on Spotlight.

What can one do with a scout like that? Now the earlier scouts were just the other way around. Take the chap they called "Mail Order." The name was given him by the soldiers, who seemed to feel that his wide-brimmed hat, vivid neckerchief, embossed holsters and other "props" had been acquired by the system invented in Chicago.

Mail Order had been detailing a killing in which he had played the spotlight a good deal. There had been considerable swift and accurate shooting, it seems, and Mail Order had come out of the blue smoke with two hot revolvers and three dead men on his conscience.

"In course, I had to shoot," said Mail Order. "'Cause these here hombres were fixin' to wipe me out. But I don't care none fer killin' men. Every time I kill a man it gives me the shivers."

Nearly all those early scouts seemed to be personally acquainted with Pancho Villa and referred to him almost exclusively by first name. One of these sighed heartily upon hearing an official report of the expedition's engagement with a band of outlaws.

"That aint really no fun," he yawned. "When I was with Pancho some of them greasers tried to run off my cattle over to Sonora. I gets up and, while my breakfast coffee is a-cookin', I goes out and kills fourteen of 'em."

Dressed in Trophies.

Another claimed to be dressed entirely in trophies and relics. He was forever glancing at an enormous silver watch.

"See that watch?" he would then ask. "Took that offen Sulerro the Sutcher after I killed him."

Then he would call attention to his boots, claiming that they were the mementoes of another bloody encounter. His pistol was highly prized, inasmuch as he declared it was a gift from Pancho Villa on the occasion of the scout's assassination of eight personal enemies of Villa.

Thus ran the stories of the scouts who have departed. Their tales are sadly missed in camp. Reviewing some of them the writer questioned Jack Boyd closely.

"You must have a remarkable shooting story somewhere about you," he was urged.

"Yes," said Jack, "I have. Day before yesterday Lieutenant Patton and I were out shooting and we ran into a herd of 75 antelope. We got one apiece."

Jack Boyd is a very discouraging sort of scout.

HAS HERD OF WILD ANGORAS

Farmer's Pet Goats Forgot Domesticity in Oregon Mountain Home.

Hood River, Ore.—For the last several weeks mountaineers who have made the ascent of Mount Hood have been contradicting the statements of authorities on Northwestern natural history by reports of having sighted wild sheep or goats high on the snowfields of the peak.

A drove of the animals near the summit of the snowpeak, huddled under the shelf of a glacial precipice, was recently seen by Hans and Paul Hoerlein, William Marshall, W. B. Arens and Ned Crawford.

The mystery was explained by P. H. Mohr, a young upper valley homesteader, who was in the city on business.

"It's my herd of Angoras run wild," said Mr. Mohr.

Catches the "Hugger."

Bethlehem, Pa.—Dressed as a woman, Walter Lilly caught this town's "Jack the Hugger," when the latter accosted him in a dark street. The hugger will recover.

CAULIFLOWER IN FAVOR

Vegetable Is Closely Related to the Cabbage Tribe.

Very Rich Soil Required, and It Must Be Given Most Particular Treatment—Market Demands Snowy White Heads.

Cauliflower is closely related to the cabbage tribe, but much more refined in its habits and more difficult to cultivate. It requires a very rich soil and the most particular treatment, and no farmer or gardener would be justified in attempting its cultivation on a large scale, or to depend upon it as a market crop without first having thoroughly studied its peculiarities and requirements.

The market desires snowy white heads, so that protection is universally practiced to accomplish this purpose. Three methods are used: (1) the breaking of half a dozen or more leaves over the top of the cauliflower head. The stems of the leaves are not severed entirely, so that the leaves remain green. (2) Breaking or bending over the leaves as just explained, and pinning with toothpicks or small pins. This is a very satisfactory method for all sections. (3) Bringing the leaves together over the head and tying. This is an excellent plan, but requires more time than securing with the toothpicks. The protection should begin when the heads are about an inch and a half in diameter.

Cauliflower is considered a delicacy on most tables, and it pays to exercise special care in the marketing. Although barrels are often used, crates or baskets are better. A package which will not hold more than a dozen or at most two dozen heads certainly has an advantage over the barrels.

If the heads are of good size, snowy white, wrapped in fancy paper, and marketed in new, clean packages they cannot fail to attract attention, and command good prices.

AUTUMN DEMAND FOR CELERY

Tendency to Rush Product to Market Before It Is Well Blanched—Loss in Trimming.

The bracing fall weather will stimulate the demand for celery. At this season when it is selling readily at good prices, there is a tendency to rush celery to market before it is well blanched. This is a mistake, because it necessitates severe trimming at the market end, and the product goes to the cheaper trade. To catch the best grade, celery must be fully blanched, clean and well trimmed.

"Handling" celery should be finished promptly and the rows ridged as fast as possible. If the soil is allowed to get into the hearts of the plants it will cause rot. Celery intended for storage should not be ridged. In some quarters there is a prejudice against blanching celery with boards. It is claimed that blanching with earth makes it crisper and gives it a better flavor. Just the same, much of the product grown in various parts of the country is blanched with boards, and it sells for top prices, too.

POTATO GATHERER IS HANDY

Mechanism Is Placed on Forward End of Frame of Device—Conveyor Carries Potatoes.

Wisconsin is coming to the front as a potato state, and as a standardized variety potato state that uses pedigreed seed it leads them all. Naturally, potato interests are receiving the attention of inventors more or less in that state. Here we are showing a drawing of a recent patent of a potato gatherer by a Louisburg (Wis.) man. The gathering mechanism is placed in the forward end of the frame that is pivoted on a wheeled axle, a conveyor for carrying the potatoes back to the rear from the gathering mechanism being also carried. The frame carries fingers of unequal length, placed successively long and short, and directed forward over the conveyor. A second conveyor is mounted on the frame above the first one, the upper one carrying transverse rake bars.—Farming Business.

MANURE APPLIED IN GARDEN

Fresh Fertilizer Induces Rank Growth of Stem and Leaf—Yield Is Greatly Reduced.

Barnyard manure is good for the garden if applied at the right time, but there are times when its application is harmful. Fresh manure, when applied immediately before planting, cannot be thoroughly incorporated with the soil. As a result the land is hard to work and the ground is loose instead of compact. Fresh manure also induces a rank growth of stem and leaf, and, as a result of these factors, the yield of most vegetables is greatly reduced.

Their insularity in this respect is disappearing, however, and two anonymous donors have each given $5,000 to Leeds university, one gift being for the development of the Russian language and literature, and the other as an initial endowment to found a chair of Spanish.

Oldtime Musical Watch.

An extraordinary timepiece has come into the possession of a jeweler living in Chillicothe, O., who is said to have got it on a recent visit to London. It is a watch of the antique class, made in Paris 125 years ago at a time when musical watches were much in vogue among the well-to-do classes. It is a fine specimen of the handmade article, and besides playing beautiful melodies strikes the hours and quarters. The dial is noteworthy on account of its rare and exquisite enamel work on beautifully chased gold. It is looked upon as a curio of great value.

WIFE TOO ILL TO WORK

IN BED MOST OF TIME

Her Health Restored by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Indianapolis, Indiana. — "My health was so poor and my constitution so run down that I could not work. I was thin, pale and weak, weighed but 109 pounds and was in bed most of the time. I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and five months later I weighed 133 pounds. I do all the housework and washing for eleven and I can truthfully say Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been a godsend to me for I would have been in my grave today but for it. I would tell all women suffering as I was to try your valuable remedy."—Mrs. WM. Astonishing Power of Iron to Give Strength to Broken Down Nervous People

Physician Says Ordinary Nuxated Iron Will Increase Strength of Delicate Folk 200 Per Cent in Two Weeks' Time in Many Instances.

NEW YORK, N. Y.—In a recent discourse Dr. E. Sauer, Specialist, of this city, said: "If you were to make an actual blood test on all people who are ill you would probably be greatly astonished at the exceedingly large number who lack iron and who are ill for no other reason than the lack of iron. The moment iron is supplied all their multitude of dangerous symptoms disappear. Without iron the blood at once loses the power to change food into living tissue, and therefore nothing you eat does you any good; you don't get the strength out of it. Your food merely passes through your system like corn through a mill with the rollers so wide apart that the mill can't grind. As a result of this continuous blood and nerve starvation, people become generally weakened, nervous and all run down, and frequently develop all sorts of conditions. One is too thin; another is burdened with unhealthy fat; some are so weak they can hardly walk; some think they have dyspepsia, kidney or liver trouble; some can't sleep at night; others are sleepy and tired all day; some fussy and irritable; some skinny and bloodless, but all lack physical power and endurance. In such cases it is worse than foolishness to take stimulating medicines or narcotic drugs, which only whip up your fagging vital powers for the moment, maybe at the expense of your life later on. No matter what anyone tells you, if you are not strong and well you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of ordinary nuxated iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see for yourself how much you have gained. I have seen dozens of nervous, run-down people who were ailing all the time double and even triple their strength and endurance and entirely get rid of their symptoms of dyspepsia, liver and other troubles in from ten to fourteen days' time simply by taking iron in the proper form, and this, after they had in some cases been doctoring for months without obtaining any benefit. You can talk as you please about all the wonders wrought by new remedies, but when you come down to hard facts there is nothing like good old iron to put color in your cheeks and good, sound, healthy flesh on your bones. It is also a great nerve and stomach strengthener and the best blood builder in the world. The only trouble was that the old forms of inorganic iron, like tincture of iron, iron acetate, etc., often ruined people's teeth, upset their stomachs and were not assimilated, and for these reasons they frequently did more harm than good. But with the discovery of the newer forms of organic iron all this has been overcome. Nuxated Iron, for example, is pleasant to take, does not injure the teeth and is almost immediately beneficial.

NOTE—The manufacturers of Nuxated Iron have such unbounded confidence in its potency that they authorize the announcement that they will forfeit $100.00 to any Charitable Institution if they cannot take any man or woman under sixty who lacks iron and increase their strength 200 per cent or over in four weeks' time, provided they have no serious organic trouble. Also they will refund your money in any case in which Nuxated Iron does not at least double your strength in ten days' time. It is dispensed by most druggists. If your druggist or general store is without a supply, ask them to get it for you.—Adv.

Cardui Wins Suit.

After a trial in the United States District Court of Chicago, before Judge Carpenter and a federal jury, the jury found the American Medical Association guilty of libeling Cardui, the woman's tonic, which they had denounced as a "nostrum."

This is a vindication of the medicine and a proof that it has merit, which was recognized by a jury after a trial of three months, one of the longest civil cases on record.

Many doctors and chemists testified on both sides and the evidence totaled nearly four million words.

Drinking of Water

(BY V. M. PIERCE, M. D.)

The general conclusions of the latest Medical Scientists proves that drinking plenty of pure water both between meals and with one's meals is beneficial to health. It has now been proven by means of the X-rays and actual tests upon many healthy young men that the drinking of large amounts of water with meals is often beneficial. Therefore if you want to keep healthy drink plenty of pure water (not ice water), both with your meals and between meals. If you ever suffer from backache, lumbago, rheumatism, or any of the symptoms of kidney trouble—such as deep colored urine, sediment in urine, getting out of bed at night frequently and other troublesome effects, take a little Anuric before meals. These Anuric Tablets can be obtained at almost any drug store.

The Goodridge last weeks Eleven Towns says: "E. M. Stanton and H. O. Kjomme, local Democrat spell binders, held a Wilson rally at Erie last Saturday night. They report a strong sentiment in favor of Wilson in that part of the County." The Erie postmaster must have been the strong sentiment referred to, by the spell binders as he was the only one in the town of Highlanding that voted a Democratic ticket at the primary election. We suppose he tramped his feet, clapped his hands and holloed, when the speakers informed the audience that Wilson would be elected. The Singers had a strong sentiment in favor of Wilson before the June primaries, but when the smoke of battle lifted the record of votes was 54 to 1, and the one was the enthusiastic P. M. of Erie.

[Tremendous applause in the gallery]. Great Spell binders. Telephone the news to Stephen, the great mogul democratic p. m. at Kratka. Let the donkey's bray until November 7th,.

If you lived in Georgia or Tennessee, it would be your duty to support the present administration, but as you live in the North star state, you should vote to elect a man for President who will consider that a northern state should have, at least a little of government aid for the improvement of their rivers, instead of allowing the southern states to have it all for their lower Mississippi river. Vote for Hughes, and your own state.

President Wilson says; I wonder what the people are thinking about. He will find out next month, that they were thinking of putting him and his southern Cabinet out of business on November 7th,

---

What the nation thinks of the Wilson administration was plainly demonstrated two years ago when at the general election the Democratic majority in the House of Representatives was reduced from 145 to 40. This was the only time since Wilson's inauguration that the voters had a chance to approve or disapprove his administration, and it was condemned in no uncertain terms. The Solid South of course went Democratic, but the voters of Illinois, Massachusetts, New York, Pennsylvania, Indiana, Ohio and other states that sent Democratic representatives in 1912 retired 102 of them in 1914. More will be persuaded to enter private life this year.—Red Lake Falls Gazette.

Wilson will also be retired and a Republican majority placed in Congress. Our Northern States are in line this year to clean up that party of special privileges and they are going to do it on November 7th.

When the democrats began to see that they must soon face the wrath of the people at the ballot box, for the rotten democratic mail service that they have given the people of this eastern part of the county, they try to crawl out of it, by placing the blame on Congressman Steenerson. This is not true, and they know it; for we have documents in this printing office to prove that Congressman Steenerson recommended the mail routes established as petitioned for by the people. Stand up and take your medicine like men, the same as the P.M. at Erie took his at the June primary election. When the people of Highlanding voted 54 to one for a daily mail service, instead of tri-weekly service, at exactly the same expense to the government. The ax will fall again on November 7th, when the people get a crack at that ballot box.

After November 8, the people will not have much confidence in the news columns of the Duluth Herald or the Minneapolis Daily News for when they get the true election returns, they will see how these papers have deceived them for the past two months.

JOHN A. DUFFY'S PLATFORM

I am in favor of retaining the present county option law.

For the strictest economy. Opposed to all unnecessary appropriations. For lower taxes. Whatever the legislature can do to curtail expenses of state, county, town, village or school government, and not impair the efficiency, the movement will have my support, to the end that the burden of taxation may be reduced.

For a fairer system distributing the burden of taxation. Changes should include the assessment of buildings and improvements at a less percentage of their value than the land; a shifting of more of the burden onto the land and off the improvements on the land.

For fair and open market for all farm products, absolutely free from monopoly or from manipulation by promoters and speculators.

For responding to the wishes and sentiments of the people and carrying out their will, wherever it can be ascertained.

VOL. XVI. SUNBEAM, PENNINGTON COUNTY, MINNESOTA, FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 3, 1916. NO. 34.

MINNESOTA HISTORICAL SOCIETY

THE LOCAL NEWS.

The Highlanding Creamery closed down for the season this week.

Mrs. Jens L. Bolstad was a pleasant caller at the M. E. Hyland home last Monday.

☞ Vote for Duffy and help the Clearwater County farmers defeat the man that tried to double their taxes

Highest market price paid for cream by Karl Korstad at Highlanding, as he has made arrangements to ship to Thief River Falls twice a week.

When the voters of eastern Pennington county go to election next Tuesday, they should consider how they have been treated by mail service for the past three years, and vote to remedy it.

All the Wilson strength in the northern states is from Democratic newspapers and public crib feeders. Remember that the common people all over the northern states are as bitterly opposed to him as you are.

Eddie Hyland had a serious break down on his threshing machine last Monday. One of the chains on the feeder broke and ran into the machine breaking all the concaves, which has laid up the threshing for this week.

A company of farmers composed of the following named Kratka farmers have bought the Kratka Creamery: John Quirk, R. M. Johnson, K. K. Austin, John Johnson, Kornealius Peterson, and several others whose names we did not know.

The Highlanding General Election is to be held in the new school house in the northeast district. It is two and one-half miles north of Highlanding. If the roads dries up Karl Korstad will run his auto from Highlanding up to the voting place, two or three trips.

Sever Nelson and E. P. Heggestuen were out with the side push road grader Wednesday, widening the grade on the road running north from Highlanding. This grade was left so narrow that a man could hardly run a wheelbarrow over it, when it was leveled, but the township is widening it a little every year.

The Minneapolis Daily News seems to be offended because a farmer wrote them that he had been taking straw votes among his threshing crew of about fifteen men, in different localities, and the votes was usually 13 for Hughes and 2 for Wilson, but none of them have yet equalled the Highlanding majority of fifty-four to one.

We are republishing the Stenvick Bill this week, for the reason that the automobile politicians, who are anxious to have that kind of a man elected, are likely to be out on the eve of election denying that he ever introduced that bill. But the farmers of Pennington County will assist the Clearwater County farmers to defeat Mr. Stenvick next Tuesday.

Fred Brown and his daughter Mildred took a cold bath in Red Lake River last Monday evening. Mr. Brown was ferrying the girl across on her way home from school, and as he does not understand handling a boat, he tipped it over, and threw them into the river. Fortunately the water was only neck deep at that point, and they managed to get to shore safely. It is certainly a nuisance to have a river running through the center of a school district with no bridges across it.

Vote For Duffy

We can not understand why any voter of Pennington county should vote for Mr. Stenvick of Bagley, to represent this county in the next legislature, instead of Mr. Duffy of Red Lake Falls. A Representative in that legislature is usually a busy man from the time he reaches St. Paul until the spring adjournment. A man that has got as large a property interest in Pennington county as John A. Duffy has, would be more apt to devote all his time and attention to the best interests of this county, as well as Clearwater and Red Lake counties. Mr. Stenvick has no a dollars interest in this county, simply runs for this office to act as attorney and member of the Legislature, for any selfish interest that want to get a deal worked through for their own private gain, without regard to the interest of the people of this district, the same as he tried to work that bill through to nearly double the farmers taxes to build up county seats. Take no further chances on this man Stenvick, but place your X opposite the name of John A. Duffy, for Representative from this district.

If Wilson is re-elected next Tuesday it will only be a short time, before there will only be three post offices left in eastern Pennington county south of Goodridge, and those three will be Erie, Rhoda and Kratka, presided over by the Singers. There will not be any mail routes put in, and the present Sunbeam route will be discontinued, so when you want your mail you can take a walk to Kratka, Erie or Rhoda and get it. This is what the Singers have been working for the past three years, and what they turned from Republicans to Democrats for. When you are compelled to go to these store post offices, you of course are likely to buy some Jew goods at the prices charged by them, and that's what they want. They care nothing for the accommodation of people with mail service, but are working for their own selfish interest, and have got the Democratic party behind them. Vote 'em down next Tuesday.

STENVICK'S BILL

HELP FOR WORKING WOMEN

Some Have to Keep on Until They Almost Drop. How Mrs. Conley Got Help.

Here is a letter from a woman who had to work, but was too weak and suffered too much to continue. How she regained health:—

Frankfort, Ky.—"I suffered so much with female weakness that I could not do my own work, had to hire it done. I heard so much about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that I tried it. I took three bottles and I found it to be all you claim. Now I feel as well as ever I did and am able to do all my own work again. I recommend it to any woman suffering from female weakness. You may publish my letter if you wish."—Mrs. JAMES CONLEY, 516 St. Clair St., Frankfort, Ky.

No woman suffering from any form of female troubles should lose hope until she has given Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial.

This famous remedy, the medicinal ingredients of which are derived from native roots and herbs, has for forty years proved to be a most valuable tonic and invigorator of the female organism.

All women are invited to write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for special advice,—it will be confidential.

SPECIAL SESSION PASSES LAWS TO LET GUARDS VOTE

MINNESOTA LEGISLATURE PASSES BILLS PROVIDING PRIVILEGE OF BALLOTS FOR SOLDIERS ON MEXICAN BORDER.

NO OFFICIAL NOTICE TAKEN OF SUFFRAGISTS' PETITION

Commissioners to Be Sent to Texas to Record Votes of Soldiers Who Call North Star State Home—Appointments Made By Governor—Session Lasts Only Six Hours.

St. Paul, Oct. 31.—The special session of the Minnesota Legislature was a creature of a day. It convened at 11 a. m. and passed into history before 5 p. m.

Three bills were passed—one providing the privilege of the ballot for Minnesota soldiers on the Mexican border, one appropriating $8,000 to defray the expenses of the session and a third appropriating $3,000 to defray the cost of polling the soldier vote.

There were advance reports that a woman suffrage bill would be introduced, that a prohibition amendment to the constitution would bob up, even that an attempt would be made to repeal the county option law.

Petition From Suffragists.

But nothing like that materialized. The nearest approach was a mild petition from eight Minneapolis suffragists addressed to the governor and prominent members of the Legislature. No official notice was taken thereof.

John A. Larimore of Minneapolis, chairman of the House judiciary committee, is the official father of the law providing votes for the soldier boys.

Two Bills Introduced.

There were two bills on the subject, almost alike in phraseology and both drawn by the attorney general. One was introduced in the House by Mr. Larimore and the other in the Senate by Senator E. J. Westlake, also of Hennepin. It was the Larimore bill which eventually became a law.

The new law provides for sending four or more commissioners to the border to record the votes of the soldiers who call Minnesota home. Immediately after passage of the bill Governor Burnquist signed the measure and made the appointments, subject to the acceptances of the men named.

Al P. Erickson, Hennepin county auditor, was named as commissioner to the First regiment. Dr. J. H. Dorsey of Glencoe was named to the Second regiment, Roger M. Weaver of Duluth to the Third, and Colonel George C. Lambert of St. Paul to the Field artillery. Judge Loren Gray of Mankato and James Larson, assistant secretary of state, were additional appointments. The commissioners will vote with the soldiers.

Escape Trap Set by Teutons and Hinder Drive on Bucharest From the East.

London, Oct. 27.—Russo-Rumanian defenders of the city of Cernavoda, which capitulated to the German-Bulgar armies of Field Marshal von Mackensen, have blown up the great 14 mile bridge over the Danube leading to Bucharest, the German war office admits. Prior to wrecking the structure, thereby hindering a drive on the Rumanian capital from the east, a large part of the Rumanian army fled across the bridge and escaped the trap set by the Teutons. Those who did not flee are believed to have been captured.

Rome, Oct. 26.—Squadrillas of Italian and French seaplanes have bombarded Austrian military works in three places on the west coast of Istria and escaped unscathed, says an official announcement of the Italian war office. The Austrian squadrilla had been throwing bombs on Caorle.

Shock-Proof Shoes.

A manufacturer has recently placed on the market a line of shoes for electrical workers which are made to withstand potentials up to 20,000 volts without harm to the wearer. The shoes contain no cement and have no seams, but are vulcanized into a solid piece under high pressure in aluminium molds. A novel feature of the shoe is that the soles are white, and under the white surface is a layer of red rubber. When the sole has worn down to a point where the red is exposed, it is a sign to the wearer that a new halfsole should be immediately secured in place.

ARREDONDO DENIES CABRERA ASSAILED U. S. IN STATEMENT

MEXICAN AMBASSADOR REPUDIATES ARTICLE PUBLISHED WITHOUT CONSENT OF EMBASSY OR MINISTER.

CRITICISED GOVERNMENT FOR AID REACHING VILLA

De Facto Envoy Will Explain to the State Department That Story Was Put Out By Mexican News Bureau Without Knowledge of Officials.

Washington, Oct. 31.—What promised to be a new source of serious friction between the United States and the de facto government of Mexico apparently was cleared away through formal repudiation by Eliseo Arredondo, Mexican ambassador designate of a statement issued here Saturday under the name of Luis Cabrera, assailing the American government for permitting aid to reach Villa and other bandits from its side of the border.

Mr. Arredondo will go to the State department at once with the explanation that the statement was put out by an employe of the Mexican news bureau, the de facto government's semi-official publicity agency, without the knowledge or consent of either the embassy or Mr. Cabrera. Department officials said this would be accepted and would be regarded as closing the incident.

Repudiates Magazine Article.

While at the department, Mr. Arredondo says on special instruction from his government he will deny also the authenticity of what, it is understood, will purport to be quotations from General Carranza, General Obregon the Mexican war minister and General Pablo Gonzlez, commander of the forces in Mexico City, reflecting strong anti-American sentiments which are expected to appear today in an American weekly magazine. Information reaching the embassy recently concerning the magazine article included an exchange of messages with Mexico City and brought the ambassador authority to repudiate them in advance.

Serious View of Statement.

Until word of Mr. Arredondo's action and of Mr. Cabrera's repudiation at New York came to them the heads of the State department had taken a most serious view of the statement attributed to Cabrera who, besides being Carranza's minister of finance is chairman of the Mexican group of the joint commission now sitting at Atlantic City, N. J. The general feeling was that if the statement was authentic the usefulness of the commission would be destroyed and consequences of the most undesirable character might result.

GOVERNOR DECLARES UNITED STATES NEEDS REPUBLICAN AT HELM

Urges Selection of G. O. P. Nominees, Both State and National—Tells Voters at Brainerd That Democratic Tariffs Have Always Been Failures—Asserts Hughes Stands For Peace.

Our state legislators, until the last session, were nominated and elected as members of political parties but the last legislature was elected under the non-partisan system, which now is on trial in this state. It remains to be seen whether it is better to have our legislators selected through advancing their individual ideas and opinions as they are now doing or whether it will be better to go back to a state government by parties with the proper machinery to provide for a definite program prior to the session of the legislature through securing, by means of a party platform, the expression of a large consensus of opinion.

Election of Republicans Advocated.

Although legislators are elected as non-partisans, the state officials are still nominated and elected by political parties. Tonight, therefore, I am here as a representative of the Republican party and advocating the selection of Republican nominees, both state and national. Although all of us believe in being Americans before we are partisans in the language of the eloquent statesman, James G. Blaine, "we set a proper value upon that exalted sentiment of honorable association in public life, which holds together successive generations of men, a sentiment, which in the United States, causes the Democrats to reverence the memory of Jefferson and Jackson and Douglas, which causes his opponent to glory in the achievements of Hamilton and Clay and Lincoln." We, as Republicans, are proud of the origins of the Republican party, with the organization of which was developed the sentiment which led to the preservation of the nation and emancipation of its slaves and which, in the days of Abraham Lincoln, stood for the Republican doctrines for which it has stood from that day to this and of which the following is the original statement:

Protective Tariff.

"That while providing revenue for the support of the general government by duties upon imports, sound policy requires such an adjustment of these imports as to encourage the development of the industrial interests of the whole country and we commend that policy of national exchanges which secure to the working man liberal wages, to agriculture remunerative prices, to mechanics and manufacturers an adequate regard for their skill, labor and enterprise and to this nation commercial prosperity and independence."

The Democratic Tariff and Labor.

The Democratic tariffs have always been failures. Just prior to the commencement of the European war and during the second year of the present Democratic administration and under a Democratic tariff hundreds of thousands of men were out of employment. In New York City alone more than 300,000 were without work. In Philadelphia 200,000 men were seeking employment. In Chicago 175,000 were in the same position. During 1914 there were more than 18,000 failures in this country, more financial failures than at any time since the Cleveland administration in 1893. With the commencement of the war, the manufacture of munitions created an abnormal demand for labor and saved the country temporarily from the effects of the Underwood tariff. At the close of the war work must be found for the great numbers of men, who will be without employment when the munition factories no longer need them. When that time comes it will be disastrous to have in existence the Underwood Democratic tariff measure which will affect adversely not only the laboring man but also the farmer for under this new tariff law the farmers of our section have been injured by its enormous reduction in the tariff rate on what they produce and by the placing of many of the most important products of the farm, such as corn, cattle, sheep, wool and eggs on the free list and at the same time by unjustly discriminating against our northern farmers through protecting, in the southern sections of our country, the growers of tobacco, rice and other products.

Democratic Tariff Discrimination.

What have the growers of corn and potatoes done that they should be treated differently from the growers of rice and tobacco? Why should the Democratic party discriminate against the farmers of Minnesota and of the great Northwest by the passage of a tariff law, which has increased the imports of 27 northern agricultural products under the first nine months after its enactment from $50,000,000 to $130,000,000 annually and which has resulted in the absolutely free importation of cattle to the number of about a million and a half up to June 1, 1916.

Will Be Resented by Voters.

Such an unjustifiable assault upon northern agriculture aggravated by sectional discrimination should be and undoubtedly will be resented by the votes of every Minnesota farmer and by all of those who realize that Minnesota agriculture is the surest foundation of the progress, development and prosperity of our commonwealth.

Republican Congressmen.

We want a tariff that will be just to American labor, to the American farmer and to the American business man. With what has transpired in connection with a Democratic Congress it is apparent that we cannot depend upon the Democratic party for justice in this respect. We want therefore a Republican Congress and trust that there will be selected from every congressional district in Minnesota a Republican congressman.

A Republican Senator.

In order to secure for Minnesota in the United States senate that justice in tariff legislation as well as in all legislation to which our people are entitled, we are fortunate in having the opportunity of voting for that citizen of fine character and distinguished attainments, that great lawyer and indefatigable worker, that able Republican, already known and noted throughout the nation, Frank B. Kellogg. We want him there to work side by side in the United States senate with that experienced statesman of profound learning and noble patriotism, who has for so many years stood as a rock in defense of Minnesota farmers, laborers and business men and in defense of those, not only of Minnesota but of the entire nation, Senator Knute Nelson; and in order to secure justice for American citizens everywhere, regardless of section or class or color, in order for America to give to all nations of the world that justice to which they are entitled and to receive from them that recognition, respect and honor which the American republic deserves, we want as president of the United States, a statesman, who has shown himself by his attitude in public life to be a fair-minded executive, a just jurist, a strong and great personality of independence, stability and backbone, Charles Evans Hughes.

Hughes' Labor Record.

His record in behalf of labor legislation while governor of New York was such that the recognized organ of the State Federation of Labor published the following comments:

"Now that Governor Hughes has retired from politics and ascended to a place on the highest judicial tribunal in the world, the fact can be acknowledged, without hurting anybody's political corns, that he was the greatest friend of labor laws that ever occupied the governor's chair at Albany. During his two terms he has signed fifty-six labor laws, including among them the best labor laws ever enacted in this or any other state. He also urged the enactment of labor laws in his messages to the legislature, even going so far as to place the demand for a labor law in one of his messages to an extra session of the legislature.

"Only 162 labor laws have been enacted in this state since its creation in 1777—in 133 years. One-third of these, exceeding in quality all of the others, have been enacted and signed during Governor Hughes' term of three years and nine months."

Hughes' Attitude on Agriculture.

His stand for agriculture is made evident by his attitude toward agricultural education when he was governor, by his opposition to making the Republican party a sectional party, by his favoring an effective rural credits law and by his pledge to the effect that the agricultural interests will be promoted by every practicable means.

A Man for Peace.

Nothing can be more absurd than to say that if Mr. Hughes is elected president he will strive to get us into a war. In the first place no president has a right to declare war or to claim credit for keeping us out of war. That matter is in the hands of Congress and not with the President.

In the second place Mr. Hughes stands for the organization of peace. Read his acceptance speech and you will find that although he believes in the nation's preparedness, he does not believe in that militarism which in Europe has oppressed the taxpayer and created a false patriotism by teaching nations to regard each other as foes instead of friends.

"The peace of the world," he says, "is our interest as well as the interest of others and in the development of the necessary agencies for the prevention of war we shall be glad to have an appropriate share." The question of the prevention of war constitutes a great problem for this century to solve. The securing of the co-operation of all nations to disarm and establish, if possible, an international tribunal for the settlement of international disputes and to establish, through international agreements a sufficient international police force to maintain peace and order among nations is no longer considered a dream. In Mr. Hughes we find a practical statesman, who is in favor of international peace and who will undoubtedly put forth every effort possible, in a practical and common sense manner to do his share to bring about a time when nations shall no longer be permitted to engage in warfare and when all men shall be allowed to pursure their many different peaceful vocations "without a thought of interruption by the ravages of war and be enabled to peaceably take possession of land and water and air and all the forces to be found in them and make them minister to human life."

His Past Achievements.

The past record of Mr. Hughes, before he was governor of New York, in the investigation of the New York Gas company resulting in reducing rates and in the investigation of the insurance cases, resulting in beneficial legislation and his fearlessness, judgment and fairness after he became governor, make him a candidate in whom we can have absolute confidence, because by his record in the past we are led to believe that he under all circumstances will do what he thinks and knows to be right. If it is proper to reward fidelity to the interests of the public, to reward a man who is not afraid to tell the truth, and to reward an official who has been obedient to the dictates of his own conscience, every citizen of this state and of every other state should vote for Charles Evans Hughes for president of the United States of America.

JUDGE IRA B. MILLS

(From the Duluth Herald)

"Judge Ira B. Mills who has filed for the office of State Railroad and Warehouse Commissioner, to succeed himself, was first appointed to the office by Governor Knute Nelson, and except for the year 1900 has been a member of the Commission ever since. He has drawn many of the laws under which the Commission acts and is regarded as one of the ablest men in a body of this kind in the country."

"KELLOGGRAMS"

"Individual extravagance is folly; national extravagance is a crime."

"It is the sacred duty of this republic to safeguard every American in every part of the world where they are lawfully established."

"It is not necessary to decry democratic mismanagement of domestic affairs, it does too good a job of its own decrying."

"Independence and security of labor is the first essential of a free nation."

"Providing and guaranteeing equality of opportunity in every line of human endeavor is the great function of legislation."

"The farmer who hires neighboring farmers to haul his products to town and the nation that hires the ships of neighboring nations to transport its products to market eat up their profits paying transportation charges."

"Protection of home productions and home labor, means contentment and prosperity."

"The big man who has taken boxing lessons is seldom punched."

"You can't make an independent nation out of a dependent population."

"It has been said that a million Americans would spring to arms at the bugle blast of war; as there are only four hundred thousand stand of arms in the country, six hundred thousand of them would be compelled to spring to pitchforks."

"There is no such a thing as a one-sided neutrality."

"Loyal Americans know no politics in time of national danger."

"Independence of the Philippine Islands under present conditions would simply transform them into a Pacific Ocean Mexico."

"Legislating adversely to agricultural interests would be digging the grave of American prosperity."

"You can't have representative government unless the people are fairly, justly, honestly, fearlessly and ably represented."

Mills Tells of Service Rendered by Hughes in Minnesota Rate Case

"The service rendered by Charles E. Hughes, Republican nominee for President, to those who pay the freight should not be lost sight of in the present campaign. When he gave up the governorship of New York to assume the duties of Judge of the United States Supreme Court, the highest tribunal in the land, there was pending in the lower federal courts, questions involving the validity of the rates made by the State Railroad Commissions and the Legislatures of Minnesota, Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska and South Dakota. The rates made by the State authorities had been attacked by the railroad companies.

Judge Hughes' opinion in the Minnesota Rate Case is one of the most able opinions ever written by a Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States and will compare favorably with those of John Marshall. Judge Hughes held against the railroad companies on their contentions, saying that the Interstate Commerce Act expressly exempted state rates from its operations and that such rates could be regulated by the state until Congress took away that right by direct enactment. On the question of confiscation, on which Judge Sanborn predicted his extravagant notions of the value of railroad property, Judge Hughes decided that the railroads were only entitled to the actual normal value of their country and terminal property, measured by the market value of the property in the vicinity of the railroads."—Statement by Judge Ira B. Mills, Chairman of the Minnesota Railroad and Warehouse Commission.

"REPUBLICAN PARTY SERVED COUNTRY IN MOST CRITICAL TIME"

Kellogg Declares Substantially All of the Great Constructive Legislation of the Past Has Been Work of G. O. P.—Says Present Prosperity Is Entirely Due to European Conflict.

The Republican party has served the country in its hour of greatest peril and in the time of its greatest growth and expansion. Substantially all of the great constructive legislation from that which made possible the continuance of the Union to the present time has been the work of that party. The creation of the Interstate Commerce Commission and the control and regulation of all the instrumentalities of transportation; the organization of the Department of Commerce and Labor; the development of the Department of Agriculture, which has been of so much benefit to the farming communities; the development of our banking system and the passage of the Vreeland and Aldrich currency bill, upon which the present Federal Reserve Banking system is founded; the anti-trust laws and the enforcement thereof; legislation in the interest of labor,—the safety appliance law, employers' liability act, and others,—and legislation for the reclamation of arid lands. All these and many more, are the results of the work of Republican congresses.

Where are the things for which Democracy claims such great credit? The Federal Reserve banking system, as a matter of fact, took all of its meritorious provisions from the Vreeland and Aldrich bill, but added the cumbersome system of twelve regional banks, thereby weakening the bill and creating a large number of useless offices. The Rural Credits bill will be of absolutely no benefit whatever to the farming communities of the northern states. It only enables a farmer to borrow money on his land upon first mortgage by buying stock in the regional bank, when he can already borrow money fully as cheap or cheaper under present conditions. The Child Labor law practically every northern state had already adopted. The duties of the Trade commission were formerly performed by the Department of Commerce and Labor, created by a Republican Congress, and apparently the creation of the commission has accomplished nothing except to create offices to be filled by aspiring Democrats. The Shipping bill, instead of aiding American farmers and producers, will add another burden and be a stumbling block in the way of our acquiring a suitable merchant marine.

On the other hand, the administration passed a tariff bill which largely reduced the revenue of the government and increased the importations; a bill which placed farm products upon the free list and which during the first ten months after it was enacted brought disaster to the business of the country; a bill which compelled the raising of enormous sums for governmental purposes by special taxes, called war taxes during times of peace. The Democratic party was pledged to free American coast-wise ships through the Panama Canal, but upon coming into power it has charged such ships the same rates as foreign vessels. It was pledged to economy in the following plank of its 1912 platform:

> "We denounce the profligate waste of money wrung from the people by oppressive taxation through the lavish appropriations of recent Republican Congresses and demand a return to that simplicity and economy which befits a democratic government and a reduction in the number of useless offices, the salaries of which drain the substance of the people."

In the face of this pledge, its expenditures, exclusive of appropriations for military and naval preparedness, far exceeded any ever made by a Republican Congress, and it has created more offices and raised more salaries than any administration in the history of the nation.

The principal claims of the administration for its continuance in office are that the President has kept us out of war and that we are prosperous. A candid consideration of the facts will show that we have been kept out of war with Europe through an unwillingness and absolute inability of any of the European nations or ourselves to engage in such a war; that we have been actually engaged in war with Mexico; that after the Democratic party came into power and before the war broke out, owing largely to the new tariff legislation, the country suffered a great decline in industry, but that since the war began our prosperity has been due to that great European calamity. What candid man can possibly say that any European or Oriental nation could possibly have made war on us during the continuance of the present great war? The belligerent nations have been straining their resources and national power to the limit, employing every man and all the capital that could be raised. Germany could not possibly reach us, nor we reach her. The allied powers have had all they could do to meet the German hosts; and beyond that they have received from us foodstuffs and munitions absolutely necessary to their preservation.

Above this, not one of the questions raised between this country and the European nations has been settled. They have simply been postponed, to be settled at the close of the war. Our commerce has been stopped upon the high seas, our ships taken into foreign ports and condemned, our mails interfered with, opened and the information obtained used by the belligerent nations, not only as a war measure but to aid their commerce; American merchants have been boycotted, the lives of our citizens traveling upon merchant ships destroyed other acts committed in violation of international law, treaties and the immemorial customs of nations. With all these questions yet remaining unsettled, with our government engaged in endless correspondence, with a diplomacy inadequate to the needs of the country and a policy vacillating and uncertain, it is difficult to see how we have been kept out of war; but on the contrary it would seem that the diplomatic record of this administration has greatly endangered the peace of the country when the war closes and we must face the reality of an adjustment of these grave questions.

Our course in Mexico has not tended to preserve peace in that quarter. We have interfered in their domestic affairs, invaded Mexican territory and have not protected American citizens. Our citizens have been murdered, driven from their homes, millions of American property destroyed and American territory in Arizona and Texas time and again invaded and lives and property of American citizens destroyed. During the last four years if we had pursued a consistent policy, simply demanding the protection of American citizens, and had had sufficient force upon the border to inspire respect, we would never have had to invade Mexico or witness the murder of American citizens and the destruction of American property.

No one will claim that our prosperity has been caused by anything other than the war, which has curtailed the production of European countries and has compelled them to look to us for foodstuffs and manufactured products. The importation of gold into this country has been to settle the balance of trade for our products, the markets of the world are again open and European countries can buy foodstuffs from Russia, Argentina, and other countries and can manufacture and sell in competition with us, we shall need statesmanship of the highest order to grapple with the industrial problems confronting us, as well as the adjustment of our foreign relations.

SUPPLEMENT TO THE SUNBEAM, SUNBEAM, MINN., FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 3, 1916.

"WAR PROSPERITY" IS BUT TEMPORARY

ECONOMY PROMISED BY ADMINISTRATION, BUT EXTRAVAGANCE GIVEN

Congressman Steenerson Tells How Administration Failed to Reduce Cost of Living and to Curb Monopoly—Declares Twine Trust Is Latest Product of Democratic Legislation.

"The Democratic party promised economy and gave us extravagance. It promised lower cost of living, but it has gone up, and is still going up. It promised to curb monopoly, but they have pulled the teeth out of the anti-trust law by the Clayton act to such an extent that we are now in the grip of some of the most rapacious trusts in the world.

"Here are two examples:

Why Gasoline Is High.

"First: The Standard Oil company and affiliated corporations have doubled the price of gasoline. When I sought to get the government to prosecute them for violating the anti-trust law, the Department of Justice could not find sufficient evidence, although the Secretary of Interior, the Bureau of Mines and the Federated Trade commission all had investigated the subject and reported there was no natural or economic cause for the increase in price, and it must be due to monopolization.

The Paper Trust.

"Second: The paper trust has gradually raised the price of paper, so that pretty soon the small newspapers will have to go out of business. The settlers who furnish the pulp wood have been paid the same old price, but the manufacturer has doubled the selling price.

Why Twine Is Going Up.

"These are domestic trusts, but now comes the latest product of Democratic legislation and policy, the Binder Twine Trust—the Commission del Mercado de Hemequin Reguladora of Yucatan. This is the most iron-clad trust in the world, and controls absolutely the world's sisal supply, out of which binder twine is made. This trust was organized by the military governor of Yucatan, who controls it, and can discharge every officer at will and appoint new ones in their places. The organization was approved by Carranza and the trust was financed in the United States with the approval of the state department—in other words, with the approval of President Wilson's administration. Norman Lind, whose father, John Lind, was sent as President Wilson's personal representative to Mexico, is its American representative. This trust has already doubled the price of the sisal to the state of Minnesota, raising it from 3½c to 7c, and now refuses to quote prices for next season lower than 10 cents. There are at least 25 million pounds of twine used by the farmers of Minnesota each year, and this means an extra tax of at least ten cents an acre or more than a million dollars, that will go not to the peons of Yucatan, but to the military government, and to Carranza. It will help him buy more arms and ammunition to murder Americans with.

$600,000,000 Extra Taxes.

"The Democratic party has imposed extra taxes on the people amounting to six hundred millions, per annum. Even taking out all items for military defense and preparedness, the Democrats have increased the tax burden by $176,000,000. They have created more than 35,000 new offices, involving a permanent burden on the taxpayers of upwards $40,000,000 per annum.

"They are great for economy when out of office, but in power they are more than extravagant—they are profligate."

Rural Credits Will Be Needed.

"No wonder they have established a so-called rural credit system. There will be use for it. If Democratic policies are to continue and the burdens of the people continue to increase at the same ratio as during the last three years, the farmers will need to do a lot of borrowing."

Wilson Made War.

"There is another danger to the country from continuing Democratic rule, and that is the danger of being involved in war. The fact is that although the people in framing the constitution placed the war power in congress, this administration has gradually usurped that power and has not only threatened to make war, but has twice made war on a foreign country without the consent of congress. The taking of Vera Cruz, involving bloodshed on both sides, was done in advance of any action by congress, and the recent punitive expedition likewise.

"The regular army is not named in the constitution, and the only military force mentioned there, is the militia of the different states—that is to say, all the male population between 18 and 45, fit for military duty. These the president is authorized to 'call forth' for three specified purposes only. 1. To suppress insurrection. 2. To repel invasion. 3. To execute the laws of the Union. To suppress insurrection and repel invasion is an executive function and does not need the sanction of congress, but offensive war, the invasion of the sovereign territory of another nation by our armed forces, can only lawfully be done after declaration of war by congress. A declaration of war is an act of congress—a law of the Union, to be executed by the president with the military force of the nation.

Assumes Power of a Czar.

The President has assumed autocratic power in these matters of war and foreign relations, to a degree unknown to our history.

A Danger to the Nation.

"The result is that the question of peace or war no longer rests with congress where the constitution placed it, but in the hands of one man. That one man has changed his mind so frequently on the most important questions that no one can tell what he will do next.

"I believe in the constitution and that there should be no offensive war on our part until the people, through their representatives, have so declared.

President Demands Conscription.

"If the people had been consulted there would have been no war in Europe today. It is the result of autocratic power and secret diplomacy. With Wilson we are in danger of being drawn into war any day in spite of the people and congress. He has himself declared the world is on fire and no one could tell what a day may bring forth, and demanded a large standing army, universal military training, and the largest navy in the world.

"Justice Hughes and the Republican party believe in the government of law and not of men, that the people should rule, and that no president can lawfully commit this nation to a foreign war, without authority of congress. In this lies our future safety."

GOVERNOR HUGHES STATES HIS INTERNATIONAL POLICY

Will Not Tolerate Any Interference With U. S. Mails, Property or Commerce.

We do not propose to tolerate any improper interference with American commerce, with American mails, or with legitimate commercial intercourse. We do not propose to tolerate that any American who is exercising only American rights shall be put on any blacklist by any foreign nation. We propose to protect American lives, American property and American trade, according to our just rights under international law.

And I say in Philadelphia what I said in Milwaukee, that we have no intrigues, no unstated purposes, no secret understandings. We stand for the interests of the United States, and its interests alone, four-square to the world, first, last and all the time.

Now, that is not a policy of war. That is a policy of peace.—Statement made by Governor Hughes in his address in Philadelphia on October 9th.

The election of a Republican Senate and House is of vital importance to every business man in the country. Without a Republican Congress Mr. Hughes as President would be unable to carry out his policies.

ENOUGH PORK DISPENSED TO PAY FOR DEFENSE PLAN

The Democratic conghess in three and a half years has dispensed pork to an amount that nearly would have paid in full for the national defense program recently adopted. Here is the pork distribution:

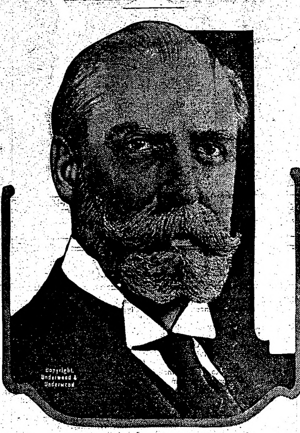
Rivers and harbors	$93,000,000
Road building	85,000,000
Flood control	50,000,000
Ship purchase venture	50,000,000
Nitrate plant	20,000,000
Thirty thousand new jobs	44,000,000
Miscellaneous	15,000,000
Total	$357,000,000

The amount would have been larger had not a few courageous Republicans succeeded in holding down the appropriations, notably for rivers and harbors, by ceaseless fighting, including filibustering, for weeks at a time.

GREAT ISSUES CONFUSED BY WORDS AND PHRASES

"The times are dangerous and the future is fraught with perils. The great issues of the day have been confused by words and phrases. The American spirit, which made the country and saved the union, has been forgotten by those charged with the responsibility of power. We appeal to all Americans, whether naturalized or native-born, to prove to the world that we are Americans in thought and in deed, with one loyalty, one hope, one aspiration. We call on all Americans to be true to the spirit of America, to the great traditions of their common country, and above all things, to keep the faith."—Republican Platform.

CHARLES EVANS HUGHES.



Republican Nominee for President.

DID HE KEEP US OUT OF WAR?

BY HONORABLE ALBERT J. BEVERIDGE,
Former Senator From Indiana.

WHAT ANSWER DOES THE PARTISAN OF THE DEMOCRATIC ADMINISTRATION MAKE TO THE LONG RECORD OF NATIONAL HUMILIATION ABROAD AND NATIONAL ABASEMENT AT HOME?

"Wilson Kept Us Out of War."

Nothing but this campaign watchword: "The administration has kept us out of war."

With whom?

If we had been in danger of war during the last three years and the administration had with honor saved us from that tragedy, that great fact would have gone far to atone for the general malpractice of statesmanship from which the nation has suffered. This is not a time for partisan rancor. No American should allow personal animosity against the President of the United States to overrule his judgment on greater questions of the nation's well-being.

We ought to consider all the administration's acts with free, open, and unprejudiced minds and with a sincere desire to decide in the administration's favor if the facts will permit it. We ought to be happy that we are able to admit that this administration and that any and every administration has done good things for the country, and that this and any other administration, past and to come, always has and always will intend to do the best it can for the welfare of the Republic.

In this spirit, then, let us see whether the claim that the administration "has kept us out of war" is true or whether it is one of those false and hollow campaign slogans which, too often, have taken the place of truth and reason in the heat and fury of the American campaigns.

What Is War?

Have we been kept out of war with Mexico? What is war? Merely a declaration? Our naval war with France was waged for two years without a declaration. Japan struck Russia without a declaration. War means offensive and deadly acts. We invaded Mexico and withdrew; but fighting took place and American marines were killed. Our territory was invaded by Mexicans who were driven out; but again Americans were killed. We invaded that country once more and today our military forces, with siege guns, are intrenched in the heart of Northern Mexico. They have fought with uniformed Mexicans and soldiers of both sides have fallen. Almost the whole of our effective military forces are kept on the border and lines of communication established with Pershing's men. Our War department has held officially that a deserter from our army must be punished as in time of war. The government's censorship of all news from Mexico is more rigid than that of European belligerents. If all this is not war, what is it? If such a state of things existed between ourselves and any other nation, what would we call it? What would the world call it?

Who Wants to Fight Us?

Has the President kept us out of the European war? Did he want to go to war with any nation engaged in that conflict? No. Aside from a group of passion-blinded and prejudice-inflamed hot-heads, so few that in number they are negligible, the American people have been and are solidly opposed to engaging in the war for or against any of the European belligerents.

Did any of the warring nations want to fight us? No. Every one of them already have more than enough of war on its hands. No President could have possibly gotten us into war except by an act of madness unthinkable in any who could be chosen as the chief magistrate of the United States.

We could have prevented every outrage that we have tamely suffered, stopped every depredation on our commerce, without getting into the war. We could even have retaliated for the abuses which have been and now are increasingly practiced upon us without the least danger of being drawn into the conflict.

Did Grover Cleveland get us into war with Great Britain when he defied that power with an ultimatum which mean hostilities if it was not heeded? No. And yet Great Britain was not then already engaged in war that taxed her strength to the uttermost as she now is.

Who Kept European Neutral Nations Out of the War?

Who kept Sweden out of the war? Yet Sweden is so near to the flames of the battle that they almost scorch her. And what has been done to us has been attempted with Sweden. But although not so large as the average American state and not so populous as some, Sweden has protected her interests and her honor by the firm word of a government that meant what it said, backed by a prepared people, peaceful, but spirited, and not too proud to fight. When Great Britain seized Swedish mail, Sweden seized British mail; after that retaliation Swedish mail has not been violated. Yet Sweden is at peace.

Who kept Holland out of the war? Yet you may hear in Amsterdam the roar of the guns.

Who kept Switzerland out of war? Yet its flames mount to the heavens upon her very borders.

Who kept Spain out of the war?

Who kept Norway out of the war?

And why did all these countries keep out of the war?

Because none of them wanted to get into the war and because while each side wanted them to fight for it, neither side wanted them to fight against it.

And how did they keep out of the war? By practicing an honest neutrality and being prepared to maintain it.

And where do these little nations who kept out of the war with honor now stand in the esteem of the belligerents in comparison with their opinion of us? So high that while the President of Switzerland or King of Spain might be called to preside over the peace conference it is certain that the President of the United States will have no voice or place in that historic and fateful council.

Why is it that the whole world respects, trusts, and admires other nations which, with more temptations than we had to go into the war, nevertheless kept out of the war while we alone are held in universal distrust, derision and contempt?

And what of South American nations? They have kept out of war. Yet nobody is running for President of any South American Republic on the plea that he kept the country out of war.

The campaign slogan that the "administration has kept us out of war" is no more argument in its favor than to say that the administration ought to be kept in power because the President did not burn down the White House.

PRESENT PROSPERITY DUE TO SALE OF WAR SUPPLIES--FRANKSON

Republican Candidate for Lieutenant Governor, in Address at Slayton, Gives Figures to Show That Good Times Must Be Conceded to Be Only Temporary Prosperity

The following figures will tend to prove that the present prosperity is caused solely by the sale of war supplies, and must be conceded to be only temporary prosperity.

1913 exports of non-war goods	$745,973,561
1914 exports of non-war goods	647,789,184
Decrease of non-war goods	$98,184,377
1913 exports of non-war goods	$745,973,561
1915 exports of non-war goods	473,593,164
Decrease of non-war goods	$272,380,397
1915 exports of war goods	$1,126,093,109
1913 exports of war goods	422,294,233
Increase of war goods	$703,798,876

The above figures will show and prove conclusively that the balance of trade in our favor is derived from the sale of war materials and supplies, which must be conceded by all fair-minded voters to be but temporary.

I will also at this time call your attention to the tremendous increases that have taken place in the exports of certain specific articles, all of which can justly be considered war supplies, for example:

Exports of aeroplanes, motorcycles and automobiles, 1916	$150,066,444
Exports of aeroplanes, motorcycles and automobiles, 1913	3,943,222
Increase of exports	$146,123,222
Exports of brass and brass articles, 1916	$123,355,188
Exports of brass and brass articles, 1913	6,396,831
Increase of exports	$116,958,357
Exports of horses and mules, 1916	$100,931,558
Exports of horses and mules, 1913	4,693,897
Increase of exports	$96,237,661
Export of leather, harnesses and saddlery, 1916	$88,387,158
Export of leather, harnesses and saddlery, 1913	28,414,836
Increase of exports	$59,972,322
Exports of explosives, 1916	$399,852,192
Exports of explosives, 1913	3,850,806
Increase of exports	$396,001,386

The significance of these figures tend to show beyond a shadow of a doubt that the present prosperity, as a result of exportation of goods to Europe, is due to the sale of war goods to the war-ridden and unfortunate peoples of Europe. True, we are living today in an age of progress, in an age of intellectual development, but, fellow citizens, may I ask you if a political party is forced to boast of this class and kind of prosperity? Then they must disregard and ignore the modern trend of civilization, only to gain political favors, at the enormous cost of human life and the ultimate sacrifice of American principle.

The Republican party has not and does not today boast of this kind of prosperity. The Republican tariff has during the years built up our foreign and domestic trade, and at the same time provided ample revenue to meet the running expenses of our government, and that, too, without a democratic stamp tax, which the democrats must have during their administration to supply the deficiencies.

"The Democratic platform of 1912 said: 'We favor a single presidential term, * * * and we pledge the candidate of this convention to this principle.' Yet, the candidate of that convention is the Democratic candidate for president today, thus repudiating the peledge of his party made to the voters. But on November 7 the Republican voters will elect Charles E. Hughes, thus kindly assisting the Democratic nominee to make good at least one pledge."

"'Repeal the Aldrich Republican tariff bill, and reduce the cost of living.' Upon the election of Woodrow Wilson and a Democratic house and senate the Aldrich tariff was repealed and the Underwood tariff bill enacted, and ever since its passage practically every commodity and article of merchandise has increased in value, and in many cases doubled and in some cases tripled in value. They did not reduce the cost of living, but have betrayed their trust and increased the high cost of living."

"'Enact and enforce anti-trust law and curb monopoly and high prices.' They have not enacted any anti-trust legislation; all the anti-trust legislation on our statute books today were fathered by the Republicans. All trust made articles in the United States are sold today at nearly 100 per cent more than they were being sold for during the last Republican administration. For instance, the Standard Oil trust sold gasoline during Taft's administration for 10½ and 12½ cents per gallon; during Wilson's administration we have been paying from 15 to 25 cents per gallon. Nails made and manufactured by the United States Steel trust that we bought for 2 cents per pound in 1912, we are paying 4 cents per pound for today. The same can be said about shoes, leather, paper, groceries, etc., etc. Surely the Democrats cannot claim that it is on account of the war, for they claim that Wilson has kept us out of war."

"'The constitutional rights and protection of life and property of every American citizen on high seas at home or in a foreign land.' Our citizens have not received this promised protection; on the contrary they have been shot and brutally murdered by foreign foes on our own soil. American lives have been destroyed on high seas; American property and American mails confiscated and countless American cargoes of non-contraband goods shipped to neutral nations unlawfully seized; and Woodrow Wilson and the democratic administration standing idly by and doing absolutely nothing except sending ultimatums."

"'Economy, condemned Republican extravagance and promised the reduction of useless officials.'

"Permit me to briefly analyze their system of economy:

Federal employes, 1915	488,711
Federal employes, 1914	470,015
Democratic increase	18,696

Four thousand new offices were created.

The new banking law creates five, salaries $5,000 each.

Comptroller's salary was increased from $5,000 to $12,000.

The new trades commission of five, with $10,000 each.

The new trades commission secretary with $5,000.

New appeal board of three, with $4,000 salary each.

Attorney general's salary increased from $7,000 to $9,000.

Six assistant attorney generals' salaries increased from $5,000 to $7,500.

Salary of diplomatic representatives to Argentine, Chile and Spain raised from $12,000 to $17,500 each.

The Democratic senate increas the staff of clerks in the senate d partment $49,380.

Total appropriation 1915	$1,089,408,7
Total appropriation 1912	995,789,4
Democratic excess 1915	$93,619,3

The last Democratic Congress a propriated over $500,000,000 more tha the highest appropriation ever mad by a Republican Congress.

The above figures prove beyond the shadow of a doubt that the Democratic party has utterly failed to exercise economy, but on the other hand, squandered our people's money uncalled for and lavishly.

"The Democratic administration and Woodrow Wilson never refused to sacrifice principle for political and partisan advantages. Mr. Wilson's administration of foreign affairs in Europe and on this continent is a failure, a sham, one of ignominious infamy.

"No American can think of Mexico without a blush of shame, and today, after three years of vacillation and watchful waiting, Mexico lies a prostrate hell of anarchy, while 100,000 of the flowers of our American youth, tricked by a subterfuge of legislation into becoming a federalized militia, are withdrawn from their ordinary vocations and profitable employments, to serve only as police power along the border chasing and in pursuit of lone bandits. This was President Wilson's personal policy, which was followed. He is personally responsible for the terrible destruction of American and Mexican lives and property in this very unhappy land the last three years."

"I propose that the Republican party shall once more set up the American flag as a symbol of honor and respect and justice to all, and of firmness in the maintenance of American rights."—Chas. E. Hughes.

Novel Illumination.

The city of Seal Beach, Cal., is now attracting attention because of the novel idea of illuminating the entire water front which has been carried out by the officials. A battery of 41 powerful searchlights, each being of more than 25,000-candle power, has been placed on the outward edge of a long pier which extends out into the ocean from a point at the center of the water front. The illuminated water front may be seen far out at sea, while the searchlight beams are visible for miles inland.

Counties Get Too Much Aid?

Counties in Minnesota must do more for themselves and get more credit for what they do, Dean Woods of the Agricultural college told the county agents at their annual meeting at the University farm.

Fund for Militia Only $375.

Because Minnesota state troops were on the Mexican border serving their country at the time of the fall inspection, the state will get nothing but stationery money from the federal militia apportionment. The total will be $375, according to Washington dispatches.

Plan to Prevent War.

Dean A. F. Woods of the state agricultural college has a new plan to prevent war. He would teach everybody agriculture. Dean Woods proposes a cultural course of study designed to give a bird's-eye view of agriculture, rather than along scientific lines to train practical farmers.

Need Instructor for Battery.

The formation of a cadet field artillery unit at the University of Minnesota is dependent on the possibility of finding a United States army artillery officer as instructor, Major George W. Moses, new commandant at the University, said after conferring with President George E. Vincent.

Students Self-Supporting.

Every one of the 400 boy students in the school of agriculture of the University of Minnesota is self-supporting, Professor D. D. Mayne, principal, announced after completing registration figures for the fall semester. "I did not find a single boy in the school who is a financial burden to his family," Professor Mayne said, in commenting on his roll of ambitious farm boy students.

To Educate Prisoners.

Early reorganization of the educational systems in Minnesota penal institutions, with special regard to substituting day for night classes and establishing vocational courses in the state reformatory, was predicted by Chairman C. Would End Car Shortage.

Blaming the existing car shortage that is tying up the movement of farm products in the Northwest to failure of Eastern and Southern roads to return cars owned by Northwestern roads, Chairman Ira B. Meyer of the Interstate Commerce Commission that that body issue an order to correct the cause of the evil.

GOPHER STATE NOTES

Thief River Falls. — The charred body of Charles Westby has been found in the ruins of a small shack here, which was destroyed by fire.

St. Paul. — Wild ducks are flying south and are reported unusually plentiful in practically all sections of the state, Commissioner Carlos Avery of the state game and fish department, says.

Grand Rapids. — The women's club of Grand Rapids, which will entertain the women's clubs at the Eighth Minnesota district at their next annual convention, has selected May 2 as the date.

Winona.—Ten thousand circulars have been mailed to leading Methodists of Minnesota as a preliminary step in the campaign for a $500,000 endowment building fund for Hamline university. Fifteen thousand more will be issued soon.

Owatonna.—Plans for a new $56,000 high school at Owatonna have been submitted for the approval of C. G. Schulz, state superintendent of education, by Guy B. Bennett of the Owatonna board of education. Mr. Schulz said the site for the new building is one of the best in the state for size and location, in his opinion, and that Owatonna is handling the project well.

St. Paul. — Apportionment of $142,000 that Minnesota is to receive in the first annual installment of federal good roads aid will be undertaken at a meeting of the State Highway commission the latter part of this week, George W. Cooley, highway engineer, has announced. The main requirement for aid designation is that the county shall provide funds to cover half the cost of the improvement, the remainder to be federal aid.

Minneapolis. — Lieutenant Prescott of the First Minnesota, in charge of the recruiting detail which has obtained more than 200 recruits in this district, has been ordered to rejoin his regiment at Llano Grande, Tex.

Duluth. — Charles G. Bryant, chairman of the Duluth Board of Grain Appeals, killed himself in his offices in the Board of Trade building by firing a revolver bullet into his temple. The motive for the suicide is unknown, but is believed by friends to have been prompted by business worries as well as by the fact that he failed to gain a reappointment to the board.

CLEVER LIFE-SAVING DEVICES

Two Inventions Which Will Enable Shipwrecked Persons to Sustain Life for a Long Time.

Many have been the life-saving devices invented for those who go down to the sea in ships, but it has remained for Benjamin E. Hervey of Idaho to devise one possessing all the comforts of a home.

The device is a suit, fashioned with arms and legs, with the buoyant belt attached at the waist. The suit is so balanced that the occupant, once in the water, stands in an upright position.

Attached to his shoulders is a square iron collar, extending a sufficient distance from the body so that the arms may be removed from the sleeves and employed freely. The collar is topped by a cover, which can be closed in case of necessity. Food can be stored within and the person wearing the suit is able, it is claimed, to exist for a long period of time. In fair weather the open cover serves as a shield against running waves.

Another article recently placed on the market is a combined raincoat and life preserver. Trousers are attached to the coat, which can be folded away until necessity demands their use. Then they are unfurled, and act as buoys in supporting the occupant in the water.

Kidney Disorder

(BY DR. V. M. PIERCE.)

"The most simple methods are usually the most effective ones when treating any disorder of the human system." The mere drinking a cup of hot water each morning, plenty of pure water all day, and a little Anuric before every meal has been found the most effective means of overcoming kidney trouble. Death would occur if the kidneys did not work day and night in separating poisons and uric acid from the blood.

The danger signals are backache, depressions, pains, heaviness, drowsiness, irritability, headaches, chilliness, rheumatic twinges, swollen joints or gout.

Since it is such a simple matter to step into your favorite drug store and obtain Anuric, anyone who earnestly desires to regain health and new life will waste no time in beginning this treatment.

I began at once taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and this medicine restored me to good health, which I am still enjoying to this day."—MRS. L. LARSON, 247 21st Ave. N.—Adv.

Jess Willard says: "Take Nuxated Iron

If you want plenty of 'stay there' Strength and Endurance and Health and muscles like mine."

A hitherto untold Secret of his Great Victories over Jack Johnson and Frank Moran.

Ordinary Nuxated Iron will often increase the strength and endurance of delicate, nervous folks 200 per cent in two weeks' time.

SPECIAL NOTE.—Dr. E. Sauer, a well-known physician who has studied widely in both this country and Europe, has been specially employed to make a thorough investigation into the real secret of the great strength, power and endurance of Jess Willard, and the marvelous value of nuxated iron as a strength builder.

NEW YORK.—Upon being interviewed at his apartment in the Colonial Hotel, Mr. Willard said: "Yes, I have a chemist with me to study the value of different foods and products as to their power to produce great strength and endurance, both of which are so necessary in the prize ring. On his recommendation I have often taken nuxated iron and I have particularly advocated the free use of iron by all those who wish to obtain great physical and mental power. Without it I am sure that I should never have been able to whip Jack Johnson so completely and easily as I did, and while training for my fight with Frank Moran I regularly took nuxated iron, and I am certain that it was a most important factor in my winning the fight so easily." Continuing, Dr. Sauer said: "Mr. Willard's case is only one of hundreds which I could cite from my own personal experience which proves conclusively the astonishing power of nuxated iron to restore strength and vitality even in most complicated chronic conditions."

Not long ago a man came to me who was nearly half a century old, and asked me to give him a preliminary examination for life insurance. I was astonished to find him with the blood pressure of a boy of 20 and as full of vigor, vim and vitality as a young man—in fact, a young man he really was, notwithstanding his age. The secret he said was taking iron—nuxated iron had filled him with renewed life. At 30 he was in bad health; at 46 careworn and nearly all in. Now at 50 a miracle of vitality and his face beaming with the buoyancy of youth. As I have said a hundred times over iron is the greatest of all strength builders. If people would only throw away patent medicines and nauseous concoctions and take simple nuxated iron, I am convinced that the lives of thousands of persons might be saved who now die every year from pneumonia, grippe, consumption, kidney, liver and heart trouble, etc. The real and true cause which started their diseases was nothing more or less than a weakened condition brought on by lack of iron in the blood. Iron is absolutely necessary to enable your blood to change food into living tissue. Without it, no matter how much or what you eat, your food merely passes through you without doing you any good. You don't get the strength out of it, and as a consequence you become weak, pale and sickly looking, just like a plant trying to grow in soil deficient in iron. If you are not strong or well, you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work, or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of ordinary nuxated iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see for yourself how much you have gained. I have seen dozens of nervous, run-down people who were ailing all the while, double their strength and endurance and entirely get rid of all symptoms of dyspepsia, liver and other troubles in from ten to fourteen days' time simply by taking iron in the proper form. And this after they had in some cases been doctoring for months without obtaining any benefit. But don't take the old forms of reduced iron, iron acetate or tincture of iron simply to save a few cents. You must take iron in a form that can be easily absorbed and assimilated like nuxated iron if you want it to do you any good, otherwise it may prove worse than useless.

Many an athlete or prize fighter has won the day simply because he knew the secret of great strength and endurance and filled his blood with iron before he went into the affray, while many another has gone to inglorious defeat simply for the lack of iron.—E. Sauer, M. D.

JESS WILLARD AT HOME

Among all the prominent figures of the prize ring, probably none is so devoted to family life as Jess Willard. After each engagement the champion hurries to his wife and children and remains at their side until public demand forces him to leave for new encounters. Everything is done to bring up the "little Willards" with strong healthy bodies Mr. Willard accounts for his own success by saying:—

"I consider that plenty of iron in my blood is the secret of my great strength, power and endurance."

Jess Willard

NOTE.—Nuxated Iron, recommended above by Dr. Sauer, is not a patent medicine nor secret remedy, but one which is well known to druggists and whose iron constituents are widely prescribed by eminent physicians everywhere. Unlike the older inorganic iron products, it is easily assimilated, does not injure the teeth, make them black, nor upset the stomach; on the contrary, it is a most potent remedy in nearly all forms of indigestion as well as for nervous, rundown conditions. The manufacturers have such great confidence in Nuxated Iron that they offer to forfeit $100.00 to any charitable institution if they cannot take any man or woman under 60 who lacks iron and increase their strength 200 per cent or over in four weeks' time, provided they have no serious organic trouble. They also offer to refund your money if it does not at least double your strength and endurance in ten days' time. It is dispensed by most druggists. If your druggist or general store is without a supply ask them to get it for you.—Adv

THE SUNBEAM,

BY W. G. HUNT, EDITOR
HARRIETT G. HUNT, PUBLISHER

Published every Friday, at Sunbeam, Pennington County, Minnesota.

Entered as Second-class matter August 30 1905, at the post office at Sunbeam Minn. under the Act of Congress of March 3.1874.

The American people have begun to realize the difference in a Republican administration and a "protest" donkey administration about keeping the country out of war. The people begin to understand that if Roosevelt or Hughes had been President we would not have heard anymore about war, than we heard about the little incident that happened between Germany, England and Venezuela, when Roosevelt was President. It will be remembered that Germany and England sent their men of war to the Venezuela coast to collect the money due them with their battle ships. Did Roosevelt follow the hogwash policy of Wilson and begin to file protest? Not at all, he just sent Dewey down there with the American fleet, and had them remain there near the coast practicing mimic warfare. When the English Parliament met one of their members told Mr. John Bull and Mr. Kaiser what Dewey was down there for, and they promptly pulled their men of war away from the coast of the Western Hemisphere without firing a gun. No protests filed. No turmoil. No excitement. No flurry in Wall Street. But those foreign powers understood that America meant business, and had their fleet there to transact business, and England and Germany pulled out. That's the way for America to transact business. To h—l with Wilson and his protests.

We have nothing to say against the two candidates that are opposing H. E. Ives, for Clerk of Court, and Wm. Michelet, for judge of probate, yet these two candidates, nor any of their supporters, have not given the tax payers of this county one single reason, why they should discharge these two well qualified and faithful officials, in order to give them the job. If you had a man working for you in an office, on a farm, or at any other employment, that was rendering you satisfactory and honorable service, you would not be likely to Discharge him, because a stranger came and told you that he wanted you to Discharge him, so he could get his job at the same salary, would you? The same rule applies to county officials, and more so, and the tax payers are the ones that pay the expenses for any mistakes made by new and inexperienced officials.

Next Tuesdays Election is quite important to the people of Pennington County, and particularly the people of the flood stricken eastern part of the County. If Hughes and a republican administration are elected, we are sure to get government aid to improve the Red Lake and Clearwater River. But we may as well state the facts as they are, if Wilson and the Democratic party are retained in power, all government aid will go to improve the rivers and harbors of the southern states. There is now no doubt but the Democratic party will be hoisted out of power November 7, and then it is up to us to show the G.O.P. by our record of votes that we did what we could to help them to win. Don't go to election next Tuesday and vote against the interest of your home County but help to place Pennington County in the lead as it was at the primary election. Let us give it the name of the Banner Republican County of Northern Minnesota.

Republicans should vote their ticket straight this year, both State and National. This is no off year, but a year to test the party strength, and if you are a republican put your X opposite of the name of Republican candidates from the top to the bottom of your ticket.

The Republican party will meet at the ballot box next Tuesday a united party, only one republican ticket in the field, and the cats that fought four years ago, while the monkeys ran off with the cheese are united this year to again restore the party to power, and they are going to do business at the ballot box next Tuesday.

The people have grown tired of Wilson's "bellyaching" about "keeping the country out of war" As a matter of fact he has kept the country in a continual turmoil about war and his "protests" for the past three years. If we had had Hughes in that presidential chair, the American people would never have heard that there was any danger of getting this country mixed up in that European war. Kept us out of war! "Rats"

The Highlanding correspondent in the last week's issue of the News-Press, gives some facts about their Highlanding mail service, which is likely to make people sit up and take notice. The News does not agree with the correspondent about making any change in the present service until there is a change of administration. When the ordinary people of Thief River Falls run up against that Demo. Kratka P. M. and try to change any mail routes to accommodate the common people, against the interests of Mr. Sirger they will find that they are running against a stone wall. Try it and you will be wiser than you are now, and discover that the Highlanding writer knew what he was writing about.

I am in favor of retaining the present county option law.

For the strickest economy. Opposed to all unnecessary appropriations. For lower taxes. Whatever the legislature can do to curtail expenses of state, county, town, village or school government, and not impair the efficiency, the movement will have my support, to the end that the burden of taxation may be reduced.

For a fairer system distributing the burden of taxation. Changes should include the assessment of buildings and improvements at a less percentage of their value than the land; a shifting of more of the burden onto the land and off the improvements on the land.

For fair and open market for all farm products, absolutely free from monopoly or from manipulation by promoters and speculators.

For responding to the wishes and sentiments of the people and carrying out their will, wherever it can be ascertained.

O'NEILL WAS WITH THE FARMERS.

We have heard the remark made that perhaps Senator O'Neill was quietly in favor of the passage of the Stenvick Bill. This is not true, and we want to give Senator O'Neill the credit due him for promptly taking hold with the Farmers Clubs of Clearwater county, and helping to defeat this scheme to nearly double their taxes. O'Neill promptly got into line, and fought for the interest of his farmer constituents.

NO ONE WAS AFRAID OF HAITI.

Haiti did not behave as badly to us as Mexico behaved; but Mr. Wilson intervened, fought the Haitiens, shedding their blood and the blood of our troops, took possession and now has our armed forces in control of Haiti and directing its government. His course of action in Haiti can be defended only if his course of action in Mexico is unqualifiedly condemned; for such action was far more needed in Mexico than in Haiti. But there was a difference in the two cases; and to Mr. Wilson it was a vital difference. Haiti was weaker than Mexico. No one was afraid of Haiti.—From the speech of Colonel Roosevelt delivered at Lewiston, Maine, in behalf of Charles E. Hughes.

MINNESOTA HISTORICAL SOCIETY

THE LOCAL NEWS

Eddie Hyland is threshing in this neighborhood this week,

Mrs. Joseph LaCounte visited at the Sedig home last Sunday.

Ye editor transacted business and talked politics at Goodridge all day last Saturday.

The farmers have all been busy plowing the past week, where land was dry enough to plow.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Knute Olson, a fine baby boy, on Thursday. Mother and baby are doing nicely.

Carl Narveson has taken up government land in Canada; and became a subject of the Kingdom of Great Britain.

The north east school district of the town of Highlanding are just completing a fine new up to date school house.

Steenerson polled his usual large majority at Tuesday's election, about all the opposition being to him was the Singers, in this locality.

The contest between Mr. Ira C. Richardson and Wm. Michelet; for Judge of Probate, was close enough for comfort. Mr. Michelet winning out by only about forty votes.

It is queer that lots of people forget their former circumstances when they get elected to office, and are always found advocating any new scheme to increase the farmers' taxes.

Last Monday's wind storm blew the tops off from nearly every hay stack in this territory; and they should be promptly replaced; as there is likely to be more rainy weather yet this fall.

One of the surprises of the election was the defeat of Harry Ives, for Clerk of Court. But he was defeated by overconfidence of his friends, and sympathetic votes for his opponent, who is a cripple.

Walter McAndress has taken the contract to drag the road grades on this side of the Red Lake River in Highlanding township, something that has been badly needed for some time.

County Surveyor Glenn Martz will be up in this locality soon to do some surveying. Any one who wants surveying done should notify him at St. Hilaire, giving description of land they want surveyed.

Goodridge held their first Market Day last Saturday, and there was a large attendance of farmers with a good sprinkling of politicians from Thief River Falls; notwithstanding the bad condition of the roads. The merchants all seemed to be doing a good stroke of business.

Lars and Henry Hyland dug a ditch to drain the lake lying on our eighty acre farm south of Sunbeam post office this week; and we expect to raise a crop of flax on this pond of about fifteen acres of water, at the present time next season; as we expect to drain the lake entirely dry.

There is one piece of road between Highlanding and Goodridge that is a disgrace to eastern Pennington County. It is one mile in length, and we never saw it in decent passable condition. There has been a lot of work done on it, but the soil seems to be of a variety that makes it an impossibility to make a good road over it. Autoists have been compelled to go about four miles out of their way to get around it, or hire a team to pull them over it for the past three weeks.

The weather has been very fair this week, but there has been heavy frosts every night.

There will be a Basket Social at the School House, District No. 37, a half mile west of Highlanding, Friday evening, November 17th. Everybody come and have a good time.

Judging from the Democratic votes polled in the town of Highlanding last Tuesday, the people must be in favor of "peace at any price," and any kind of mail service, that the present administration sees fit to give them.

ELECTION RETURNS.

Up to the time of this issue, we have not heard positive returns on the election of President. The entire state Republican ticket was elected by large majorities. The Republicans elected their U S. Senator, Frank B. Kellogg, and eight of the ten Congressmen. The Democrats have one Congressman, and the Progressives one. John A. Duffy of Red Lake Falls was elected for Representative by a large majority. Wilhelm Michelet was elected for Judge of Probate by a majority of forty-four votes, and Adolph Ekland was elected for Clerk of Court by a substantial majority. The township of Highlanding gave Wilson a majority of votes; the Socialist party showing a falling off of their vote of former years; their votes going to Wilson.

When Cats Were Sacred.

Scientists consider that the cat was introduced originally into Egypt from the south and that the credit of domesticating it belongs entirely to the inhabitants of that country. It is fortunate that the cat found its way into Europe at the time of the Roman supremacy, which, like other polytheistic systems, was in religious matters at least tolerant. Had it been confined to Egypt till the iconoclastic intrusion of the Moslems it might have been extirpated as a pagan object of worship. The Egyptians seem to have kept their cats in vast inclosures, and it is perhaps a trait of heredity which causes them to remain so faithful to a house in which they are domesticated. Whenever a house caught fire the chief care of the neighbors was to save the cats. The men and women might be burned in the ruins, but the cats were to be saved at all risks. When a cat died a natural death every inmate of the house shaved his eyebrows, and when a dog died they shaved all over.—Chambers' Journal.

Tennis as an American Game.

Tennis is as old as the hills, basically, though it has undergone many changes for the better. It was played by the Greeks and Romans under the names of "sphairisis" and "pila." As "paume" it is mentioned in the Arthurian romances and in the earlier records of the dark ages. In the fifteenth century it enjoyed great favor in France, and in England from the sixteenth century to the present time. As it seems to be more or less mixed up with about every sort of race, it may be called truly American, especially as we have poured it into our melting pot to boil and simmer and have seasoned it to our liking. But as an adopted pastime we can hardly call it our national game, as national seems to imply home grown or native. Yet we have developed tennis, speeded it up, perfected it, Americanized it so successfully that the game as we play it today typifies the restlessness, energy and competition of our national spirit.—Norman Harsell in Countryside Magazine.

Korea's Diamond Mountain.

Kongosan, known among foreigners by the name of Diamond mountain, is an extraordinary cluster of innumerable peaks in the east-central part of Korea. It is part of a great mountain range forming the backbone of the Korean peninsula and stands in the northeastern part of Kangwon province. The system is about fifty miles in circumference, occupying an area of more than twenty-five square miles. The peaks, reputed to number 12,000, are entirely formed of granite and tower high in the air, with dense forests on their sides and at their base. All the peaks are extremely rugged and grotesque in form, and it is impossible to scale many of them, as they rise nearly straight into the sky, while their slippery sides furnish no foothold.

Fondly Recalled.

I. W. W.'S ON SHIP ATTACK CITIZENS IN EVERETT, WASH.

SIX MEN KILLED AND SCORES WOUNDED IN BATTLE AT WHARF—ONE THOUSAND SHOTS EXCHANGED.

POSSE HEADED BY SHERIFF MEETS INVADERS AT DOCK

Many Industrial Workers Fall on Deck of Vessel and Others Panic-Stricken Jump Overboard—Steamer Turns Around and Starts Back to Seattle.

Everett, Wash., Nov. 7.—At least six men were killed and scores were wounded in a battle at the Everett city wharf between 250 members of the Industrial Workers of the World, who came here from Seattle on the steamer Verona, and a posse of 150 citizens headed by Sheriff Don McRae. Sheriff McRae is among the seriously wounded.

The number of casualties aboard the Verona is not known. After the shooting, in which about 1,000 shots were exchanged the Verona turned around and started back to Seattle. Many men were seen to fall on the deck of the steamer and others panic-stricken jumped overboard. Some were taken from the water, but others disappeared and it is believed they were drowned.

Citizens Ready for Invaders.

The Verona reached Everett shortly before 2 o'clock. The coming of the party of invaders had been announced in messages sent to Everett from Seattle headquarters. A call to Industrial Workers of the World members from all over the state had been issued earlier in the week and the citizens of Everett at a meeting Saturday night planned to meet the invaders and deny them the privilege of landing.

When the Verona reached the city wharf Sheriff McRae who was backed by a posse of deputy sheriffs and citizens stepped forward and informed the men on the boat they would not be permitted to land. One of the men, evidently spokesman for the party, began arguing with the sheriff and then made a speech.

Men on Ship Open Fire.

Apparently as a signal the man dropped his hand and armed men on the steamer opened fire on the posse assembled on the wharf.

The first man to fall was Sheriff McRae, seriously injured. One man was killed instantly and in a moment the crowd on shore was panic-stricken. Deputy Sheriffs on the wharf quickly rallied their forces, however, and returned the fire.

Men on the wharf and on the boat were seen to fall and the Verona immediately backed out of the dock and started back toward Seattle.

The trouble between the Industrial Workers of the World and the authorities at Everett has been on for several months and was the outgrowth of a strike of shingle weavers here. After several minor outbreaks of violence during the strike Sheriff McRae organized the citizens committee and expelled all members of the Industrial Workers of the World from Everett.

NINETY-TWO PERISH WHEN BRITISH VESSELS COLLIDE

Steamer Connemara and Retriever Sink During Terrific Gale in the Irish Sea.

London, Nov. 7. — Ninety-two lives were lost when the British steamships Connemara and Retriever collided and sank during a terrific gale in the Irish sea. Only two persons survived the disaster. No Americans were reported lost.

The Connemara was bound with passengers and cattle from Greenore Ireland, for Holy Head, Wales.

The Retriever was coal laden. Her crew numbered 13, all of whom, with the exception of one, were lost. The other survivor was a passenger aboard the Connemara.

GERMAN LINES ON SOMME SMASHED BY FRENCH FORCE

BRITISH ADVANCE OVER THOUSAND YARD FRONT

Italians Make Gains South of Gorizia in Attempt to Break Austrian Lines and Advance on Trieste—Roumanians and Teutons Still at Deadly Grips.

London, Nov. 7. — French troops along the Somme, northeast of Verdun, have again smashed the German lines hard.

North of the Somme between Les Boeufs and Sailly-Saillisel, to the east of the latter place and on the St. Pierre-Vaast wood sector, important gains were made in violent fighting lasting all day, according to the French official communication.

The attack on the St. Pierre-Vaast wood was made from three sides simultaneously. It netted the French three trenches to the north and the entire German positions on the southern outskirts of the wood.

French Occupy Two Towns.

To the north, despite stormy weather, the British, over a front of 1,000 yards, captured the hills in the neighborhood of the Butte de Warlencourt.

Keeping up their offensive in the Verdun region, the French have occupied the entire village of Vaux and the town of Damloup, situated a mile to the east of Fort Vaux.

Violent fighting continues to mark the operations in the region south of Gorizia, where the Italians are endeavoring to break the Austrian lines and advance on Trieste.

Italians Gain Ground.

French gains have been made by King Victor Emmanuel's men on the Carso plateau south of the Oppacohaisella-Castagnievizza road and to the south of this region they are alternately bombarding the Austrian positions at Jamiano and throwing heavy infantry effectives against the town. The Vienna war office says all the attacks at Jamiano thus far have broken down.

In the Transylvania Alps the Austro-Germans and Roumanians are still at deadly grips with both sides claiming successes at various points.

London, Nov. 4. — After months of strife between the adherents of former Premier Venizelos and the staunch adherents of King Constantine over the question of Greece's stand in the war, a revolution of considerable proportions has broken out in the region southwest of Saloniki.

VILLA CAPTURES PARRAL; NINE AMERICANS IN TOWN

Mining Men at El Paso Much Concerned Over Fate of Citizens Known to Be There.

El Paso, Texas, Nov. 4.—American mining men who have interests in Parral, reported from Chihuahua City to have been taken by Villa troops, are much concerned over the fate of the nine Americans known to be in Parral.

This concern was increased by news from Chihuahua City that the bandits who held up the Mexican Central passenger train Monday evening at Laguna station, assaulted Dr. Stephen Hoffner, a German subject, because they thought he was an American.

This, they say, is an indication of what may happen to the nine Americans in the Parral mining district.

Calgary, Alta., Nov. 6.—Gagging and binding the watchman, two masked bandits blew the safe of the Merchants Bank of Canada, at Okotoks, 30 miles south of Calgary, at 2 a. m., and escaped, presumably in a motorcar, with the cash contents, amounting to about $7,000.

France to Lose "American Corps."

Washington, Nov. 4. — The famous American aviation corps of the French army probably soon will lose officially its distinctive title as a result of protests to the State department that use of the name is not compatible with American neutrality. There will be no formal exchanges on the subject, but the State department will suggest informally to the French foreign office that mention of the "American" corps in official communique places this country in an embarrassing posi-

COST OF PRODUCING PRINT PAPER LESS

FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION COMPLETES INVESTIGATION—WILL CONDUCT HEARINGS

PUBLISHERS NOW PAYING $7

Board Declares Price Received by Domestic Manufacturers Did Not Advance in Anything Like the Current Market Prices.

Washington, Nov. 6.—In a statement announcing the virtual completion of its investigation of news print paper prices, the Federal Trade commission declares that during the first half of this year, when prices already were soaring to unprecedented prices, the average cost of producing news print paper in domestic mills was less than $1.65 per hundred pounds, or below the average cost in the past three years.

The commission announces that before issuing its report public hearings will be conducted and manufacturers, publishers and others interested given an opportunity to appear.

Contracts About to Expire.

Certain facts developed by the inquiry are made public now because most of the publishers' contracts for paper are about to expire. Contract prices this year rose from less than $2 per hundred to $3 and $3.50, and on current market purchases the publishers have paid $7 or more for paper bought in the same way prior to January 1 for between $2 and $3.

The statement follows:

Contract Prices Run High.

"The price advance in news print paper, which occasioned this investigation began early in 1916 and has continued down to the present. Most news print paper, probably about 90 per cent, is sold on contracts for periods of a year or more. Before the price began to advance contract prices for news print paper were generally less than $2 per hundred pounds f. o. b. mill. During the first half of 1916 contract prices for large quantities went as high as $3 per hundred pounds, and since July 1, 1916, have run as high as $3.50. Most of the contracts now in operation will expire within three or four months.

Prices Soar to $7.

"On current market purchases newspaper publishers have been paying manufacturers and jobbers very much higher prices. Before January, 1915, current market prices ranged generally between $2 and $3 per hundred pounds, delivered, depending on quantity, freight and circumstances, but since that time they have gone up as high as $6 or $7 per hundred pounds for a considerable volume of business and even higher in exceptional instances.

"The average price received by domestic manufacturers of news print paper did not advance in anything like the degree that current market prices advanced, because most of the paper was sold under contracts previously made. On the average, the actual net receipts of domestic manufacturers for news print paper were less than $2 per hundred pounds during the first half of 1916.

German troops made an attack at Sailly-Saillisel, but were driven back after a violent encounter, with heavy casualties.

POLAND RESTORED AS A KINGDOM BY TEUTON EMPERORS

PROVINCES OCCUPIED BY TROOPS OF THE CENTRAL POWERS GIVEN RIGHT TO GOVERN THEMSELVES.

GERMANY AND AUSTRIA ISSUE JOINT MANIFESTO

Re-establishes Right of Polish Nation to Control Its Own Destinies and to Live Independent National Life—Made Public at Warsaw and Lublin.

Berlin, Nov. 7. — "Polish provinces occupied by troops of the Central Powers," say the Overseas News Agency, "were the scene of a great and momentous historic event. Germany and Austro-Hungary by joint action proclaimed Warsaw and Lublin, the Kingdom of Poland and re-established the right of the Polish nation to control its own destinities, to live an independent national life and to govern itself by chosen representatives of the nation.

"A few days ago a Polish delegation had called upon the imperial chancellor. Dr. Von Bethmann-Hollweg. Its members were representative Poles of all classes, all parties, all ranks of society and all creeds. They transmitted to the German government the wishes of the Polish nation which now have been granted to them.

Kingdom Is Resurrected.

"Thus the ancient kingdom of Poland from which in the past came famous rulers like the Jagellones (a dynasty founded by Jagello which reigned in Poland from 1386 to 1852) and glorious soldiers like the great Sobieski (John III, King of Poland in 1674-1696) is now resurrected to new life. The Poles are free from Russian oppression, no more to be trodden under the heels of the Cossacks. The rule of the knout has been abolished. Poland has been given back to western civilization.

Manifesto Is Issued.

The manifesto issued at Warsaw and Lublin reads, as follows:

"His majesty the German Emperor and his majesty, the Emperor of Austria and apostolic king of Hungary, inspired by firm confidence in a final victory of their arms and prompted by a desire to lead the districts conquered by their armies under heavy sacrifices from Russian domination towards a happy future, have agreed to form of these districts a national state with a hereditary monarchy and a constitutional government.

To Receive Guarantees.

"The new kingdom will receive the guarantees needed for the free development of its own forces by its intimate relations with both powers. The glorious traditions of the ancient Polish armies and the memory of the brave comradeship in the great war of our days shall revive its national army. The organization, instruction and command of this army shall be arranged by common agreement.

"The allied monarchs express the confident hope that Polish wishes for the evolution of a Polish state and for the national development of a Polish kingdom shall now be fulfilled, taking due consideration of the political conditions prevailing in Europe and of the welfare and the safety of their own countries and nations.

"The great realm which the western neighbors of the Kingdom of Poland shall have on their eastern frontier shall be a free and happy state enjoying its own national life, and they shall welcome with joy the birth and prosperous development of this state.

Returns For Trial After 25 Years.

Murphy, N. C., Nov. 4.—Twenty-five years ago in an altercation with a playmate, R. L. Phillips threw a rock, striking the other boy on the head and killing him. The young assailant, fearful of the consequences, fled, and for a quarter of a century his whereabouts had not been known, even to his own father. Phillips has just appeared here and has given himself up to the authorities after revealing his identity. He had been in the west and had accumulated considerable means. His own family did not recognize him.

ARE YOUR KIDNEYS WEAK?

Thousands of Men and Women Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It.

Nature warns you when the track of health is not clear. Kidney and bladder troubles cause many annoying symptoms and great inconvenience both day and night.

Unhealthy kidneys may cause lumbago, rheumatism, catarrh of the bladder, pain or dull ache in the back, joints or muscles, at times have headache or indigestion, as time passes you may have a sallow complexion, puffy or dark circles under the eyes, sometimes feel as though you had heart trouble, may have plenty of ambition but no strength, get weak and lose flesh.

If such conditions are permitted to continue, serious results may be expected; Kidney Trouble in its very worst form may steal upon you.

Prevalency of Kidney Disease.

Most people do not realize the alarming increase and remarkable prevalency of kidney disease. While kidney disorders are among the most common diseases that prevail, they are almost the last recognized by patients, who usually content themselves with doctoring the effects, while the original disease may constantly undermine the system.

If you feel that your kidneys are the cause of your sickness or run down condition, try taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the famous kidney, liver and bladder remedy, because as soon as your kidneys improve, they will help the other organs to health.

If you are already convinced that Swamp-Root is what you need, you can purchase the regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles at all drug stores. Don't make any mistake but remember the name, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., which you will find on every bottle.

SPECIAL NOTE—You may obtain a sample size bottle of Swamp-Root by enclosing ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. This gives you the opportunity to prove the remarkable merit of this medicine. They will also send you a book of valuable information, containing many of the thousands of grateful letters received from men and women who say they found Swamp-Root to be just the remedy needed in kidney, liver and bladder troubles. The value and success of Swamp-Root are so well known that our readers are advised to send for a sample size bottle. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing be sure and mention this paper.

Iron is Greatest of All Strength Builders, Says Doctor

A Secret of the Great Endurance and Power of Athletes

Ordinary Nuxated Iron Will Make Delicate, Nervous, Rundown People 200 Per Cent. Stronger in Two Weeks' Time in Many Cases.

NEW YORK, N. Y.—Most people foolishly seem to think they are going to get renewed health and strength from some stimulating medicine, secret nostrum or narcotic drug, said Dr. Sauer, a well-known Specialist who has studied widely both in this country and Europe, when, as a matter of fact, real and true strength can only come from the food you eat. But people often fail to get the strength out of their food because they haven't enough iron in their blood to enable it to change food into living matter. From their weakened, nervous condition they know something is wrong but they can't tell what, so they generally commence doctoring for stomach, liver or kidney trouble or symptoms of some other ailment caused by the lack of iron in the blood. This thing may go on for years, while the patient suffers untold agony. If you are not strong or well, you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of ordinary nuxated iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see for yourself how much you have gained. I have seen dozens of nervous, run-down people who were ailing all the while, double their strength and endurance and entirely get rid of all symptoms of dyspepsia, liver and other troubles in from ten to fourteen days' time simply by taking iron in the proper form. And this after they had in some cases been doctoring for months without obtaining any benefit. But don't take the old forms of reduced iron, iron acetate or tincture of iron simply to save a few cents. You must take iron in a form that can be easily absorbed and assimilated like nuxated iron if you want it to do you any good, otherwise it may prove worse than useless. Many an athlete or prize-fighter has won the day simply because he knew the secret of great strength and endurance and filled his blood with iron before he went into the affray, while many another has gone down to inglorious defeat simply for the lack of iron.

NOTE—Nuxated Iron recommended above by Dr. Sauer is not a patent medicine nor secret remedy, but one which is well known to druggists and whose iron constituents is widely prescribed by eminent physicians everywhere. Unlike the older inorganic iron products, it is easily assimilated, does not injure the teeth, make them black, nor upset the stomach; on the contrary, it is a most potent remedy, in nearly all forms of indigestion, as well as for nervous, run-down conditions. The manufacturers have such great confidence in Nuxated Iron that they offer to forfeit $100.00 to any charitable institution if they cannot take any man or woman under 60 who lacks iron and increase their strength 200 per cent. or over in four weeks' time provided they have no serious organic trouble. They also offer to refund your money if it does not at least double your strength and endurance in ten days' time. It is dispensed by most druggists. If your druggist or general store is without a supply, ask them to get it for you.—Adv.

Bodily Housekeeping

(BY V. M. PIERCE, M. D.)

The subject of drinking water with meals has been misunderstood.

In recent years investigation by means of X-rays, the observations of scientists such as Cannon, Grutzner, Pavlov, Fowler, Hawk, prove that an abundance of water taken during digestion is necessary in good bodily housekeeping.

If your kidneys are sick, or you suffer with lumbago or rheumatism at times, pain in the back or back of the neck, take a little Anuric before meals. This can be found at any good drug store. Therefore my advice to young or old is, always drink plenty of pure water. And for long life, occasionally take tablets of Anuric three or four times a day.

Anuric acts—much more quickly than lithia. You will find it dissolves uric acid as water does sugar.

SUFFERED SEVERE PAINS

Mankato, Minn.—"About four years ago I became all rundown and weak through hard work. I could not eat, was bilious all the time, suffered severe pains in the back, in fact was distressed all over. I had several good doctors but did not get any relief. I went on suffering this way for about two years when my sister advised me to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, which I did, and three bottles completely cured me. I have never been bothered since. There is nothing better for women who are rundown or suffering with weakness of any sort."—MISS GERTRUDE E. EVANS, 325 Belgrade Ave.—Adv.

FAMOUS SCIENTIST AS CHEF

Visitors Mistaken in Thinking Metchnikoff Was Engaged in Laboratory Experiments.

One day some distinguished visitors who had arrived in Paris and were being escorted about by a committee were taken to call upon the late Professor Metchnikoff (the famous scientist who believed that the secret of long life lay in diet) toward the hour of noon. The laboratory was all but empty, as most of the workers had departed for that sacred meal, the French dejeuner. But Metchnikoff was there himself intent upon a vessel he was holding over a gas burner.

"It must be a very interesting experiment that keeps you engaged even at this hour," remarked one of the committee.

"Look for yourself," said Metchnikoff, and, continuing to stir with a glass tube, held up the dish so that a delicious fragrance rose to the noses of the visitors.

"That's what I'm working at," he laughed, "banana in slices, fried in butter. It is excellent."—World's Work.

His Many Duties.

When young Farmer Giles left the happy homestead and plowed fields to join the army there was not a prouder man in the land. The first time he was doing sentry-go the officer of the guard came by and called upon him to give up his orders.

"Orders!" shouted Giles. "Give up my orders?"

"Yes, certainly. What are you here for?" demanded the officer, sharply.

"Oh, I'm here to walk up and down, stand at attention, wink at the girls, look after Sergeant Murphy's bit of garden and see that nobody pinches his spades; also to see you ain't about when they fetch the beer for the guardroom prisoners, and should you come on the scene to—"

But the officer had completely collapsed.—Pittsburg Chronicle Telegram.

Awful Good Time.

The children returned from the party, where they had been guests of Johnny and Susie Wilkins.

"Did you behave yourselves nicely?" mother asked.

"Sure we did."

"Then you had a good time, didn't you?"

"We had an awful good time," they answered. "Johnny and Susie both got lickings."—Newark News.

DAYS SCHOOLS AT PRISONS PLANNED

BOARD OF CONTROL CONTEMPLATES ASKING LEGISLATURE TO PROVIDE FOR BUILDINGS.

EDUCATORS MEET IN ST. PAUL

Hear Discussions on Militarism, Suffrage and Motherhood—Addition of Two Years of College Work to High School Course in State Urged.

St. Paul.

Establishment of day schools at the state prison and the state refomatory is contempdated by the Board of Control just as soon as the legislature makes provision for them. Board members said they were considering a recommendation to the coming legislature, providing for erection of school buildings in connection with each institution, each building to be a model for the purpose to be served.

Night schools are now conducted at both prison and reformatory, but the courses are admitted to be of the traditional type. Little effort has been made to emphasize educational opportunities for inmates as paramount to other activities that engage them.

C. J. Swendsen and C. E. Vasaly, members of the board, recently returned from a tour of inspection of penal institutions of the Eastern states with special reference to the kind of schools maintained for inmates. They came back confirmed in their belief that Minnesota was ready to give to its prison population the schooling it did not get before entering prison. They were particularly impressed by the opportunities for emphasizing vocational education.

State Teachers Gather.

Militarism was denounced, woman suffrage advocated and motherhood declared the most overworked of the professions, by speakers before the Minnesota Educational association in St. Paul.

Dr. Yamoi Kin, head of the Woman's Medical school, Pie-Yang, China, flayed militarism. She said the height of barbarism was the settlement of difficulties by force. Charles Zeublin of Boston, sociologist, said that principles of government and the duties of citizens could not be well taught to children when the majority of their teachers were treated like slaves in that they were denied the franchise. William Wirt, superintendent of the Gary, Ind., schools, put in the good word for mother.

Carrol G. Pearse, president of the Milwaukee Normal school, said at a department of secondary education that the adding of two years of college work to the high school course would not only prevent crowding in the university, but would aid the student by giving him the benefit of home influences in his early youth.

I. C. C. Declines To Aid.

The car shortage situation in Minneapolis and the Northwest will not be clearedup by the Interstate Commerce commission. Ira B. Mills, chairman of the Minnesota Railroad and Warehouse commission, recently issued a statement blaming the Eastern and Southern roads for the car shortage here and appealed to the federal body for aid. He has received word from E. H. Meyer, chairman of the I. C. C., that the matter is one over which the commission has no control.

On Educators' Conveyances.

That the cost of keeping up old Dobbin or the flivver or other conveyance used by county superintendents in making their rounds of rural schools should be borne by the county was a contention by Superintendent N. A. Thorson of Polk county before the conference of county school superintendents. His sentiments were vigorously applauded by the gathering, which filled the Senate chamber at the Capitol.

Battery "F" Mustered Out.

Battery F, the State University's contingent in the First Minnesota field artillery, which returned from the Mexican border more than a month ago, has been mustered out of the state service. Captain W. H. Rhinow, acting on authority from the adjutant-general's office, read the list of 171 men and declared them mustered out. Honerable discharge papers will be furnished the men later.

Favors Pure Milk Laws.

Pure milk regulations enacted by the Legislature to have state-wide effect and place Minnesota in the front rank among other states were advocated by Commissioner J. J. Farrell of the state dairy and food department at a hearing before the commission recently appointed to propose revision of Minnesota laws relating to public health.

Young Girls Poor Teachers.

Seventeen-year-old-girls are all right in their place, but they are as a rule ill suited to teach in the rural schools of Minnesota. This was the concensus of opinion expressed by county superintendents at a public conference with C. G. Schulz, superintendent of education. Nearly every county of the state was represented. Girls of that age lack the mature judgment and training necessary for instructors speakers declared. W. E. Boerger of Stearns county favored an amendment to the statutes.

Anger manages everything badly.

Strong Drinks Irritate

Strong drinks like beer, whiskey, tea and coffee, irritate the kidneys and habitual use tends to weaken them. Daily backache, with headache, nervousness, dizzy spells and a rheumatic condition should be taken as a warning of kidney trouble. Cut out, or at least moderate, the stimulant, and use Doan's Kidney Pills. They are fine for weak kidneys. Thousands recommend them.

A Minnesota Case

Chas. Bartsch, 1031 Lowry Ave., N. E., Minneapolis, Minn., says: "A dull pain in the small of my back made me miserable, but Doan's Kidney Pills rid me of it. Some time later, I had a return of kidney trouble and the kidney secretions were filled with sediment. I again used Doan's Kidney Pills and they fixed me up all right. I haven't had any trouble with my kidneys since, but, nevertheless, I wouldn't be without Doan's Kidney Pills on hand."

Health for Sick Women

For Forty Years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Has Been Woman's Most Reliable Medicine —Here is More Proof.

To women who are suffering from some form of woman's special ills, and have a constant fear of breaking down, the three following letters ought to bring hope:—

North Crandon, Wis.—"When I was 16 years old I got married and at 18 years I gave birth to twins and it left me with very poor health. I could not walk across the floor without having to sit down to rest and it was hard for me to keep about and do my work. I went to a doctor and he told me I had a displacement and ulcers, and would have to have an operation. This frightened me so much that I did not know what to do. Having heard of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I thought I would give it a trial and it made me as well as ever. I cannot say enough in favor of the Pinkham remedies."—Mrs. Mayme Asbach, North Crandon, Wis.

Testimony from Oklahoma.

Lawton, Okla.—"When I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I seemed to be good for nothing. I tired easily and had headaches much of the time and was irregular. I took it again before my little child was born and it did me a wonderful amount of good at that time. I never fail to recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to ailing women because it has done so much for me."—Mrs. A. L. McCasland, 509 Have St., Lawton, Okla.

From a Grateful Massachusetts Woman.

Roxbury, Mass.—"I was suffering from inflammation and was examined by a physician who found that my trouble was caused by a displacement. My symptoms were bearing down pains, backache, and sluggish liver. I tried several kinds of medicine; then I was asked to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It has cured me and I am pleased to be in my usual good health by using it and highly recommend it."—Mrs. B. M. Osgood, 1 Haynes Park, Roxbury, Mass.

One Way to Do It.

"Father, how do you fill a fountain pen?" asked Johnny.

"Well," asked his father, "is it your pen that you want to fill?"

"Yes, sir."

"Well, then my boy," thoughtfully answered father, "I would fill the bathtub with ink, and then get in and fill the pen."—Rochester Times.

Taxing the Farmer.

BY C. J. BUELL.

A man takes up a piece of Minnesota land and starts to develop a farm.

He needs a home for his wife and children and he must earn his daily living.

He begins to use this land and we begin to tax him.

He gets a team of horses and some tools. Tax him.

He grubs out the stumps and puts in a crop. Tax him.

He builds a cabin to shelter himself and family. Tax him.

He buys a cow to furnish milk for the babies. Tax him.

He builds a fence to protect his crops, to keep his cattle and horses in and to keep other animals out. Tax him again.

He needs more room and builds a better house. Double his taxes and more.

He gets a new stove and table. Increase his taxes.

He cleans up his front yard, plants flowers and shrubs and gives his house a new coat of paint. He is a bad citizen; tax him again.

By this time he has been pretty well robbed of his earnings and has to borrow money to go on with. Tax him again by means of taxes on money and mortgages, notes and other credits and then add a registration tax which some stupid people used to think the money lender would have to pay. They are wiser now and know that the money lender never pays any taxes except such as he has first taken out of the borrower; and then only a small part of what the borrower has paid him.

For every good and useful thing that this man has tried to do to get a home, to develop his farm and earn and earn an honest living, we tax him, fine him, penalize him as if he were a criminal, and then wonder why he can't get on in the world,

There are some men who are strong enough to stand all this and still make a living, but many more could do far better if they could be free from the crushing burden of unjust taxation.

And how the land grabbers and speculators enjoy this system. They always get ahead of the homemaker, in both country and city, get hold of as much land as possible and put up the price every time the useful citizen does anything to improve the neighborhood.

We probably can't wipe out these unjust taxes all at once, but we can urge the legislature to tax buildings and improvements at a lower rate than land, and then keep on in the same way until we have finally put an end to the system of fining people for the good and useful things they do.

Put the working farmer and the land speculator on the same basis. Tax them just alike. The speculator will the sooner get busy and improve his land.

A Mixed Metaphor.

A professor of English in a western college was once criticising the following lines from Campbell's "Ye Mariners of England:"

The meteor flag of England
Shall yet terrific burn,
Till danger's troubled night depart
And the star of peace return.

"The star of peace," he pointed out, "could not 'return' after night had departed," for stars, as a general rule, do not shine during the day.

"If you were struck hard enough between the eyes you would see stars any old time," suggested the witty member of the class.

"That is quite true," replied the professor, "but it would not be the 'star of peace.'"

FEEDING THE BOY.

Give Every Healthy Youngster the Diet His System Craves.

The growing boy—the active, healthy, normal boy—is a better judge of his diet than mother or father or doctor. He needs every kind of food, plenty of it, and his system will naturally crave for just those foods that are best for him.

Such, in substance, is the theme of an article in the National Food Magazine by Dr. H. E. Barnard.

There are two kinds of food—proteins, with which the body is built up, and the growing boy needs as much of these as the full grown man, often more; carbohydrates, which are the fats and sugars and starches that supply heat and energy.

The boy's protein food need not all be meat. Dr. Barnard says "it is better that no small part of this nitrogenous food come from milk and eggs, cheese, beans and peas. If he has plenty of these rich and relatively cheap foods he will not crave meat so inordinately as some growing boys do." Dr. Barnard continues:

"The boy needs a large quantity of carbohydrates. That is why his demand for bread and butter is limited only by the supply at hand; and when he uses almost as much butter as bread, do not stint him. By the pound butter is expensive, but it is pure, wholesome food, and he can use it readily. It will not make him ill; quite the contrary.

"And do not be afraid of sugar and sweet foods. Sugar is a true concentrated food. Give him candy for dessert. He craves it and his craving is natural, not abnormal.

"The boy's instincts will lead him to choose the all around diet he needs."

THE HASTINGS DIAMOND.

It Involved a King of England In a Bribery Scandal.

Nearly every great diamond has a history. These histories are always romantic, embodying numerous adventures, some of which are tragic.

In the history of the Hastings tragedy of England is a charge of bribery against a king, George III., which gave the gentle art of caricature an opportunity such as had never come to it before and showed the power that caricature could wield upon a people.

At a levee of the king held on June 14, 1786, a very valuable diamond of unusual size and brilliancy was presented to George III., ostensibly as a gift from the nizam or native ruler of Deccan, India.

At the period when this magnificent peace offering was given to the king the impeachment of Warren Hastings was advancing in parliament, and it was current rumor that this and several lesser diamonds were the purchase price of Hastings' acquittal.

Caricatures appeared in the windows of the printshops. One represented Hastings wheeling the king to market in a barrow and saying, "What a man buys he may sell again." In another the king was exhibited kneeling, with his mouth open and Hastings throwing diamonds into it.

An Italian juggler then in London pretending to eat paving stones placarded the walls with bills describing himself as "The Greatest Stone Eater." Improving upon this, the caricaturists represented the king in the character of the Greatest Stone Eater.—Indianapolis News.

Value of White Oak.

The white oak has served for more useful purposes than perhaps any other tree, and its wood today is worth as much as mahogany. Furniture of "solid oak" is now a rarity, for the wood has become so expensive that it is used in the form of a veneer over baser woods. So used it loses none of its beauty, and even the thin veneer resists wear for an incredibly long time. This wood was a useful one to the early agriculturists as well as to those of the present day. It was durable when exposed to the elements and was also durable in contact with the soil. It was and is still used in fencing, and much of the second growth white oak timber in America is now being cut for railroad crossties.—Outing.

Story of a Bakeshop.

In Braunschweig, a quaint old German town, is pointed out the building—still used as a bakeshop—where Till Eulenspiegel, famous as a jester in the fourteenth century, worked as a boy. Many persons who have listened to the musical composition "Till Eulenspiegel's Merry Pranks," which enshrines his name, have never associated this with the merry baker boy of Braunschweig. He is credited with having made many little gingerbread owls and monkeys, which he gave away to children. The shop at 11 Backerlint still does a thriving business.

A Step Further.

Grandma was indulging in a few reminiscences.

"And we used to make hasty pudding," said she.

"We have instantaneous pudding nowadays, grandma. Comes in a can."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Suspicious.

"I don't like the way she spoke of the baby."

"Why, she said it looked like you."

The Clock of Death.

The clock at Hampton Court palace, London, derived its unpleasant title of "the clock of death" by reason of a superstition that whenever any one long resident in the palace dies the clock immediately stops. It is on record that when Anne of Denmark, the queen of James I., died the old timepiece was striking 4 and that it stopped almost before the last stroke sounded. Since that time it is said to have repeated this grisly proceeding each time a royal personage within its jurisdiction died.

At any rate, the clock has an interesting history quite aside from this. It was the first astronomical timepiece made in England, being constructed in 1540 for Henry VIII. Thirty-two years ago it was brought out of a shed wherein it had lain neglected for nearly half a century, and by order of the then secretary of the office of works it was re-erected in the courtyard opposite the entrance to the state apartments.—Pearson's.

England's First Savings Bank.

Writing of women's work and thrift, one is reminded that the first savings bank was instituted by a woman—Mrs. Priscilla Wakefield—who inaugurated a bank scheme for the encouragement of thrift among the children of Tottenham toward the end of the eighteenth century. This proved so successful that in 1804 she extended her plan of a charitable bank to include adults, and similar institutions were set up elsewhere, generally by ladies.

In 1808 Whitbread proposed a national savings bank, but parliament would have none of it. It was not until a Scotch minister, the Rev. Henry Duncan of Ruthwell, established one on a self supporting basis in his parish and set an example copied in almost every other district of Scotland that parliament at last recognized the savings bank as a national concern.—London Mirror.

Magna Charta.

One date, the 19th of June, 1215, will remain an ever memorable one to the people of the Anglo-Saxon race, as on that day Magna Charta was signed. The wickedness and tyranny of King John had raised nearly the whole body of his subjects in rebellion against him, and almost the sole support that he had was a band of foreign mercenaries. Appalled by the condition in which he found himself the king agreed to meet the army of the barons under their elected general, Fitzwalter, on Runnymede, by the Thames, near Windsor, in order to make terms with them. The barons prepared a charter assuring the rights and privileges of the various sections of the community, and this King John felt compelled to sign. Magna Charta is held to be the basis of British and also of American law and liberty.—Indian[illegible]

A Burning Glass In the Eye.

In the front part of each of our eyes is a convex lens of great power and clearness. It acts exactly like a burning glass. If a person was made to look at the sun, say, for half a minute, his eye would actually start to burn up. The lens would focus the rays of the sun on the retina, and that part of the eye would immediately scorch and later would burn to a crisp. This can happen, however, only when one looks at the sun directly or in a mirror. If one holds a pin between the sun and the eye and looks at the pin, although the sun is in a direct line with the eye and although its rays are entering the eye, the eye is not hurt, because the rays are not focused inside the eyeball. This is the wonderful property the lens has, that of focusing objects at different distances. The means by which it does this are its power to change its curvature.

Riding a Colt.

If a young colt is ridden or driven several miles over cobblestones or even over a pike or gravel road he may be stove up for life. A colt's legs and feet are filled with soft and tender bones, and his muscles and sinews are easily stretched and torn. Bones are not iron, and they easily crumble under strain and pressure, and tendons often pull loose from where they are grown to young bones, and they cannot be grown back again. It takes a colt of almost iron legs even at two years old to carry the lightest boy and run fast as far as a mile.

Always.

Time haunted her. She laughed at him, she resorted to a thousand devices whereby to discomfort him, but he was not to be shaken off. At length she lost her temper.

"Can't you see," she flared out reluctantly, "that there's no room for you where beauty dwells?"

"There is always," Time rejoined, touching his scythe significantly, "room for one mower!"—Puck.

VOL. XVI. SUNBEAM, PENNINGTON COUNTY, MINNESOTA, FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 17, 1916. NO. 36

THE LOCAL NEWS

The weather has been fair, but cold the past week.

Miss Lina Sand was a business caller at Sunbeam last Monday.

Mrs. T. G. Rome was a pleasant caller at the Wm. Swanson home on Sunday last.

Cash Waldron moved back onto his Hickory township farm last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Swanson visited with Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Hyland last Sunday.

Henry Arndt was called to Rochester, Minn., last week, by the news of the death of a brother, who lived at that place.

The Mr. Quirk and Mr, Cousin children have been attending catechism class at Rhoda this week.

There was rather a small attendance at the picture show, held in the Hyland school house last evening.

Mrs. Mike McNigh of Crookston is visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. Swanson, of Rhoda this week.

Henry Hyland made the round trip to Oklee Tuesday, after a load of kerosene for Eddie Hyland's threshing engine.

There is one advantage about threshing this year, which is that it does not take much help or sacks to take care of the grain.

Read the notice of public hearing published in another column, and go down and attend the meeting if possible.

Eddie Hyland and Ole Olson had another serious break down of their separator, on Monday, which caused them a two days lay off, and a big expense for repairs.

There will be a basket social at the Myrum school house in District No. 39, town of Mayfield, on November 29th, commencing at 8 o'clock P.M. A fine program will be given by the school children. All are invited to come, and spend a pleasant evening.

One of our school teachers has written a strong protest against the use their school house was put to on election day, which we publish in another column; which may cause school boards to give this matter of cleaning up school houses after an election is held in them a little more attention.

It appears that we did not get the correct returns on Representative last week, as Oscar T. Stenvick, of Bagley, was elected by a small majority, for which he can again thank Pennington county; and the Republican Committeeman, the smooth talking Andrew, who works the nationality racket to the limit in favor of Stenvick, while he was supposed to be campaigning for the Republican ticket. No wonder the ticket lost out in this county when the members were fighting each other on a non-partisan official.

The Red Lake River has risen about ten inches the past week, which must be caused by ditches and lakes being emptied into Red Lake. If there is no way provided to take care of this surplus water, there is no use for a large number of farmers to try to do any farming that live anywhere near this river next year above Highlanding, as they will again be drowned out the same as they were this year, as there are plenty of marshes and lakes to dump into Red Lake to keep the water at a continual flood stage in Red Lake River.

United States Engineer Office,
St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 30, 1916.
Notice of Public Hearing.

A PUBLIC HEARING will be held at nine o'clock, a. m., on Thursday, November 23, 1916, at the COMMERCIAL CLUB rooms Thief River Falls, Minn., in connection with the preliminary examination ordered by Congress in the river and harbor act of July 27, 1916, as follows:

> "Red Lake, Minnesota, and Red Lake River from its outlet at Red Lake to its junction with the Red River of the North at Grand Forks, North Dakota, with a view to devising plans for regulating works whereby the level of said lake and the flow of said stream may be controlled in the interest of navigation, and in making such examination and survey any proposition by local interests for participation in the expense of said project shall be taken into consideration."

All parties interested are invited to be present or to be represented at the hearing.

While for accuracy of record all important facts and arguments should be submitted in writing, oral evidence will be heard. If arguments are submitted in writing, it is requested that they be typewritten, and in quadruplicate.

Edward H. Schulz,
Lieut. Col., Corps of Engineers.

VOTERS, ATTENTION!

The morning following Election Day, is generally a morning of great disappointment to teachers and pupils of a number of schools.

Imagine a school room, which the evening before Election Day, had been left in perfect order, and the picture then contrast just a day later.

After opening the doors a brave attempt at breathing foul air, heavy with tobacco smoke, is made, until the ventilation is set in circulation. Then a moments hesitation to gaze on following havoc: All wood gone, every bit of the large, nice pile behind the stove; seats pulled in every direction; paper, filth and large tobacco blotches cover the floor; large posters, nailed with heavy nails over own humble paintings!

Will things appear in like manner when the women receive the ballot?

Should not officers in every township see that arrangements were made to put the school room in order after every election? If this was done there would be no uncomfortable feelings following an otherwise favorable Election Day.

Teacher in School District No. 39.

John Quirk made a business trip to St. Paul last week.

There will be a wedding dance at the residence of Eivend Oftelie, tomorrow night.

Lenard McAndress made a trip to Neptune yesterday, after a load of lumber.

Quite a number of the young folks of this vicinity attended the dance at Goodridge last Saturday, and report a fine time.

Mrs. Kate Wichterman and daughters Rebo and Alyce, left for [illegible] Thursday, where they will visit with friends and relatives.

Quite a number of the Deer Park school children, with their teacher, Miss Sarah Homme, had their pictures taken at the picture show last night in the Hyland school house, but we were unable to get a copy of it.

THE SAFETY HABIT

You know the Railroads are talking a good deal these days about the "Safety Habit." It is not a safety razor or a safety bicycle, It's safety for the lives intrusted to their care.

The principle applies to the banking business. Our bank employed the Safety Habit at the outset-safety to the depositors money intrusted to our care Every dollar left with us will be taken care of. Safety is our watch word. We would like to have your account on this basis.

A REMARKABLE STATEMENT

Mrs. Sheldon Spent $1900 for Treatment Without Benefit. Finally Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Englewood, Ill.—"While going through the Change of Life I suffered with headaches, nervousness, flashes of heat, and I suffered so much I did not know what I was doing at times. I spent $1900 on doctors and not one did me any good. One day a lady called at my house and said she had been as sick as I was at one time, and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made her well, so I took it and now I am just as well as I ever was. I cannot understand why women don't see how much pain and suffering they would escape by taking your medicine. I cannot praise it enough for it saved my life and kept me from the Insane Hospital."—Mrs. E. SHELDON, 5657 S. Halsted St., Englewood, Ill.

Physicians undoubtedly did their best, battled with this case steadily and could do no more, but often the most scientific treatment is surpassed by the medicinal properties of the good old fashioned roots and herbs contained in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If any complication exists it pays to write the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for special free advice.

"The Autumn-Dripping Gloom."

It is very well that we have named the season fall. It is the time when everything comes tumbling about our ears. We have never learned to adjust the work of the year so that its divisions might fall as equal burdens upon our shoulders. Through tradition, mismanagement or necessity, the women of the world have the entire rearrangement of their segment of it in the autumn.—New York Times.

Feel Achy All Over?

To ache all over in damp weather, or after taking a cold, isn't natural, and often indicates kidney weakness. Uric acid causes many queer aches, pains and disorders of the organs. Well kidneys keep uric acid down. Tired, dizzy, nervous people would do well to try Doan's Kidney Pills. They stimulate the kidneys to activity and so help clear the blood of irritating poisons.

A Minnesota Case

Mrs. Mary Ann Carter, 516 N. Front St., Crookston, Minn., says: "For a long time I had backache and kidney trouble. My back was lame and sore and I felt tired and drowsy. Often I had to lie down and rest. Doan's Kidney Pills brought me the first relief and continued use restored me to good health. I have no trouble from my back or kidneys now."

MINNESOTA'S GOVERNOR

J. A. A. Burnquist, Republican, was elected Governor of Minnesota over his Democratic opponent, Thomas L. Dwyer.

AMENDMENT NO. 1 ADOPTED

PROVIDES AID FOR SETTLERS ON STATE LANDS.

Eight Other Proposed Changes Are Apparently Beaten—Measure Provides for Revolving Fund.

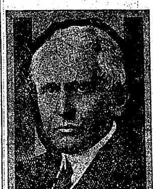
St. Paul, Nov. 11.—It looks as if Constitutional Amendment No. 1 has accomplished that well nigh impossible task of obtaining in its favor a majority vote of all those voting at the general election of last Tuesday. It looks also as if all other of the eight amendments proposed have been lost.

Amendment No. 1 is the constitutional change which aims to give the settler on state lands in Northern Minnesota a fair show to succeed. It would create a revolving fund of $250,000 to be used in clearing small portions of each piece of state land sold to the actual settler.

State to Clear Land.

Under the terms of the amendment the state would clear up a few acres of each 40, 80 or 160 acres sold to an actual settler. The state, in selling its lands, asks for but a small down payment, the remainder to be paid in installments extending over many years.

MINNESOTA'S NEW SENATOR



Frank B. Kellogg has been elected United States Senator from Minnesota. Incomplete returns give him a plurality of 55,061 votes.

KELLOGG CHOSEN SENATOR; BIG VOTE GIVEN BURNQUIST

REPUBLICAN STATE TICKET MAKES CLEAN SWEEP IN MINNESOTA—EXECUTIVE GIVEN TREMENDOUS MAJORITY.

RURAL DISTRICTS ARE STRONG FOR KELLOGG

Report Large Pluralities for Senator-elect—Lundeen and Schall Are Sent to Congress—Knutson and Volstead are Winners—Lawler Carries Ramsey County.

Minneapolis, Nov. 9.—Republican candidates swept Minnesota in the state election.

Governor J. A. A. Burnquist will be governor by right of election after Jan. 1.

Thos. Frankson, (rep.), defeated Julius Thorson, (dem.), for lieut. governor, Julius A. Schmahl was re-elected secretary of state, Henry Rines, state treasurer, Lyndon A. Smith, attorney general and Ira B. Mills, railroad and warehouse commissioner.

Schall Elected.

Ernest Lundeen, republican, and Thomas D. Schall, progressive, will represent Minneapolis in the lower house of congress for the next two years. In the fifth district, Mr. Lundeen will succeed Congressman G. R. Smith, whom he defeated in the primaries. Returns from 111 out of 123 precincts in the district gave the following vote:

Lundeen, 15,772; M. C. Bowler (dem.), 8,473; T. E. Latimer (socialist), 6,423; Arthur Marve (pro.), 5,610.

In the Minneapolis end of the tenth district, 40 precincts give the following vote:

L. E. Jepson (rep.), 4,054; Neil M. Cronin (dem.), 3,800; J. G. Soltis (socialist), 1,951; T. D. Schall (prog.), 5,484. Returns from outside counties in this district also favor Schall. In 67 precincts Schall has 7,470 to 5,115 for Jepson and 3,399 for Cronin.

Ten Congressmen Chosen.

Minnesota will send eight republicans, one progressive and one democrat to congress. Carl C. Van Dyke, democrat, in the St. Paul district, leads Dar F. Reese, republican, two to one, having 25,509 to 12,450 for Reese on the complete count. Harold Knutson, republican, is elected in the sixth district over W. F. Donohue, democrat, leading in Stearns county on early returns and carrying other counties by good margins.

Early returns from the seventh district show A. J. Volstead a safe winner over E. E. Lobeck, prohibitionist, who gave Volstead quite a scare. Forty-one precincts gave Volstead 1,974 to 1,446 for Lobeck.

Morrison, Norwood, in the Eighth district, it is unofficially reported, and E. C. Dean of Fairmont is victor over T. J. Knox, Jackson, in a sharp contest in the Seventeenth district, to succeed Judge James H. Quinn, elected to the supreme bench.

EXPECT SCHALL TO THROW HOUSE CONTROL TO G. O. P.

Minnesota Republicans Claim Progressive Congressman-elect Opposed Democratic Rule.

Minneapolis, Nov. 11.—That Congressman Thomas D. Schall, re-elected from the Tenth district of Minnesota on the Progressive ticket, will be able to throw the balance of power in Congress to the Republican party was the belief expressed by Republican leaders in the state when late returns showed that the rival parties are deadlocked with 215 votes each in the national House of Representatives.

The Republicans base this claim upon the well-known affiliation of Congressman Schall with the efforts of the Republican ticket, both state and national, in the general election just past, and his record in Congress, which has been aligned uniformly with Republican policies.

Uric Acid Poisoning?

The most eminent physicians recognize that uric acid stored up in the system is the cause of rheumatism, that this uric acid poison is present in the joints, muscles, or nerves. By experimenting and analysis at the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute in Buffalo, N. Y., Dr. Pierce discovered a combination of native remedies that he called Anuric—which drives out the uric acid from the system, and in this way the pain, swelling and inflammation subside. If you are a sufferer from rheumatism, backache, pains here or there, you can obtain Anuric at any drug store and get relief from the pains and ills brought about by uric acid; or send Dr. Pierce 10c for trial pkg. Anuric which you will find many times more potent than lithia and eliminates uric acid as hot water melts sugar. A short trial will convince you.

I was never very strong and after the birth of my little girl, about four years ago, I was in a very serious condition. I could scarcely move, I was in such a weakened state. I could not get out of my bed. I just thought I never would get well again. I began taking 'Favorite Prescription' and most heartily endorse its use."—MRS. EDNA McCLELLAN, 28 Thompson Ave.—Adv.

SWAMP-ROOT FOR KIDNEY DISEASES

There is only one medicine that really stands out pre-eminent as a remedy for diseases of the kidneys, liver and bladder.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root stands the highest for the reason that it has proven to be just the remedy needed in thousands upon thousands of even the most distressing cases. Like A Boy at 50 Bubbling Over With Vitality—Taking Iron Did It

Doctor says Nuxated Iron is greatest of all strength builders—Often increases the strength and endurance of delicate, nervous folks 200 per cent. in two weeks time.

NEW YORK, N. Y.—Not long ago a man came to me who was nearly half a century old and asked me to give him a preliminary examination for life insurance. I was astonished to find him with the blood pressure of a boy of 20 and as full of vigor, vim and vitality as a young man; in fact a young man he really was notwithstanding his age. The secret he said was taking iron—nuxated iron had filled him with renewed life. At 30 he was in bad health; at 46 careworn and nearly all in. Now at 50 a miracle of vitality and his face beaming with the buoyancy of youth. As I have said a hundred times over, iron is the greatest of all strength builders. If people would only throw away patent medicines and nauseous concoctions and take simple nuxated iron, I am convinced that the lives of thousands of persons might be saved, who now die every year from pneumonia, grippe, consumption, kidney, liver and heart trouble, etc. The real and true cause which started their diseases was nothing more nor less than a weakened condition brought on by lack of iron in the blood. Iron is absolutely necessary to enable your blood to change food into living tissue. Without it, no matter how much or what you eat, your food merely passes through you without doing you any good. You don't get the strength out of it and as a consequence you become weak, pale and sickly looking just like a plant trying to grow in a soil deficient in iron. If you are not strong or well you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of ordinary nuxated iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see for yourself how much you have gained. I have seen dozens of nervous, run-down people who were ailing all the while, double their strength and endurance and entirely get rid of all symptoms of dyspepsia, liver and other troubles in from ten to fourteen days' time simply by taking iron in the proper form. And this after they had in some cases been doctoring for months without obtaining any benefit. But don't take the old forms of reduced iron, iron acetate or tincture of iron simply to save a few cents. You must take iron in a form that can be easily absorbed and assimilated like nuxated iron if you want it to do you any good, otherwise it may prove worse than useless. Many an athlete or prize-fighter has won the day simply because he knew the secret of great strength and endurance and filled his blood with iron before he went into the affray, while many another has gone down to inglorious defeat simply for lack of iron.—E. Sauer, M. D.

NOTE.—Nuxated Iron, recommended above by Dr. Sauer is not a patent medicine nor secret remedy, but one which is well known to druggists and whose iron constituents are widely prescribed by eminent physicians everywhere. Unlike the older inorganic iron products, it is easily assimilated, does not injure the teeth, make them black, nor upset the stomach; on the contrary it is a most potent remedy in nearly all forms of indigestion, as well as for nervous, rundown conditions. The manufacturers have such great confidence in Nuxated Iron that they offer to forfeit $100.00 to any charitable institution if they cannot take any man or woman under 60 who lacks iron and increase their strength 200 per cent. or over in four weeks' time, provided they have no serious organic trouble. They also offer to refund your money if it does not at least double your strength and endurance in ten days' time. It is dispensed by most druggists. If your druggist or general store is without a supply, ask them to get it for you.—Adv.

The winnings of Western Canada at the Soil Products Exposition at Denver were easily made. The list comprised Wheat, Oats, Barley and Grasses, the most important being the prizes for Wheat and Oats and sweep stake on Alfalfa.

No less important than the splendid quality of Western Canada's wheat and other grains, is the excellence of the cattle fed and fattened on the grasses of that country. A recent shipment of cattle to Chicago topped the market in that city for quality and price.

Western Canada produced in 1915 one-third as much wheat as all of the United States, or over 300,000,000 bushels.

Canada in proportion to population has a greater exportable surplus of wheat this year than any country in the world, and at present prices you can figure out the revenue for the producer. In Western Canada you will find good markets, splendid schools, exceptional social conditions, perfect climate and other great attractions. There is no war tax on land and no conscription.

PRESIDENT WINS RE-ELECTION BY A MARGIN OF SIX ELECTORAL VOTES

CALIFORNIA, THE PIVOTAL STATE, FINALLY ADDS ITS QUOTA TO WILSON COLUMN GIVING TOTAL OF 272.

REPUBLICANS DECLINE TO CONCEDE ELECTION

Hughes Decides Not To Send Congratulations To Executive At Present Time—Recount May Be Asked In Close States, G. O. P. Managers Say.

New York, Nov. 11.—Woodrow Wilson has been re-elected president of the United States.

An unofficial check of estimated pluralities in the various states indicates he also may have received the nation's popular vote.

California was the pivotal state. Its 13 electoral votes, finally added to the Wilson column, gave him a total of 272, more than the necessary majority of 266 in the electoral college. To this may be added New Hampshire.

Apparently it is no longer a question of victory for Wilson, but a question of how large will be his electoral college lead.

Hughes Issues No Statement.

With the democrats over the nation planning to celebrate victory, the republican national committee still declines to concede Wilson's election.

Lawrence Green, secretary to Charles E. Hughes, said in response to questions by newspaper men that Mr. Hughes would not send congratulations to President Wilson today.

"Not yet," said Mr. Green.

Mr. Hughes himself declined to make any comment upon the election results. He arose about 8 a. m. and after reading the news went for an automobile ride. He apparently was in cheerful spirits.

Election Not Conceded.

Chairman W. B. Willcox, refusing to concede the election of President Wilson, said in a formal statement issued after a conference with other republican campaign managers that the result still depends on the vote of a few close states and that their returns thus far announced are in most states unofficial and may be changed by the official counts.

"The result still depends upon the votes in a few close states," Mr. Willcox's statement read. "It must be borne in mind that the returns thus far announced in most states are unofficial and may be changed by the official count required by the laws of those states. Twice during the unofficial competition yesterday in California mistakes in additions were announced from that state substantially changing figures previously given. It is common experience that the result of the official count almost always varies from the returns first announced.

May Demand Recount.

"Where the vote is as close as that reported in several states it may be that material changes will result from the official count. We owe it to the country to take all necessary steps to see that an exact, honest count of the votes is made. When the current seemed to be running against Mr. Wilson on Wednesday the democratic managers announced their intention to demand a recount in every close state.

"All we desire is to make sure that the vote is counted as cast."

Mr. Willcox added verbally that it was superhumanly impossible for the preliminary count to conform exactly with the official count.

"LET US FORGET IT"—WILSON

NATION IS NOW UNITED, PRESIDENT DECLARES.

Executive Issues No Statement Regarding Election While Visiting Daughter in Massachusetts.

Williamstown, Mass., Nov. 11.—In a speech here before several thousand persons who came from nearby towns to congratulate him on his re-election, President Wilson said:

"I want to say that now the campaign is over we must think of only one thing and that is not of parties, but of the interest of the great country we all love. Let us forget all our differences and unite for common service. Only in that way can we work for the great nation that has given us liberty and peace.

Politics Merely Ideas.

"Politics," he continued, "is after all a means of getting something done; of putting forward ideas. It is a fight, but the man who does not love the fight has no red blood in his veins."

The President's second speech of the day here was delivered before a crowd of men from North Adams, Pittsfield, and other towns, who came here by automobile, trolley and railroad trains and marched to the home of Francis B. Sayre, the President's son-in-law, where Mr. Wilson is staying. The delegation surrounded the house and cheered until the President appeared on the porch.

Mr. Wilson, after thanking the crowd for "this generous outpouring," said he had to come to Williamstown to avoid making public speeches.

"You will forgive me if I do not discuss public affairs," he added.

During the day the President was in communication with Democratic national headquarters regarding the progress of the counting of the ballots in the election. He made no statement, however. As the delegation began leaving, a man called out: "Three cheers for Baby Sayre," and they were given.

HUGHES IS WORN OUT BY TENSION OF LONG WAIT

Does Not Concede Election of Wilson No Definite Decision As to Recount.

New York, Nov. 11.—Worn out by the tension of waiting for the returns from doubtful states which would determine whether he had been elected to the presidency, Charles E. Hughes retired at 9 o'clock Friday night. He spent the day at his hotel except for a two-hour automobile ride with his wife this afternoon.

Mr. Hughes has not yet conceded the election of President Wilson and probably will not do so until the vote of close states has been officially counted.

George W. Perkins conferred with the Republican candidate. He stated that no definite decision had been reached by party managers in regard to demanding a recount in California, New Mexico and North Dakota.

Duluth, Nov. 11.—Up to November 1 coal shipments from Duluth were 22,900 tons more than receipts during the present navigation season. Last year the reverse was the case, the receipts being 463,100 more than the shipments up to November 1. November 1 coal stocks on the Duluth-Superior docks are 5,863,050 tons. Last year at this time the stocks were 6,690,705. Unless coal receipts increase during the present month, which is expected, coal users in the Northwest will face the winter 1,000,000 tons short.

Diet for the Lean.

Dr. Louis Henry Levy, in Pictorial Review says:

"Though the lean individual may be the more agile and vigorous, leanness is also associated with those of a nervous temperament. It is not always a desirable condition, since it prematurely ages the face by the early appearance of wrinkles. It is also the accompaniment of chronically diseased stomachs, resulting from a disturbed digestion and poor absorption of the digested foods.

"The foods which are best adapted for the lean are those that have been denied to the obese person—the starches, sugars, and fats, but sufficient care must be exercised to prevent disturbing an entirely good stomach. Let the lean one eat well of the rich foods and sever relations with the sour and spicy ones. Above all, let her cultivate a sunny, restful disposition, with a nervous system under steady control, for these are the trademarks of the robust and plump person."

Unfair Tax Laws.

The Farmers' League of North Dakota have elected a big majority of the members of the next Legislature, who favor the single tax system that is to exempt all improvements of lands from taxation, and tax all land alike. This is a law that should have been placed on the Minnesota Statutes years ago, and if it had been, this territory of eastern Pennington County would not have had the deserted appearance that it now has of the vacant lands. Speculators who homesteaded a large part of the eleven townships built shanties and broke up a few acres of land, and did some smooth swearing and proved up as actual residents. Instead of allowing their improvements to remain on the land and renting it to some neighbor who would farm it, they promptly removed all traces of civilization and allowed the land to go back into a wild state to avoid paying taxes. When the assessor starts out to make his rounds, he passed up all of these lands as wild and unimproved lands of not much value, licked his chops, and struck out for the nearest farm house that he could see, expecting to find fat picking. He takes out his pencil and says: "How many acres have you got broke? What is the size of your house and barn?" He then scratches his head, and says, "Well Mr. Jones you have got a valuable farm here, we will assess it at about twenty-four dollars per acre." He then says; "Who owns this farm north and south of you?" Those belong to Mr. Blank and Mr. Smith, who proved them up and moved away, answers Mr. Jones. Well says Mr. assessor, "We are assessing wild lands at about ten dollars an acre. Are there any improvements on these lands?" "No," answers Jones, "they tore down their shanties, and let their breaking go back to avoid paying taxes. I would have been glad to have rented some of this land to put into crop but they wanted it to go back into a wild state, so as to avoid the increased taxes by not allowing any improvements to remain on it.

If some of our members of the Legislature would study up the tax laws of Canada, and try to pass tax laws similiar to their's they would soon change the former homestead speculators lands of northern Minnesota from a wilderness to cultivated farms. Reverse your tax laws and instead of fining a man for making improvements and tilling his farm, fine the land owners who does not improve his land by assessing wild land higher than improved land.

Of course we can not expect much reform in this direction from our present member of the Lower House of the Legislature, who is on record as trying to increase taxes instead of lowering them; but a majority of the resident farmers of Pennington county walked up to the ballot box on November 7th, and voted to re-elect him in place of a man, who had promised us this reform in taxation, so we can continue to improve our farms and increase our taxes, while the speculator sits back and pays a light tax on his wild land and sees it increase in value every year from the improvements that we make on our farms.

Election is over and the American people will again settle down to business for nearly four years, when they will again hear the awful news that the country is going to be ruined if either a democrat, or a republican are elected for president.

When the European war closes and that three years supply of Russian wheat, that has accumulated in the Dardanelles is dumped onto an American Democratic free trade market, the farmers of North Dakota will get what they voted for November 7th.

President Wilson should not condemn the European war, but should say to those powers, "Thank you gentlemen for my re-election as President of the United States. Your foreign demand for wheat raised the price in the west, so I got their votes." But the American producer will get the blinds removed from his eyes, in about six months after the war closes.

The Republican party will have a majority in both houses of Congress after March 4th, and with a Democratic president, there are likely to be some warm fights over the tariff issue. The Republicans will not have majority enough to pass measures over a veto, but they will have strength enough to put it up to President Wilson to do some vetoing, then look out for the good old Grover Cleveland times.

The American people have spoken, and Woodrow Wilson is re-elected President for another four years. There will be no Mexican or Cuban Revolutions, as the defeated ones always go way back and sit down until they have another opportunity to vote. The next four years will decide whether the people chose the right man or not, but in the meantime he is President of this great nation, and should be respected as our President, by Republicans and Democrats alike.

The Socialist party, so far as the town of Highlanding goes, disappeared from off the face of the earth at the November 7th election. The Democratic Donkey gave one brey, and swallowed them body and breeches, not leaving even a grease spot to tell the tale. Not a bubble was left on the water where they sank. Their presidential candidate receiving a big 0, where once there was a strong Socialist organization. Carry the news to Debbs, that he went to jail to assist to elect a Democratic president in 1916.

While the present term of Governor Burnquist has only been considered as the finishing out of Governor Hammond's term, he will step into the governor's high honored position on January 1st, as the chosen governor of the people. He has not interfered with any of the appointive offices up to the present time, but after January 1st, we may expect to see some changes made, as to the victor belongs the spoils, is the well known rule of the Democratic party, in both state and nation.

A Giant Flag.

At the reunion of the Grand Army held in Washington in 1915 what is believed to be the largest flag in the world was carried in the parade by the delegation from Canton, O. It measured 133 feet in length by 80 feet in width. The stripes were over six feet wide, while the stars in the union measured five feet across from point to point. The weight of the flag was over half a ton, while 117 men were required to carry it along the line of march. More than 20,000 hands set the necessary stitches, while sewed into the stars are the names of over 16,000 patriotic men and women of Canton who contributed either money or labor to the construction of this giant emblem.—A. B. Neiss in St. Nicholas.

The Licorice Plant.

The licorice plant resembles a rose with a single green stem, reaches a height of about three feet and bears a small purple star shaped flower. The first year's root growth resembles a loosely twisted string of tow and may run to twenty feet in length. The second year it assumes a woody substance when dry, and the third year it acquires its commercial value. The time for digging the root is the winter, when it is dried and crushed under heavy stones drawn around on it by mules, much as olives are crushed to extract their oil.

The Retort Caustic.

THE SLEUTH'S DEDUCTION.

The great detective eyed his visitor thoughtfully.

"Yes, Mr. Blake," sobbed the grief-stricken woman, "many attempts—eight in all, I think—have been made on his life, but he was so strong and handsome that he foiled them all."

She buried her face in her hands, and her shoulders shook.

"You say your husband wears a green hat and long ginger side whiskers?" asked the detective gently.

"Y-y-yes, sir," stuttered the woeful one, wiping her eyes with her gloves.

Mr. Blake thought sadly of the man he had seen by the river bank only that afternoon and of the strange bundle the said man had borne. Then he bent gently toward the woman.

"I am sorry, madam, believe me," he said softly, "but it is too late. Your cat is dead!"

His Choice.

The boy stood in the crowded car.
He couldn't turn his neck.
He groaned before he traveled far,
"For me the burning deck."

Palo Alto.

The battle of Palo Alto, fought on May 8, 1846, on a Texas prairie about eight miles northeast of Matamoras, was the first important struggle in the war between the United States and Mexico. General Taylor, marching with less than 2,300 American troops from Point Isabel toward Fort Brown, encountered a Mexican army of about 6,000, commanded by General Arista. Shortly after noon the battle was opened by the Mexican artillery and cavalry. After fighting five hours the Mexicans gave way and retreated in great disorder, their losses being 102 killed, 127 wounded and many more missing. The Americans lost four killed and 127 wounded. During the battle Major Ringgold of the American flying artillery, which had much to do with winning the victory, was mortally wounded by a small cannon ball which passed through both of his thighs. He died four days later at Point Isabel.

MOSBY AND HIS MEN.

The Old Warrior's Attitude Toward Reunions After the War.

The late Colonel John S. Mosby differed from many military men in that instead of being pleased at being given a higher designation than he was properly entitled to the conferring of the higher title was extremely obnoxious to him," remarked Henry D. Rose of Norfolk.

"People who thought to please him by calling him general instead of finding favor invoked upon themselves the resentment of the old partisan chief. 'I never was a general, sir,' I heard him once say with great warmth to a young Virginian who thus addressed him. 'I am Colonel Mosby, and I never attained any higher rank than colonel, so please don't call me general.'

"As brave a spirit as ever lived, the old warrior was full of eccentricities. One of his peculiarities was his persistent declination to attend any of the reunions of Mosby's men. He probably gloried in the fact that these reunions were held, but no amount of persuasion could get him to be present.

"He used occasionally to indulge in a little grim humor regarding the number of those who attended the reunions. As the years went by naturally many of his old followers would cross to the great beyond, but curiously enough, according to the colonel's own statement, there seemed to be just as many of Mosby's men at these annual gatherings a generation after the war as ever he had enlisted in his command at the height of its numerical strength."—Washington Post.

WORLD'S LARGEST CLOCK.

Its Dial, Forty Feet Across, Carries a Twenty Foot Minute Hand.

The largest clock in the world is in the tower of the Colgate building, on the Jersey side of the river, writes the New York correspondent of the Pittsburgh Dispatch.

This clock, which is illuminated at night, can be seen by persons using any of the ferryboats leaving from the lower part of Manhattan and those plying between the New York and New Jersey shores. Staten Island dwellers coming to or leaving New York city and commuters from New Jersey points use it as their official timepiece and regulate their watches by it.

The clock was built at Waterbury, Conn., and so gigantic are its parts that it was necessary to bring the hands from the factory on a flat car and use a box car to transport the works. The minute hand is twenty feet long and weighs half a ton, and the hour hand is fifteen feet long.

The weights of this monster timepiece are more than a ton. The dial is forty feet in diameter, surpassing by thirteen feet six inches that of the second largest clock in the world, in the Metropolitan tower; it is fifteen feet greater than that of the clock in the tower of Philadelphia city hall, the third largest in the world, and it doubles "Big Ben," on top of the House of Parliament, London, which is perhaps the most widely known clock in the world.

LIKED BLACK VILLAINS.

Audiences In Shakespeare's Time Wanted No Neutral Knaves.

There has been a dreadful amount of lese majesty talked about "Richard III." recently. "It is to be feared," says the London Times, "that 'Richard III.' has seen his best days," and the Manchester Guardian says boldly that the play, with all its paraphernalia of villains and victims and ghosts and weeping queens, "is perhaps best enjoyed nowadays with laughter."

Not so did playgoers think in Shakespeare's time or for centuries later. For at least fifty years after it was written "Richard III." was probably the most popular of the Shakespearean plays. It was printed ten times in thirty-seven years—oftener than any other of the plays during a similar period of the early century.

Critics have wrangled long and loud over the problem, but there seems no getting away from the conclusion that the audience of King James' time preferred its villains black and thoroughly bad and entirely free from those ambiguous and neutral tints which are so perplexing in, say, "Macbeth."—London Observer.

The English class was explaining the meanings of certain well-known metaphorical expressions. As an instance, one pupil said that "It's an ill wind that blows no good" means that even apparently evil happenings some times are beneficial.

"And now, just in your own words," said the teacher to the bright boy of the class, "explain your idea, simply, of the meaning of the old adage, 'Money makes the mare go.'"

"Gasoline makes the flivver hop, was the reply.

U-BOAT BLOCKADE TO STARVE BRITAIN FEARED BY WILSON

MUST DECIDE HOW AMERICA SHALL MEET SUBMARINE QUESTION AND TRADE RESTRICTIONS.

UNDERSEA CAMPAIGN MAY INVOLVE UNITED STATES

Five Critical Cases Pending, One Involving Loss of Six American Lives, Two Others Involving American Ships, Add to Problems of Chief Executive.

Washington, Nov. 21.—A portentious and complicated international situation now is facing President Wilson and for the next few weeks will engage his attention and that of his advisers to the practical exclusion of all but the most urgent subjects. In the last days of the campaign, Secretary of State Lansing frequently spoke of the necessity of postponing action on the more delicate international questions because the uncertainty of the outcome of the political contest had a direct bearing on the success or failure of some of the administration policies.

From now on the President expects to deal with all foreign questions without embarrassment. Fear that any move at all would be misinterpreted as inspired by an internal political struggle has been removed.

Must Solve Big Problems.

The President must decide how the United States shall meet the German submarine question on the one hand and the Allied trade restrictions on the other; whether the retaliatory legislation shall be enforced, whether traditional theory of isolation shall be abandoned for concerted neutral action and whether the country shall have an aggressive or a passive policy toward the peace conference after the war and the permanent league to enforce peace which the President has accepted in theory. And, during the rest of the war shall America's attitude be governed by a decided benevolence in the interpretation of international law according to its own best interests or shall it be strictly legalistic regardless of whom it affects?

Five Submarine Cases.

Most disquieting of the problems is the submarine situation with Germany. Five critical cases are pending, one involving a loss of six American lives, two others involving American ships. Increasingly serious is the fast growing conviction that any kind of general submarine warfare, even if complying with the rules as to giving warning and affording some measure of safety to passengers, is intolerable.

Germany is known to be building submarines rapidly and there is the possibility of a starvation campaign against England. Its effects would concern all nations and the United States might find it difficult to avoid complications.

U. S. Attitude Flat and Final.

The American attitude is flat and final. Ships must not be sunk without warning or without provisions for the safety of the passengers. The armed ship issue undoubtedly will be advanced by Germany but will not be accepted. Secretary Lansing last March decreed that merchant vessels could carry a small defensive gun. If that endangers submarines that is part of their weakness.

The future of the submarine situation is felt to rest entirely with Germany. The possibilities are feared—either that Germany will decide that she can starve England by an undersea campaign, or that she may endeavor to involve this country and thus insure the participation in peace conferences of a generous enemy inclined toward just peace terms.

Lusitania Case Unsettled.

Beyond this the Lusitania case remains unsettled. Germany has admitted liability and offered indemnity, but the delicate matter of its amount has not been settled.

The ravages of the U-53 off New England were displeasing to the government but the incident was viewed as isolated. It was said that continuance of the practice would not be permitted as it would constitute a practical blockade of American harbors.

Gales Imperil British Shipping.

London, Nov. 20.—A renewal of the heavy gales which have visited the British coast recently, caused a heavy loss to shipping Saturday and Sunday. Four large outward bound steamers were compelled to return to Queenstown.

Claim Allies Are Beaten.

Berlin, Nov. 20.—Attacks of allied forces on the plains south of monastir, on the Macedonian front, were defeated with heavy losses it is announced officially. A height position near Chegel captured by the Serbians on Nov. 15 was retaken by German troops.

Efforts of Rumanians to hurl back the German troops in Rumania, northeast of Campulung were defeated, the war office announced, with heavy losses to the attackers. The Germans and Austrians made further gains in the Alt and Jiul valleys.

WOMAN SETS FLIGHT RECORD

FLIES 660 MILES IN BIPLANE WITHOUT DESCENDING.

Attempts Non-Stop Trip From Chicago to New York But Wind Uses Up Gasoline.

Binghamton, N. Y., Nov. 21. — Attempting a non-stop flight from Chicago to New York, Miss Ruth Law, guiding a Curtis biplane of the military scout type, shattered all American long distance aviation records for a single flight when she flew from Chicago to Hornell, N. Y., a distance by railroad of 660 miles, bettering by about 100 miles the record made by Victor Carlstrom, November 2.

A delayed start and a cross wind that cut down her speed and forced her to descend to replenish the gasoline supply were responsible for her failure to reach New York City, Miss Law said after her arrival at Binghamton at 4:20 p. m.

Average Speed of 100 Miles.

Miss Law covered a distance of about 785 miles in six hours and fifty minutes, time being deducted for the descent at Hornell.

At the outset of her flight a strong wind blew toward the east. Aided by this she made an average speed of 100 miles an hour at an altitude of about 6,000 feet. During the last 200 miles before the stop at Hornell, a sharp cross wind blew with the result that her gasoline tank was soon emptied. She glided two miles into Hornell at 2:07 p. m.

DEUTSCHLAND TO START TRIP BY END OF WEEK

Damages Caused When Submarine Sank Tug Will Be Repaired Within Few Days.

New London, Conn., Nov. 18.—An attempted dash to sea by the German merchant submarine Deutschland ended in a collision between the super-submersible and an escorting tug in which the tug was sunk and Captain Gurney and four members of her crew drowned.

The Deutschland, bound for Bremen, put back to port immediately after the collision and by 5 A. M. was again warped into her pier. She was once more shielded by the liner Willehad, her "mother ship," and the big steel net was swung into place further to guard her.

Work was immediately begun by a small army of workmen to learn the extent of the submersible's damages as a result of her second collision during the present trip. She smashed into a pier when she made her start from Bremen and was held up 10 days for repairs.

The collision occurred in the treacherous stretch of water between Fishers and Little Gull islands, known as the "race."

Traffic Supervisor for France.

Paris, Nov. 20. — The appointment has been officially announced of a director general of transports and importations for the whole of France, whose powers will cover everything connected with traffic whether by rail, river or sea. The first holder of the office will be M. Clovellle, state railway director, who at present is under secretary for munitions.

May Reveal Reasons For Blacklist.

New York, Nov. 18.—Some details regarding Great Britain's alleged reasons for establishing the blacklist are expected when the $50,000 damage suit of Leon P. Maintty against Philadelphia Neider goes to trial. Maintty, is on Britain's blacklist. He said Neider got him to ship 250 bags of "coffee" to Norway nine months ago by saying the Norwegian American line had refused to accept shipment. British searchers found the supposed coffee was about three-fourths rubber, Maintty declares.

Poll on Views of Food Embargo.

Columbus, Ohio, Nov. 20.—Members of the executive committee of the National Association of Master Bakers, decided at a meeting here, to take a poll of public sentiment on the question of an American food embargo. If the expression opposes the embargo, the bakers say they will adjust their prices to meet the increasing price in wheat. Another advance in the price of bread will be necessary, it was predicted by members of the committee before January 1.

HUBBY WAS NO ENTERTAINER

All Right Otherwise, but Fact That He "Had No Conversation" Caused the Separation.

Sweet and, though sophisticated, apparently not much more than seventeen, she was explaining quite loudly enough for all the car to hear why she had left her husband.

"He was a good provider, but he just sat around all evening and had no conversation."

"Why did you marry him?"

"His grandmother died, see, and he had no place to go, so he came to me and said, 'Say, if you want to get married, here's your chance, take me or leave me.' He was great and full of pep when out with the bunch, but in his own home he had no conversation."

"Are you sorry you had to leave him?"

"Well, I had lovely forniture, but life is not all furniture, and what is the use of the costliest carpets if your husband has no conversation?"

"Do you think you'll ever go back to him?"

"I'd go back tomorrow if he wouldn't sit behind a newspaper like a stuffed dummy in bedroom slippers."

The Prose Period Now.

"Here is a postal card from my husband," remarked Mrs. Dobson. "He's out of town, you know."

"What does he say?" asked Mrs. Dubwaite.

"'Am well. Home Tuesday.' Four words! And when that man was courting me he used to write me poetry by the yard."

Quite So.

NOT MUCH OF A SCANDAL

Inquisitive Neighbor's High Hopes of Juicy Morsel of Gossip Came to Nothing.

An inquisitive neighbor who has an inordinate fondness for gossip recently overheard the little daughter of an acquaintance talking about affairs in her home that seemed to have a spicy smack.

"What was that you said, Alberta?" she inquired.

"I was talking about papa and mamma."

"Yes—"

"And I said papa beat mamma up the other day."

"Did he, indeed?"

"Yes, he did."

"Well, what did he beat her with?"

"With an alarm clock."

"Ah, did your papa hit your mamma with the clock?"

"No, indeed, my papa never hits my mamma."

"Then what do you mean when you say he beat her up the other morning?"

"Mamma usually gets up first, but papa wanted to go fishing, and he set the clock so he could beat her up in the morning."

"Oh-h-h-h-h-h!"—Youngstown Telegram.

"Who are the central powers, pop?"

"They are the beings behind a voice, my son, who after you have sent in your call and waited for fifteen minutes by your watch, say languidly: 'What number did you say?'"

"How so?"

"It is both a light affair and a cereous matter."

Bees are proverbially busy, but some in a Pennsylvania town broke the record when a honeycomb of nine feet in length was discovered in a large hollow pine. TO PREVENT OLD AGE COMING TOO SOON!

"Toxic poisons in the blood are thrown out by the kidneys. The kidneys act as filters for such poisons. If we wish to prevent old age coming too soon and increase our chances for a long life, we should drink plenty of pure water and take a little Anuric," says the famous Dr. Pierce of Buffalo, N. Y.

When suffering from backache, frequent or scanty urine, rheumatic pains here or there, or that constant tired, worn-out feeling, the simple way to overcome these disorders is merely to obtain a little Anuric from your nearest druggist and you will quickly notice the grand results. You will find it thirty-seven times more potent than lithia, and that it dissolves uric acid as hot water does sugar.

Minnesota Women

St. Paul, Minn.—"I have taken many kinds of kidney medicine but I never found any relief until I took Dr. Pierce's Anuric Tablets, so I can truly recommend these tablets to all sufferers of kidney troubles. I think I am a well woman in regard to kidney trouble. Whoever is troubled with the kidneys should not hesitate to get these Anuric Tablets for they are worth their weight in gold."—MRS. W. LINDSEY, 227 Grove Street.

Minneapolis, Minn.—"A short time ago I became all run-down and weak, also was very nervous due principally to woman's trouble. At times was very miserable. I saw Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription advertised as being good for this condition. I got it at once and one bottle completely cured me so that I have not had any trouble since. I am in better health than I have ever been, due, I am sure, to this medicine. I can safely recommend it to others."—MISS JULIA CARROLL, 1312 4th Street N.—Adv.

And Father Pays Bills.

"How is Robert getting on at college?" asked the minister, who was being entertained at dinner.

"Splendidly," said the proud father, who then went on to tell of his son's various social, athletic and scholastic successes, and the minister said it was a fine thing to be college bred. That evening little James, who had been an interested listener, said: "Papa, what did Mr. Brown mean by college bred?"

"Oh, that," said papa, who had been looking over his son's bills, "is a four years' loaf."

Doctor Says Nuxated Iron Will Increase Strength of Delicate People 200% in Ten Days

In Many Instances—Persons Have Suffered Untold Agony for Years Doctoring for Nervous Weakness, Stomach, Liver or Kidney Disease or Some Other Ailment When Their Real Trouble Was Lack of Iron in the Blood—How to Tell.

NEW YORK, N. Y.—In a recent discourse Dr. E. Sauer, Specialist, of this city said: If you were to make an actual blood test on all people who are ill you would probably be greatly astonished at the exceedingly large number who lack iron and who are ill for no other reason than the lack of iron. The moment iron is supplied all their multitude of dangerous symptoms disappear. Without iron the blood at once loses the power to change food into living tissue and therefore nothing you eat does you any good; you don't get the strength out of it. Your food merely passes through your system like corn through a mill with the rollers so wide apart that the mill can't grind. As a result of this continuous blood and nerve starvation, people become generally weakened, nervous and all run down and frequently develop all sorts of conditions. One is too thin; another is burdened with unhealthy fat; some are so weak they can hardly walk; some think they have dyspepsia, kidney or liver trouble; some can't sleep at night, others are sleepy and tired all day; some fussy and irritable; some skinny and bloodless, but all lack physical power and endurance. In such cases, it is worse than foolishness to take stimulating medicines or narcotic drugs, which only whip up your fagging vital powers for the moment, maybe at the expense of your life later on. No matter what anyone tells you, if you are not strong and well you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of ordinary nuxated iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see for yourself how much you have gained. I have seen dozens of nervous, run-down people who were ailing all the time double, and even triple their strength and endurance and entirely get rid of their symptoms of dyspepsia, liver and other troubles in from ten to fourteen days' time simply by taking iron in the proper form, and this, after they had in some cases been doctoring for months without obtaining any benefit. You can talk as you please about all the wonders wrought by new remedies, but when you come down to hard facts there is nothing like good old iron to put color in your cheeks and good sound, healthy flesh on your bones. It is also a great nerve and stomach strengthener and the best blood builder in the world. The only trouble was that the old forms of inorganic iron like tincture of iron, iron acetate, etc., often ruined people's teeth, upset their stomachs and were not assimilated and for these reasons they frequently did more harm than good. But with the discovery of the newer forms of organic iron all this has been overcome. Nuxated Iron, for example, is pleasant to take, does not injure the teeth and is almost immediately beneficial.

NOTE—The manufacturers of Nuxated Iron have such unbounded confidence in its potency that they authorize the announcement that they will forfeit $100.00 to any Charitable Institution if they cannot take any man or woman under sixty who lacks iron and increase their strength 200 per cent or over in four weeks' time, provided they have no serious organic trouble. Also they will refund your money in any case in which Nuxated Iron does not at least double your strength in ten days' time. It is dispensed by most druggists. If your druggist or general store is without a supply, ask them to get it for you.—Adv.

AMENDMENT NO. 1 ADOPTED

PROVIDES AID FOR SETTLERS ON STATE LANDS.

Eight Other Proposed Changes Are Apparently Beaten—Measure Provides for Revolving Fund.

St. Paul, Nov. 11.—It looks as if Constitutional Amendment No. 1 has accomplished that well nigh impossible task of obtaining in its favor a majority vote of all those voting at the general election of last Tuesday. It looks also as if all other of the eight amendments proposed have been lost.

Amendment No. 1 is the constitutional change which aims to give the settler on state lands in Northern Minnesota a fair show to succeed. It would create a revolving fund of $250,000 to be used in clearing small portions of each piece of state land sold to the actual settler.

State to Clear Land.

Under the terms of the amendment the state would clear up a few acres of each 40, 80 or 160 acres sold to an actual settler. The state, in selling its lands, asks for but a small down payment, the remainder to be paid in installments extending over many years.

NORMAL SCHOOL BOARD IS DOOMED BY COMMISSION

Bill for Next Minnesota Legislature Would Divorce Grain Inspection From Rail Body.

St. Paul, Nov. 15.—Bills for the next legislature to divorce the state grain inspection from the railroad and warehouse commission, to create one state board of education to replace the normal and various other state school boards, and to extend the newly established budget system to various state departments, institutions and boards, have been recommended and ordered drawn by the state efficiency and economy commission.

While the commission was adopting a plan to wipe out of existence the state normal school board, that body was meeting in an adjoining room to make up the normal school budget for the next legislature.

Separation of the grain inspection from the railroad and warehouse commission was a subject at previous meetings and its discussion yesterday was brief.

Quinn Outdistances Anderson by 5,000 Votes in Race for Supreme Court Justice.

St. Paul, Nov. 11.—In the race for United States senator, 2,384 precincts have been heard from. They give Kellogg 153,442; Lawler, 95,398; Calderwood, 53,182.

On supreme court justice, 1,829 precincts give Anderson 83,477; Quinn, 88,099.

On governor, 2,297 precincts give Burnquist 193,414; Dwyer, 75,119.

On lieutenant-governor, 1,025 precincts give Frankson 74,390; Thorson, 34,976.

On railroad and warehouse commissioner, 1,239 precincts give Mills 69,562; Hedin, 31,750.

QUINN ELECTED TO HIGH COURT; SUCCESSOR NAMED

Fairmont Jurist Elevated—Minnesota to Have Two New District Judges as Result of Election.

St. Paul, Nov. 11.—Minnesota will have two new district judges as a result of Tuesday's election, according to reports at the state capitol. C. M. Tifft of Glencoe has defeated Judge P. W. Morrison, Norwood, in the Eighth district, it is unofficially reported, and E. C. Dean of Fairmont is victor over T. J. Knox, Jackson, in a sharp contest in the Seventeenth district, to succeed Judge James H. Quinn, elected to the supreme bench.

British Seize U. S. Mail.

Manila, Nov. 15.—The British steamer Taming reports that the British cruiser Cornwall confiscated four sacks of the Manila mail after an examination at Hong Kong.

Norway's Stand Worries Germany.

London, Nov. 15.—Political circles in Berlin are pessimistic regarding relations with Norway, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Amsterdam. It is said the Norwegian reply to Germany's note on the submarine question is unsatisfactory on all points of principle and it is believed Germany will make another attempt to impress upon Norway the consequences of insisting upon her present policy, which is unfavorable to German submarines.

Wife Dies Last; Heirs Get Fortune.

Denison, Iowa, Nov. 15. — August Meyer of Lakeview, Iowa, died before his wife, although they were both killed in a railroad wreck at Gothenburg, Neb., in March, 1918, according to a decision in district court here. Upon the decision depended the distribution of their $250,000 estate. From the evidence the court held that the woman was taken from the wreck alive, although she died shortly afterward.

OF INTEREST TO MOTHERS

The cost of food today is a serious matter to all of you. To cut down your food bills and at the same time improve the health of your family, serve them Skinner's Macaroni and Spaghetti two or three times per week. Children love it and thrive on it. It is the best possible food for adults. Write the Skinner Mfg. Co., Omaha, Nebr., for beautiful cook book telling how to serve it in a hundred ways. It's free to every mother.—Adv.

Home-Ground Flour and Cereals.

Grinding wheat to make flour may be done at home as easily as the grinding of coffee. And thus a family may have whole wheat flour, freshly ground, a thing that is usually difficult to obtain. The New York Medical Journal advises its readers to buy their wheat from seedsmen rather than from grocers or feed stores because it willl be cheaper and more efficient.

The grinder can be used also for cracking wheat, corn, barley, oats, rye and other grains for use as breakfast cereals. And the cereals will need chewing, which will not only strengthen the muscles of the chewers' jaws, but will keep their teeth from decay, that is if they begin as children.

Homemade cereals need long cooking, so a fireless cooker is almost indispensable.

Anuric cures Backache, Lumbago, Rheumatism. Send 10c. Dr. V. M. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for large trial package.—Adv.

These Jobs Are Healthy.

Breweries and tanneries and printing-ink factories confer an exemption from tuberculosis, and employees in turpentine factories never have rheumatism. Copper mining excludes the possibility of typhoid among the workers. Shepherds enjoy remarkable health. Men and women working in lavender, whether gathering or distilling it, are said never to suffer from neuralgia or nervous headache.

Lavender, moreover, is as good as a sea voyage for giving tone to the system. Persons suffering from nervous breakdown frequently give their services gratis to lavender planters in order that they may build up their vitality. Salt miners can wear summer clothes in blizzard weather without fear of catching cold, for colds are unknown among these workers.

His Advice.

"I want some advice," said the young matron as she seated herself in the elderly lawyer's office.

"Well, madam," he asked, courteously, "what is the trouble?"

"My husband has lied to me."

"How so?"

"He told me," she sobbed, "he was working overtime at the office and gave me the ten dollars he made—and this morning I found a poker chip in his pocket. I want your advice on what I ought to do about it."

"Well, my advice," said the lawyer, "is to tell your husband if he will persist in putting his chips in his pocket, to be sure that he cashes them all."—Exchange.

A Cat and a Town.

A dog treed a cat upon an electric light pole between Lexington and Mount Sterling and made a cross circuit which plunged Mount Sterling into total darkness. The old-time oil lamp was in some ways undesirable, but one cat could not put out every lamp in town.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

The Result.

"He always was a pushing sort of fellow."

Quite Evident.

"Get a move on you, there! I want a polish."

"You don't have to tell it."

"I DON'T SUFFER ANY MORE"

"Feel Like a New Person," says Mrs. Hamilton.

New Castle, Ind.—"From the time I was eleven years old until I was seventeen I suffered each month so I had to be in bed. I had headache, backache and such pains I would cramp double every month. I did not know what it was to be easy a minute. My health was all run down and the doctors did not do me any good. A neighbor told my mother about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I took it, and now I feel like a new person. I don't suffer any more and I am regular every month."—Mrs. HAZEL HAMILTON, 822 South 15th St.

When a remedy has lived for forty years, steadily growing in popularity and influence, and thousands upon thousands of women declare they owe their health to it, is it not reasonable to believe that it is an article of great merit?

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

"I say, Major, what's good for a cold beside whisky?" "That's easy, dear boy. Most anything is better for a cold than whisky, or any other alcoholic stimulant, but the very best thing possible for a cold or bronchitis is that old well known remedy our fathers used to use

Grocery Humors.

Almost every station in life has its amusing side, and the shopkeeper has his share of fun. Probably few people think what a menagerie a grocer stocks. He sells "Monkey" soap, "Donkey" stone, "Tiger" matches, "Zebra" blacklead, "Robin" starch. An invoice, then, may contain the following:

Zebra 1d., Monkey 4d., Donkey 2d., Tigers 7½d., Robin 6d,; but the climax is reached when two items on a bill are, "1 Family Ass" and "Essence of Rats." These are nothing to be afraid of, meaning only 1 lb. of "Family Assorted" biscuits and one bottle of essence of Ratafia.—London Mail.

Of the late Sir Joseph Beecham the obituary notices say that he rose from a farmer's boy to become a knight and a baronet and the third richest man in England by manufacturing pills. Prevalency of Kidney Disease.

While kidney disorders are among the most common diseases that prevail, they are sometimes the last recognized by patients, who very often content themselves with doctoring the effects, while the original disease may constantly undermine the system.

"THANKS" FOR THE COUNTRY EDITOR.

We have just tossed into the waste basket a fulsome effusion signed by the publicity director of the Republican State Central Committee in which we are assured that the thanks of the Republican State Central committee are ours as a reward for the splendid work done by this great family journal in behalf of the Republican ticket, national and state. Meanwhile we note that in every daily Republican paper in the state full page advertisements presenting the merits of the candidates for president appeared with suitable notations saying that the same was to be paid for by Geo. Batten & Co., at a price of so many hundred dollars each. Isn't it about time for the country editor to wake up to the fact that he is used each campaign as an easy mark. Yea, verily, the country editor is some goat.—Wadena Pioneer Journal.

The Democratic press are making all kinds of hurrahs about the independence of the west, in voting for Wilson. But it was not their independence, but the price of wheat that turned North Dakota into the Democratic column. As soon as that European war closes and they find that their wheat prices are governed by a free trade market, instead of a war demand, they will cuss the day that they voted a Democratic ticket.

We suppose there will be a great deal of Democratic talk about civil service and non-partisan appointments for positions under the governor of this state, but there will be a silence that can be felt on this subject, when it comes to the appointment to any government office, the politics of the applicant is the first point that is considered; and none but a died in the wool Democrat need apply.

The past election fully demonstrate the fact that a non-partisan candidate for county office can get the votes of the common people by making them a personal visit; especially if he has been unfortunate enough to have become a cripple; as that is sufficient qualifications for the position he seeks; to get the vote of the average voter.

We doubt if there is a Congressman in the United States that came as near to being elected unanomously as Congressman Steenerson; a record that any Congressman should feel proud of, after ten years service. Halvor is one man that went to Congress, and never drifted away from the people.

The Democratic press are naturally jubilant over their victory for President Wilson. But they will quit bragging about how they saved the country in about six months after the close of that European war.

President Wilson certainly ran ahead of the Democratic ticket in this state, getting about ninety thousand more votes than the Democratic candidate for governor.

The Democratic National Committee overdrew their election account so bad, that they are obliged to call for contritutions o make up the deficiency.

TO OUR SUBSCRIBERS.

Owing to the floods last year, we did not urge our subscription collections last fall, hoping that this would be a better and more prosperous year for the farmers. But instead of it being better, it is worse than worst. Now we are placed in the position of being compelled to straighten up our books by a ruling of the post office department.

We do not wish to offend or loose our subscribers, and yet we must do something to straighten up our books; for remember that THE SUNBEAM has been published under its present management for over fifteen years.

Now we make this proposition: To any subscriber who is behind for more than two years, we will take his plain promissory note, due in the future, and those who are able to pay this fall, we would thank them to remit on receipt of their bill, as we must get our books straightened up before the beginning of the new year.

Watch With Three Cases.

One repeater watch that strikes the hours automatically was made by the Englishman, Thomas Mudge, about 1765, upon order from Ferdinand VI. of Spain, who always listened to a song by his favorite court singer, Farinelli, before he undertook serious state business, and who finally became insane after the death of his consort, Barbara, daughter of John V. of Portugal.

Like many watches of the time this was made with three cases, so that the owner might use the same timepiece for many occasions by taking off case after case. The outer case of this watch was made of snakeskin ornamented with gold.

It was believed that the owner wore this outer case when he rode in the chase or went to battle, so that the works and inner cases might be protected from chance blows. In ordinary life around the castle he would wear the second case of simple gold, while on state occasions he would strip the cases down to the last, since it was jeweled and highly ornate.—New York Times.

Children and Baby Talk.

Do you encourage baby talk in your children? If you do you are making a great mistake, according to V. M. Hillyer, the well known educator. Here is what Mr. Hillyer has to say on the subject in his book, "Child Training:"

"The mispronunciation of words, due to inability to articulate or more usually to incorrect hearing, may be amusing and delightful on account of its simple naivete, but it should be corrected and, above all, should not be imitated by the parent or teacher. 'Oo' and 'ittle' may be cunning in a three-year-old, but it is silly for a grownup to use such expressions in addressing the three-year-old, like talking 'pigeon' English to a Chinaman, but what is worse, it gives an incorrect model for the child and thus prolongs the time he will take to speak correctly. Precision in the pronunciation of one's native tongue is always delightful at any age and an earmark of the well bred."

Loyalists in the Revolution.

John Adams estimated that one-third of all the people in the colonies were Loyalists—that is, opposed to the war with England. A minority of these favored obedience to the English laws, but the great majority opposed the English methods with the colonies but wanted a peaceable settlement. War drove the Loyalists to armed resistance, and in New York state alone more than 20,000 colonists took up arms for the British. Out of a total population of less than 4,000,000 more than 60,000 Loyalists left the colonies during the revolutionary period because of their political position.

The Cat and the Tail.

Once upon a time a cat who prided herself on her wit and wisdom was prowling about the barn in search of food and saw a tail protruding from a hole.

"There is the conclusion of a rat," she said.

Then she crept stealthily toward it until within striking distance, when she made a jump and reached it with her claws. Alas, it was not the appendage of a rat, but the tail of a snake, who immediately turned and gave her a mortal bite.

Moral.—It is dangerous to jump at conclusions.

A Remarkable Man.

John Ziska, the great Hussite leader of the fifteenth century, was one of the most remarkable men that ever lived. His life story reads like a romance. Nothing in history is more interesting, more thrilling, than the account of his heroic deeds. Though blind and always greatly outnumbered, Ziska invariably beat his enemies and established for himself a fame that will last forever. He was never beaten in a battle. His very name was a terror to his enemies. He died in 1424, while besieging Przibislaw, at the age of sixty-four.

Grapes and Wine.

Most people think white grapes make white wine and dark grapes make red wine. It is a popular error. Red wine is made by fermenting grape juice and grape skins together, and white wine is made by fermenting grape juice alone.

LUCKY GREENSTONE.

It Is Found Only In a Wonderful Mine In South Africa.

Situated in the beautiful Kaap valley, in the Jamestown district of Barberton, Transvaal, there is a mine known by the name of Verdite. The name was given to it on account of the peculiar green stone found in the mine, which is unknown in any other part of the globe. Articles of jewelry and ornaments are made of verdite, and it has been called the lucky greenstone of South Africa.

The greenstone is a silicate of magnesia, or talc, colored green by nature in the course of its formation. Other silicates of magnesia may be mentioned here, peridot, serpentine, meerschaum and steatite. The mine, or rather hill, consists of three varieties of talc—green, white and black.

But a peculiar fact is that in the black talc there is present pure gold. Some of the finest specimens of gold bearing rock have been found at this mine. Every one knows that gold is found in quartz, pyrites, or even sea water, but scarcely ever has it been mentioned in books that gold exists in talc.

When the verdite rock has gone through the ordinary process of crushing and the gold has been extracted the waste (or what is called the slimes of a gold mine) is used in the manufacture of soap, grease, paint, paper, toilet powders, gas jets, electric insulators, crayons and many other articles of everyday use.

In fact, one might say that everything got from this mine can be used for some commercial purpose.—Chambers' Journal.

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Meltzer on Infantile Paralysis.

Dr. S. J. Meltzer of the Rockefeller institute in a recent address in New York before a body of physicians recommended as a possible cure for infantile paralysis the use of intraspinal injections of adrenalin. He said:

"On the basis of experiments conducted by our researchers I would advocate the treatment of all cases of infantile paralysis by intraspinal injections of a solution of adrenalin. Clinical experiments conducted at the institute by Dr. Clark and myself on monkeys artificially infected with infantile paralysis have produced encouraging results."

Anecdotes of Richter.

Mme. X. was singing at a rehearsal and was decidedly out of tune. Dr. Richter stood it as long as he could, then turned to her. "Madame," he said, "will you kindly give the orchestra your A?"

At another rehearsal one of the instrumentalists made a mistake. "No," said Dr. Richter; "it goes so (humming)—rum-tum-tarum!" The same player made another mistake. "No, no—rum-tum-tarum!" At the third mistake Dr. Richter momentarily lost patience and cried, "Why do you make so many mistakes, Mr. ——?" Then quickly recovering his habitual good humor, "Ah, I know why it is—you like to hear me sing!"—Manchester Guardian.

Why He Was on Time.

Beranger was one day complimented by a lady on the punctuality with which he kept his engagements. "It is a pleasure," said she, "to invite you to dinner, for you never make us wait."

"I am no longer young, madam," replied the poet, "and experience has taught me one thing—it is dangerous not to arrive at the precise hour, for the guests who are waiting for you will pass the time in discussing your faults."

THE LOCAL NEWS

Mrs. Sam Swanson and children left for St. Hilaire this week, where they will visit relatives.

Miss Ella and Marie Causin, who are attending High School at Thief River Falls, spent their Thanksgiving vacation with their parents, Mr. and Wm. Causin.

Automobile accidents are getting too numerous lately, and it seems to us that it is getting to be about time for some of the drivers to practice a little more safety first, and less speed.

Lars Hyland met with a serious accident at Highlanding on last Sunday afternoon, by being thrown from a broncho, his lower jaw being fractured in three places, and one of his ears being partly torn off. He was taken down to the Thief River Falls Hospital, and at last accounts was on the way to recovery.

The Conductor on the east bound Great Northern Evening passenger train out of Crookston, certainly served a train load of passengers a dirty trick on last Friday evening, when he informed them that his trian that was about 2 hours late, would reach Erskine in time to connect with the Soo train going North, when he knew better; thus leaving a whole train load of passengers at a small way station for 8 hours where there was not room even to sit down.

News were received here last night, that Joseph DuChainp, hotel keeper at Mavie was instantly killed in an automobile accident on Wednesday afternoon. We did not learn any further particulars. Mr. DuChainp was one of the pioneer residents of Pennington County and has been an active worker for the advancement of this locality, and his death comes as a shock to his friends. We extend our heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved family.

That the liquor laws are being violated in this locality there is no question of doubt. But the trouble seems to be that those who would prosecute can not obtain the evidence. However if present conditions, which have become a public nuisance, are not discontinued, the peddlers of "tangle foot" will be arrested, and plenty of evidence produced to prosecute them to the full extent of the law, as this "blind pigging" has gone far enough to nearly cause the loss of one life.

There has been a meeting of the farmers of eastern Pennington county called to hold a clover and cow convention at Goodridge on Saturday December 16, Professor J. H. Hay, is assisting to get up the program and it is his desire to have as many actual farmers present as possible who have made a success of clover and cows, and have them tell their actual experience, for the benefit of others, instead of having the time taken up by big fellows from the colleges, who get their knowledge from books, instead of from farm experience.

Where the Water Was.

"Look here," exclaimed the new tenant indignantly. "You advertised this place as being near the water. I've looked in every direction and I don't see any water."

"You haven't looked in the cellar yet," reminded the agent.—St. Louis Post Dispatch.

The Finish.

He went through school when quite a boy,
And then he went through college.
He then went through a business course
In search of worldly knowledge.

He went through law school with a rush,
He went through all that follows,
And now we learn he's just gone through
Some sixty thousand dollars.

It has been estimated that a million persons assembled in a crowd, with due allowance of three square feet a person, would cover an area of about seventy acres.

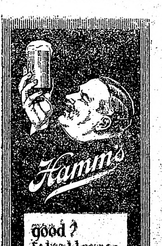
Surprising the Bullock.

In times of crisis and worry a kind word has been known to have surprisingly good results. The unexpectedness of such a word is perhaps the secret of its force. A book, "On the Wool Track," backs the moral with an anecdote.

A team was working on the Broken Hill road, and a bullock—the Beelzebub of the team—had gone obstinate, and the coach was passing. The whip was swinging, and some apt remarks were just forming on the back of the teamster's tongue when he caught sight of a clerical hat on the front seat and just in time thought better of it. He coughed politely.

"Ahem—Strawberry," he said, "proceed!"

To his obvious astonishment Strawberry proceeded.



AGED EMPEROR OF AUSTRIA DEAD AT CASTLE IN VIENNA

FRANCIS JOSEPH SUCCUMBS TO APOPLEXY AFTER SEVERAL ATTACKS IN FEW WEEKS UNDERMINE STRENGTH.

HEIR APPARENT AND WIFE NEAR WHEN DEATH COMES

Archduke Charles Francis in Constant Attendance Upon Monarch for Several Weeks—New Emperor in Command of Austrian Armies on Various Fronts.

Vienna, Nov. 23.—Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria-Hungary is dead after an illness of several months' duration. The aged monarch succumbed to apoplexy after several attacks of the malady in the past couple of weeks had undermined his strength.

The heir apparent, Archduke Charles Francis, and his wife, the Archduchess Zita, were at the emperor's bedside in Schoonbrunn castle when death came. The archduke has been in constant attendance upon the emperor for several weeks, and steps were being taken to make the archduke a co-regent of the empire.

Death Had Been Expected.

Death had been expected for several days, and the army and police authorities in Vienna and throughout the empire had been warned to take all precautions to prevent troubles of any kind.

No plans for the funeral have been announced, but it is generally believed that the body will lie in state in the royal palace for several days, and that the funeral will be quiet and without much public ceremony, owing to the war.

Archduke Charles Francis, grandnephew of the late emperor, and now emperor of Austria, became heir-apparent to the Austria-Hungarian throne by the assassination of Archduke Francis Ferdinand prior to the outbreak of the war. He has been in command of the Austrian armies on various fronts during the past two years.

The new emperor was born August 17, 1887. His wife was Princess Zita of the Bourbon house of Parma. His father was Archduke Otto, younger brother of Francis Ferdinand.

Francis Joseph Crowned in 1848.

Francis Joseph was crowned emperor in 1848, following the abdication of his uncle, Emperor Ferdinand. Although only a boy of 18, Francis Joseph showed a severity in dealing with participants of the Kossuth insurrection that stamped him as lacking mercy. It is reported that he condemned to death the son of a woman who appeared before the monarch and asked for mercy.

Almost from the beginning of his reign, the monarch seemed marked for sorrow. Assassinations and suicides have taken from him those who were most dear. Only the emperor himself seemed immune.

When all Austria was preparing to celebrate the fiftieth year of his reign, word was brought to him that his wife had been assassinated. The empress had been stabbed by an Italian while she was traveling in Switzerland.

Brothers Die Tragic Deaths.

Later, Crown Prince Rudolph and Baroness Mary Vetsera were found dead in a hunting lodge. She had been his guest. A revolver was found in the dead man's hand, but no explanation of the incident was given to the public. Both of his brothers died tragic deaths. Maxmilian was shot by Mexicans, over whom he sought to rule, and John renounced his rank to marry an actress. He sailed to South America and the ship was never reported again.

Fate tried and failed to also end the life of Francis Joseph in an assassination. In 1853 Joseph Libeny wounded the emperor severely by a knife thrust between the shoulders. But the monarch was young and the blow was not fatal.

LATE EMPEROR'S REIGN IS LONGEST IN HISTORY

Emperor Francis Joseph reigned longer as a man than any ruler in history. Ascending to the throne of Austria when he was 18, he reigned continuously for 68 years. Other rulers have had longer terms of service, but none of them as long in actual power. One of the Pharaohs is credited with 99 years and Louis XIV reigned 72 years. Each, however, took his throne when he was a child.

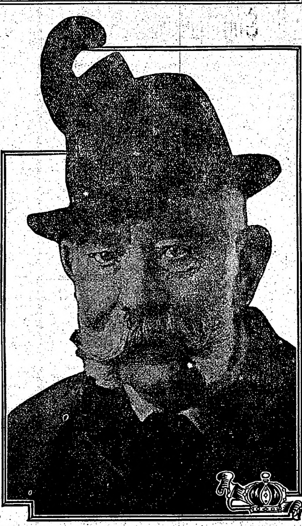
$600,000 Paid Guards' Families.

Washington, Nov. 23.—The war department up to date has spent $600,000 of the $2,000,000 appropriated by congress to aid the families of national guard troops stationed on the border. Aid is being extended to 12,000 families and applications for aid are being received at depot quartermasters at the rate of 100 a day. While the law authorizes the secretary of war to pay $50 a month for the relief of families of guardsmen the average has been about $25. At the present rate the entire fund would be depleted Jan. 15.

LATE EMPEROR OF AUSTRIA-HUNGARY



FRANCIS JOSEPH'S BODY TO LIE IN STATE TWO DAYS

Burial of Late Emperor of Austria Will Take Place One Day Next Week.

Vienna, Nov. 23.—Arrangements for the burial of the late emperor Francis Joseph have not yet been made, but the body will be interred in the Capuchin mausoleum next week, probably on Thursday.

On Monday the body will be removed from Schoenbrunn castle to Hofburg chapel, where it will lie in state on Tuesday and Wednesday.

With Emperor Francis Joseph passes the world's oldest monarch, a man whose life was one continuous tragedy, which was to end in the greatest tragedy of all time—the present war.

Francis Joseph was really beloved by his people, who comprised half a score of races. They found in him the cement which held together the state structure of Austro-Hungary.

The heir apparent, Archduke Karl Franz Joseph, has assumed the guidance of state affairs automatically. It is not likely that festivities of any kind will usher in his reign, certainly not during the war.

NEW EMPEROR OF AUSTRIA

TWO AMENDMENTS CARRIED

First and Second Indorsed by Voters, Schmahl Announces.

St. Paul, Nov. 23. — Julius A. Schmahl, secretary of state, has announced that only the first and second amendments carried in the recent election. They provide, respectively, for the use of state funds to improve certain state lands in advance of settlement, and for farm loans under certain restrictions.

NEW EMPEROR VERY POPULAR

CHARLES FRANCIS COMMANDS AUSTRIAN ARMIES.

Wife Is Daughter of the Late Duke of Parma—Distaste for Imperial Red Tape.

Vienna, Nov. 23.—Archduke Charles Francis Joseph, grandnephew of Emperor Francis Joseph, to whose throne he now succeeds, became heir to the throne of Austria-Hungary by the assassination of Archduke Francis Ferdinand prior to the outbreak of the war. Charles Francis has been in command of the Austrian armies on various fronts during the last two years.

Archduke Charles Francis Joseph was born Aug. 17, 1887. His wife was Princess Zita of the Bourbon house of Parma. His father was the Archduke Otto, who was the younger brother of Francis Ferdinand.

Has Two Children.

Princess Zita is one of the 20 children of the late Duke Robert and his first wife, Marie-Pie des Graces, princess of Bourbon-Sicilies. Her stepmother, formerly the Infante Maria Antonia, who was married to the late Duke Robert, is the youngest of the six sisters of Don Miguel, pretender to the throne of Portugal. Don Miguel's eldest son, Prince Miguel, duke of Vizeu, married Miss Anita Stewart of New York.

The Archduke Charles Francis Joseph has one son, the Archduke Francis Joseph Otto, born Nov. 20, 1912, and a daughter, born Jan. 3, 1914.

Popular With Austrian People.

The new ruler is extremely popular with the Austrian people. His wife was born May 9, 1892. Their distaste for imperial red tape in family matters was evinced recently when they were seen driving to the country from Vienna with a go-cart strapped to the rear of their automobile. Arrived in the country, the two royal children were bundled into the go-cart and archduke and archduchess took turns wheeling them about.

Archduke Charles Francis, before war, was a typical young Austrian officer, gay and popular. He has aged much during the two years of the war. He is devoted to his wife and was a favorite with the emperor. His predominant characteristics are tact and graciousness, which explain his popularity.

Very Fond of Hunting.

The new emperor is an excellent shot, is fond of hunting, is an enthusiastic motorist, a patron of the opera and the theater. He is a good linguist, speaking German, Hungarian, French, English, Italian, Czech and Polish.

VILLA IS DEFEATED IN FOUR ASSAULTS ON CHIHUAHUA CITY

BANDIT CHIEFTAIN, LEADING 3,500 TROOPS, DRIVEN BACK WITH HEAVY SLAUGHTER BY CARRANZISTAS.

PLAIN SOUTH OF CITY COVERED WITH DYING

Trevino's Artillery Tears Big Gaps in Attacking Column—Bandit Forces Continue Battle All Day—De Facto Cavalry Pursues Defeated Outlaws.

Chihuahua City, Nov. 28.—Late Saturday afternoon a small band of Villa bandits gained a foothold in the church of Santa Rio de Guadalupe. They were driven by gun fire from their stronghold and cavalry dispersed them.

The night was spent in expectation of a last desperate attack which did not materialize. Sunday morning small groups of enemy cavalry were shelled by the artillery of Santa Rosa hill.

Villa is expected to withdraw to the hills as his forces have been scattered by the fire of the Defacto forces and his efforts to capture the city are growing less and less forceful.

Attack Led by Villa.

El Paso, Nov. 25.—Villa forces numbering 3,500, led by Francisco Villa, were defeated and driven backward with heavy slaughter by de facto troops at Chihuahua City according to reports received here from Juarez.

The Villa forces made four desperate attempts to capture the city, but failed to get a foothold. The plain south of the city was reported covered with dead and dying Mexicans of both sides. The Carranza artillery tore big gaps in the attacking column.

Francisco Villa, riding a horse with a crutch strapped at his side, was reported in personal command of his troops. He led his men in the first advance which was expected to surprise General Trevino's brigade defending the city. The movement of the bandits had been reported by scouts and the Carranza troops were ready and waiting.

The bandit forces continued the battle with varying ferocity all day. The last attack was driven off about 6 o'clock and the telegraph operator who sent the message describing the battle said that firing could still be heard at Chihuahua, but that it was becoming fainter.

Pursues Beaten Bandit.

General Trevino repulsed the fourth mass attack and followed the retreating troops, driving them from their temporary entrenchments with heavy losses, it was announced in Juarez. The de facto troops are now pursuing the bandits toward the south.

General Trevino, commanding the Carranza forces, was wounded during the fighting in the early afternoon, while personally directing the fighting from the vicinity of Santa Rosa hill, General Francisco Gonzales announced in Juarez after receiving a message from Chihuahua City.

Trevino, Wounded, Fights On.

General Trevino returned to the city to have a scalp wound on the right side of his head dressed at the military hospital. With a bandage around his head he returned to his post at field headquarters and continued the direction of the Carranza forces on the firing line.

At 10 o'clock at night the military authorities in Chihuahua City telegraphed General Gonzales in Juarez that General Carlos Ozuna, in command of the Carranza cavalry, was pursuing Villa bandits south in the direction of Mapula and the cavalry column was reported to be 10 miles south of Santa Rosa.

DIET SQUAD TAKES ON FIVE POUNDS AT SUNDAY DINNER

Members of Chicago Health Department, Combatting High Cost of Living, Are Encouraged.

Chicago, Nov. 27.—There was a net gain of five pounds in the aggregate weight of the 12 members of the diet squad Sunday after their fourth day of living on a prescribed menu limited to cost 40 cents a day. The dozen persons who are combatting the high cost of living by attempting to demonstrate that nourishing and satisfying meals can be supplied for that amount began a two weeks test last Wednesday morning and Sunday were strong in the belief that they already had proved the contention.

N. Y. Mayor Has Coal Supply Plan.

New York, Nov. 25.—Mayor John Purroy Mitchell has taken action with practical results to supply coal at greatly reduced cost to small consumers if the cellar dealers or others continue to exact exorbitant prices. He conferred in his office with coal dealers, and obtained from them their promise to co-operate with him. They will supply the coal, and the city will deliver it with city owned vehicles without charge for cartage. The money to finance the scheme will be advanced by private citizens.

Mrs. Inez Milholland Boissevain, well known suffragist and welfare worker died in a Los Angeles hospital of anemia after a ten weeks' illness.

DIES OF PECULIAR DISEASE

MRS. INEZ BOISSEVAIN STRICKEN DURING CAMPAIGN.

Blood Transfusion Fails to Improve Condition of Widely Known Woman Suffragist.

Los Angeles, Nov. 28.—Mrs. Inez Milholland Boissevain, widely known woman suffragist and welfare worker, who died in a hospital here shortly before midnight of a peculiar form of anemia was stricken suddenly 10 weeks ago while addressing an audience in this city during the recent political campaign and fainted on the platform.

She was removed to a hospital and her husband and parents rushed from New York to join her here. Miss Vida Milholland, her sister, was with her when she was stricken, and has been in constant attendance since that time.

Mrs. Boissevain's illness was diagnosed as a plastic anemia and blood transfusion was resorted to in attempts to improve her condition. Miss Vida Milholland twice gave blood for this purpose and on four other occasions friends submitted to the ordeal in hope that benefit would result. After each transfusion temporary improvement was followed by a relapse.

A few days ago the physicians in charge stated there was practically no hope for Mrs. Boissevain, but thereafter she rallied and it was thought she might recover. Her husband, Eugene Boissevain, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John E. Milholland of New York, and her sister, Miss Vida, were present when she died.

EIGHT-HOUR LAW HELD TO BE UNCONSTITUTIONAL

Decision Made by District Judge to Pave Way for Argument in Supreme Court.

Kansas City, Nov. 27.—All preliminary obstacles to a decision by the supreme court on the Adamson law have been wiped out.

All interested now are working to have the supreme court reach a decision by January 1, when the law is scheduled to go into effect.

The case which goes to the upper tribunal is that of the Missouri, Oklahoma & Gulf, heard last Wednesday by Judge Hook, who held that the law was unconstitutional. An appeal was immediately taken.

The cases of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe, and of other railroads which had applied to Federal Judge Pollock at Kansas City, postponed until after a decision by the supreme court.

Contracts for Two Destroyers.

Washington, Nov. 27.—Secretary of the Navy Daniels contracts for two destroyers, the only ones remaining under the last appropriation bill to the Mare Island navy yard, California, at $968,105 each. Deliveries are to be made in 18 and 20 months.

To Act for U. S. at Emperor's Rites.

Vienna, Nov. 27.—Frederick C. Penfield, the American ambassador, has received a notification from Washington that he is to act as special envoy of the United States at the funeral of Emperor Francis Joseph. Reports from Budapest indicate that the Hungarians are anxious to have the coronation of the new emperor-king occur during the first part of the coming month. It is probable that Emperor Charles will spend a considerable time in the Hungarian capital each year.

There followed a little pause, during which the boy was thinking, and then he asked: "Mummy, are all imaginations white behind?"

What's Doing in Minnesota

Winona. — Henry Steen, representative from this district, will introduce a bill in the Legislature to provide payment for Minnesota soldiers on the Mexican border.

Austin. — Theodore Christianson of Dawson was endorsed as speaker of Minnesota's lower house at the coming legislature at a conference here of representatives of the First district.

Virginia. — Helmer Johnson, aged 9, was seriously injured here and five boy companions received less serious injuries when a blasting powder cap, thrown into a bonfire around which the lads were playing, exploded.

Sauk Rapids. — Governor Burnquist has announced the first of a number of appointments he will make before the end of the year. J. E. Bonner of Sauk Center was named special municipal judge in that city.

St. Peter. — Deep inroads are being made into the poultry population of Nicollet county by chicken thieves, who have been operating the past two months. It is believed an organized gang is at work. The farmers of one township have offered a reward of $200.

Crookston.—The Northwestern Minnesota Educational association held a three days' session here. The opening address of the convention was on "The School in Education," by Dean Joseph Kennedy, North Dakota university. "Education As Preparedness" was the topic of a lecture by A. C. Prosser, Minneapolis.

Holdingford. — Hard work and regular habits are preached as the gospel of longevity by Mrs. Katherine Conpton, 102 years old, of this village. Mrs. Conpton was born in Virginia in 1814. She married at the age of 16 and her oldest child is now 84. The baby of the family is 52. Mrs. Conpton is still able to do needlework.

St. Paul. — Dr. I. J. Murphy, executive secretary of the Minnesota Public Health association, which is acting as state agent for the sale of Red Cross Christmas seals, reported that the sale of seals in Minnesota this year will be considerably larger than they were in 1915, judging from the first orders received from the larger communities.

Minneapolis. — The University of Minnesota has defeated to some extent the high cost of living. With prices on all commodities increased approximately 30 per cent over those of 1915, Controller G. H. Hayes said that the maintenance cost of the university for the fiscal year ending July 31, 1916, was approximately only 11 per cent higher than for the same period last year.

St. Paul. — The state free employment agencies in Minneapolis, St. Paul and Duluth filled 5,202 jobs at an average cost of 16⅕ cents during the last fiscal year, according to figures made public by W. F. Houk, state labor commissioner. Maintenance costs of the agencies were $441.92 a month in Minneapolis, $180.21 in St. Paul and $227.32 in Duluth. Men were given 3,229 places and women 1,937, the statement shows.

Fairmont. — The Minnesota Crop Improvement association will hold its annual meeting in Fairmont February 13-15. C. L. Blanchar of Fairmont, president of the association, says the meeting should be unusually well attended because of the success of Martin county in growing good crops. The county is said to produce more corn and oats than any other county in the state and also to have the greatest number of champion corn breeders.

St. Paul. — The state department of labor in its biennial report shows that the application of the workmen's compensation law providing for 50 per cent of the wage loss to injured workmen who are disabled for two weeks or more, resulted in the payment of about 37.5 per cent of the wage loss. There were about 19,000 accidents which caused disabilities lasting less than two weeks. The total compensation paid in the 12,768 cases closed by June 30 was $983,418.06.

Bemidji.—The seventh annual meeting of the Northern Minnesota Development league will be held in Bemidji, Minn., December 7 and 8. The sessions will be given over to a Good Roads meeting and a number of prominent speakers have been engaged. Among them are Senators R. C Dunn of Princeton and John H. Baldwin of Frazee. Senator Baldwin will speak on "Prison Labor on Public Highways." He is sent to Bemidji by the office of public roads at Washington.

Duluth. — Twenty prominent citizens of Hibbing are said by county officials to be among those indicted by the grand jury. That body returned 30 secret true bills in district court. The names of the indicted persons were temporarily kept secret. According to officials, the jury has been devoting much time to investigation of Hibbing matters and has taken an enormous amount of testimony, hearing many witnesses in connection with the charges of alleged "extravagance and graft."

Mankato. — Drs. Arnold Schwyzer and Archibald MacLaren of St. Paul will be speakers on the opening program of the two days' annual meeting of the Southern Minnesota Medical association, to be held in this city December 4 and 5, according to a program announced here.

ASKS OPINIONS ON STATE AID POLICY

MINNESOTA SUPERINTENDENT OF EDUCATION SENDS CIRCULAR LETTER TO SCHOOL HEADS.

"U" REGENTS TO ASK MILLIONS

To Present Budget of $4,000,000 to Legislature—Board Determines on Retrenchment to Include Economy in Every Department of University.

St. Paul.

Questions as to the policy regarding state aid to school to be advocated by school authorities before the next legislature are asked in a letter mailed to superintendents and directors by C. G. Schulz, state superintendent of education.

Mr. Schulz cites that there has been a shortage in the state aid for each of the last two years as appropriated by the legislature. The failure of the lawmakers to appropriate up to the full amount for high, graded, rural and consolidated schools and for special departments in all these is explained by Mr. Schulz as due to a desire to restrict the tax rate. The amount available for state aid the last two years was $3,825,000, as against $4,778,718 necessary, if the full amounts earned by the schools had been paid.

The state superintendent asks school officers to advise legislators in their districts as to their own attitude toward the questions.

The move follows the recent distribution of $1,942,000 of state aid which, although representing the largest single disbursement in the history of state business, was only 70 per cent of the total intended.

"It is of the utmost importance that we should have a stable, progressive and expanding public school policy in Minnesota," Superintendent Schulz states in a circular.

Millions For University.

With a budget estimate of nearly $4,000,000 to present to the Legislature, the University of Minnesota Board of Regents has determined on a retrenchment policy which will include strict economy in every department, and restriction of enrollment wherever possible rather than to increase the teaching staff.

More than a score of requests and petitions for new buildings, increased equipment, increased salaries and enlargement of teaching staffs were heard by the board, but only a few of them received encouragement

Among the expenditures the board looked on favorably, however, are:

Erection of a $200,000 hospital for contagious diseases, to provide more patients for clinical study.

Establishment of a separate department of public health, requiring an initial expenditure of $9,000.

Creation of an associate professorship of railroad transportation.

Provisions for giving women vocational training in lines other than teaching.

Enlargement of the industrial work of the college of chemistry to meet the new demands brought about by the war.

Additions to the university library and the engineering research laboratory.

Though milling wheat is bringing close to $2 a bushel, the man whose own product is too poor for seed purposes will have to pay as high as $3 or even higher in getting a supply elsewhere. The corn crop, late in starting, rounded under favorable weather and there is no seed corn problems, according to Mr. Bull.

Astonishing Power of Iron to Give Strength to Broken Down Nervous People

Physician Says Ordinary Nuxated Iron Will Increase Strength of Delicate Folk 200 Per Cent in Two Weeks' Time in Many Instances.

NEW YORK, N. Y.—In a recent discourse Dr. E. Sauer, Specialist, of this city, said: "If you were to make an actual blood test on all people who are ill you would probably be greatly astonished at the exceedingly large number who lack iron and who are ill for no other reason than the lack of iron. The moment iron is supplied all their multitude of dangerous symptoms disappear. Without iron the blood at once loses the power to change food into living tissue, and therefore nothing you eat does you any good; you don't get the strength out of it. Your food merely passes through your system like corn through a mill with the rollers so wide apart that the mill can't grind. As a result of this continuous blood and nerve starvation, people become generally weakened, nervous and all run down, and frequently develop all sorts of conditions. One is too thin; another is burdened with unhealthy fat; some are so weak they can hardly walk; some think they have dyspepsia, kidney or liver trouble; some can't sleep at night; others are sleepy and tired all day; some fussy and irritable; some skinny and bloodless, but all lack physical power and endurance. In such cases it is worse than foolishness to take stimulating medicines or narcotic drugs, which only whip up your fagging vital powers for the moment, maybe at the expense of your life later on. No matter what anyone tells you, if you are not strong and well you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of ordinary nuxated iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see for yourself how much you have gained. I have seen dozens of nervous, run-down people who were ailing all the time double and even triple their strength and endurance and entirely get rid of their symptoms of dyspepsia, liver and other troubles in from ten to fourteen days' time simply by taking iron in the proper form, and this, after they had in some cases been doctoring for months without obtaining any benefit. You can talk as you please about all the wonders wrought by new remedies, but when you come down to hard facts there is nothing like good old iron to put color in your cheeks and good, sound, healthy flesh on your bones. It is also a great nerve and stomach strengthener and the best blood builder in the world. The only trouble was that the old forms of inorganic iron, like tincture of iron, iron acetate, etc., often ruined people's teeth, upset their stomachs and were not assimilated, and for these reasons they frequently did more harm than good. But with the discovery of the newer forms of organic iron all this has been overcome. Nuxated Iron, for example, is pleasant to take, does not injure the teeth and is almost immediately beneficial.

NOTE—The manufacturers of Nuxated Iron have such unbounded confidence in its potency that they authorize the announcement that they will forfeit $100.00 to any Charitable Institution if they cannot take any man or woman under sixty who lacks iron and increase their strength 200 per cent or over in four weeks' time, provided they have no serious organic trouble. Also they will refund your money in any case in which Nuxated Iron does not at least double your strength in ten days' time. It is dispensed by most druggists. If your druggist or general store is without a supply, ask them to get it for you.—Adv.

THE SUNBEAM.

BY W. G. HUNT, EDITOR
HARRIETT G. HUNT, PUBLISHER

Published every Friday, at Sunbeam, Pennington County, Minnesota.

Entered as Second-class matter August 30 1905, at the post office at Sunbeam Minn. under the Act of Congress of March 3,1879

As to whether the drainage meeting at Thief River Falls last week will result in any effort being made by the government to take care of the water that has been dumped onto this territory by drainage of the Beltrami and Koochiching County swamps, the future will determine. As we have said before, we do not consider that there is much hope for any government aid to improve rivers in the northern states, under the present administration, as every dollar available for that purpose will have to be used in the southern states, where the boys are always to be depended on to vote right. Pennington county should be entitled to some consideration, but they wont get it, even if they did give a majority of their votes to the Democratic party. So far as the settler, or we might say the former settlers of a portion of the eastern part of Pennington county are concerned they have been made victims of a government confidence game, by buying once valuable land and having it made entirely worthless by the drainage of Indian lands and other lands that they have sold since they have sold us these lands, without making any preparation to take care of the surplus water that has been dumped onto us.

The recent election demonstrates one thing conclusively, and that is the necessity of amending the non-partisan law. It is expensive, it serves no purpose whatever, and it completely demoralizes party loyalty and party fealty. Both of these attributes are conductive to patriotism and unless some action is taken by the legislature to reestablish party lines and revert to the good old days of bon-fires, ratification meetings and stump speaking, we may as well forget past history and traditions and settle down as just common, ordinary, "non-partisan" pluggers. --Thief River Falls News-Press.

This law, instead of fulfilling its mission as intended by the legislature, has served to put unqualified men into prominent positions, if they had the price to hire unprincipled "pluggers" enough. Instead of this non-partisan law, being a reform, as intended, it has resolved itself into a nuisance, and we hope to see it repealed by the next legislature, and all offices filled by party indorsement.

There now seems to be a strong prospect that the next legislature will pass a state wide prohibition law. If they do, they should at the same time prohibit the shipping in of liquors from other states, for so called private use. The present county option law does not prevent the shipment of liquors in from other states, and there are always plenty of "bootleggers" who will run the risk of selling a low grade of "tangle foot" at a high price to the people. If we are to have a state prohibition law, let us have one that will prohibit.

Curious Raincoats.

When rain falls in tropical countries there is no mistake about it. The rain comes as if it meant to sweep away all such trifles as trees and bushes. A man who goes out in this deluge must protect himself, but he finds that a mackintosh of the lightest kind has its disadvantages, for if it keeps the rain out it also keeps the heat in.

The raincoat devised by the Mexicans is called a "chino" and is so porous that the heat of the body readily escapes, while, owing to its construction, it keeps the wearer dry. The chino is made of numberless long, narrow strips of dried palm leaf, one end of each strip being woven into a light fabric and the rest falling loose. The wearer of this garment rustles as he walks, and the rain pattering upon it makes a pleasant sound. Arrived at the house, he takes off his palm leaf hat, shakes it and hangs it up to dry. Then he slips off his chino, shakes that also and hangs it up. He himself is untouched by the rain, but the chino as it hangs up looks like a huge, damp brown cassock.

Healthful Whipping.

It is considered beneficial to be whipped or spanked provided it is done mechanically. In the mechano therapy departments of up to date institutions the whipping post, a mechanical device for therapeutic paddling, is an accredited healing machine. You are whipped by straps of heavy cloth or leather attached to two rapidly revolving posts. When you take the treatment you step backward into the flying whips and receive their blows upon your legs, back, abdomen or chest, depending upon the malady from which you are suffering. The impact of the straps is just sufficient to set the blood in free circulation. There is no smarting, stinging sensation because the straps are broad enough to eliminate any possibility of a cutting blow. You are paddled rather than lashed. The whipping post is valuable in many types of nervousness.—Popular Science Monthly.

Using Up Energy.

"A calory is the amount of heat required to raise the temperature of one pint of water 4 degrees Fahrenheit. If a man rises from his chair and walks about eight feet, then returns, he uses up one of these units," writes Dr. Edwin F. Bowers in "Sidestepping Ill Health."

"Yet the body, even while resting or quiet in sleep, is constantly using up energy. It is also giving off heat about as rapidly as a sixteen candle power electric lamp."

To make up for this constant loss of heat and energy from 2,000 to 3,000 calories are needed every twenty-four hours. This is why we eat, and it behooves us to see that our food furnishes about the right number of calories.

A Man Who Knew Everything.

Thiers, the French statesman, was a victim of many whimsies. None had stronger hold on him, says Mgr. Gabriel Hanotaux in "Contemporary France," than his desire to get everybody to recognize his universal competency.

Of an applicant for the post of director at the Sevres manufactory Thiers said:

"He is no more made for that part than I for"— and then he stopped.

"Ah, oh! M. Thiers," said his interlocutor, "you find it hard to say what you could not do."

"That's the truth! That's the truth!" cried the statesman gleefully.

One day Thiers said, speaking of a man who had been raised to a high function:

"He is no more suited for that office than I am to be a druggist. And yet," he added, catching himself up, "I do know [illegible]"

Statuary Hall.

The national statuary hall was formerly the old hall of the house of representatives in Washington. It was established by act of congress on July 2, 1864. The president was authorized to invite each state to contribute to the collection to be formed with two statues, in either marble or bronze, of deceased citizens of the state whom, "for historic renown or for civil or military services," the state would consider as worthy of commemoration in this national hall of statuary. About twenty-five states have contributed statues to the hall, some of them only one.

"Because he is. I have three brothers—one in law, one in medicine and one in the army."

Antiquity of the Senate.

The senate is historically much older than the lower house, or house of representatives, as it is called in our country and time. In the remote time, while as yet there was no such thing as a science of government, the tribe was wont to look to its old men, on account of their wisdom and experience, for advice in all matters pertaining to the tribe, and those old men were the first senators. The word senator comes from "senes," meaning old. As civilization advanced and seated government became a fact the senate continued to be composed of the old men, and when by and by the second chamber, or council, was added the senate continued to receive the larger measure of reverence and respect.

ART OF BEING ALONE.

Try Taking to the Woods and Being Natural For Awhile.

The art of being alone is worth cultivating. Unless you have really tried it you have no idea how unusual and refreshing it is. City life and even modern country life are not conducive to its practice. It is very different from being lonesome and quite another matter from being ill. It is found at its full flower only in the woods, and its best development requires some adjustment and practice.

The first experience is apt to leave one somewhat baffled if not frightened. We live so much with other men and with the evidences of their activity that we hardly know how much is ourselves and how much some one else.

In the woods—and it need not be the remote wilderness—we can divest ourselves of all that is not really a part of us. We can learn how small—or perhaps how large—we are. We can soak up impressions with time to taste them and consider them. We can learn the true value of wind and clouds and sun and shade. If we feel like it we can talk out loud to ourselves, and there will be no one to think us crazy. We can sing and no one will tell us we are off the tune.

In short, we can be natural for once in our lives—free from the warping effect of what other people think. That is surely an experience worth while.—Outing.

OUR FIRST FOREIGN WAR.

When Tripoli Tried to Wring Tribute From Our New Republic.

The first foreign war in which the United States was engaged began in 1801, when Tripoli issued a declaration of war against the new world republic.

The ruler of the piratical African state had learned that the United States had paid larger sums to Algiers than to himself and demanded a greater annual tribute. This was refused, and on June 10, 1801, he declared war.

An American squadron under Commodore Richard Dale was dispatched to the Mediterranean and was followed by squadrons commanded by Commodore Morris and Commodore Preble.

The war continued until 1805 and was characterized by several feats of valor performed by American sailors. The bey of Tripoli and the other Barbary rulers, who had long preyed upon the commerce of America and Europe, were brought up with a short turn.

Prior to the Tripolitan war the United States and France fought several sea engagements, but war was not officially declared, and the difficulties were settled without recourse to open and avowed hostilities.—New York World.

Painfully Explicit.

The proprietor of a certain hotel in Europe posted up the following warning to his clients:

"Gentlemen who come in this hotel not say anything about their meals they will be charged for, and if they should say beforehand that they are going out to breakfast or dinner, and if they say that they not have anything to eat they will be charged, or unless they bring it to the notice of the manager, and should they want not to say anything, they must order the manager for, and not any one else, and unless they not bring it to the notice of the manager, they will be charged for the least things not, according to hotel rate. And no fuss will be allowed afterward about it, and nothing will be allowed to deduct anything out of it."

After this explicit information there surely could be no excuse for misunderstanding.

Fred Brown abandoned the C. L. Clark farm this week and moved over into the town of Mayfield. That town is certainly welcome to their new resident, as there will be no tears shed by the town of Highlanding over his departure.

On our retuns from the town of Garnes, last Tuesday evening we were caught in the big snow storm and stopped over night at the farm residence of C. Magnell in the town of Mayfield. It is a pleasure to visit a farmer of this kind in the eleven townships after hearing all the hard luck stories of the past season. To go through his large barn and look at his fat dairy herd and his young stock, would make you wonder if you was really in eleven townships or in some prosperous dairymans and stock raisers barn of southern Minnesota,

He Saved Time.

An English weaver who had spent two or three years in America was paying a visit to the old mill to see some of his former workmates.

One of them said to him: "I hear it's all hustle and bustle in America. In fact, you 'aven't time to eat."

"Hustle and bustle," said the visitor. "Why, when I left here I spelt my name 'Mirrill,' but now I spell it 'Merrll!'"

"How's that?" asked his friend.

"Because," replied the Americanized one, "I haven't time to dot the 'i's!"—Exchange.

Curious Old Clock.

In the tower of the town house of Heidelberg was an old clock so constructed that when the hours struck the figure of an old man pulled off his hat, a cock crowed and clapped its wings and soldiers fought with one another. But this curious piece of workmanship, with the castle and town, was burned by the French in 1693.

READY FOR TRIAL

SINGERS INVITED TO COME ON

We have been busy this week looking up evidence for our defense in the three cases of criminal libel brought by George and Edward Singer, assisted by our able county Attorney at the June term of court. We expect, and are quite positive that we can produce sufficient evidence at the trial to make honest men sit up and wonder why we did not publish more facts about them.

While we were busy trying to seed our flax crop last spring the foxy George and the peaked headed Edward worked a nice little "frame up" through the county attorney's office to get us indicted, and tried to force an immediate trial and secure an unjust conviction because we did not have time to procure evidence in our defense. Singers should give the county Attorney great credit for the noble fight he made to "railroad" old Hunt into jail without giving him any opportunity to defend himself. But the Hon. Judge Grindeland ruled against his protests and granted us a continuance until the January term of court. We will then be ready for trial. We ask no favors of either Singers, or THEIR COUNTY ATTORNEY. All we ask for is Justice, before a jury of Pennington county citizens.

Stand up and fight you speculators in fires. Face the consequences of the dirty stink you stirred up. You have the great looker after criminals to prosecute your cases at the expense of the tax payers of this county, while we have to hire our own lawyers. But we have hired them and they are good ones, and we will show the people of Pennington county who is the criminals and who are not, and you won't be running up and down the road with your autos telling people how you will "fix" Hunt. Get there with your county attorney and prosecute. We are ready to defend. No favors asked, or given, THE SUNBEAM has not libeled anyone. Not guilty.

GENERAL OZUNA ENTERS TOWN FROM NORTH AND CAPTURES MANY OUTLAWS, ACCORDING TO JUAREZ REPORT.

NO DEFINITE NEWS AS TO FATE OF AMERICANS THERE

Murgia Also Enters City After Defeating Villa Column Thirty Miles to South—Will Report Losses to Both Sides and the Fate of All Foreigners.

Juarez, Mexico, Dec. 5.—It has been officially announced at military headquarters that the Carranza forces have reoccupied the city of Chihuahua, having driven the Villa bandits out. Telegraphic communication with Chihuahua City over the federal line has been re-established.

Efforts are being made to ascertain the fate of Americans and other foreigners.

General Carlos Ozuna entered Chihuahua City from the north, a telegram received by Gen. Francisco Gonzales stated. The message from General Ozuna was dated at Chihuahua City. General Gonzales has left for Chihuahua City with a large command of Carranza troops.

Foreigners Believed Safe.

The latest reports here are that many Villa followers have been captured and killed. No definite news had been received from Americans, but it is believed that all foreigners except Chinese are safe.

It was announced that Villa has left for Western Chihuahua following trains of loot.

General Francisco Murgia, the Carranza commander who has been moving slowly northward from Torreon, was also reported to have entered the city, after having defeated the Villa column 30 miles south of Chihuahua City.

General Ozuna made a brief official report to General Gonzales, his superior officer, then proceeded into the heart of the city on an exploring expedition and was expected to report by telegraph later on the conditions in the capital, the losses to both sides and the fate of the Americans and other foreigners in the city.

The battle between the forces of General Murgia and the bandits took place Friday and was believed to have completely routed the Villa forces to that district and to have sent them toward the west, in which direction Villa and his staff are said to have gone on special trains.

EIGHTY-SIX HUNTERS DIE DURING THE OPEN SEASON

Carelessness Accounted for Many of the Accidents—Michigan Leads in Number of Dead.

Chicago, Dec. 1.—Eighty-six persons were killed and 41 injured during the hunting season in 15 states which closed Thursday. The figures were compiled by the Chicago Tribune, which compares them with 59 dead and 66 injured for last year and 111 dead and 162 wounded for 1914.

Carelessness on the part of the hunters accounted for many of the accidents. Many of the victims were mistaken for deer. Michigan leads in the number of dead with 22, Illinois is second with 13, and Minnesota third with 12. Wisconsin had only six, the small number being attributed directly to the "buck" law, which prohibited shooting at "sounds."

EARLY DECISION SOUGHT IN TEST OF EIGHT HOUR LAW

Motion to Be Presented Asking Date for Hearing of Government's Appeal in High Court.

Washington, Dec. 4.—Steps to obtain an early decision upon the constitutionality of the Adamson law in the test case of the Missouri, Oklahoma & Gulf railroad will dominate interest in the supreme court's session today, following a two weeks' recess. A motion will be presented by Solicitor General Davis with concurrence of counsel for the railroad asking the court to assign an early date for hearing of the government's appeal from the decision of Federal Judge Hook of Kansas City, Mo., holding the law null and void.

Germans Rejoice at British Change.

London, Dec. 2.—The changes in the British admiralty have been greeted with jubilation by the German newspapers, according to an Amsterdam dispatch to Reuter's, which has just been received here. The Cologne Lokal Anzeiger declares that Admiral Jellico's removal from the fleet is degradation for losing the battle of Jutland, and that the inefficiency of the fleet is shown by the fact that German ships attacked the west coast of England and that they never saw anything of British ships.

JOHN D. ARCHBOLD

Tarrytown, N. Y., Dec. 4.—Hope is expressed by his physicians for the recovery of John D. Archbold, president of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey, who was operated on 10 days ago for appendicitis, and since then has been dangerously ill. It was said he apparently has become no weaker since a blood transfusion operation last Tuesday. The crisis, however, will not have passed, according to the physicians, for another day.

OUTLET IS PROMISED RUSSIA

RIGHT TO STRAITS AND CONSTANTINOPLE ESTABLISHED.

Premier Tells Duma of Agreement Made With France, Great Britain and Italy.

Petrograd, Dec. 5.—At the opening of the Duma Premier Trepoff read a proclamation announcing officially that an agreement, concluded by Russia, France and Great Britain in 1915 and later approved by Italy, "establishes in a definite manner the right of Russia to the Straits and Constantinople."

Premier Trepoff said:

"For more than 1,000 years Russia has been reaching southward toward a free outlet on the open sea. This age-long dream, cherished in the hearts of the Russian people, now is ready for realization."

Conclude Agreement With Allies.

"We have concluded an agreement with our allies which establishes in the most definite manner the right of Russia to the Straits and Constantinople. Russians should know for what they are shedding blood, and in accord with our allies, announcement of this agreement is made today from this tribune."

Premier Trepoff made the following declaration concerning the Russian policy in regard to the Polish question:

"One part of the task before us is to reconquer and recover the kingdom of Poland, temporarily detached by force of arms. But that is not enough. We must also wrest from our enemies territories formerly Polish, beyond the old frontier. We will then reconstitute Poland, free within its ethnographical boundaries, but inseparably united with Russia."

CHIHUAHUA CITY BURNING; STORES LOOTED BY VILLA

Principal Residence Streets in Flames—Terrazas Palace Is Fired by Bandits.

Juarez, Mex., Dec. 4.—Villa bands are reported to be loading two trains with loot from the stores and private residences of Chihuahua City and preparing to follow these trains west on the Mexican Northwestern railroad, according to a message received at military headquarters from General Ozuna's scouts at Sauz.

The principal residence streets of the city are in flames. The Terrazas palace and many of the finest buildings of the city were fired by Villa after being looted, the report stated.

None of the refugees reaching here know the fate of the Americans who were in Chihuahua when Villa captured the city.

ORDERS TO 'GET VILLA' STAND

War Department Makes Official Announcement Following Outlaws' Success at Chihuahua City.

Washington, Dec. 2.—Original orders to General Pershing to "get Villa" still stand, the War department has officially stated. Officials said, however, that conditions are so altered since Pershing's expedition started into Mexico that he might await new orders from Washington before making any move. On the other hand, if opportunity offers, he will probably strike a quick blow at Villa.

"Diet Squad" Loses on 25c Day.

Chicago, Dec. 4.—The city "diet squad" has now assumed the name "starvation squad," having lost a total of 18 pounds in two days on 25 cents worth of food a day. The following is intended to help them regain the lost weight: Breakfast—Stewed pears, hominy, toast and butter, coffee. Luncheon—Codfish balls, Philadelphia relish, bread and butter, apple dumplings, vanilla sauce, tea. Dinner—Vegetable soup, braized beef, buttered rice, stewed onions, chocolate junket, sugar cookies, tea.

SLAV TROOPS AID RUMANIANS; HALT TEUTONS' ADVANCE

SLAVS MAKE HEROIC EFFORT TO TURN TIDE OF EVENTS IN THE BALKAN COUNTRY—PRESS INVADERS.

FIGHT VIGOROUSLY FOR FOOTING AT KIRLIBABA

Czar's Men Make Important Attack on Von Mackensen's Rear, Taking Twenty-six Guns and Many Prisoners and Driving Germans From Two Towns.

London, Dec. 5. — Roumanian still heads the center of interest in the world war. The encircling movement of the Teutonic allies continues to draw closer toward her capital, Bucharest, although the Roumanians are apparently stiffening their defense.

Simultaneously while the fate of Bucharest is still hanging in the balance comes the news that Russia, which has been accused in some quarters of failing to render assistance to its sorely pressed ally, is making heroic efforts to turn the tide of events in Roumania, in addition to exerting vigorous pressure against Von Falkenhayn in Moldavia, where the Russians have gained a footing at Kirlibaba and the battle is continuing with the utmost energy.

Attack Von Mackensen.

The new Russian effort is visible on the Danube south of Bucharest, where newly arrived Russian troops are making an important attack on Field Marshall von Mackensen's rear, already, according to the Russian official report, with some success, 26 guns and a number of prisoners having been taken and the Germans and Bulgarians having been driven from Tzomana and Gostinari.

The Russians are also successfully applying pressure in Dobrudja.

These Russian attacks on the two extreme flanks of the Central forces, although they may be too late to save Bucharest, may, if successfully prosecuted, change the complexion of the Roumanian campaign, as there is no indication as yet that the enveloping movement of the Central Powers has succeeded in cutting off any considerable portion of the Roumanian armies.

Teutons Cross Argechu River.

In the meantime, according to the German report, the German-Bulgarians are steadily pressing towards the capital. In the Argechu valley they have crossed the river at one point and have outflanked and defeated a Roumanian force which had attempted to advance southwest of Bucharest over the Argechu and Niaslov rivers.

Hard fighting still continues from the border of Bukowina in Northern Roumania, with both sides claiming the advantage.

On none of the other fronts has there been any great infantry activity, the big guns of all the belligerents still doing the greater portion of the work. An attack by the Allies northwest of Monastir was put down with sanguinary losses, according to Berlin.

TWO ZEPPELNS ARE SHOT DOWN IN RAID ON BRITAIN

One Woman Killed and Sixteen Persons Injured in Raid—Airships Drop 100 Bombs.

London, Nov. 29.—Two Zeppelin airships, that early Tuesday raided the east coast of England, have been brought down. The crews of both German aircraft perished. Thousands of persons watched the battle in the air between England's aerial defenders and the second German air dreadnought destroyed.

Eight thousand feet aloft, above the North sea, British hydroplanes sent the first Zeppelin to destruction in flames. A little earlier, anti-aircraft guns, co-operating with an airplane, accounted for the other German air raider off York and Durham counties—the great air cruiser also sinking aflame, into the water.

New York, Dec. 4.—Resolutions urging President Wilson to do all in his power to arrange an armistice between the warring powers of Europe, before Christmas, were passed by the Central Federated Labor union with 500,000 members in the metropolitan district. Another resolution called upon all the unions in the United States to take similar action.

Mrs. Astor's Protege Runs Away.

New York, Dec. 2.—Willie Naumann, 15, protege of Mrs. Vincent Astor, is wondering whether his love for adventure had ended the prospects his soprano voice had won for him. Willie ran away about two months ago from the choir school of the Church of the Messiah, in Rhineback, where he had been for eight months. Mrs. Astor was paying all expenses. He will be taken care of when the guardianship of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children has been substituted legally for that of his mother.

What's Doing in Minnesota

Winona.—While a Thanksgiving dinner crowd was making merry in a restaurant here a lone bandit entered, held up the cashier and took between $30 and $40 from the cash register.

Bemidji.—Mistaking the deer he was carrying for a live buck, eight St. Paul hunters fired a volley at the carcass, seriously wounding Angus Chisholm, a homesteader, near his home, 16 miles northeast of Blackduck.

Moorhead.—Despite the fact more than thirty saloons were closed last year, bringing the declaration that business would fall off, the bank deposits total $1,446,288.46 as compared with $1,297,575.35 in 1915.

St. Paul.—A cash balance of $4,072,248.98 in its treasury is the largest November 30 balance in Minnesota's history. A year ago the state had borrowed $480,000 to tide its finances over a temporary stringency.

Monticello.—The faithful protection of a dog saved his youthful master from death when Allan Mieske, 16 years old, living on a farm near here, was attacked by an infuriated bull. The animal had knocked the boy to the ground unconscious.

Brainerd.—Speeches by A. D. Wilson, head of agricultural extension bureau service of the University of Minnesota, and Frank E. Palmer, state agricultural agent, closed a farmers' short course of four days in this city.

Minneapolis.—William Lowe Bryan, president of Indiana university, and Livingston Farrand, president of the University of Colorado, are among those to be considered for the presidency of the University of Minnesota to succeed Dr. George E. Vincent.

Duluth.—Although lake navigation is supposed to have closed officially on Nov. 20, with the expiration of insurance, it is predicted here boats will be in operation until stopped by ice. The demand for ore down lake is so great vessel men have been reluctant to close the season.

St. Paul. — What its makers say will be the best map ever published of Minnesota for the use of automobile tourists, road officials and others, is in course of preparation by engineers of the Minnesota Highway commission and will be ready for distribution about January 1.

St. Paul.—For the first time in many years the two men whom Minnesota voters have elected to the United States Senate dined together in St. Paul. Senator Knute Nelson was the guest of Senator-elect Frank B. Kellogg at the Minnesota club. Senators Nelson and Clapp have not agreed well enough to be on cordial visiting terms.

St. Paul—Overtime and extra pay for state officials and employes is the subject of an opinion given by Lyndon A. Smith, attorney general. The opinion probably will be the first of a series of legal rulings on such questions because of a dozen or more claims for pay for overtime and extra services now awaiting action by J. A. O. Preus, state auditor.

St. Paul.—Inheritance taxes totaling $672,841.37 were collected by the state during the past fiscal year, according to figures given out in the state treasury. The statement supplements that recently made public showing $47,322.75 distributed under the law effective April 20, 1911, providing that 10 per cent shall be refunded to the county remitting any tax.

Brownsville, Texas.—In target practice at Loma, Alta., near here, B battery, St. Paul's "silk stocking battery," broke all records for effectiveness in firing. The three-inch pieces under direction of Captain Charles L. Ames scored one hit after another and demolished so many targets that regular army officers, who served as observers, broke into spirited applause.

St. Paul.—Governor J. A. A. Burnquist has issued his official proclamation, declaring the 12 Hughes' presidential electors to have been chosen by the people of Minnesota. Governor Burnquist also proclaimed the election of Frank B. Kellogg as United States senator, of the 10 members of congress, and the ratification of Amendments No. 1 and 2 to the state constitution.

St. Paul. — Minnesota lands unsuitable for farming, but which are good pine lands, could be made worth $200,000,000 and furnish the state a net annual income of $8,000,000, according to C. C. Andrews, secretary of the state forestry board, in his annual report to the governor. The report covers the reforestation that has been done by the state, which work General Andrews declares should be greatly extended.

Winona.—The effectiveness of an embargo on soaring food products was demonstrated here when milk receded a cent because of marked curtailment in consumption. Winona dealers announced ten days ago the price of milk would be 8 cents a quart. The increase came in the face of the announcement of experts that there was a sufficient supply, and that there was a reasonable margin of profit at 7 cents.

Moorhead — To relieve congested schools the Moorhead board of education has constructed two portable buildings to be moved from one school ground to another as conditions may demand. The board contemplate construction of a portable gymnasium for use at the several schools.

MORE MONEY FOR SCHOOLS NEEDED

BOARD OF EDUCATION TO ASK LEGISLATURE TO RAISE TAX RATE—DEFICIT THIS YEAR.

VINCENT RESIGNS AS "U" HEAD

To Succeed John D. Rockefeller As President of Rockefeller Foundation—Finds It Hard to Leave Minnesota.

St. Paul.

Either the tax rate for school maintenance must be increased or there must be such curtailment of expenditures as will injure educational interests, according to the board of education's statement in its legislative program just issued. The program is presented in the form of a monograph, entitled "The Price of Progress," the third in the series of educational monographs which the board authorized.

Probably neither of the alternatives, the board states, will be accepted with enthusiasm, generally, but "a choice must be made and that choice the people must make." To enable them to choose in the light of the complete facts is given as the purpose of the monograph.

It points out that, even with the greatest economy, the board of education will have a $170,000 deficit at the end of this school year. In other words, it will have had to borrow that amount in excess of anticipated revenues to operate the schools according to present standards.

Vincent To Leave "U."

Dr. George E. Vincent will leave the presidency of the University of Minnesota to succeed John D. Rockefeller, Jr., as president of the Rockefeller Foundation, effective May 15, 1917, it has been announced in New York. Dr. Vincent has confirmed the statement. He will leave a state-wide campus for a campus that covers the world.

Mr. Rockefeller will become chairman of the board of trustees of the foundation his father established. According to the Foundation's announcement, Dr. Vincent was chosen "because of the enlarged scope of the Foundation's activities and the need of a man of wide experience who could devote all his time to the work." Dr. Vincent has been identified for several years with the philanthropics of the Foundation. He has been president of the university a little more than six years.

"It will be hard to leave Minnesota," said Dr. Vincent in a statement for the press. "The University community, the Twin Cities, and the people of the state have been singularly generous and friendly. No university executive could have had more favorable conditions in which to work. If it were a question of a call from another university, it would be easy to decline. A summons, however, to have some share in the development of a unique institution, to co-operate in working out plans for the promotion of human welfare at home and abroad, appeals to one's imagination. I have decided that I must accept this invitation."

State Saves On Eggs.

Minnesota's state institutions have made—or saved money out of the high price of eggs. The Rochester state hospital for the insane, according to C. J. Swendsen of the state board of control, has on hand 8,000 dozens of eggs, brought at 16 and 18 cents and placed in storage. This supply is was said, would last the institution until May. Other institutions have in storage smaller quantities of eggs. Since their purchase by the state institutions last spring, these thousands of dozens of eggs have nearly tripled in value.

Farmers Meet in January.

L. G. Bugbee of Carlton, president of the Minnesota Federation of Farmers' Clubs, announces that the annual convention of the federation will take place January 2 and 3 at University farm. It will be held in connection with the annual Farmers' and Homemakers' short course, which is scheduled for the farm campus the week of January 2. The program for the federation meeting includes addresses by Dean Woods and others.

May Close Flour Mills.

An embargo on Minnesota flour mills as a result of the car shortage situation is rated as a possibility by state railroad and warehouse commissioners. Southern Minnesota millers are complaining of conditions, the commissioners said, and there is much congestion in the Minneapolis terminal.

On Telephone Rates.

To determine whether telephone rates in Minnesota are excessive, the State Railroad and Warehouse Commission has taken steps to make a physical valuation of the principal telephone lines operating in the state, under authority given it in the law passed by the 1915 Legislature. Hearings to standardize appraisal forms and to fix appraised districts were to be held at the State Capitol. The operation of the law in the past eighteen months has been costly to the public, commissioners admitted.

One night, while she and her company were playing "L'Aiglon" in Montreal a very angry man left the auditorium and clamored at the box office for the return of his money.

"I paid to see Madame Bernhardt act," the man stormed, "and she's not acting."

"Madame Bernhardt is acting," replied the astonished manager.

"No, she is not," retorted the man. "She does not take the part of the empress, and the only other characters are a man and the slip of a boy who plays the young duke."

"There's a Reason"

WILSON'S MESSAGE TO THE CONGRESS

Senate and House in Joint Session Hear Address of the President.

HE MAKES FEW SUGGESTIONS

Further Legislation for Settlement and Regulation of Railway Labor Disputes Held Imperatively Necessary by the chief Magistrate.

Washington, Dec. 5.—The senate and house met in joint session today and heard President Wilson's message, which was as follows:

Gentlemen of the Congress:

In fulfilling at this time the duty laid upon me by the Constitution of communicating to you from time to time information of the state of the Union and recommending to your consideration such legislative measures as may be judged necessary and expedient I shall continue the practice, which I hope has been acceptable to you, of leaving to the reports of the several heads of the executive departments the elaboration of the detailed needs of the public service and confine myself to those matters of more general public policy with which it seems necessary and feasible to deal at the present session of the congress.

I realize the limitations of time under which you will necessarily act at this session and shall make my suggestions as few as possible; but there were some things left undone at the last session which there will now be time to complete and which it seems necessary in the interest of the public to do at once.

In the first place, it seems to me imperatively necessary that the earliest possible consideration and action should be accorded the remaining measures of the program of settlement and regulation which I had occasion to recommend to you at the close of your last session in view of the public dangers disclosed by the unaccommodated difficulties which then existed, and which still unhappily continue to exist, between the railroads of the country and their locomotive engineers, conductors, and trainmen.

Railway Troubles First.

I then recommended:

First, immediate provision for the enlargement and administrative reorganization of the interstate commerce commission along the lines embodied in the bill recently passed by the house of representatives and now awaiting action by the senate; in order that the commission may be enabled to deal with the many great and various duties now devolving upon it with a promptness and thoroughness which are, with its present constitution and means of action, practically impossible.

Second, the establishment of an eight-hour day as the legal basis alike of work and of wages in the employment of all railway employees who are actually engaged in the work of operating trains in interstate transportation.

Third, the authorization of the appointment by the president of a small body of men to observe the actual results in experience of the adoption of the eight-hour day in railway transportation alike for the men and for the railroads.

Fourth, explicit approval by the congress of the consideration by the interstate commerce commission of an increase of freight rates to meet such additional expenditures by the railroads as may have been rendered necessary by the adoption of the eight-hour day and which have not been offset by administrative readjustments and economies, should the facts disclosed justify the increase.

Fifth, an amendment of the existing federal statute which provides for the mediation, conciliation, and arbitration of such controversies as the present by adding to it a provision that, in case the methods of accommodation now provided for should fail, a full public investigation of the merits of every such dispute shall be instituted and completed before a strike or lockout may lawfully be attempted.

And, sixth, the lodgment in the hands of the executive of the power, in case of military necessity, to take control of such portions and such rolling stock of the railroads of the country as may be required for military use and to operate them for military purposes, with authority to draft into the military service of the United States such train crews and administrative officials as the circumstances require for their safe and efficient use.

Renews His Recommendations.

The second and third of these recommendations the congress immediately acted on: it established the eight-hour day as the legal basis of work and wages in train service and it authorized the appointment of a commission to observe and report upon the practical results, deeming these the measures most immediately needed; but it postponed action upon the other suggestions until an opportunity should be offered for a more deliberate consideration of them. The fourth recommendation I do not deem it necessary to renew. The power of the interstate commerce commission to grant an increase of rates on the ground referred to is indisputably clear and a recommendation by the congress with regard to such a matter might seem to draw in question the scope of the commission's authority or its inclination to do justice when there is no reason to doubt either.

The other suggestions—the increase in the interstate commerce commission's membership and in its facilities for performing its manifold duties, the provision for full public investigation and assessment of industrial disputes, and the grant to the executive of the power to control and operate the railways when necessary in time of war or other like public necessity—I now very earnestly renew.

The necessity for such legislation is manifest and pressing. Those who have intrusted us with the responsibility and duty of serving and safeguarding them in such matters would find it hard, I believe, to excuse a failure to act upon these grave matters or any unnecessary postponement of action upon them.

Not only does the interstate commerce commission now find it practically impossible, with its present membership and organization, to perform its great functions promptly and thoroughly, but it is not unlikely that it may presently be found advisable to add to its duties still others equally heavy and exacting. It must first be perfected as an administrative instrument.

The country cannot and should not consent to remain any longer exposed to profound industrial disturbances for lack of additional means of arbitration and conciliation which the congress can easily and promptly supply. And all will agree that there must be no doubt as to the power of the executive to make immediate and uninterrupted use of the railroads for the concentration of the military forces of the nation wherever they are needed and whenever they are needed.

This is a program of regulation, prevention and administrative efficiency which argues its own case in the mere statement of it. With regard to one of its items, the increase in the efficiency of the interstate commerce commission, the house of representatives has already acted; its action needs only the concurrence of the senate.

For Control and Operation.

I would hesitate to recommend, and I dare say the congress would hesitate to act upon the suggestion should I make it, that any man in any occupation should be obliged by law to continue in an employment which he desired to leave. To pass a law which forbade or prevented the individual workman to leave his work before receiving the approval of society in doing so would be to adopt a new principle into our jurisprudence which I take it for granted we are not prepared to introduce. But the proposal that the operation of the railways of the country shall not be stopped or interrupted by the concerted action of organized bodies of men until a public investigation shall have been instituted which shall make the whole question at issue plain for the judgment of the opinion of the nation is not to propose any such principle. It is based upon the very different principle that the concerted action of powerful bodies of men shall not be permitted to stop the industrial processes of the nation, at any rate before the nation shall have had an opportunity to acquaint itself with the merits of the case as between employee and employer, time to form its opinion upon an impartial statement of the merits, and opportunity to consider all practicable means of conciliation or arbitration.

I can see nothing in that proposition but the justifiable safeguarding by society of the necessary processes of its very life. There is nothing arbitrary or unjust in it unless it be arbitrarily and unjustly done. It can and should be done with a full and scrupulous regard for the interests and liberties of all concerned as well as for the permanent interests of society itself.

Other Legislation Urged.

Three matters of capital importance await the action of the senate which have already been acted upon by the house of representatives: the bill which seeks to extend greater freedom of combination to those engaged in promoting the foreign commerce of the country than is now thought by some to be legal under the terms of the laws against monopoly; the bill amending the present organic law of Porto Rico; and the bill proposing a more thorough and systematic regulation of the expenditure of money in elections, commonly called the Corrupt Practices Act. I need not labor my advice that these measures be enacted into law. Their urgency lies in the manifest circumstances which render their adoption at this time not only opportune but necessary. Even delay would seriously jeopard the interests of the country and of the government.

Immediate passage of the bill to regulate the expenditure of money in elections may seem to be less necessary than the immediate enactment of the other measures to which I refer; because at least two years will elapse before another election in which federal offices are to be filled; but it would greatly relieve the public mind if this important matter were dealt with while the circumstances and the dangers to the public morals of the present method of obtaining and spending campaign funds stand clear under recent observation and the methods of expenditure can be frankly studied in the light of present experience; and a delay would have the further very serious disadvantage of postponing action until another election was at hand and some special object connected with it might be thought to be in the mind of those who urged it. Action can be taken now with facts for guidance and without suspicion of partisan purpose.

I shall not argue at length the desirability of giving a freer hand in the matter of combined and concerted effort to those who shall undertake the essential enterprise of building up our export trade. That enterprise will presently, will immediately assume, has indeed already assumed, a magnitude unprecedented in our experience. We have not the necessary instrumentalities for its prosecution; it is deemed to be doubtful whether they could be created upon an adequate scale under our present laws. We should clear away all legal obstacles and create a basis of undoubted law for it which will give freedom without permitting unregulated license. The thing must be done now, because the opportunity is here and may escape us if we hesitate or delay.

Porto Rico's Needs.

The argument for the proposed amendments of the organic law of Porto Rico is brief and conclusive. The present laws governing the island and regulating the rights and privileges of its people are not just. We have created expectations of extended privilege which we have not satisfied. There is uneasiness among the people of the island and even a suspicious doubt with regard to our intentions concerning them which the adoption of the pending measure would happily remove. We do not doubt what we wish to do in any essential particular. We ought to do it at once.

There are other matters already advanced to the stage of conference between the two houses of which it is not necessary that I should speak. Some practicable basis of agreement concerning them will no doubt be found and action taken upon them.

Inasmuch as this is, gentlemen, probably the last occasion I shall have to address the Sixty-fourth congress, I hope that you will permit me to say with what genuine pleasure and satisfaction I have co-operated with you in the many measures of constructive policy with which you have enriched the legislative annals of the country. It has been a privilege to labor in such company. I take the liberty of congratulating you upon the completion of a record of rare serviceableness and distinction.

Cut Trees by Exploding Dynamite.

Instead of an ax and saw to remove the tops of trees that are to be used as masts in logging operations, dynamite is used to shoot off the tops. After the branches have been removed, a rigger climbs the tree, with a set of irons, to the point where it is necessary to cut off the top. Here the trunk is usually about 12 inches in diameter. The rigger ties a string of dynamite cartridges, fastened end to end like sausages, around the trunk at this point, inserts a blasting cap with about 20 feet of fuse in one of these sticks, lights the end of the fuse, and descends before the explosion takes place. The tree top pumps into the air with the explosion and the trunk is left ready for attaching the rigging for dragging in and loading the logs. —Engineering Record.

The bluejacket had been in the battle off Jutland, and in the railway compartment every one addressed him respectfully. Incidentally he was the recipient of numerous fine cigars. He conducted himself with becoming dignity, and when the foreign-looking gentleman who had kept silent went out at a roadside station the audience settled down to hear the yarn. Nodding his head toward the dark stranger on the platform, the bluejacket remarked with a grin, "'E thinks 'e 'as lost somethink 'e'd like to hear, 'e 'as. But hall Hi saw of the bloody battle was coal—nothing but coal. Hi'm a stoker, you see, that's what Hi am."—London Mail.

FINAL SESSION OF THE SIXTY-FOURTH CONGRESS BEGINS

EPOCH MAKING NATIONAL LEGISLATIVE BODY CONVENES WITH ONLY THREE MONTHS OF ITS LIFE REMAINING.

IMPORTANT PROBLEMS TO DEMAND RAPID WORK

Recurring Crisis in Railroad Situation Must be Met—Legislation Needed to Protect Foreign Trade—Routine Business Rather Than General Legislation Worries House.

Washington, Dec. 4.—Today marked the beginning of the end of the Sixty-fourth congress—an epoch-making national legislative body. With only three months of its life remaining, the congress at noon today opened its final session, confronted with domestic and foreign legislative problems of vast moment.

In the legislative program laid down by President Wilson for the "short session" which ends March 4, time will be the essence of the contract. From the first call of the gavels in the house and senate at noon today the national legislators began a fight against time and a drive for speed.

With Democratic control of the house in the Sixty-fifth congress a matter of grave doubt, the administration is prepared to make every effort to put through its important measures within the next three months and avoid an extra session next spring.

Must Meet Rail Crisis.

Despite the declaration of the house and senate leaders that the short session will barely have time to do the routine work of providing funds for the next fiscal year, the congress is confronted with demands for action along many general legislative lines.

Legislation must be passed, it is felt, to meet the recurring crisis in the railroad labor situation. It has become apparent that the eight-hour law passed in the closing hours of the last session merely postponed the struggle betwten the railroads and their operating employees.

Investigations by various commissions and committees are already under way seeking a solution of the railroad problem, but with the constitutionality of the eight-hour law under attack in the courts, and the brotherhoods threatening a general strike unless the eight-hour day becomes effective January 1, congress will be forced to act at once, without awaiting the results of the investigations.

Foreign Trade Legislation.

The administration plans for extending American foreign trade and equipping American export commerce for the world trade-war that will follow settlement of the European conflict call for extensive legislation. The start on this program has already been made. The house at the last session passed the Webb bill exempting from the operations of the anti-trust laws combinations of American merchants and manufacturers formed for the sole purpose of engaging in the foreign trade. This measure failed to pass the senate, but will be taken up in the upper house at once. Despite strenuous opposition, the bill is expected to become a law.

The administration, through the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, and the federal trade commission, plans a general foreign trade legislative program supplemental to the Webb law, which will demand lengthy consideration.

A complete code of neutrality laws, worked out in detail for the administration by the department of justice is awaiting action in both houses and senate.

Other Matters Pending.

President Wilson's demand for conservation legislation, presented to the congress a year ago, has not yet been satisfied, and work on the conservation program must be continued. The elaborate revision of the general dam act; liberalizing conditions under which water power may be developed on navigable rivers and other waterways under federal jurisdiction, is in dispute between the two houses.

An elaborate bill, closely restricting the use of funds and providing complete publicity of contributions and expenditures by all committees and individuals connected with elections, for president, vice president, senators and representatives was passed by the house during the last session. The measure has the indorsement of the president, and an effort will be made to put it through the senate.

Lots of Work for the House.

Routine business, the big appropriation bills—which must be disposed of before March 4—rather than general legislation, worries the house leaders. Speaker Clark and Chairman Fitzgerald of the appropriations committee served notice on the house that long hours and no vacations were to be the program from the beginning. The appropriations committee, which had been at work for weeks, was ready to bring in the first of the big supply bills and get the house down to work at once.

You Must Have Plenty of Iron in Your Blood to Be Strong, Says Doctor

Nuxated Iron Will Increase Strength of Delicate, Nervous, Run-Down People 200 Per Cent in Ten Days In Many Instances.

New York, N. Y.—Most people foolishly seem to think they are going to get renewed health and strength from some stimulating medicine, secret nostrum or narcotic drug, said Dr. Sauer, a specialist of this city, when, as a matter of fact, real and true strength can only come from the food you eat. But people often fail to get the strength out of their food because they haven't enough iron in their blood to enable it to change food into living matter. From their weakened, nervous condition they know something is wrong, but they can't tell what, so they generally commence doctoring for stomach, liver or kidney trouble or symptoms of some other ailment caused by the lack of iron in the blood. This thing may go on for years, while the patient suffers untold agony. If you are not strong or well, you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of ordinary nuxated iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see for yourself how much you have gained. I have seen dozens of nervous, run-down people who were ailing all the while, double and even triple their strength and endurance and entirely get rid of all symptoms of dyspepsia, liver and other troubles in from ten to fourteen days' time simply by taking iron in the proper form, and this after they had in some cases been doctoring for months without obtaining any benefit. But don't take the old forms of reduced iron, iron acetate or tincture of iron simply to save a few cents. You must take iron in a form that can be easily absorbed and assimilated like nuxated iron if you want it to do you any good, otherwise it may prove worse than useless. Many an athlete or prize-fighter has won the day simply because he knew the secret of great strength and endurance and filled his blood with iron before he went into the affray, while many another has gone down to inglorious defeat simply for the lack of iron.

NOTE—Nuxated Iron, recommended above by Dr. Sauer, is not a patent medicine nor secret remedy, but one which is well known to druggists and whose iron constituents are widely prescribed by eminent physicians everywhere. Unlike the older inorganic iron products, it is easily assimilated, does not injure the teeth, make them black, nor upset the stomach; on the contrary it is a most potent remedy in nearly all forms of indigestion, as well as for nervous, run-down conditions. The Manufacturers have such great confidence in Nuxated Iron that they offer to forfeit $100.00 to any charitable institution if they cannot take any man or woman under sixty who lacks iron and increase their strength 200 per cent or over in four weeks' time, provided they have no serious organic trouble. They also offer to refund your money if it does not at least double your strength and endurance in ten days' time. It is dispensed by most druggists. If your druggist or general store is without a supply, ask them to get it for you.—Adv.

Don't Neglect Kidneys

Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Prescription, Overcomes Kidney Trouble

It is now conceded by physicians that the kidneys should have more attention as they control the other organs to a remarkable degree and do a tremendous amount of work in removing the poisons and waste matter from the system by filtering the blood.

The kidneys should receive some assistance when needed. We take less exercise, drink less water and often eat more rich, heavy food, thereby forcing the kidneys to do more work than nature intended. Evidence of kidney trouble, such as lame back, annoying bladder troubles, smarting or burning, brick-dust or sediment, sallow complexion, rheumatism, maybe weak or irregular heart action, warns you that your kidneys require help immediately to avoid more serious trouble.

An ideal herbal compound that has had most remarkable success as a kidney and bladder remedy is Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root. There is nothing else like it. It is Dr. Kilmer's prescription used in private practice and it is sure to benefit you. Get a bottle from your druggist.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper. Adv.

THE SUNBEAM,

BY W. G. HUNT, EDITOR

HARRIETT G. HUNT, PUBLISHER

Published every Friday, at Sunbeam, Pennington County, Minnesota.

Entered as Second-class matter August 30 1905, at the post office at Sunbeam Minn. under the Act of Congress of March 3,1879

Now comes the latest news that some of the eastern loan companies are getting afraid to make loans on lands lying near Red Lake River, on account of the disastrous floods of the past year. We remember some twenty-five years ago that they got scared of loans in the town of Lambert, Red Lake County, as it was reported to be lower lands back from the river, than it was on the banks of the river. Some of the pioneer farmers considered themselves fortunate if they make a loan of five hundred dollars to get out of the country with. But those who remained built a cheese factory, then came the creamery, the silo and clover. To-day that land is worth from fifty dollars to one-hundred dollars per acre, and those who stick to eastern Pennington county will see the same conditions of prosperity here. The floods of the past season were caused by the heavy rain falls, and the large number of drainage ditches put in above Red Lake, a condition that may never prevail again, for when the lands above Red Lake are once drained, there will be no more surplus water to come down the Red Lake River in the future than there was in the past, before the flood conditions of this season drowned out these rich meadow lands, that in a few years will be producing heavy crops of clover hay.

AFTER ELECTION.

I realize, with bitter grief, I'm in the sere and yellow leaf. The things that once excited me, and made me throw two fits or three, no longer make the old appeal, and quite indifferent I feel. When presidential fights were on, in happy times forever gone, for days together I saw Red; I hardly went to bed. I really thought if A should lose, we'd have to soak our shirts and shoes to buy our hungry children bread, and life would be a thing of dread. But now I hear the statesmen roar the same old thunder as of yore, and not a tremor do I feel, and not a warning makes appeal. I know that when the fuss is done, and A has lost and B has won, we'll all plod in the same old way, and saw our wood and bale our hay, and love and laugh and sing and sigh, and woo and wed and work and die.—Walt Mason.

The political plum tree has received a few shakes and some of the faithful have been given their reward, and undoubtedly Governor Burnquist is being besieged daily by a hungry horde who desire to feed at the public trough for the next two years. We understand that we have some right here in our midst who are seeking favors and who are desirous of having the state provide meal tickets. This is of course but natural and there are many loyal party workers who are deserving of recognition, but there are also others whose past history as to party loyalty will probably be scrutinized pretty carefully and who will undoubtedly find themselves outside the breastworks when their past records have been checked up.—Thief River Falls New-Press.

The election of Daniel Shaw for one of the members of the Minnesota Jefferson Highway Association, to go to Oklahoma, is putting the right man in the right place, for a better man for the position could hardly be found.

CONGRESSIONAL COMMITTEE BEGINS RAILWAY INQUIRY

Proposed by President to Better Condition of Carriers.

MAY CHANGE PRESENT SYSTEM.

Officials of Roads Prepared to Advocate Federal Incorporation, Supervision of Securities and Extension of Authority of Interstate Commerce Commission.

Washington, Nov. 20.—Ten members of Congress, five Senators and five members of the House of Representatives, began here today an inquiry into the subject of public control and supervision of railroads that may lead to the revolutionizing of the whole scheme of governmental regulation of the country's transportation lines. Incidentally the committee is to look into the question of government ownership of railways, telephone and telegraph lines and express companies.

The members of the committee which will conduct this important investigation are Senator Newlands of Nevada, chairman; Senators Robinson of Arkansas, Underwood of Alabama; Cummins of Iowa and Brandegee of Connecticut, and Representatives Adamson of Georgia, Sims of Tennessee, Cullop of Indiana, Esch of Wisconsin and Hamilton of Michigan. The inquiry was recommended by President Wilson in his message to Congress in December of last year. He described as its purpose to determine what could be done "for bettering the conditions under which the railroads are operated and for making them more useful servants of the country as a whole."

Prominent Men as Witnesses.

In order to obtain the views of all interests affected by the operations of the transportation lines the committee has invited prominent shippers, bankers, representatives of commercial organizations, railway executives, economists and others to appear before them.

The first to be heard are railroad commissioners of various states who began their evidence today. Their testimony is directed chiefly to opposing any enlargement of the federal authority over commerce that would detract from the powers now exercised by state bodies. They will be followed shortly by officials of railway labor organizations who are expected to register their opposition to the increase of governmental authority over wages and conditions of labor.

Chief interest in the hearings centers in the proposals that will be put forward by representatives of the railroads, for it is reported that they will advocate an extension of federal authority over rates and securities to the practical exclusion of state control of these matters. It is understood also that they will go on record in favor of federal incorporation of all railroad lines.

Legislative Program of Railroads.

From an authoritative source is obtained the following outline of the legislative program which the railroads will ask the committee to consider in its investigation: They will endeavor to demonstrate to the commission that one of the principal defects in the present system of railroad regulation is the lack of coordination resulting from the simultaneous and conflicting regulation by the federal government and by the 48 states. They will, therefore, ask that entire governmental control of the rates and practices of interstate carriers, except purely local matters, be placed in the hands of a federal body so that interstate traffic may be regulated without reference to state lines, leaving to the state commissions jurisdiction only over local matters and local public utilities. As a part of this plan, a compulsory system of federal incorporation is to be recommended, accompanied by federal supervision of railroad stock and bond issues.

A reorganization of the Interstate Commerce Commission will be asked, in order to enable the commission properly to exercise its increased powers. It is also proposed that the preparation and prosecution of cases against the railroads shall be delegated to some other agency of the government, possibly the Department of Justice, so that the commission may devote its energies to its administrative functions.

With the commission thus relieved of some of its present duties and equipped to handle its business more promptly, the railroads will urge that the period during which the commission may now suspend proposed increases in rates be reduced from ten months to 60 days, with provision for reparation to be paid to the shippers if the advance shall be declared unreasonable.

They will also ask that the commission be given the power to prescribe minimum as well as maximum rates so that in meeting complaints of discrimination the commission may order the advance of a rate which it considers too low.

One of the most important recommendations for which the railroads will ask favorable consideration is that the commission be specifically authorized to take into account in rate regulation the effect of rates upon total earnings in the light of expenses.

While the Newlands Committee is required, under the resolution creating it, to submit a report by January 2 next, it is not anticipated that the Committee will have come anywhere near completing its labors then.
